WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1922

PRICE SEVEN CENTS

FRONT VIEW OF CHURCH

Many people are asking about the new Methodist Church building in Winchester and when the work on it will be commenced. Working drawings have been prepared by the architects, Hinchins & French, and estimates as to the cost are being secured. The board having charge of the appropriations from the Methodist Centenary funds for work at home, met in Boston last July, and the Winchester committee presented the plans of the local church so successfully that $25,000 was pledged to be appropriated for the work in Winchester. This brings the total amount of pledges and assessments up to $115,000. An effort will now be made to secure enough additional pledges to warrant the committee in starting actual building operations next spring.

AN INTERESTING COMPARISON

The following table of school attendance at the various buildings in this town, taken for the years from 1904 to 1921 inclusive, should prove of interest to residents of this town, especially so when analyzed. From these figures it will be noted that while our elementary schools have failed to take any material increase during the years, and while our total enrollment is smaller than in earlier years, our High School has increased steadily.

These figures were compiled for use at our Spring meetings held to consider the new building program. They were read before our citizens. Few, however, really grasp their true significance—which is, that if we face crowded conditions in any school building here today, it is our High School.

We are at present committed to the erection of four elementary school buildings, yet in the year of 1904 we had in these schools (without an enlarged Chapin building) 1578 pupils, while in the year 1921 we had in the same buildings (with an enlarged Chapin) 1345 pupils, or 233 less. On the other hand our High School has increased by 244 additional pupils. This feature is due to the fact that more and more pupils are taking High School courses and completing their education to a higher degree. Are we not face to face with an enlarged High School? How long is this sum of money appropriated for new elementary schools to last as an existing school burden?

Our readers should note that the census for the year 1906 was taken at the close of the school year, in June, while other years were taken in December.

MRS. TOMPKINS APPOINTED

New Member Of School Committee Chosen Monday Night

The joint meeting of the School Committee and the Board of Selectmen for the selection of a member of the School Committee to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Charles Zuehlke, who resigned owing to her absence abroad, was held at the Selectmen's room at the Town Hall on Monday night. Mrs. Maurice C. Tompkins was chosen and appointed to the vacancy.

Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, George E. Willey presided at the meeting and Chairman of the School Committee, Robert F. Guild presented Mrs. Tompkins' name. There was no dissent and the appointment was quickly made.

Mrs. Tompkins is a popular choice for the position, having the support of the town at large, and she is evidently equally acceptable to the School Committee.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

In honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. James Murray of Woburn in November, Miss Mabel McIsaac was tendered a miscellaneous shower Tuesday night by Mrs. Frank Shaw and Miss Helena Rogers at the home of the latter.

Miss McIsaac was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Piano and vocal selections were rendered by Miss Margaret Given of Woburn and Miss Mary Kelly of Winchester. Guests were present from Winchester, Woburn, Belmont, Medford and Stoneham.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Freeburn of Cabot street are at the Commodore, New York, attending the convention of the American Banker's Association.

SCHOOL CONTROVERSY UNSETTLED

Matters Continue Open For Debate Regarding Redistricting

After a week of meetings and consultations, the controversy over the redistricting of Winchester school children residing on Harvard and Irving streets will continue unsettled. A meeting held Wednesday evening between the affected parents and their counsel, and the School Committee, has, it was reported yesterday, brought no results. Neither side had any statement of any nature whatever to make. It is believed that further conferences between counsels will take place or have taken place. Unless a settlement is reached, the cases of the seven residents charged with not sending their children to school will come up in the Woburn court next Tuesday.

On Monday evening a mass meeting of interested citizens was called by the "Winchester Civic League," the group of affected parents, at the New Hope Baptist Church on Cross street. The meeting was attended by about 125 persons, of which about 25 were white and 100 colored.

The speakers of the evening included Mr. George Jackson, chairman of the "League," who presided, Mr. Nelson Wentworth of West Medford, Rev. Elmer R. Thompson, pastor of a Cambridge church, Atty. Butler R. Wilson of Boston and others.

The alleged injustice of sending the group of children to the Chapin School after an attendance from the district for many years at the Washington School, was explained by Chairman Jackson, who stated that his organization was prepared to contest the act to a finish. Mr. Wentworth spoke in support of the objection, stating that unlimited funds would be provided for such a fight, which he declared was a clear case of race discrimination. Rev. Mr. Thompson spoke along similar lines, and Atty. Wilson urged the "League" not to lose sight of the welfare of their community, should the opportunity offer to adjust the matter. He thought an adjustment could be arrived at, and expressed such a hope. Following the speaking a collection to defray the expenses of defending the parents who had been summoned to court was taken up, some $38 being donated.

On Tuesday morning the cases of the parents who have refused to send their children to the Chapin School came up in the Woburn court. There was a record attendance, a large number of Winchester colored people being present.

When the case was called, Atty.

William H. Lewis of Boston, representing the parents, asked for a week's continuance, expressing the hope that within that time the affected parties would be able to get together and adjust the matter. This was agreed to by Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter of the School Committee, who had that Board's case in hand. After a conference with Justice John G. McGuire, the continuance was granted.

Before the parties left court, arrangements were made for a conference on the situation to be held Wednesday night. This was accordingly held at the Prince School, there being present Atty. Lewis and his assistant, Atty. Fox; Atty. Wilson, Rev. Mr. Swain, George Jackson, Charles Smith, Esau A. Green and the members of the School Committee, including the newly appointed member, Mrs. Maurice C. Tompkins.

No information has been allowed to be given out of what took place at the conference. It is understood "that the matter will probably be settled," although along what lines is not known. It is said that the proposition was made that the parents "put their trust in the School Committee" and send their children to the Chapin School on the possibility that the children would later be sent back to the Washington School. This they refused to do.

So far as is known the meeting left the matter open for further conference between Atty. Lewis and Mr. Carpenter.

DINNER FOR REV. DR. SCUDDER

Federation of Churches, and Richard Everett, treasurer of the Boston Federation.

Rev. Dr. Scudder was severely injured early in the summer by being struck by an automobile while attending the Williamstown political conference, and although after his recovery he planned to continue with his Federation duties, his health would not permit. WILLIAM R. MCINTOSH

WILLIAM R. MCINTOSH

Chief of the Winchester Police Department for 25 Years

Gifts of flowers at his desk at the police station resulted in the fact being known on Sunday that Chief of Police William R. McIntosh has reached a quarter-century of service as head of his department in this town. Although the Chief may have forgotten the fact, a number of his friends did not fail to remind him of it, and during the day he received many congratulations.

Chief McIntosh has been connected with the police departments of Woburn and Winchester for over 35 years. He was born in Woburn 63 years ago, and went to work at the age of 12 in a general store. He worked in this store for 13 years and then, after three years spent in another Woburn store, became a commercial traveler for a short time.

In May, 1887, he was appointed a patrolman in Woburn and the next year was advanced to the position of chief of police, holding his office from May, 1888, to 1895, when he accepted a position as jail officer at the House of Correction, East Cambridge.

He was appointed chief of the Winchester police in September, 1897, to succeed J. Winslow Richardson, who was made postmaster.

BENEDICT CLUB TO HOLD CLAM BAKE

The Benedict Club and their friends anticipate a "big time" Columbus Day.

The occasion will be a big Clam Bake, supplemented by tennis, croquet, golf, croquet, quoits, and children's races and games. Dinner will be served at one o'clock.

The committee in charge under the direction of Mrs. Lucius Smith has the affair well organized, and every one expects as good a time as at the last neighborhood party held May 30th.

The Woburn parkway is closed to traffic while repairs are being made to the roadway.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF OUR POSTAL SYSTEM

China maintained a postal system from a very early date, and Marco Polo, a Venetian traveler, tells us that in his day, about 1283, there were about 12,000 post-stations and 30,000 horses for the use of the government in carrying its messages, a fresh horse and rider being furnished every 25 miles.

The Post Office existed in America from its earliest settlement. Originally it was merely a receptacle in the coffee-house where letters arriving from abroad were deposited to be taken by those to whom they were addressed or carried to them by their neighbors.

The first legislation on the subject is found in the records of the general court of Massachusetts for 1639, and the next in the colonial laws of Virginia in 1657. The former provides "that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks his house in Boston is the place appointed for all letters which are brought from beyond the seas or to be sent thither, to be left with him; and he is to take care that they are to be delivered or sent according to the directions; and he is allowed for every letter a penny, and must answer all misarrangements through his own neglect in this kind." The colonial law of Virginia required "every planter to provide a messenger to convey the dispatches as they arrived to the next plantation and so on, on pain of forfeiting a hog-head of tobacco for default."

Gradually a postal service was established between the several colonies along the coast, and in 1672 there was a "post to go monthly from New York to Boston."

During the past two weeks the finest weather of the year has been experienced. During the past week summer temperature has prevailed, Monday and Tuesday being the hottest days for similar dates on record. The beaches have been popular and many have enjoyed the late bathing.

WINCHESTER BOY BROKE LEG

At the Tufts-Connecticut "Aggies" football game in the Tufts oval on Saturday afternoon, "Van" French sustained a bad accident to his leg. Two small bones were broken near the ankle and he will probably be out of the game the rest of the season. He has been removed from the Somerville hospital, where he was taken, to his home, and is very comfortable. The accident happened on the last play before the intermission, after brilliant playing on his part during the first half of the game. He will be quite a loss to his team during his convalescence.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

The first meeting this fall of the Wadleigh-Primy Parent-Teachers Association will be held on Monday evening, October ninth at eight o'clock, in the Wadleigh School. Mr. Pinkham will speak and there will be reports from delegates to the Parent-Teacher Convention held in Gloucester this week. Slips of paper will be distributed among those present asking for written suggestions to the President, Mr. Parsons, as to how the Association may be improved upon in its work during the coming year. A full attendance is urged. A social hour and refreshments will follow.

SCOTCH PICNIC

Members of the Order of Scottish Clans, feel very happy as they are to have as their guest, Sir Harry Lauder at their postponed annual picnic, which will be held in Caledonian Grove, Roxbury on Columbus day, October 12th.

Clansmen and friends cordially invited to be present. Trucks leave Winchester center at 9:30.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Tables for the bridge party which Mrs. Claude M. Crafts is giving at the Country Club, October 11th may still be engaged from any member of the Education Committee.

The party is for the benefit of the work which the Education committee is doing in cooperation with the English department of the High School.

A University Extension course in oral English and public speaking will be held in the Fortnightly room every Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, beginning directly after the New Year. This course should be of great benefit to the many Fortnightly members who have decided ideas on the questions which came up at the club and other public meetings, but who lack confidence to express what they think. Thirty members are required to form the class, and application may be made by calling on any member of the Education committee.

Shortly before Christmas there will be a sale of games and reclaimed toys held by the Education committee to help finance the matinee excursions from our High School to the Henry Jewett Repertory Theatre. Toys are being collected through the public schools and Miss Emerson's School next Monday and Tuesday. Will women who have no children of school age please contribute any discarded toys from their homes through members of the Education committee?

Even parts of toys will be welcomed as they may be combined with other parts of similar articles to make a complete toy. Call up any of the following women, and your toys will be called for:

Dr. Mary T. Maynard, Tel. 313-M.
Mrs. Myra E. Morrill, Tel. 1495.
Mrs. Myra G. Tibbets, Tel. 1263-M.

The afternoon on Dante given by the Literature committee at Mrs. Palmer's home on Myopia Road promises to be both pleasurable and profitable for those who attend next Monday afternoon. Mrs. C. W. Dunham will sing and Dr. Booth will lecture on "The Religion of Dante to the Modern World."

FAIR WEATHER AND TWO BIRTHDAYS

This week was an event in the lives of the inmates at the Home For Aged People on Kenilworth street. Not only did they have opportunity to enjoy the finest weather of all the summer, but they all assisted in celebrating the birthdays of two of their companions as well.

Mrs. Susan Brazier observed her 80th birthday on Monday and Mr. Hiram Folsom reached his 72d milestone on Tuesday, special decorations of flowers and candles and appetizing birthday cake making the event complete. Everyone participated in the affair, and all of those at the Home enjoyed a gorgeous automobile ride out amid the autumn foliage as a part of the festivities.

Assessor Percival B. Metcalf and Mrs. Metcalf suffered the loss of considerable wearing apparel and jewelry in the recent break at their home on Glen road. Clothes from shoes to overcoats were taken, while Mr. Metcalf lost several of his Masonic jewels.

See in not a Wall Street automobile—For eighteen years the same seven factory executives have directed its policy of making money by making a good car. Not QUANTITY but QUALITY is the source of Rao success.

BOWLING BEGINS

Calumet Tournament Matches Open Actively

The opening gun in the fall and winter bowling tournament at the Calumet Club was fired on Monday night, six of the 22 teams competing meeting for their initial contest. As was to be expected, scores ran below the average. Warm weather had much to do with it, most of the bowlers desiring a real cold snap before they can get their hand in to suit them. There were, however, some excellent scores. Albert Seller rolled high single with a neat 123, and Frank H. Higgins, who is known on other alleys than Calumet, took total honors with 306. The Purrington team gave promise of an active season by rolling its third string of 506 flat. Among the strings over 100 were the following: Seller 123,
N. W. Purrington 111, G. W. Purrington
110, Higgins 104 and 308 for total,
Goldsmith, R. L. Purrington and Snow 104 each, Herbert Saabye 100 and

The second series of matches in the Calumet tournament were rolled on Tuesday evening. New pins and lack of practice resulted in low scores for

MILTON ACADEMY 6, WINCHESTER 6

Milton Academy and Winchester
High School teams battled Saturday afternoon to a 6 to 6 tie on the Milton courts. The Winchester outfit coached by Rufus Bond, ex-Harvard back, showed unexpected power.

Bill Saltopall, Capt. Jack Knowles, Alce Donald, Fraser, Leith and Milton Higgins, all did good work at Milton Academy, while Weiner, Tansey and Kelley excelled for Winchester.

Winchester kicked off at the outset of the game and a Milton player fumbled the ball. Winchester recovered it and ran for a touchdown. A long forward pass to Norris paved the way for the Milton touchdown which was scored by Putnam. The summary:

SCHOOL BUILDING NOTES

Having removed from Winchester to take up his residence in Newton,
Mr. Albert M. Chandler has resigned from the Winchester School Building Committee. The Committee have accepted his resignation with deep regret, and have elected in his place Mr.
Ralph T. Hale. Mr. Hale was associated with Mr. Chandler on last year's committee, in the preparation of the recommendations which were adopted by the town and under which the present committee is working.

Preliminary sketches have been approved for the new Wyman School, and Messrs. Kilham, Hopkins & Greely are now at work upon full sized working drawings. It is hoped that these will be ready to submit to hiders the latter part of October, so that the actual work of construction may be started by the middle of November. It is the desire of the committee to get the foundations in, if possible before extremely cold weather.

GODDU-FENNO

A brilliant ceremony at the Unitarian church on Tuesday evening ushered in the series of Fall weddings in Winchester. When Miss Edith Richardson Fenno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Charles P. Fenno of Cabot street, was married to Mr. Warren Frederick Goddu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H.
Goddu of Goddu avenue. The wedding was largely attended, not only by a host of Winchester friends, but by many guests from outside places, the young couple being prominent socially and widely known.

Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman, performing the ceremony at eight, the couple standing beneath a beautiful floral arch in front of the chancel. The church was decorated for the affair with cut flowers, greens and autumn foliage.

The bride wore a wedding dress of velvet backed chiffon, with tulle veil and duchess lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. Mrs. H. Warren Jackson, Jr. of Lexington was matron of honor, wearing rose georgette and carrying Columbia roses.
Mr. Louis E. Goddu, the groom's brother, was best man.

The bridesmaids were Miss Shirley
P. Newell of Uxbridge, Miss Dorothy
W. Kerrison, Miss Doris Bowman and Miss Alveda Goddu, the groom's sister.
Miss Kerrison and Miss Bowman were gown in blue georgette and Miss Newell and Miss Goddu were apricot georgette. They all carried bouquets of Orphelia roses.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Friendship consists in being a friend not in having one, the comfort of having a friend may be taken away from you, but you can never lose the comfort of having been one.

True friendship is like sound health; the value of it is seldom known until it is lost.

The easiest job is hard if you don't like it, and no job you like is ever so very hard.

It is hard to know just why, but somehow an auto will worry along after a fashion until you get it fixed.

In times of boom there are many who claim the title for putting Winchester on the map, but when the tide turns, all disclaim the honor (?)

A letter has been received by one of our town's peoples from principal McDaniel of the Oak Park High School, in which he speaks in the highest praise of the impression Mr. Edward E. Thompson is making in the school. Mr. McDaniel says he is convinced that in Mr. Thompson he has secured a "rare man."

The STAR feels certain that friends of Mrs. Maurice C. Tompkins, recently appointed a member of our School Committee, will be interested and gratified to learn that her first official act after taking the oath of office before Town Clerk, Miss Mabel W. Stinson, was to visit two of our schools. Her interest is reported equally pleasing to a number of our school teachers.

Winchester people are beginning to take an interest in our dangerous grade crossing, and are inquiring what may be done to do away with it. They are becoming nervous as their autos are stopped on the tracks. They dislike sitting in their cars, jammed in with the traffic, directly in the path of the trains. We do not blame them. For a long time we have heralded the dangers of this death trap. Perhaps we are reaching the time when something will be done to eliminate it.

So far as our Boston & Maine Railroad is concerned, it appears that the Town of Winchester can vote as it likes regarding billboards. The railroad wants to turn its station into a back yard rather than an attractive and dignified approach to one of its revenue producing communities, and it does so. If the Town has voted to do away with unsightly and objectionable billboards, why not get a little power to enforce the vote, if the railroad feels it is so necessary to smear up its station with them?

The staid old Boston Transcript has bent its head and turned its eye on Winchester, heading its article on the school question "Peace in Winchester." Let us hope its prophecy falls true regarding the race war. There isn't anyone here at home who thinks that our School Committee has tried race discrimination, and we doubt if such contention would hold in the courts. This town has never drawn a color line to our knowledge. The only unfortunate circumstance is that it exists in the latest quarrel. Let us hope that peace will prevail, that our School Committee may have time to turn to putting its expense list into shape acceptable to the Town and explain its payroll and how it spends its appropriation and all the other hundred and one matters waiting for attention. It will take some real diplomats to put that committee into shape again. Mrs. Tompkins is not the only one who "needs her courage with her."

RESULTS OF COLLEGE ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS JUNE 1922

October 3, 1922
To the Editor of the Star:
Several rumors and "official reports" have come to my attention in regard to the good and poor records of Winchester High School students who took examinations for college in June 1922. Since I was chairman of the College Preparatory Committee last school year, it seems opportune now to set forth, without any attempt at misrepresentation or for the purpose of defence, the results so far as I have been able to ascertain them.

I. Number of subjects offered in College Board examinations and number and percent passed by Winchester High School students in June, 1922, with a rating of 60% or better, thereby admitting practically to any college. This is compared with 1920 and 1921.

	Total Subjects	Number Passed	Percent
June 1920	59	54	91.5
June 1921	63	58	92.1
June 1922	65	49	75.4

This list includes all of the Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors, and Post-graduates who took the examinations. If a student passed under the New Plan (four examinations), have assumed that that student passed in all four subjects. This does not always prove the case, since a poor showing in one may be atoned for by a good showing in the other three.

A LIFE INSURANCE working under the law of average can do things safely to you that would be reckless for an individual to attempt.

Illustration in this column next week.

The Board, however, will not give individual results under the New Plan. From other towns and cities figures have not been secured, but the record for June, 1920 was better than the average of several towns and cities from which figures were obtained, and that of June, 1922, can be seen to be close to that of 1920. It seems fairly sound to assume that 70% of subjects passed is a good record for a comprehensive high school of the Winchester type, particularly in view of the turmoil which existed last spring around examination time.

II. Number of subjects which teachers assumed would be passed, etc., as required by the College Board before the June examinations:

	R	C	X	Percent	Percent	Percent
	29	25	15	43	80	43

"R" means subjects in which teachers believe student will pass satisfactorily, that is, "recommend." "C" means subjects in which teachers believe student's chance of passing is somewhat doubtful, that is, "consent" to trial.

"X" means subjects which teachers advise against taking, either because the school record is very poor, or because the preparation was done in part under a private tutor or in other institutions in regard to which the teacher is not responsible. In a public school, a teacher cannot prevent a student from taking the examinations, no matter how poor his record may be.

From the above it appears that many more subjects than were "recommended" were passed. In fact, only 7% fewer subjects were passed than were both "recommended" and "consented" to. This is compared with 1920 and 1921.

III. Number entering college in September 1922:

	College Requiring Examination	College Admitting by Certificate	Normal Schools
Sept. 1920	6	9	4
Sept. 1921	9	8	4
Sept. 1922	7	8	4

Of the seven entering examination colleges one enters Harvard, one M. I. T., two Mt. Holyoke, two Wellesley, and one Smith. One other student might have entered M. I. T. as a result of his examinations. One student failed to get into Harvard and one into M. I. T.

IV. Number entering Higher Institutions, requiring for entrance examination, certificate (80% grade), or a high school diploma. This is compared with 1920 and 1921.

	Total
Sept. 1920	20
Sept. 1921	11
Sept. 1922	21
Sept. 1922	22

In the matter of certificate colleges, one enters Tufts, five Boston University, one Massachusetts Agricultural College, and one Simmons.

If the outcome indicated is satisfactory, the writer wishes to disclaim any credit whatever, believing that these results are due to the efforts of individual teachers and the ability of individual students.

WINCHESTER YOUNG LADY TENDERED A SURPRISE

Miss Sarah Connelley of Main street was tendered a novelty shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Keating number 50 Richardson street, Woburn, Wednesday evening, October 4th. Miss Connelley was one of the popular employees of Randal's Ice Cream parlor and will be married October 23rd to Charles McGonigal, a former ex-service man, and one of the first to enlist in Winchester. Miss Connelley was the recipient of many beautiful, and valuable gifts. Guests were present from Woburn, Winchester, Boston, Arlington, Stoneham, and Cambridge. The most pleasant part of the evening's program was a mock marriage ceremony in which a few of the guests participated.

A FALSE STATEMENT

To the Editor of the Star:
May I have space in your paper to answer an article that appeared in the Boston American during the present week, to the effect that I have declared the School Committee and Superintendent of Schools to be mismanaging our schools, and that those ladies and gentlemen were incapable of properly administering the school system of Winchester.

I answer the article only because it tends to injure someone other than myself. The plainest English is the only English to use to satisfactorily answer that article. Whoever wrote that article, knowingly and deliberately created the statement and maliciously credited it to me. It is absolutely false.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for this space.
Raymond E. Pinkham, Principal,
Wadleigh and Prince Schools.

McHUGH-COTY

The wedding of Miss Irene Emma Coty of Washington street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coty, and Mr. Henry P. McHugh of 17 Cedar street, solemnized at St. Mary's rectory on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, was an event of interest to a large circle of Winchester friends of the couple, both of whom are widely known in this section.

The bride was attired for the ceremony in a dress of white crepe chiffon, trimmed with silver metal cloth. She wore a tulle veil with silver wreath and carried for her bridal bouquet a shower of roses and lilies of the valley.

The couple were attended by Miss Lillian Coty, sister of the bride, and Miss Lorraine King of Medford, cousin of the bride, who acted as bridesmaids. They wore dresses of pearl gray georgette, trimmed with pink and silver thread and black streamers, and carried bouquets of Killarney roses. Mr. Joseph Venuti of Medford was best man.

A reception followed the wedding, it being held at the home of the bride's parents and attended by a large number of guests from Woburn, Stoneham, Medford, Arlington, Somerville, Salem, Lowell and Winchester. The decorations at the house were of pink, with an abundance of autumn foliage and fall flowers. The ushers for the reception included Messrs. Martin McHugh of Rochester, N. Y., brother of the groom, Herbert King of Medford, William Gaffney of Brighton, Leo McHugh of Woburn and William Coty, brother of the bride.

The bride attended the Winchester High School and is a graduate of Miss Downes' School. She has been employed in the office of the Library Bureau at Cambridge. Mr. McHugh is employed by the Boston & Maine Railroad and is chief of the maintenance of way department of the Worcester, Nashua & Portland Division, with headquarters at Manchester, N. H. He is a member of Winchester Council K. of C. and of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

On their return from a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. McHugh will reside in Manchester, N. H.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH WINCHESTER?

To the Editor of the Star:

A town is as good as the people who live in it help to make it. That is to say, you cannot expect a town or its citizens to be held in respect unless we have capable officials who can keep the town in the forefront as a municipality. For 20 years the town has been going along with no one seeming to pay much attention to how things were run.

If a newcomer came into the town and lived here a year or so, he was immediately picked up by some one and put forward as a candidate for office, irrespective of what he knew about the condition and requirements of the town. Of course, this went along all right until something turned up that put the town "in bad" as the saying is, and the result has been that this town has got some unpleasant notoriety. In the end this will be for the benefit of the town, as it will wake the citizens up to their duties as taxpayers and citizens and the right kind of men and women will be put on the board for the betterment of the town and not for their own personal glory.

Sooner or later something was bound to break and it was just as well that it has happened now as at any other time. With the town meeting coming along the happenings of the past six months will still be fresh in their memory and we will see some house cleaning that will make this town what it always has been, one of the best in the State.

This is from a citizen who has lived in Winchester 54 years.

TO CORRECT AN IMPRESSION

Just a little space in your paper to correct an impression that has gained ground in Winchester. I want to state that I am not in any way connected with any Boston papers and never have been. I write exclusively for a local daily for which I am paid. Each Boston daily has its own representative in Winchester and each one is capable of sending in their own news and stories. If they were not, they would soon be out of a job.

ACCOUNTS HELD UP

It is reported that the Town has held up the warrant of the School Committee calling for the payment to Principal Farnham of the High School of expenses incurred in moving his furniture here and for travelling, hotel and meal expenses. It is reported that Town funds are usually paid for "services rendered," and in this instance the School Committee has been asked to supply information along this line. It is said that Town Counsel Addison E. Pike has been called in to give an opinion in the matter.

While Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the Baptist Church was conducting the regular Wednesday evening service this week, someone stole the spare tire from his car. He reported the theft to the police.

RAPID WORK

Fine New Real Estate Office Building Started

Within 24 hours after receiving notice to vacate its offices in Waterfield building this week, the Edward T. Harrington Company has started work on the erection of a fine new real estate office building on Church street. The new building will be pushed to completion and will be ready for occupancy within the next two months.

For many years the Harrington Co. has occupied offices in Waterfield building. Its new building will be directly across Church street, adjoining the Winchester Trust Co. It will be occupied exclusively by the Harrington Company.

Plans for the structure call for a building 25x30 feet, built of tapestry brick, with tile roof. It will contain a general office on the ground floor 24x16 feet, finished inside in tapestry brick and a floor of Grueby tile. Adjoining the office room will be consultation rooms for customers and private offices.

The Edward T. Harrington Co., although handling real estate throughout Greater Boston, has always been especially active in Winchester, and has engaged in business here for many years. Mr. Loring P. Gleason is manager of the Winchester office, and will have supervision of the erection of the new building, together with Mr. Charles A. Gleason, president of the firm.

Gallant Elevator Operator.

In a downtown building several people were waiting for the elevator. The car was crowded when a lady stepping in attempted to pull friend husband along. The alert operator called, "Just one more, that is all," and pushed the gentleman back. "So you want to separate us," said the lady. "Yes," was the answer; "I would rather separate you this way than the other way."—San Francisco Argonaut.

WHAT A TWO-CENT STAMP CAN DO

American two-cent stamps now encircle the globe.

The recent addition of Haiti and Bermuda to places where two cents will carry a letter calls attention to the vast extension, in the last few years, of the "cruising radius" of our two-cent stamps. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

With the tiny red square you may dispatch a letter northward to a point where it will be carried to its journey's end by a dog-sled into some Eskimo village; or southward across the equator toward a mule-back journey up the Andes or a canoe trip into a white settlement among the Tierra del Fuego natives.

Eskimo Land to Patagonia
Theoretically you are entitled to send a letter with a two-cent stamp as far north as Cape Columbia, the point on Grant Land which is supposed to be Canada's farthest north, where there either post office or friend there to receive it, and to the far south of Patagonia or across the Strait of Magellan to the Argentine portion of Tierra del Fuego. The southern limit of your two-cent correspondence does not quite reach Cape Horn, which belongs to Chile, with which a two-cent rate has not been arranged.

East and West your two-cent stamp will reach to New Zealand and Samoa; and to the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai, China, and the U. S. Naval Hospital at Yokohama, Japan. Other points in China and Japan receive the usual foreign rate of five cents.

The alphabetical list of some sixty places where a foreign letter will go at the rate of "two cents an ounce or fraction thereof" seems complicated. But it isn't hard to remember if you catalogue it geographically instead of alphabetically. Briefly, you can send a letter anywhere in North America and Central America and to all important points in the West Indies for two cents. The two-cent rate applies to all South American countries except Venezuela and Chile, Paraguay and Uruguay, and Dutch and French Guiana.

In Europe only England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales are included in the two-cent zone. All of Asia requires a five-cent stamp except the points mentioned above. The oceanic places within "two-cent reach" are New Zealand (including the Cook Islands as well as the New Zealand portion of Samoa), Bermuda and Haiti. Of course it is to be remembered that the two-cent letter rate as well as other domestic rates apply to Alaska, the Canal Zone, Guam, the Philippines, Porto Rico, American Samoa, and the American Virgin Islands.

Agreement by which more countries gradually are being added to the "two-cent list" are reached through the Universal Postal Union, which first met at Berne in 1874. The oft-repeated statement that the post office is a civilizing agent is realized more fully when it is noted that representatives of the central powers, the allied countries and the United States met in friendly conference at Madrid in 1920. As this was the first meeting of the Universal Postal Union since the sessions of 1906, in Rome, a great volume of business was transacted. These results are embodied in a Universal Postal Convention to which, by alphabetical right, Germany (L'Allemagne) is the first signatory, and the United States of America the second.

Both America and Germany, in fact, are entitled to more than alphabetical precedence in the Universal Postal Union. The success of a conference called at the instigation of the United States, in Paris, twelve years before the Postal Union was formed, and the operation of the Austro-German Postal Union which had functioned effectively since 1859, had a direct bearing upon the organization which made it possible for a two-cent stamp to carry your written message to other continents and remote islands of the oceans.

IT-PAYS to Advertise in the "STAR"

A QUESTIONNAIRE

To the Editor of the Star:

May I ask a few questions? Is it true that explanations are sometimes fatal? Have the explanations of a member of the school committee and the statistics as given in a fellow townsman's letter been compared? At what conclusion must one arrive? Does it appear to the Winchester voters that the school matters during the current year have been handled "with an eye single to the welfare of the boys and girls," as per said letter of explanation?

Does the school committee enjoy its job of pulling chestnuts out of the fire? And for how long will that old trick work? Have the voters of the town good memories? Will they give good service when election time comes? Why not place people on such a board as the school committee, who are conscientious enough to do what is right?

"Single to the welfare," forsooth! Why was it necessary to increase salaries of executives? Was there danger of loss? Or was it to enable the saving of one teacher's salary? Or was it necessary to grease the wheels of the school machine in order to try for smooth running? Having failed deplorably, how about a new mechanism? Is not the hand writing on the wall yet decipherable?

Should not a vote of thanks be given to the Citizen's Committee for the work, not pleasant and most unsatisfactory because of the attitude of the "powers that be," of the past summer. Is their task finished? Is there not "some remedy for every evil under the sun?" Is the President of our United States above impeachment? Is a mere school committee impregnable?

Has not Winchester had a splendid prestige? Why let strangers within her gates, who can not, as shown by "deeds not words," have the real good of the town at heart, spoil that prestige? Could not the lamentable episodes of nineteen twenty-two, in school annals, have been avoided?

Was it necessary to advertise to the outside world the tactlessness of the Winchester school management, and the undesirability of an educational system (or the lack of it) which futhers continual school squabbles? Do Winchesterites favor the notoriety of recent months, re yellow journalism? Why not clean house as soon as may be?

In conclusion may I ask if the desires of a whole community are to be negatived by those who have been chosen to represent the community? Is not careful selection far ahead of elimination. Why should not the citizens committee carefully investigate proposed candidates for school committee? Why not accept the report given as a report of progress and ask the citizens committee to continue to function? Would that not be more representative than the elected committee on schools?

Yours gratefully,

W. L. Thompson

WATERS—DOW

A society wedding of much interest in Winchester and Salem took place on Wednesday evening at the Unitarian church, when Miss Constance Dow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Dow of Main street, became the bride of Mr. Henry Cook Waters of Salem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waters of Lafayette street, that city.

There was an attendance of about 300 guests at the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the church, at eight.

The auditorium and parlors of the church were decorated in green and white for the affair, chrysanthemums and palms predominating, with roses and asparagus fern used about the nuptial and chancel. The organ program was rendered by Mr. Charles P. Scott, organist at the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the double ring ceremony was used. She was gowned in chinchilla satin trimmed with dutchess lace and dressed with a girdle of pearls and cut crystal beads. Her veil of tulle was caught with the conventional spray of orange blossoms and her shower bouquet was of roses, orchids and camellia.

Miss Edna Sherman of Medford was maid of honor, wearing a dress of pink georgette over silver cloth. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Mr. Arthur Morrison of Andover was best man.

The bridesmaids were Miss Carol Daw, cousin of the bride; Miss Charlotte Dean, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Moore of Medford, Miss Maude Mitchell of Reading and Mrs. Harold Dickerson of Taunton. The bridesmaids wore gowns of georgette, trimmed with silver roses and tulle, and silver bangles. Their gowns were of green, orchid and yellow.

The ushers for both ceremony and the following reception were Messrs. Philip Boynton of New York, Stanley Faseratt and Ellis Gorton of Medford, Arthur Pitman of Salem, Lawrence Moore of Medford and "Bunny" Allen of Reading.

The reception at the residence on Main street was held from eight-thirty to ten, and was attended by an even larger gathering than that at the church. The couple were assisted by their parents and the wedding party in receiving. Decorations at the house consisted largely of cut flowers, roses, calla lilies, chrysanthemums and gladioli being effectively used with asparagus fern. The music was by a stringed orchestra.

Following the reception the couple left on a motor trip through the Berkshires to Canaan. They will reside in Salem, where the groom is associated with his father in business. Mrs. Waters is a graduate of the Winchester High School, the Cathedral Episcopal School of Orlando, Florida, and the Mt. Ida School at Newton. Mr. Waters is a graduate of the Huntington School and Boston University.

WBY SWATOW WAS TYPHOON VICTIM

Swatow, all but swept off the map by a typhoon, was put there by coolies and embroidery, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The coolies go south to the Straits Settlements, whence they send home much money and come themselves when their toil in the tropics has won them a competence, the bulletin continues.

Just as the Canton Chinese have impressed themselves on America, the Ningpo merchants made their way in most of the trade marts of China, and the Shantung colliery on the battlefields of France, so the Swatow coolie has had his share in the development of the Straits Settlements and more than one has risen to a vantage thereby.

Relief Measure Creates An Industry Swatow also produces a peculiar grass cloth or native linen, made, not from flax, but from a form of hemp. Table sets of this material, embroidered in white or contrasting colors, with storks and dragons and other fanciful designs, are admired and prized throughout the world. This industry was started by a missionary as a means of relief during one of the many disasters from which Swatow has suffered and it has attained huge proportions. Swatow embroidery, drawn work and green cloth today form a "best seller" in native shops from Hong Kong to Shanghai.

If in China you overhear a reference to "Swatow Blues" do not conclude that the city is going in for jazz. An important Swatow product is indigo, and the city has a full share in making China "the land of the blue gown."

Leading Market for Foreign Goods

The influx of money from the Straits and the Philippines is so great that Swatow can always import more than it exports and it has been one of the best markets for foreign goods to be found on the whole wrinkled coast of China.

Sugar is also one of Swatow's chief products and the British and American Consulates are situated near the main refinery on Kakchich. Hong Kong, however, is winning away the sugar trade from Swatow, which was once the center of sugar production. The fields inland from Swatow produce huge crops of sugar-cane and the Mandarin oranges of the region are famed throughout the East.

Swatow's Location Invites Disaster

One of the important ports that hide here and there along the very irregular coast line of China, Swatow's misfortune is that of being less protected from the sea than her neighbors to the north and south. Shanghai is several miles up the Woosung. Hangchow, the city of the famous tidal wave or bore, which resembles the one in the Bay of Fundy, is far enough from the sea to escape the force of the storm. One ascends for miles between low-lying banks dotted with ice houses for preserving fish before coming to Ningpo. Foochow is several hours' run up the Min. Amoy is situated very much like Swatow but lies on much higher ground. Hong Kong is on the landward side of the island of Victoria and the safety of its harbor is as famous as its beauty.

Swatow owes its existence to the Han Kiang, whose muddy waters built up the low plain on which a small fishing village grew to a treaty port of considerable importance. And it is upon the low-lying alluvial plain on both banks of the Han that the port depends for its importance.

From August to October, the typhoons sweep up the Chinese coast and opposite Swatow the hills of southern Formosa form a funnel whose force is most felt along the low-lying coast on which Swatow squats. So potent are the winds that many of the missionary buildings are hid among the low hills of Kakchich, across the tempestuous roadstead from Swatow proper.

To the tourist Swatow is an uninteresting city. It has only one good road, that newly macadamized Malo or great road, which more or less parallels the wharves from the large piers of the ocean-going vessels to the tiny havens to which the fishing boats and up-river junks repair.

CANARIES: WHOSE PRIMITIVE PEOPLE HAVE A WHISTLING LANGUAGE

Airplane travel is causing a tremendous boom in oceanic real estate. Mid-ocean islands became more important with their use as coaling stations, then cable lines rescued other land spots, such as Yap, from obscurity. The Azores figured as a halfway station in the first trans-Atlantic flight. Now the Canaries, where Columbus halted on his voyage of discovery, and the first leg of the Lisbon-to-Rio de Janeiro trip of Portuguese airmen.

With this introduction the National Geographic Society issues from its Washington, D. C., headquarters the following bulletin on the Canaries:

If you will picture seven articles a juggler has just thrown into the air, and imagine these seven articles to be a pear, a shoulder of mutton, two golf balls, the broken off end of a putting iron, and a lady's spring hat with the visor down and a feather in the back—you will have a fair idea of one of the most interesting island groups in the world.

Had Churches in Caves

Interesting, that is, whether you are looking for the people with a whistling language or the arboreal curiosity known as the dragon-tree, whether you choose to hunt for the archaeological traces of aborigines who worshipped in caves or to mingle with the vivacious crowds in the Calle del Castillo of an evening when the band plays.

The highest mountain rising from the Atlantic Ocean is to be found on Tenerife; a volcano crater on Palma is so large that its weather conditions vary from those of the surrounding country. This crater, Gran Caldera, is four miles in diameter and in much of its area is between 12 and 13 times as deep as the Washington Monument. The natives will tell you that a mighty upheaval in Palma pitched the mountain mass over to Tenerife, and in proof point to the mighty cavity left on Palma.

Plutarch's Geography Good

Plutarch's geographical comment about the Canaries need not be revised. He said, "Rain seldom falls there, and then falls moderately; while they have usually soft breezes which scatter such rich dews that the soil is not only good for sowing and planting, but spontaneously produces the most excellent fruits; and those in such abundance that the inhabitants have only to indulge themselves in the enjoyment of ease and leisure. The air is always pleasant and alubrious, through the happy temperature of the seasons, and their insensible transition into each other."

The most remarkable and least studied phenomenon of the Canaries is the whistling language of the natives of Gomera. The townsfolk do not know the whistling vocabulary, and their reports of the range of expression the mountain folk attain by using four or five notes of varying intensity and length may readily be exaggerated. That such a language does exist, developed beyond the stage of signals, is attested by travelers. It is extremely useful in this little island of big distances and high mountains, where cattle raising is the principal industry. Here, too, some of the natives dwell in caves, as did the Guanches, whose blood still flows in veins of the natives, though the pure type became extinct after the Spanish conquest early in the fifteenth century.

Where Columbus Ralted

On Gomera, also, is the village of San Sebastian where Columbus provisioned his voyage to the unknown West, and there still stands the church which he attended to pray for the success of his quest. Few travelers visit the hill encircled, red-roofed, isolated little village whence Columbus departed—September 7, 1492.

The Phoenician traders probably knew the Canaries, then the "Fortunate Islands," Homer's allusion to the "habitants of the blest" is thought to have referred to them. Legend clusters about them. Mythically they were the home of the Hesperides, scenes of Herculean adventures, and the visible traces of the lost Continent of Atlantis.

In 1922 they constitute a health resort of note, are populated by some 500,000 people, export foodstuffs, fruits, vegetables, sugar and wine, and have an important wireless station. Telephones have been strung where roads are yet unknown and goats, mules and camels are the only common carriers that the mountains will allow. The combined area of the islands is about equal to that of Cor-

Banish from modern life its greatest conveniences and you have again what people like to call "the good old times."

Who wants the good old times back? Who wants to wash the globes and trim the wicks of oil lamps? Who wants to go back to the coal and wood stove or fill the old washtub with hot water from the kettle and take a bath in it? Surely not those who enjoy the manifold advantages of modern gas service.

The workingman's comforts of today were the millionaire's luxuries of yesterday. The modest home of the average American is infinitely more comfortable than the mansion of the old days. Measured in ancient standards, we are all kings today.

Our Local Industry

The Winchester telephone exchange is a local industry. The plant is permanently rooted here. It represents many thousands of dollars invested in poles, wire, cables, conduits, switchboards, etc.—dollars that would shrink to fractional currency if this delicate and costly plant were not maintained to give efficient telephone service.

The exchange's welfare is to a large degree dependent upon the welfare of Winchester. As Winchester prospers, the exchange prospers. More business for Winchester means more telephone business, and more telephone business means more workers to install and operate telephones—workers who largely are local residents, whose expenditures help local business.

Our Company is a part of the great Bell System which connects 75,000 cities or towns in the United States. But our success as an exchange—as a unit of this great System—is judged by what we do here in Winchester and for Winchester.

We have every incentive of selfish or civic interest, therefore, to work for efficient telephone service for Winchester, not only that our work may receive official recognition and reward, but also that our friends and neighbors may be well served, and that these local industries whose patronage furnishes us our bread and butter may receive our hearty co-operation.

It is in this spirit we express a desire to receive suggestions that will make the service of the Winchester Central Office a matter of even greater local pride.

VAST THROGS VISIT CONVICT SHIP "SUCCESS" AT WARREN BRIDGE, BOSTON, OLD-EST VESSEL AFLOAT IN THE WORLD

No exhibit placed before the Boston public has ever attracted such vast crowds and created so great a sensation as the famous old British felon ship "Success," now anchored at Warren Bridge. Thousands of persons are visiting her daily. She is open to the public from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Sundays as well as week days.

The ancient, romantic-looking yellow hulk, decorated with the black broad arrows of the British penal system was viewed last Sunday by more than 10,000 men, women and children.

The "Success," now the oldest ship afloat, began her long career as an East India merchantman. Later she was the flagship of the infamous felon fleet which carried more than 15,000 men and women from the British Isles to penal servitude in the Antipodes. Still later she was used as a receiving prison for the Australian coast, first for men, then for women. Finally, she was sunk in Sydney harbor by patriotic Australians, who wished to wipe the last reminder of the brutal and inhuman convict system from the face of the earth.

And at last she was raised, passed into the hands of an American, Capt. D. H. Smith, a native of Indiana, and came to this country under her own sail, crossing the Atlantic after ninety-six years to be forgotten days.

Aboard her, in addition to a fine collection of mediæval torture instruments, including the famous "Iron Maiden," are preserved in their original state the cells and dungeons occupied by the unfortunates sent to the ends of the earth for trivial offenses. The spacious officers' quarters form a museum of rare original prison records. On the two lower decks, where the cells are heated, may be seen the implements used to punish and to confine the thousands of unhappy wretches sent overseas aboard the historic craft.

Not the least interesting of these are the notorious "Black Holes," in which scores of prisoners went insane or died in solitary confinement; the condemned cells, last stopping places of those later hanged from the yard arms, and the "Tigers' Den" where the most refractory prisoners were herded together to maim and murder each other. Many of the cells are today occupied by life-like wax representations of the most famous of the hundreds transported and confined aboard.

The vessel is lighted at night by hundreds of electric bulbs. Many visitors find in her solid burmese timbers, and hand-to-hand inspection, material for hours' inspection.

A corps of expert guides conduct visitors through the famous old boat explaining in detail her history and the many interesting exhibits aboard her.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

"What do girls do when they get out of college?"

This question used to be asked a good deal a dozen or 20 years ago. Now college girl graduates are so plentiful that they are not so much curious as to how they spend their life after graduating from college; but it is very interesting indeed to read the advertisements in an alumnae magazine, and see how many diverse occupations they take up nowadays. One makes a specialty of a new bib for babies. Another has worked up a trade in hand-dipped candles. Still another has gone in for interior decorations. Making wool rugs is the specialty of another, and early American furniture is the specialty of still another graduate. A college alumnae runs a small bungalow in the White Mountains and another graduate of a woman's college has a tea room out in a boat moored off Nantucket. Women college graduates are busy in Vermont making maple sugar candies of all kinds. And there are women college graduates galore within an hour's ride of Winchester running tea rooms. Somehow the tea room business appeals especially to our college girls. At any rate, these widely different occupations show that no longer is a college education solely a preparation for the teaching profession.

The reason some folks here in Winchester get poor pay is because they do poor work.

Only less popular than "Thirty days hath September" is the time-honored "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Why should a resident of a community not a thousand miles from Winchester forswear the activities of civic association merely because in a contest for the mayoralty he did not pull one vote? This should not cloud the horizon. James Madison, Abraham Lincoln and Grover Cleveland were beaten ere they knew the joy of success. He who has dropped out of public life simply because not one of his townsmen voted for him is not of the heroic mold of Palissy the potter. Should he try again he has nothing to lose, and if he wins any supporters he will be a positive factor in municipal history. In the volumes specially recommended to the youth of two decades ago it was taken for granted that an inventor, a discoverer, a statesman, a man of letters or warrior had to face discouragements. Who knows what this unsupported candidate may not achieve?

There are probably very few prisoners taken in tow by Winchester's eagle-eyed minions of law and order who believe in their convictions.

Enormous sums are being saved by the government because of its adoption of a budget system. This sort of efficiency has long been in use in large business and has proved most valuable, but the new government economy is the most striking illustration of its worth recently offered. It shows what one may do with his affairs if careful and willing to plan ahead. A yearly budget of personal expenses is one of the most helpful things possible. If one will adopt it and live up to it, he should find himself with a surprising increase in fortune at the end of the time estimated for. Financial affairs cannot successfully be run in a haphazard manner. Where money is concerned it must always be watched. There is, in personal life even more than in official and business life, an ever present temptation to spend uselessly, to purchase something that looks good until it has changed hands and then to wonder, "What in the world did I buy that for?"

The Spectator

THE MODERN GIRL A POOR ADVERTISER

(From New York Advertising Club News.)

Many of the young girls of today are doing foolish and misleading advertising. They are featuring their virtues instead of their virtues. They are like merchants who, although their shelves are filled with desirable goods, persist in filling their show-windows with trash.

The media through which young girls advertise themselves are their manners, their conversation and their dress. By smoking cigarettes, drinking cocktails, using slang and profanity and dressing immodestly they are attracting the wrong kind of customers.

Most sensible young men are in the market for mates. And every normal man is looking for qualities and attributes in a life companion that are entirely different from those which many of our girls are advertising.

When the average man thinks of marriage, he thinks of a home and children. And he does not paint a picture of his future wife with a baby in her arms and a cigarette between her lips. He doesn't want a cabaret companion or a jazz-parlor partner. He wants a wife. He wants, as a matter of fact, "a girl just like the girl that married dear old dad."

Most girls are not at all what their advertising would indicate. Some of them may be foolish, but most of them are good. And deep down in their hearts they want, above all, a good husband, a cozy home and their own baby.

Therefore they should change their copy and make their advertising more truthful. If they expect to attract as matrimonial customers, worthy, dependable young men, they should give greater prominence to their good qualities in their advertising.

Master Philip Newman, four years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Newman of Leominster, was visiting his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Wilmshier of Webster street over the week-end. Sunday afternoon when his parents began to make ready to leave, he started off ahead, and got as far as his way to Leominster as the centre, where he was taken under cover by a police officer. His parents picked him up on their way and took him the rest of the journey.

Support the Prohibition Enforcement Referendum

Massachusetts alone with two other States in the Union has not carried out its duty to stand for law and order by enacting a law to enforce the 18th Amendment.

Referendum question No. 4 on the Ballot, if accepted, on election day, will keep Massachusetts self-respecting.

It should have the vote and financial support of every good citizen.

Funds are needed by the Citizens' Alliance to wage an aggressive campaign against those who would nullify the Constitution.

Send your check immediately to MR. GEORGE T.
DAVIDSON, Treasurer, 14 Park Avenue, and vote YES on Election Day.

By the local finance committee of The Citizens' Alliance,
E. W. COMFORT, Chairman

87 Highland Avenue, Winchester

Men and Women of Massachusetts—

You have a personal interest in the proposed law, to be voted on Nov. 7, to censor motion pictures—to allow one man's personal and inspired views to dictate what you can see and read in your local theatre. The principle involved is tremendous—one-man power contrary to every principle upon which America was founded.
It is your fight to defeat this attack on freedom. We appeal to you for funds and suggestions to help defeat this proposed law. Write to the Committee of Massa-chusetta Citizens Against Censorship, 120 Boylston St.,

CASE CONTINUED

Controversy Between Citizens and School Committee Held Over

Unable to come to any agreement over the situation during the week ending last Tuesday, a further continuance of the case between the citizens who are refusing to send their children to the Chapin School and the School Committee was asked in the Woburn court this week. No one attended the court session except truant officer Nathaniel M. Nichols, who asked for the continuance of the case. It was reported that the decision to give the matter one more week for negotiation was arrived at on Monday evening, when another conference was held between counsel for the citizens and the School Committee.

Whether the matter is any nearer a settlement than it was last week, is not known, although it appeared evident that the interested parties, in asking further postponement, thought some line of compromise possible.
Meanwhile the children continue to be kept from school, and by the time a decision in the matter is reached, will probably require special tutoring to catch up with their classes.

ter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Callahan

Welch of this town. Miss Edith Callahan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Charles Callahan, a brother of the bride, was best man. They will live at Powder House Hill, Somerville.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Mr. Thomas
P. Bane of Woburn and Miss Clara
E. Trott of Curtis circle, and by Mr.
Warren H. Nixon of Woburn and Miss Martha S. Delorey of 25 Arthur street.

ELIZABETH NORTON MASON

Elizabeth Norton Mason widow of Charles Russell Mason, died at her home, 288 Main street on Friday afternoon October sixth. She was born in Haverhill, Mass., August 17, 1836 in the house known as the Harriet Newell House home of the first here and after graduating from the time in her native town. In 1865 she was married to Charles R. Mason of until 1890 when she came to Winchester with her husband and daughter. In 1891 she joined the First Congregational Church and "The Fortnightly" and her constant attendance at both showed her deep interest in their welfare. Her ancestry dated to colonial days and this inheritance showed itself in her sweet and beautiful character which exerted an influence for good wherever she went and endeared her to a host of friends.

Her sympathy and help were always freely given to those in sorrow or dispressive the Lotus Male Quartette of and "Abide With Me." There was a profusion of beautiful flowers. The tery, the committal service being conducted by Rev. George Hale Reed.

ELKS' CHARITY BALL NOV. 23

"Born of and animated by the principles of the American Constitution the avowed purpose of Elksdom is to assist by precept, example and contribution in the betterment of our National life."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is beholden neither to Jew nor Gentile, Protestant nor Catholic. It is distinctly American in character and its principles of charity, justice, brotherly love and patriotism are exemplified in many ways.

The true genius of the Elk spirit is manifest in the quiet seeking out of those in need of assistance and the generous giving of aid, without consciousness of class, creed, or color.

And the charity of Elksdom means practical Christian charity, bestowed without ostentation and hope of reward.

One has but to scan the pages of the official organ of Elksdom to gain a realization of the sterling work being performed by this great American fraternity.

A modest news item tells of "Krip-pled Kiddies' Day" held by Trenton, N. J. lodge—brief paragraphs speak their volumes in relating of Indianapolis, Ind. lodge's entertainment in honor of the boys and girls of the note also that only recently the Elks of Omaha, Neb. gave an outing and picnic to 7000 of its neglected boys between 6 and 16, and that Sharon, Pa., delighted 6000 of the children of that city with an outing destined to live long in their memories.

These are but a few simple examples of the wonderful work Elksdom is doing for the little folks, and when it is further considered that real Christian charity is dispensed in numerous other directions to young and old alike, unbeknownst to any save the Elks' Committee and the grateful recipient, a better conception may be had of the manner in which this great virtue of charity is interpreted in good deeds by the Elks.

Winchester Elks do not believe in deferring their works of charity simply because their lodge is young and their opportunities for enriching their treasury have been limited.

They intend that the first Christmas since their inception as a lodge shall not pass into history without the accomplishment of those humanitarian acts so vital to the achievement of true ideals of Elksdom.

It is planned, therefore, to hold a charity ball in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 23, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to the Elks' charity fund. Every penny of that fund will be used for charitable purposes and the response of the townspeople will determine to a large degree just how much Winchester Elks will be able to assist the needy during the coming winter.

"An Elks' Time is Always a Good Time"

Aside from lending a helping hand to a deserving cause through the purchase of tickets, all those who will be in attendance are certain to enjoy themselves to the utmost. Strachan's orchestra, composed of twelve of Boston's leading musicians, will furnish the music for the occasion.

An attractive concert program featuring several leading artists is being prepared and those townsfolk who are not interested in dancing will particularly appreciate this phase of the affair.

A ticket, admitting a gentleman and two ladies, is but $1.50 and may be obtained from any member of Winchester lodge.

The general committee in charge of the affair is composed of the following: Fred Clement, chairman; Henry J. Maguire, secretary; Fred H. Scholl, treasurer; John W. Johnson and Charles J. Harrod.

You will read and hear much of the Elks' charity ball during the next few weeks and your assistance in helping to make it an unprecedented success in the annals of social affairs of our town will find its reward in the knowledge within yourself that you've done your little bit to gladden the holiday season for the needy and unfortunate.

Thursday, Nov. 23 is a date to bear in mind and Winchester Town Hall is the place to be on that date. Help the Elks help Winchester.

FINE CLAM BAKE

Benedict Club Entertained Many Columbus Day

The Benedict Club of Park avenue entertained a large gathering on Columbus Day, its observance being an annual affair inaugurated several years ago. The affair was by far the most important event in Winchester during the holiday. About 200 attended and nearly 275 invitations were issued.

The grounds were decorated with flags and bunting, and the numerous booths and tables added to the attractive setting. The affair opened in the morning and continued during the day, a list of sports being held for which prizes were awarded. The clam bake, in charge of chief R. O.
Fernandez, was held at one o'clock, all the cooking being done in seaweed right on the grounds. The menu included lobster, clams, sweet potatoes, onions, coffee, elder and a large assortment of contributory tidbits, all going to make a repast which satisfied the gathering to perfection and furnished a substantial foundation for the continuance of the sports during the afternoon.

The important tournament of the day was tennis, the men's doubles being won by Rufus C. Clark and Theo. C. Hurd. The mixed doubles were not finished during the day, the finals being played this Saturday afternoon between Mrs. K. P. Cass and Mr. George Neiley and Mr. and Mrs. Theo. C. Hurd.

The clock golf tournament was won by Mr. B. S. Small, the quots by Mr. John Salyer, croquet by Mrs.
Lucius Smith and the tug-of-war, between the teams from Governor's avenue and Park avenue, went to the former team.

During the day prizes were awarded the holders of the lucky numbers on tickets as follows: Electric heater, Mrs. Harry L. Pilkington; tennis racquet, Mr. Adna Smalley; dish washer, Mr. A. L. Snow; electric floor lamp, Miss Margaret Gibson.

Mr. Herbert J. Saabye, president of the Benedict Club, had the general affairs of the day in charge, with Mr.
Lucius Smith as chairman, assisted by Mr. C. N. Ladd as secretary and Mr. G. W. Stidstone as treasurer. The sports were in charge of Mr. Wallace
Blanchard, assisted as follows: Mr.
Benjamin Small, clock golf; Mr. K.
S. Hall, croquet; Mr. J. M. Flinn, quots; Mr. L. A. Pratt, tug-of-war;
Mr. E. V. French, boys' sports; Mrs.
C. N. Ladd, children's games.

The midway was in charge of Mr.
F. J. Moran, the various booths being presided over by R. D. Blackler, F. L.
Oliver, H. L. Pilkington, R. C. Clark,
F. C. Hurd, A. P. Smith, Mrs. Stid-stone, Mrs. Saabye, Mrs. Smalley,
Mrs. Lucius Smith, Mrs. Fernandez,
Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. Riley, Mrs.
Hutchins, Mrs. Moran, Mr. A. E.
Smalley, Mr. A. A. Haskell and Mr.

WINCHESTER MOVIE PATRONS

Winchester movie patrons of the Medford Theatre should note that beginning this week this popular play house will publish its weekly program in the Star. This is done for the accommodation of the large and increasing number of Winchester people using the theatre.

The Medford theatre is easily and conveniently reached from Winchester by way of the Border road, which opens onto Forest street, Medford, running right to the theatre. The Border road, which is the continuation of the Parkway as it reaches the Fells, is a beautiful stretch and never crowded with traffic. It makes a short run to Medford.

The Medford theatre carries an attractive program, and the weekly announcement will doubtless prove very popular here.

A COURSE IN EDUCATIONAL MEASUREMENT

Miss Blanche A. Pratt, the supervisor of elementary teaching, and the superintendent of schools have begun a course in educational measurements for the benefit of the teachers of Grades 1 to VI inclusive. There will be 10 sessions in the course, one held every two weeks.

The first meeting was on Wednesday, Oct. 4, when the superintendent discussed the history of educational measurement and its relationship to school work. At the next meeting, Oct. 18, Miss Pratt will discuss the fundamental characteristics of the standard achievement tests.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

It is reported that Winchester is losing three prominent residents this fall. Mr. George B. Kimball is reported to have purchased a large estate at Groton, and his Winchester residence is on the market. Mr. Albion L. Danforth is to reside in Boston, and Dr. H. A. Gale is also going to Boston.

The Lawrence Light Guard Association will resume its activities at a meeting to be held at the Lawrence Light Guard Armory, Medford, on Saturday evening, October 21st. This association, formed last year by the past members of Company E, 5th Infantry, M. V. M., with over a hundred members is growing rapidly. A special effort is now being made to reach out of town veterans whose address is unknown and all old timers are urged to attend the next meeting.
The business meeting will be fol-

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Monday afternoon, October 9th will long be remembered by those members and friends of the Fortnightly who attended the Dante meeting held by the Literature committee at the home of Mrs. William
I. Palmer.

As a pleasing preface to the address to follow, Mrs. C. W. Dunham sang two charming songs, "When the Heart is Young" and "At Nightfall." President Mrs. Hildreth then introduced Dr. Vincent Ravi Booth as speaker on the "Message of Dante to the Modern World." From the first moment there was rapt attention on the part of the audience. After a brief sketch of the life of Dante, Dr.
Booth said it was his intention to show that the message of Dante to the modern world is a religious message. In exquisitely perfect Italian he read selections from the "Divine Comedy." This poem, written when the poet was in exile, was inspired by the life of Dante himself and in it he shows that his downfall was caused by the limitations of his own soul rather than by his political enemies.

"The Divine Comedy" said Dr.
Booth is the picture of the passage of the human soul from darkness to light, and it gives to the world this message: Your sin will bankrupt you.
Dr. Booth's address was a deft miniature in words of this wonderful epic poem of the Middle Ages written by the greatest of Italian poets, Dante Alighieri.

A third group of High School pu-nals chaperoned by members of the Education Committee attended the Henry Jewett Repertory Theatre last Tuesday afternoon.

Toys for the sale in support of these matinee excursions are still needed. The drive for games and toys in the schools ended Tuesday, and repair work will soon be started on those already on hand. However, more will be welcomed, as the committee hope to hold a large sale.
Please phone Dr. Mary T. Maynard, Win. 313-M or any other member of the education committee if you have toys to contribute.

Dates for the series of lectures to be given by Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin under the auspices of the Art Committee have been changed to the following: Jan. 4, 18; Feb. 1, 15;
March 1, 15; time 10 a. m. The subjects are:

1. The Arts and Crafts Movement.
2. The Making of a Stained Glass Window (studio).
3. The Civic Value of Pageantry.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Howard J. Chitiley at the home of the bride's parents on Pine street.

Miss Hewitt is a graduate of Dana Hall 1913, and Smith College 1917. Dr. Wilson is a graduate of Dartmouth college and of Harvard Medical School also served two and a half years at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Decorations were of the Fall flowers, Cosmos, Hydrangeas, Gladioli and asparagus fern being used. The couple received many very beautiful gifts.

Come Around Friday!

A certain wealthy family in California employs a Chinese cook. One day a tramp called at the kitchen door.

"Give me something to eat, I'm hungry," spoke up the knight of the road.

"You likee fish?" asked the celestial, blandly.

"Yes, fish, anything," came the answer.

"Then come around Friday."

Perhaps we cannot appreciate Chinese humor, but we do appreciate that in the laundry industry it's not only Friday, but every day of service to the public.

VEGETABLE AND FLOWER GROWERS ALARMED

Vegetable and flower growers of this State are alarmed at the serious menace and rapid growth of the European Corn Borer. Not only have corn growers, but many others have been hard hit during the past year. Among the plants attacked by the insect in Massachusetts are the following:

Celery	Onions
Swiss Chard	Peas
Green Beans	Cucumbers
String Beans	Tomatoes
Gladiolus	Turnips
Beets	Onions
Squash	Chrysanthemums
	Timothy, etc.

From this list it will be seen that this menace is threatening our whole list of vegetables and many of our most prized Fall flowers.

It behooves all persons interested in the matter to carry on a clean-up and burn-up campaign this Fall to prevent as far as possible a repetition of this year's losses.

Steps are on foot towards the formation of a High School Parent-Teachers' Association.

LECTURE COURSE ON RELIGION

A Course of Lectures on Religion will open at St. Gabriel's public chapel, Brighton, Mass., on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, October 22, and continue each evening for one week. The lectures will be given under the auspices of the Laymen's Retreat Guild of the Passionist Monastery, and are for both men and women.

The lectures this year will be given by the Rev. Xavier Sutton C. P., a Passionist Missionary who has traveled the United States and Canada giving these lectures for the past forty years, enlightening many and bringing large numbers into the Catholic Church.

Special music will be rendered at the various services Sunday by St. Catherine's Boy Choir, from Somerville. The subjects to be discussed are: Sunday, "The Catholic Church—A Haunted House"; Monday, "Trip to Purgatory"; Tuesday, "Marriage and Divorce"; Wednesday, "Can Man Forgive Sins?"; Thursday, "Is There a Hell?"; Friday, "The Great Mystery of Love"; Sunday, "Why I Am a Catholic."

"OUR GIRLS"

The Winchester Mothers' Association cordially invites all parents and teachers to the meeting to be held in the High School Assembly Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, at eight o'clock. Mr. H. W. Gibson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the speaker for the evening and his subject will be "Our Girls."

At the close of the evening a reception will be given to the teachers of our schools. Plans have been made for a pleasant and valuable evening and all parents and teachers are invited to attend and to show their interest in one of the most vital subjects of the day.

Time, eight o'clock. Place, High School Assembly Hall. Speaker, Mr. H. W. Gibson.

Judging by the brand of football exhibited by the High School team thus far this season, there is little doubt as to the ability of Coach Rufus Bond or of the team as a whole to be in the championship column.

SHALL WE CONTINUE FREE MILK IN THE WINCHESTER SCHOOLS

To the Editor of the Star:

Last year a plan was formulated by those interested in the welfare of the school children, whereby the children who could not afford milk might have it, it being paid for out of a general fund.

About 1400 circular letters were sent out and a sum of about $650.00 was received by the School Nurse, Mrs. Savage.

This money furnished free milk for about 161 children from February 3rd to May 26th. The weekly expenditure being about $49.00.

The free milk was distributed in the schools as follows: Chapin 52, Rindford 44, Washington 41, Gifford 14, Mystic 7, Highland 3.

$100.00 would take care of approximately the same number of children from November 1st to June 1st, about 25 weeks. The estimate so far of the number to be furnished free milk for their mid-morning lunch is about 130, and the School Nurse feels very certain that 150 will be a fair number to plan on for the coming year.

The Mothers' Association desires to raise as much money as possible and is going to put every effort forward to continue this free milk in the schools, as all interested feel that it is a very necessary as well as desirable asset to the health and progress of our school children.

$625 will carry one child through the year. Will you help? All contributions large or small will be gratefully received by Mrs. Martha K. Merrill, 14 Rangeley Road.

MOTION PICTURE CENSORSHIP

Declaring his emphatic opposition to allowing one-man censorship in any form to gain a foothold in this State, Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole, as chairman of the committee of Massachusetts citizens against censorship, has issued an appeal to the men and women of the State to contribute to a fund to pay the expenses of making a fight against the motion picture censorship law at the November election.

"This is a fight of the whole people against the efforts of a few to bring censorship into Massachusetts," says General Cole.

"The question of motion pictures is only incidental. If there is anything wrong with the manner of conducting picture theatres in this State, I will be one of the first to sit down with any group of citizens to devise ways and means of correcting the situation."

"It seems to me that there is plenty of law in Massachusetts at present to fine or imprison any theatre owner or film producer who is responsible for the production of immoral or otherwise improper pictures."

"If there is not law enough, or it is not properly enforced—if it can be improved or strengthened in any way, I am far from doing it in a sane, sensible, Massachusetts way."

"But let's keep the censor out of this State. This is not the place for such a creature. The men and women of Massachusetts will resent this attempt to have one man, a political appointee, tell them they must see only certain pictures and that they can't see others. They will rebel against any proposal which would give to any individual, with the partisan viewpoint of any one political, social or other organization, power to dictate to them in matters which are purely personal."

"I had a lot of experience with the censorship during the war, but there is no place for it in a free country in time of peace."

MISS HELEN COLLAMORE DEAD

Word has been received of the death at a hospital at Weisbaden, Germany, of Miss Helen Collamore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Collamore, formerly of this town. Miss Collamore was 17 years of age and well known among Winchester's young people. She was traveling abroad with her mother at the time of her death, which occurred Sept. 25th, and no details have been received other than she was subject to a short and severe illness.

Two Winchester boys, Francis A. Barrett of Stevens street and G. Fred Ashworth of Lincoln street, are associate editors this year on "The Tech," the school paper at the Institute of Technology. Last week's edition was issued under their direction. Mr. Barrett has also been appointed to the position of assistant sporting editor on the paper.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Monday night's matches in the Calumet bowling tournament produced another batch of low scores, the new pins and lack of practice hitting many of the old bowlers. Beebe was the only man to roll a really good score, he making 310 for a total with 124 for a single. Strings over 100 included the following: Dolben 109, Crafts 108, Heaton 105, Speedie 103, Barrett 103, Wolfe 102. WINCHESTER DEFEATS WOBURN

The smooth running Winchester High eleven started their series of league games right by defeating Woburn High 13 to 9 at Library Park Woburn on last Saturday.

It was Winchester's game almost from the first whistle and had the ball not been so well and fumbles so frequent without doubt the score would have been more one sided.

Winchester's first touchdown was made in the second period after a sweeping 40-yard end run by French, a fumble and a poor kick by Woburn, had placed the ball in Winchester's possession on Woburn's four yard line.

Winer carried the ball across the line in a smashing off-tackle play. In the fourth period a series of end runs and line bucks by French and Winer again placed the ball within striking distance of the Woburn goal.

Winer rushed across for the second touchdown from the six-yard line. Both tries for the additional point after touchdown were failures because of the muddy condition of the ball.

Winchester's playing was an excellent example of teamwork and good coaching. McDonough and Colucci played well for Woburn.

INITIATORS LAND IN POLICE STATION

Nine Tufts College men, members of the initiation party of one of the secret societies, landed in the Winchester police station Monday night after they had journeyed as far as here from Burlington. With them was taken in a quantity of signs of various denominations, a wheelbarrow, celery and pumpkins, and a large and varied assortment of rural free delivery mail boxes.

Ward was telephoned to the police shortly before 12 o'clock that a group of men were in the cabbage patch on the Thomas Little farm on Cambridge street. Officers William Cassidy, James Farrell and John Hogan were immediately dispatched to the scene and had little trouble in rounding up the party, which was busily engaged in adding a choice assortment of cabbages to its collection of loot.

From the various stories it appeared that the majority of the men had been taken to Burlington by their initiators and from there started for Tufts. They were obliged to wheel the barrow, into which was thrown any stray signs, mail boxes or other articles which had the appearance of making a good load.

They had traversed about half the distance when they stopped for the cabbages, and it is doubtful if they would have ever completed the remainder of the distance unmolested. The signs included the well remembered "Reeds Ferry Turn Out," "Dangerous Curve," "Look out for the Dog," "Reeds Hums," and other choice bits. Who the owners of the mail boxes are has not yet been determined.

The men were allowed to leave the police station after a warning, and if restitution is necessary in the matter of the mail boxes they will be duly notified.

AUTO SKIDDED INTO TREE

An Oldsmobile touring car driven by Axel Appel of Melrose and containing his son Benjamin and his daughter Bessie, skidded on the wet pavement on Washington street Tuesday forenoon near Webster street. The car hit a tree at the side of the street and was badly wrecked. Miss Bessie Appel was seriously cut about the head and face by flying glass from the windshield and was taken to Dr. Sheehy's office for treatment. She was later taken to her home.

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN COMING TO WINCHESTER

On November the 2nd in the Town Hall, under the auspices of the local circle of the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion, Reverend S. Parkes Cadman, D. D. of Brooklyn will give a lecture on "The Reconstruction of the World."

Dr. Cadman comes from an ancestry of preachers and was himself educated for the Christian Ministry. He received his training at the Wesleyan College, Richmond, London, and began his public career in the United States in the year 1890. Since that time he has received nearly every honor of his vocation, and is almost as well known in Great Britain, Canada, Australia and South Africa as he is in his own country. The Universities of Syracuse, Wesleyan (Middletown, Conn.), Vermont, and Columbia, New York City, have conferred degrees upon him.

His three pastures in New York City cover a space of nearly thirty years. His present church and parish in Brooklyn are the centers of a ministry recognized at home and abroad as unsurpassed for intellectual energy and spiritual insight. Dr. Cadman is emphatically one of the prophets of his age, heard gladly in every circle of American life.

His books, which include "The Victory of Christmas," "William Owen: a Biography," "The Three Religious Leaders of Oxford," and the latest issue "Ambassadors of God," have received the warmest appreciation from scientific and literary critics.

Dr. Cadman was heard at a Church supper of the First Congregational Church two years ago in a memorable address. He has just returned from Europe where he has been studying political and economic conditions, and is well equipped to handle his subject. The proceeds are to be used for the campaign fund for the building of a new home for the Florence Crittenton League in Allston. Mr. Chidley is President of the League. Tickets at $1.00 apiece may be had of Mrs. William L. Palmer, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, and at Halwartz's. The local committee is expecting a crowded hall.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF OUR POSTAL SERVICE

In the year 1692 Thomas Nonhe received letters patent, good for twenty-one years, authorizing him to set up posts in North America, and under this grant the postal affairs of the colonies were conducted by Nonhe's representative and his successors until 1710, when the postal service of the British Empire was consolidated into one establishment, with chief offices in London, Edinburgh, Dublin, and New York.

One of the earliest acts of the Continental Congress was the establishment of a post office and post routes from Falmouth, Maine, to Savannah, Georgia, "for conveying intelligence and letters throughout this continent." These routes were also used to spread knowledge of the acts of Congress and the progress of the Revolution among the different Colonies.

In 1737 Franklin was appointed postmaster at Philadelphia and later entered upon his duties which he described as acting for the Postmaster General "as his comptroller in regulating several offices and bringing officers to account." Thus Franklin appears to have been the first Post Office Inspector. In 1753 he was appointed Deputy Postmaster General for the Colonies. It was a lucrative office and he held it until 1774, when he was dismissed because of his active sympathy with the colonists in their quarrel with the mother country. For a while the colonial postal system was in confusion, but when, in 1775, almost every vestige of royal power was swept from the Colonies, the Continental Congress of July 26th, appointed Franklin Postmaster General and under his practical management the postal service was soon extended through all the Colonies. This act of Congress also extended the franking privilege to members of Congress and to army officers. Newspapers were generally published by the postmasters of the several cities, and their papers had not only been sent free through the mails, but all others were excluded.

Franklin was the first to give equal privileges to all publishers. Subsequently a small sum was charged as postage which seems to have been a perquisite of the postmaster, but no regular postage on newspapers was established by law until 1792.

BRIDGE NEARLY FINISHED

The Bacon street bridge is nearly finished as far as the contractor is concerned. Another week of fair weather will see things pretty well cleared up and the structure ready for work by the Town and State.

The granite cap stone has been laid along the north side wall and the filling of the roadway is nearly done. Masons are at work putting on the final pointing up touches on the stonework.

The oval cap stone is the only disappointing feature of the bridge, it being commented upon as being much less attractive than a square granite cap.

The new bridge will be one of the finest and handsomest in town. The widening of Bacon street at its approach and the work of cutting down the curve of the Parkway, now remains to be started.

RED CROSS NOTES

Miss Caroline Rising has returned from her vacation. She will be found at the Red Cross rooms as usual.

The petition signed by over 600 voters, asking that the Town vote at the coming State election on the question of accepting the provisions of the law providing for the creation of the two platoon system in the Fire Department, has been filed with the Secretary of State.

NEW ENGLAND SAYS NO TO CENSORSHIP

DANGERS OF CENSORSHIP

Prohibition of thought, in the form of censorship, has worked immeasurable harm to many a great nation. Russia and Germany are conspicuous examples.

The American people, in the past, have possessed a very full liberty of thought and action. Nor has there been any censorship of the press.

Today there are many who are who would return to the Russian system of censorship, and a group of individuals who would have a word to say for the press, and a group of individuals who would have a word to say for the press.

Conceded to the censor, however, though it is not at all clear, it is a very real danger to the liberty of the press, and to the liberty of the people.

In voting on the proposed motion picture censorship in the November election, Massachusetts voters should bear these facts in mind. Rather than censorship, Mr. Hays should be given the opportunity to work out his avowed purpose of insuring better films by co-operation between producer, exhibitor and the public.

Voters who desire to go on record against censorship will vote NO to Question No. 3 of the Referendum.

SMYRNA: GRAY-BEAR AMONG CITIES

Smyrna, which, with its surrounding country occupied by Greek soldiers, has been declared by the Greeks, against the wishes of the Allies, to be autonomous, is one of the world's gray-beards among cities, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Some American cities are proud of their age," continues the bulletin, "feeling that a few centuries entitle them to distinction. In contrast to the newest oil town of Texas or Oklahoma where corn stalks are probably still to be found along Main street, Boston's 290-old years indeed justify a feeling of maturity, while the four and a quarter centuries that look down on Santo Domingo entitle that first community to be established in the New World to its pride of seniority.

"Middle-Aged" London

But both of them are in the heyday of youth when compared with London which probably has existed for close to 2000 years, or Rome with more than 26 centuries behind it. It is when the Near East is reached, however, that one finds cities that are truly old. Many, like Babylon and Thebes, Nineveh and Memphis, have crumbled away ages ago, but here and there one comes upon a living community whose beginnings are lost in the haze beyond the point where history began.

Such a gray-beard among cities is Smyrna which is believed to have already been long in existence at the time of the destruction of Troy, eleven centuries before Christ. In fact Smyrna is set up by some persons as a rival for Damascus as the oldest city in the world.

The original builders at Smyrna chose their site more happily perhaps than they know. The forces of nature have been kind to the locality. Miles and Ephesus were formidable rivals for many centuries, but their rivers finally choked their harbors with silt and the cities died. Smyrna had no stream of any consequence, and its excellent harbor—the best in Asia Minor—has continued to bear its heavy burden of commerce through the ages.

Crescent City of the East

Smyrna has a population close to that of New Orleans, and like the latter it is a "Crescent City," extending in a semi-circle about its bay. But while the American Crescent City is wholly flat, Smyrna has its rim of hills which under the magic of Mediterranean skies and sunsets, invest the city with a beauty which detailed inspection does not verify. Its terraced outskirts are picturesque but they lack the striking quality of the terraces of Algiers, Hong Kong and Valparaiso.

Like a number of other cities of the Near East, Smyrna is a Babel. Even under the old Turkish Empire its population was composed of almost as many Greeks as Turks—a fact not strange when it is remembered that Smyrna first reached cityhood under Greek influence and remained Greek for many centuries successively under Ionians, Macedonians, Seleucids, and Byzantines. The city was wholly Greek for more than a millennium; it has been minimally Turkish for 500 years.

Flavor of Old Turkey

Besides Greeks and Turks there are in the population large numbers of Armenians and Jews, and lesser groups of almost every other nationality under heaven. Quite a number of Europeans live in the city and there is a clean and fairly attractive European quarter with its modicum of hotels and theaters.

This Bird Is Fat.

Young nuthatches are so laden with their own fat that one of them may go five months without taking any nourishment, says the American Forestry Magazine. This is likewise true of young pigeons and certain sea fowl.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

We do not say much about it, but as an industry we are growing by leaps and bounds. Look at these facts:

Last year the American people consumed three times as much gas as they did twenty years ago and double the amount used ten years ago.

In 1860 the largest gas holder in this country held but two million cubic feet of gas. Today holders are built with a capacity of fifteen million cubic feet.

If the gas now used annually by the American people were all made and stored at once, just for one day, it would require a tank large enough to cover the entire State of Rhode Island and more than fifteen feet high to hold it all.

We are making quite a little progress, don't you think?

Some Things We Can Do

Our desire is to see how much—not how little—we can give our customers for their money.

Don't interpret this as a burst of philanthropy. It isn't. It's plain, common-sense business, because a satisfied customer is the best possible advertisement.

Every telephone becomes a part of the universal Bell System the moment it is installed. The service that may be afforded a patron, however, is largely dependent upon his knowledge of the telephone's varied possibilities. We can suggest some of these, leaving to him the privilege of availing himself of them.

Does he know how to make an Emergency Fire or Police Call?

Does he know what we are glad to do in the way of emergency installations in cases of quarantined illness?

Does he know the economics of Station-to-Station Calls as distinguished from other toll calls?

Does he know what we will do to help forward an urgent message relative to sickness or death?

Does he know we will try to get a message to a subscriber whose full address is unknown to him?

Does he know what our Public Station service can do in reaching non-subscribers by messenger?

If, perchance, the reader does not know of these and other possibilities, I wish he would pay me a visit. I may be able to make the telephone much more valuable to him, and perhaps without one cent of additional cost.

SHUBERT VAUDEVILLE

A company of players that would way revues playing at three dollar do credit to many of the great Broadway shows is to be seen in "The Spice of Life," the swift moving and highly comic melodrama with music which comes to the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for the week of October 16th.

Irrepressible Sylvia Clark, dubbed by a great newspaper critic as "the little eccentric clown of vaudeville," shares with Dave Kramer and Jack Boyle the featured position in this whirlwind of dancing, comedy and song. Kramer and Boyle, the pair who abashed the limits of laughter. Kramer's studies in burnt cork comedy as worked out by Boyle and himself are said to be the ultimate in that type of fun-making. Julia Kelety, last year the singing lead in the Broadway success, "Two Little Girls in Blue," is a soprano with a voice of exceptional range and timbre. The Hickey Brothers, who figure prominently in all the more hilarious episodes in "Spice," are late stars of that exotic spectacle, "Greenwich Village Follies."

Other conspicuous personalities in "Spice" are Rita Bell, Irene Delray, the Wainwright Sisters, Raymond Green, a fine young tenor, and Dan Walker, who travesties the mannerisms of some of our great stage stars.

Surrounding this array of players are the twelve London Tivoli girls, young women brought direct from London to appear in this revue. Their dancing is said to be a revelation to those accustomed to the slipshod stepping of the American chorus girl.

"SPICE OF 1922"

"Spice of 1922," the big musical revue which scored such a record-breaking summer success at the New York Winter Garden, will open at the Boston Opera House, Oct. 16th for a limited engagement of three weeks.

Valeska Suratt heads the all-star cast, with Georgia Price also featured. Other principals include Sam Hyman, Bohdan and Nelson, Nita Verillo, Jack Tramer, Helen O'Shea, Florence Browne, Gattison, Hobbs, Evelyn Gerald, Sue Wilson, Wilbert Dunn, Beatrice Squire, Arthur Leeming, Bernice Page, Sybil Stuart, Marion, George Vaughn Hyde, Ruth Mansfield, and Arman Kaliz.

The most alluring feature of "Spice of 1922" is the famous Garden of Eden chorus of fifty beautiful girls, many of whom were recruited from the ranks of Greenwich Village artist models.

All the settings were supervised by Herbert Ward, of the Law studios, who is best known as art director for George White's "Sundays" and some of the scenes in the current "Ziegfeld Follies."

"TANGERINE"

Julia Sanderson in Carle Carleton's musical comedy success "Tangerine," will begin the last week of her limited eight weeks engagement at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, on Monday, October 16th.

The company will then return to New York City for a second engagement there, following which it will begin a limited engagement of eight weeks in Philadelphia.

Beginning their engagement auspiciously by breaking the house record at the Shubert, Julia Sanderson and her supporting company have won many new Boston admirers in Mr. Carleton's clever musical satire on love and matrimony.

The music of "Tangerine" had long preceded it to Boston and will be popular long after it has left, but Boston will undoubtedly miss the charm and sweetness of Julia Sanderson, the pleasing personality and voice of Frank Crumit, and the hilarious raillery of Frank Lator in his greatest comedy role, as it will also miss the amusing satire and colorful effects of this successor to "Irene."

"LAWFUL LARCENY"

At the Plymouth theatre, Boston, A. H. Woods is presenting, for a limited engagement, one of his most important successes, "Lawful Larceny," by Samuel Shipman, co-author of "East is West," "Friendly Enemies" and other well-known plays. Belle Bennett and Edna Goddard are in the featured parts. Other of the cast include Byron Besley, Fleming Ward, Ila Darling, David Landau and Margaret Bird. Mr. Woods has furnished attractive settings for the three acts and prologue of the play. "Lawful Larceny" is at once striking and original. The paradoxical title refers to the theft of a husband's love and his worldly fortune by an unscrupulous adventuress and the regaining of that love and of the lost fortune by his wife through methods at once novel and dramatic.

There is a popular matinee on Thursday as well as a Saturday afternoon performance. This attraction will not be seen elsewhere in New England.

YOUTH AND DEATH

(Written for The Winchester Star)

And what if youth must die! Blossoms that fade
Their dying fragrance sweet around—then drop Into their grave from twigs of fruitless hope.
Feel not the cold breathe of the frequent blast.
Like the maturing fruit; nor a regret
Form for the envied warm that wastes away.
The eternal day; and so methinks die they
Who, when the genial spring of life is past,
Depart from earth ere griefs of manhood's prime.
Have mingled bitter with youths' memory.
Happy to shun the woes of aftertime.
Awaiting cheerful early death's decree.
Look onward to the spring of changeless clime,
And lay them down from life's late sufferings free.

—Eugene Bertram Willard.

Explains Salmon's Jump.

The bureau of fisheries says that at the bottom of a fall there is usually a very deep well. The salmon swim to the extreme bottom of this well, and if they have sufficient depth of water to give force to get the power to jump, they do so by swimming very fast and rushing out. This force mechanically causes them to jump the falls.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

There are individuals here in Winchester who would be badly upset if they didn't have something to find fault with. One Winchesterite is all set up because a neighbor's rooster crows too early. Another is disturbed by the singing of God's beautiful feathered creatures, and this poor grouch wants a license to shoot them. The good Lord pity such a man! Every normal human being loves birds and scatters crumbs for them when the winter sets in; these persons derive many happy moments studying the birds as they eat. Life is too blessed short to look for anything but the good in it. However, Winchester's good people greatly predominate over the "crabs," but for some reason we do not hear so much about them. War will never be eliminated from the face of the earth as long as we have people ever seeking to foster it—even in such a staid community as Winchester. If only grouches and "crabs" would make peace with their neighbors wouldn't everything be grand? Would they not be happier in this world and, perhaps in the world to come—if there is any world to come for chronic grouches and "crabs."

Dr. Talmadge of blessed memory once said that the Good Book says lions and lambs shall be in heaven. If Winchester dog lovers get there and find some of their noble plugs they shall be very happy indeed. All of earth's best people and the most intellectual love dogs, so every normal minded Winchesterite is proud to defend them.

A man will go a long way to save his face but a woman has only to go to any Winchester drug store.

A group of school children were giggling together in front of a billboard. "What is the joke?" asked a curious adult.

"Well, it says there 'I've got a idea' a idea, ho, ho, ho!" and the children giggled again. "And what's the idea of a idea?" said a wagish boy among them, and then they all trooped off giggling.

No much longer will Winchesterites sing:

I love the smell of kerosene,
I know you wonder what I mean,
But I am speaking truly,
For kerosene, without a doubt,
Keeps those eternal mosquitoes out,
And so I love its scent about
When Winchester skeletons get unruly.

Only a few years ago a somewhat noted Parisian actress who was seeking to popularize knickerbockers started to come off a steamship at a New York wharf and an overzealous policeman at the foot of the gangplank ordered her to go back and put on a skirt. Of course, no such thing could come to pass now that knickerbockers have not become unusual. Whether he is a policeman in New York or a mere man here in Winchester, he is a rash individual of the male of the species who undertakes to say to the modern woman what she shall or shall not wear. Fashions were always in their own keeping. Now our women have the votes to retaliate upon anyone who would challenge their freedom of action and from all appearances, in and out of Winchester, our women were never so well able to take care of themselves, whatever liberties they may take with the older ideas of dress.

An attorney of wealth in a community less than a thousand miles from Winchester has bequeathed $2500 to his office boy. It is our candid opinion that this boy must have been poorly supplied with baseball season grandmothers.

On week days sleep is always shy,
Winchester fellow would like to know the reason why.
He finds it hard to rise and fly
To labor that he runs so;
While Sundays he is wide awake
Before the dawn begins to break.
Why can't he sleep, for goodness sake,
When he has a chance to do so?
—The Spectator.

"Mileslens."

There are several theories as to the origin of the name Mileslens as applied to the Irish. One is that the country was first settled by colonists from the island of Melos (modern Milo) in Greece; another that the name is derived from Milesius, an early conqueror, while still others claim the term is taken from the Latin "miles," a knight.

A paste effective for mending fine china can be made by dampening rice flour with cold water and simmering it gently on the back of the stove until it becomes quite thick. Since the paste is white, it scarcely shows in mending.

A LECTURE

Christian Science Entitled
Christian Science
Applied to Mankindby
A. Hervey-Bathurst, C.S.B.
Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Mr. A. Hervey-Bathurst, of London, England, one of the authorized lecturers of the Christian Science Movement, addressed an appreciative audience in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, on the subject Christian Science Applied to Mankind. The lecture was under the auspices of the local Christian Science Church and the speaker was introduced by the First Reader, Mr. George R. Townsend, who said:

About fifty years ago Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, declared "All is Infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation  matter is the unreal and temporal." (This statement may today be found on page 468 of her book Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures.)

At that time, and for twenty five years, and more thereafter, the Schools taught that the universe was made of indestructible molecules of matter divisible only into specific particles called atoms. The definition given for the atom was "The smallest particle into which matter could be divided."

Physicians have since demonstrated that so called matter is divisible to such a degree that it becomes simply a theoretical substance comprehensible only as a mental concept.

Dr. Steinmetz, one of the world's greatest electrical experts, made the statement within the present year that to explain the action of radio waves it was convenient to assume the presence of a medium termed ether but, he said, there is probably no such material in fact.

It does not seem as though prejudice could much longer prevent the universal acceptance of Mrs. Eddy's explanation of the basic law of Creation that "Infinite Mind creates and governs all, from the mental molecule to infinity." (Science and Health, Page 507.)

In 1474 Columbus declared the earth to be round. Fifty years later the Magellan expedition completed the circumnavigation of the earth, thus demonstrating conclusively the correctness of the discovery. Meanwhile the evidence in support of the contentions made by Columbus had accumulated to such a degree that the final demonstration made by the Magellan expedition was an expected event.

So it is with Christian Science today. The evidence supporting it is incontrovertible. Its final demonstration is an expected event. We have with us tonight one who will speak with authority on the subject, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. It is with pleasure I present Mr. A. Hervey-Bathurst, C. S. B. of London, England.

Mr. Bathurst spoke in part as follows:

In the year 1866 Mrs. Eddy made the discovery which she named "Christian Science." It came about as the result of her instantaneous recovery from the effects of a severe accident which the physicians had declared must terminate fatally. Mrs. Eddy had always been a deep and constant student of the Scriptures, and it was therefore natural that, in her extremity, she should turn to the Bible. It was then she proved, through her instantaneous recovery to perfect health, that the method of healing taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus was the natural fulfillment of divine law—a law just as operative and consequently just as available in this age as it was nineteen hundred years ago.

For three years after making her discovery Mrs. Eddy studied the Scriptures and the Scriptures only, and proved, by healing a large number of cases—many of them pronounced incurable by the physicians—that she had discovered the scientific rules whereby the sick had been healed, the sorrowing comforted, and the sinner reformed nineteen hundred years previously by Christ Jesus and his disciples. The result of her devoted and consecrated study of the Bible was her publication in 1875 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," the Christian Science textbook, upon which every Christian Scientist depends for his enlightenment, instruction, and guidance.

MAKES DEBUT AT A DANCE
NEXT MONTH

Miss Asenath Louise Mitchell of "Knollywood," Winchester, is to be formally presented at a dance in her honor to be given at the Copley-Plaza on Thursday, Nov. 16, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Mitchell and her grandmother, Mrs. Asenath Bacon Taft. Miss Mitchell was graduated from Roger Hall School in Lowell, last June.

The family have been residents of Winchester for only a few years and occupy the fine estate at the corner of Swan road and Cambridge street which was built by Joseph Remick, the Boston banker, and came to Winchester from Chestnut Hill, Brookline.

Mr. Greco's horse, Town-Talk, carried off two ribbons at the Chestnut Hill Horse Show, the horse was driven by his daughter Constance.

MARSHALL W. JONES

MAHSHALL W. JONES

Mr. Marshall W. Jones, widely known to Winchester residents, where he has always taken an important part in social and political life, died at the home of his brother, Mr. Hugh J. M. Jones, at Montpelier, Vt., on Sunday. His death was due to pneumonia, following an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Jones was a resident of Winchester for 22 years and during that time was always prominently identified with town affairs. He was a native of Ebensburg, Pa., where he was born March 22, 1853, the son of Lieut. Hugh and Eliza (Evans) Jones. After passing through the public schools he entered business life as a telegraph operator at Ebensburg, being transferred in 1875 to Plymouth, Ohio.

A year later he went to Zanesville, Ohio, as salesman for the firm of William C. Towns and Co., wholesale marble and granite dealers. Shortly after becoming associated with the firm he was made manager of their New York office, remaining in that position until 1882, when he and his brother Seward started in the granite business in Boston under the firm name of Jones Bros.

In 1903 the firm was incorporated, two other brothers being admitted to the firm. At that time Mr. Jones was made president of the concern, which office he held until the time of his death.

He was a member of the Winchester Board of Health from 1908 to 1920, had served as a member of the Appropriations Committee, the Committee for the Abolition of the Grade Crossing and was treasurer of the Republican Town Committee. He was a director and vice-president of the Home for Aged People and a trustee and member of the board of investment of the Winchester Savings Bank. He was always a lover of sport and a keen follower of baseball. Many pleasant afternoons found him at Graves Field enjoying the game. He was fond of fishing also, and many friends will recall fishing parties of which he was a member.

He married Miss Annie Merrill of Gardner, Me., Sept. 22, 1891. She died August 24th. He is survived by one son, Mr. Marshall Walker Jones, a sister, Mrs. D. E. Pritchard of Pittsburg, Pa., and two brothers, Mr. Seward W. Jones of Newton Highlands and Mr. Hugh J. M. Jones of Montpelier, Vt.

Largely attended funeral services were conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church at the home on Highland avenue Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock. There was a beautiful display of flowers and the mourners included business associates, town officials and many friends. During the service selections were rendered by a quartette. The pall bearers were Messrs. Daniel R. Badger, Charles N. Harris, Henry C. Ordway, Harry C. Sanborn, James W. Russell, Jr., and Preston Pond. The burial was in the family lot in Wildwood cemetery.

FLINN—BLAKE

Mr. James Miller Flinn of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Flinn of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Arlene Frances Blake, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Doane Blake of West Somerville, were quietly married on Saturday evening at the home of the bride's mother. Only relatives were in attendance at the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. John Hastings Beale of St. James Episcopal Church, Somerville. Included in the gathering present were Mrs. John J. Flinn, the groom's mother, Mrs. John C. Flinn of New York and Mr. Melville B. Flinn of Chicago.

The couple left for Stockbridge after the ceremony, where they will spend the next few weeks. Mr. Flinn is widely and popularly known in Winchester, having been treasurer of the Calumet Club and a director at the Winchester Boat Club. They will make their home at Mather Court, Cambridge, where they will be at home after January first.

NOTICE

If there are any envelopes for the Winchester Hospital Envelope Day which have not been collected the Finance Committee would appreciate it if they were notified and they will call for same.

Mrs. M. F. Brown
Mrs. Allen Wood
Mrs. Alfred Redley

Miss Alice George of Thompson street reported to the police Friday that a black leather brief case on the table in the hall at her home was stolen while the family were at dinner.

CASE AGAIN CONTINUED

School Committee and Parents Threat Out Difficulties Today

The School Committee and the parents of children redistricted from the Washington School section will threaten out their difficulties in the Woburn court this morning, the session opening at 9 o'clock.

The case again came up on Tuesday, the School Committee being prepared to proceed in its action against the parents. Attorney Lewis, representing the parents, again asked for a continuance. He had an important case coming on at 10 o'clock and wanted two weeks' postponement. Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter, representing the School Committee, objected to postponement.

Justice Maguire observed that the matter was one which should be settled out of court, but stated that he was ready to hear the case if necessary. Attorney Lewis stated that several conferences had been held and that four or five plans for adjustment had been proposed, but the School Committee refused to consider any but one, which was impossible.

After consultation between the two parties, the case was continued until this Friday morning.

REMARKABLE RADIO STUNT

When Sir Harry Lauder, the famous comedian, was at Tufts College last Tuesday noon, he participated unknowingly in one of the most remarkable radio stunts ever performed in this part of the country.

At 9:30 in the morning, officials of the Amrad Broadcasting Station were advised that Sir Harry Lauder and his lady would appear at the Godard Memorial Chapel, one-quarter mile distant from Amrad WGL, at 12 o'clock. Permission was secured from the college authorities to connect the Tufts Chapel with the Amrad Broadcasting Station, but the machinery could not be set in motion until 10:30. Between 10:30 and 11:55 wire connection was established between the Chapel and the Broadcasting Station. Microphones were placed at suitable points in the Chapel and a brief test made. Sir Harry Lauder began to speak at 12:05 and at 12:06 his voice and his entire repertoire was on the air.

Never before has greater speed in arranging relayed radio broadcasting been accomplished with such a successful result, for not only were the inimitable Scotchman's talk and songs radiated all over New England, but also the songs and cheers of the Tufts students.

METCALF UNION GIVES DANCE

The first Metcalf union dance of the season was held at Metcalf Hall in the Unitarian Church on Saturday evening, Oct. 14. The music was furnished by Perry's Orchestra of this town. About 50 persons attended. Refreshments were served at 9:30. Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Maddocks were the matrons. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Chamberlin, Mrs. Mason, Miss Ruth Chamberlin and Mrs. Herbert Miller.

The number in attendance was ideal. At no time was the hall crowded and throughout the evening everyone enjoyed the pleasant atmosphere which prevailed. The officers of the club for this year are: Ruth Chamberlin, president; Dorothy Maddocks, secretary; Herbert Miller, treasurer.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE

Yesterday morning's fire was a blaze on the roof of the house at No. 130 Cambridge street occupied by Mr. John A. Mooney. Box 56 was rung in for the fire, which was caused by chimney sparks. The damage was slight.

NIXON—DELOREY

Mr. Warren H. Nixon of Woburn and Miss Martha S. Delorey of this town were married at Woburn on Saturday evening.

BUTTERWORTH—HAINES

Mr. Robert Reed Butterworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwell R. Butterworth of Cambridge street, and Miss Olive Haines of Belmont were married on Saturday by Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian Church.

EDWARD S. FOSTER DEAD

Stricken With Apoplexy on Train at Magnolia

Mr. Edward S. Foster, widely known in this town where he made his residence for over 20 years, died at his summer home at Magnolia on Sunday. He was stricken with an apoplectic shock on Friday evening while on the train to his home from Boston, being found in an unconscious condition in his seat when the train reached Gloucester. He never regained consciousness.

Mr. Foster made his home in Winchester up to early last summer, when he moved to his summer place at Magnolia following his arrest charging misappropriation of funds of the Winchester National Bank of which he was president. The disclosure of irregularities at the bank and the arrest and subsequent indictment of Mr. Foster early in June created much comment here. The shortage was set at $95,986.

Following the disclosure, Mr. Foster's fine residence on Grove street, together with his summer home at Magnolia and his life insurance policies, were transferred to the bank. Since then he had been allowed the use of his Magnolia home.

Various dates had been set for the trial of his case, the last reports being that a continuance had been granted owing to the state of his health.

He was 50 years of age and a graduate of the Gloucester High School. In his early life he followed civil engineering, later taking up finance and becoming associated with the Carr Fastener Company of Cambridge, of which he was treasurer at the time of his arrest. He was also president of the Allen Spool & Wood Turning Company of Mystic, Conn. and treasurer of the Crocker Pen Co. of Everett. He had held the office of President of the National Bank but a month when he resigned shortly before his arrest.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie Knowlton of Magnolia, and one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Adams of 3 Ocean street, Magnolia. A son, Edward S. Foster, Jr., was killed about a year ago in an airplane accident on the Lynn marshes.

The funeral services were held at the Magnolia Union Chapel on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. The burial was at Magnolia in the family lot.

VISITOR'S WEEK AT OUR LOCAL LAUNDRY

The great plant of The Winchester Laundry, Inc., is going to observe Visitors' Week during the week of October 23-28. From all indications it bids fair to be of far greater interest even than that of a year ago.

Visitors' Week is a new departure in the laundry industry the idea originating with the National Laundry-owners Association at Chicago. Many of the guests who inspected the Winchester Laundry last year during Visitors' Week were greatly enlightened as to the modern day methods of skillful laundering of this progressive concern. Samples of the finished work, together with materials which enter into the laundering process, were exhibited in the reception room.

Over one thousand people visited this laundry last year during Visitors' Week. The interest aroused in this event was so marked that at times the plant was crowded. Additional arrangements have been made, however, this year to take care of all guests—extra guides and a large number of attendants in the reception room. Here light refreshments will be served and a rose presented to each lady as a souvenir.

Housewives are now seeing the importance of knowing how their fabrics are handled when sent to the laundry, and no better opportunity is afforded than that which is theirs during Visitors' Week and certainly no one should miss this splendid opportunity of seeing a modern model laundry in full operation.

BOY ONLY BRUISED

Monday afternoon considerable excitement was created when a Buick touring car operated by Matthew J. Gill of Lowell struck a boy on Main street, it being thought that the child was badly hurt. Mr. Gill took him in his car and rushed him to the Winchester Hospital, where Dr. Sheehy found his only injury consisted of a bump on the head. The boy was Edward Pratt, son of Edward S. Pratt of 616 Main street.

FOHTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Double Quartet which is to furnish the entertainment at the next meeting of the Fortnightly is made up of the eight leading voices of the famous Harvard Glee club. Many will remember that four years ago, Dr. Archibald T. Davison, who had recently been appointed organist and choir leader for Harvard University took over the direction of the Glee Club. He and the members of the Club determined to forsake the usual light and sometimes "trashy" music and perform only those more serious works, written especially for men's voices, by the world's greatest composers from Palestrina to those of the present day. Partly through the industry and enthusiasm of the students themselves, but largely through the tireless efforts of Dr. Davison, this Club is recognized today as the best men's choir in America. So marked was its success that France invited the Club to visit that country and contributed a large sum of money towards the expenses of the trip. The series of concerts in France were so notable that the Government gave the Club a special medal. The boys were received by President Poincaré and Marshal Foch. In Italy they were received by the King and by the Pope, and in England, everyone from the King to the lowest, gave them a great welcome.

Five of the eight who are to sing on Monday made this eventful trip. The leader of this smaller group, Mr. Joseph W. Lautner will make music his life work.

MILK FUND

To the Editor of the Star:

In order that the Mothers' Association may proceed with its plans for furnishing free milk to some of the school children it is necessary that a prompt and generous response be made to its appeal for funds.

To carry out the work as outlined in the Star last week it will be necessary to raise $1000 (not $100 as printed in error). If this money is not contributed the work must necessarily be curtailed and many children will be deprived of what is now generally conceded to be a very necessary asset to health and progress.

Will you not help this worthy cause as generously as possible? Six dollars and twenty-five cents will carry one child through the year. Any contribution for any amount will be most gratefully received by Mrs. Martha K. Merrill, 14 Rangeley.

Come Around Friday!

A certain wealthy family in California employs a Chinese cook. One day a tramp called at the kitchen door.

"Give me something to eat, I'm hungry," spoke up the knight of the road.

"You like fish?" asked the celestial, blandly.

"Yes, fish, anything," came the answer.

"Then come around Friday."

Perhaps we cannot appreciate Chinese humor, but we do appreciate that in the laundry industry it's not only Friday, but every day of service to the public.

BABIES THRIVE IN WINCHESTER

Town Has Lowest Infant Death Rate of All Communities

Winchester has the distinction of having the lowest infant mortality rate of all the communities in the State, according to the complete figures for the birth registration area of the United States, issued Friday in Washington by the census bureau. During the last year the deaths of infants under one year in Winchester was at the rate of only 38 per 1000, or exactly half of the general average throughout the State.

Maurice Dinneen, health officer of the town, when informed of the town's standing, declared that it was the result of careful and thorough preventive and educational work carried on in Winchester by the board of health for some years.

A health centre is maintained at which clinics are held weekly and to which as many as 52 babies have been brought in one day. These clinics for babies have been in charge of Dr. Harold Simonds. Besides these clinics, instruction and aid in prenatal visits have been given by a registered nurse whose whole time is devoted to this work. The milk supply, which is supplied by both small and large dealers, is always carefully guarded. Carl F. Woods is the chairman of our Board of Health.

Other figures given out by the census bureau show that the average birth rate increased and the average infant mortality rate decreased in Massachusetts in 1921 as compared with the preceding year. There were 92,225 births in the State in 1921, an increase of 0.6 per cent, but less than the general average of 4 per cent throughout the birth registration area. The death rate of infants under one year of age was cut from 91 per 1000 to 76, which last figure is the same as that for the entire area.

AUTO BURNED AT BILLERICA

Mr. John D. Sullivan lost his new Ford touring car at Billerica Sunday night when it took fire while the gas tank was being filled. It is presumed that gas overflowing from the tank fell on the hot exhaust pipe.

While the car was badly burned, the inside being gutted and the paint blistered, the engine continued to run as smoothly as when the car was received, and a new body will probably replace all the damage. Mr. Sullivan also lost a new overcoat and a new suit of clothes.

WINCHESTER HIGH SWAMPS WAKEFIELD

By Harry Price

Winchester High School trampled upon another Mystic Valley League team last Saturday when she defeated Wakefield High School 33 to 0, on Manchester Field.

The reputation which the local team has made for itself already, drew a crowd of almost 2000 persons, many of whom were from other towns, to the field.

Wakefield received and managed by line plays to reach Winchester's 30-yard line. Here they were stopped and at no other time throughout the game did they reach a point within 50 yards of Winchester's goal. Six well mixed plays placed the ball on Wakefield's five-yard line and French rushed through tackle for the first touchdown. He also made the point after touchdown by sweeping around right end for the required five yards. Tansey replaced French in the last few minutes of the second period, but proved that he was no "second-stringer" by receiving a forward pass and slipping from the very hands of three of Wakefield's backs, he crossed the line for the second touchdown. Winer failed to get across for the extra point. Here the half ended.

Winchester received and after two line plays by Winer and a forward pass with French receiving, the ball was again in Wakefield's territory on the 30-yard line. Winer broke off right tackle and, too speedy for the opponents' backs he crossed the goal for the third touchdown. French did not succeed in making the extra point.

Wakefield received, tried and failed to complete two forwards, and kicked. The kick was blocked but fell behind the Winchester team. Kendrick scooped the ball up and ran 50 yards through the entire Wakefield aggregation for the fourth touchdown.

Fitzgerald had no difficulty in scoring the extra point by a drop kick. In the last quarter Tansey again replaced French for the remaining three minutes, and again proved his ability by twice slipping through the Wakefield line for 15-yard gains. This placed the ball within striking distance for a fifth time and Winer crossed for the final touchdown of the game. Fitzgerald again added the extra point by a drop kick.

French's consistent gaining by forward passes and end runs made him the outstanding star of the game, while Winer stood second to none in his off-tackle and line-bucking plays. Kendrick's 50-yard run was not his only feature play, for his ability to throw forward passes has not been equalled on Manchester Field in many years. Randlett and Melly were the stars of line play. Hall was the man who played well for Wakefield.

WINCHESTER TOPS WAKEFIELD 33 TO 0

With a crowd of about 1500 football fans cheering them, the Winchester High School football players scored a 33 to 0 victory over Wakefield High last Saturday on Manchester Field. The Wakefield team was at least as heavy an aggregation as was Winchester, but they did not have the fighting spirit which was so evidently a part of the team play of the Winchester line-up. The day was one which was conducive to good football, with a tang to the air which put the boys on their toes every minute of the game.

Winchester kicked off for the opening play of the game. Wakefield received the ball behind their own 20-yard line and ran it back to the 30-yard line. From there they commenced an attack which carried the ball to the Winchester 40-yard line. There they were held for downs and the ball went to Winchester after the incomplete forward pass by Wakefield on the fourth down. On the next play French took the ball for a 28-yard run around right end. Then by straight football Winchester advanced the ball to Wakefield's 8-yard line, from which point French took the ball over for a touchdown. French scored the point after touchdown by an end run. At the beginning of the second period Wakefield kicked off to Winchester. Kendrick received and ran the ball back 12 yards. Next French again skirted the end for a 20-yd. gain. Another gain of 17 yards was added by a forward pass Kendrick to French. At this point Tansey was substituted for French and on the next play he went 12 yards on an off tackle run. Tansey caught a forward and ran 12 yards for the second touchdown. The try for point by an end run was unsuccessful.

The second half opened with Winer of Winchester receiving the Kick-off. He ran it back 25 yards. On the following play Winer again took the ball and made about 15 yards. Another attack on the tackle netted Winer 25 yards more and another touchdown.

Winchester kicked off to Wakefield. Wakefield tried a number of shift plays but was unable to make a first down through the Winchester forwards so was compelled to punt. Kendrick caught the ball on his own 40-yard line, and shaking off five different tacklers in succession ran 60 yards though a broken field for a touchdown. Fitzgerald scored the point after touchdown by a drop-kick.

Wakefield received and started an offense which ended when Randlett intercepted a forward pass and was downed in his tracks. End of period. A completed forward pass Kendrick to McNeilly gained ten yards. Following this Winer again went across for a touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal. Winchester kicked off to Wakefield and the game ended.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Talbot played a good game for Wakefield. He practically made all of their gains.

Wakefield scored two first downs on Winchester.

The Winchester forwards need to get started earlier in the game. Every team they have met has threatened in the first few minutes.

Kelley is doing a good job at quarter.

There is a noticeable lack of cheering in the Winchester section.

Mason and McNeilly played well on the defensive. There is room for improvement in their catching of forward passes.

If Randlett continues to catch forward passes Coach Bond will have to try him at end.

The O'Connor brothers are an exceptionally fast charging pair of forwards.

There is usually nothing slow about the way Fitzgerald handles his man to take him out of the play.

Melrose at Winchester this Saturday, Melrose has a heavy team and a hard game is assured. The ability of the Melrose has been evidenced by the fact that they have practically a veteran team, and the fact that last year at Melrose they held Winchester to a 0-0 tie. They have played only one schoolboy team so far this year and then they held the strong Salem team to a score of 19 to 0.

A week from Saturday is the big game of the season, Arlington, Winchester's greatest rival, will play at Winchester, Arlington has an exceptionally strong team this year. They beat Woburn 12-0 which is the same score that Winchester made against Louis Smith's proteges.

October 21, Saturday. Football. Manchester Field. Melrose High at Winchester.

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Monday morning, Mr. Henry Chapman and Mr. Woodbury Saunders, Editor and Associate Editor of the Recorder, addressed the assembly of the Junior and Seniors. It is the plan this year to introduce a competitive system into the management of the magazine; that is, to give credit to all who assist the Recorder in any department and in following years to assign the positions on the Editorial Staff to those who have been awarded the greatest number of points. While explaining this system, the Editors solicited assistance from all students in making the Recorder a truly representative publication.

At the close of school, Monday Mr. Thomas Dreier met the faculty and student boards of the Recorder in the school library and discussed with them the essentials of a good magazine. The physical make-up of a paper its purpose, the relations between the editorial board and the contributors, and adequate representation of school sentiment were among the topics touched upon. Mr. Dreier's talk was most practical and stimulating, and the Recorder Boards are very grateful to him for his generosity in coming to them and giving them the benefit of his successful business experience.

As a result of the art competition, Miss Agnes Court, 1923, has been chosen Art Editor of the Recorder. At a meeting of the Senior class held Monday October 16, Miss Catherine Price was chosen secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Frances Downer.

A petition from parents desiring a Parent-Teacher Association in connection with the High School has been received by the Principal. The matter is now under consideration.

In the list of honor students at Mount Holyoke College, announced October 16th, Miss Marion Nichols ranks twelfth in the senior class. Miss Nichols has not only excelled in scholarship but has been prominent in executive lines throughout her course. This year she is house chairman in Rockefeller House and chairman of the committee of religious activities connected with the Y. W. C. A. She graduated from the Winchester High School in 1919, the valedictorian of her class.

Miss Cathleen Case, who entered Smith College this fall, has had the distinction of being chosen to sing in the choir and in the oratorio.

Miss Harriette Smith, now a first year student at the Bridgewater Normal School, has been elected hockey captain.

PRACTICE GAME

On Wednesday afternoon the High School had a short scrimmage practice with Woburn High. The locals were in fine form and proved to Woburn that they understood football. The visitors were allowed to handle the ball practically the entire afternoon and were given plenty of practice in bucking the line. On rare occasions they managed to break through the stone wall but never for more than five or six yards for the alert backs were ever on the watch. Many forwards were attempted but none completed, in fact the majority were intercepted.

Coach Bond gave every substitute a try and each one showed that he was in the game to win. The team has an abundance of good men, all of whom are anxious to prove their ability.

The team meets Melrose, in a league game on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon. The Melrose team comes with a good reputation and Winchester will have a fine opportunity to show the people that they are playing the game for all that is in them and to keep the lead which they now hold in the Mystic Valley League.

CALUMET TOURNAMENT

Close Matches on Alleys Mark Fall Games

Some close figures are developing in the winter tournament on the Calumet Alleys. On Monday night in a match between teams 1 and 13, in which the former won all four points, it took the first string by 6 and the second by 2 pins. Other matches were almost as close. On this evening team 8 won three points from 20 and team 6 a like number from 18. With a few exceptions, individual figures were below former years. Goldsmith rolled a total of 325, his best single of 122 being high for the evening. Pilkington got a nice string with 115 and a total of 304, while Hildreth rolled 118 for his third string. DAILY PHILOSOPHY

'Don't get discouraged young man, it's often the last key on the bunch that opens the door.

Success is won by getting up bright and early, not dull and late.

Cold cash is often the means of expressing warm sympathy.

The only way that any business can be made to pay is by the customer paying.

When a man talks back and gets mad he accomplishes just as much as an auto does when it back fires.

Winchester Lodge of Elks has now organized and become a Winchester institution. Its first charity ball is scheduled. Residents should avail themselves of the opportunity of becoming acquainted with this institution.

When Winchester citizens desired to inaugurate their campaign to sell Liberty Bonds during the War, they were obliged to go to the Boston & Maine Railroad and get a permit to place their posters about the railroad station. The Boston & Maine Railroad now placards its station with ugly and undesirable posters without consulting the Town in any way, and to the objection of a vast majority of its residents.

It cost a drunken automobile driver $50 in the Woburn court last week for driving his car through the wreckage of two other cars which had collided on the Stoneham-Reading road. The victims of the collision had barely been removed when the drunk ran through the wreck and into a telephone pole. Compared with a $15 fine for driving a car over 20 miles an hour on a clear parkway, his little fun was cheaply bought.

The agitation against censorship of moving picture films appears to be as solid as it is widespread. General Charles H. Cole, chairman of the citizens' committee against censorship says regarding the Referendum No. 3, which will appear upon the November ballot: "The question of good or bad motion pictures is only remotely involved in this Referendum. I have no desire to allow improper films to be shown, and will join with any man or woman in an effort to establish a guarantee of the propriety of such exhibitions. If there is not law enough at the present time to protect the public, and I believe there is, I will cooperate with any agency whatever to strengthen the law. The question now before the people is much broader and far-reaching than that. It is a question of substituting for government by the people the government of one man."

Many people are asking "what is the matter with Winchester?" Why is it that almost every bordering town and city is experiencing, if not an actual building boom, at least a steady increase in building? The BTAR cannot answer. That we are not building anywhere near as fast as surrounding places is evident. Whether the cause is due to our stringent building laws or not, as some claim to be the case, we are not prepared to say. Defenders of our laws deny the implication. Perhaps our Chamber of Commerce will take the matter up?

ALL DAY SEWING MEETING

Fourteen members of the Woman's League of the First Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Social Service department, spent Wednesday, October 18th at the N. E. Baptist Hospital, Parker Hill Ave., Roxbury. The unusually large delegation made it possible to complete one hundred and ten different articles, thus accomplishing more than has been possible by any previous delegation this year.

The basket lunch was supplemented by coffee, ice cream and cake served at the purses' home.

The day was a delightful one and long to be remembered by the women of the League who made the trip. Emma H. White, Press Committee.

CHARLES F. MAXWELL DEAD

Charles F. Maxwell, who was a salesman for a Boston boot and shoe house, died in St. Joseph, Mo., Saturday, while on a business trip through the Middle West. Mr. Maxwell was a native of North Brookfield, but he lived for years in Winchester, the family moving to 3 Newport road, Cambridge, only a few months ago.

He was a member of the Boston Boot and Shoe Club, of which he had been president. He had been quite active in the Masonic fraternity, having been one of the first members of the lodge at North Brookfield and he was a member of the Knight Templars and the Mystic Shrine. Mr. Maxwell is survived by his wife and one son, Robert Brooks Maxwell, of Watertown.

WOULD YOU DARE to bet with a man aged 35, $10,000 against $250.00, that he will live one year? Then at the end of that year will you return $250.00, making his net outlay $215.00? Furthermore, will you give a guarantee without regard to his health that you will allow him to continue the above process as long as he desires, and if he wishes to discontinue the plan you will return him a good share of what he has paid in?

For instance—the Northwestern will give you the contract above described today, and guarantee to return to the insured if he survives and dies it at the end of, say 10 years, a cash value of $2,250.00, while he has depended on our present dividend basis during the entire 20 years on an ordinary life policy $3,450.00, making the average cost per year for carrying $10,000 only $25.00.

Let it Go at That

Any fool can be a censor, but one has to be somebody to be censured.

WHAT IS IT?

To the Editor of the Star:
(General Act—Chapter 132)

An Act to Provide For The Division Into Day and Night Forces Of Permanent Members of Fire Departments

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The permanent members of the uniformed fire-fighting force in every city and town which accepts the provisions of this act shall be divided by the fire commissioner, board of fire commissioners, chief engineer, board of engineers, or other officer or officers having charge of the fire-fighting force, into two bodies or platoons, which shall be designated as a day force and a night force, and the day force and night force shall alternate on tours of duty every third day.

Section 2. The hours of duty of the day force shall be from eight o'clock ante meridian to six o'clock post meridian, and the hours of duty of the night force shall be from six o'clock post meridian to eight o'clock ante meridian: Provided, that on every third day, for the purpose of alternating the day force with the night force and vice versa, the number of hours of duty herein stated may be exceeded, but one force shall be at liberty at all times except as is otherwise provided in section three of this act.

Section 3. In case of a conflagration, the officer or board having charge of the fire-fighting force shall have full authority to summon and keep on duty any or all of the members of the fire-fighting force while the conflagration continues.

Watch for Circular.

HOW IT WORKS?

By the addition of three (3) men, making a total of fourteen (14) the force would be divided into two (2) shifts or platoons, thereby having seven (7) trained men on duty at all times.

The first platoon is on duty the first two (2) days from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. The second platoon from 6 P. M. to 8 A. M. On the third day the first platoon instead of going off duty at 6 P. M. continues until 8 A. M., the following day, thereby allowing the second platoon 24 hours off duty and changing the night shift to the day shift and vice versa, thus giving every man 1 full day off (24 hours) in six.

The second platoon is now on duty from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. and continues so until the sixth day when by working 24 hours it allows the first shift the same amount of time off duty and brings the shifts as they were at the start.

No time off is allowed for meals or any other cause, thereby insuring maximum efficiency at all times.

Men on off duty shift required to respond to all second alarms which would mean an equal number of trained men in an emergency.

Watch for circular!

The Cost

The cost of installing the Two-Platoon in the Winchester Fire Department is very small when comparing the protection obtained under the present system of continuous duty with its time off for meals and also days off when the man-power of the department is considerably lessened, and the Two-Platoon System which insures a force of seven trained men who will be in readiness to man the apparatus and do fire duty at all times, the platoon off duty being required to report on a second alarm.

The addition of three men whose total salaries would amount to forty-eight hundred dollars ($4800) would affect the tax rate only to the addition of twenty cents (20c) on the thousand.

Realizing that the burden of the tax payer is already very heavy we feel that all fair minded citizens will weigh the matter very carefully and find that the increased efficiency of the department and the privileges enjoyed by the officers and men, which at present under the continuous system are denied them, will render the actual cost almost negligible.

Watch for circular!

Two Platoon Committee.

BRIDGE OPEN NEXT WEEK

It is now expected that the Bacon street bridge will be open for use next week.

The bridge itself is now completed and the contractor has been engaged during the past ten days in cleaning up and grading, the piling under the arch being removed and the filling at each end being dumped in. Masons have been at work pointing up the cement work and lining the stone work.

It is the plan now to open the bridge with a gravel roadway six inches below the permanent grade. This will be used during the winter, allowing any settlement to take place before the street is constructed for all time. Sidewalks will be lined out with timber and the top surfacing of foam will not be spread until spring opens, at which time the remainder of the work will be done.

The new bridge is considered by many residents the handsomest we have in town. It certainly presents a fine appearance.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Annual Fathers' and Mothers' night of the Winchester Mothers' Association was held in the High School Assembly Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 17th. Approximately two hundred mothers, fathers and teachers participated in an interesting and pleasing program.

Mrs. Raymond Merrill presided and extended the welcome of the association. After enjoyable vocal solos by Mr. McLeod accompanied by Mr. J. Albert Wilson and Mrs. Clarence W. Dunham accompanied by Mrs. Knight, Mr. H. W. Gibson, Secretary of the Boys' Work Division of the Y. M. C. A. was introduced as the speaker of the evening. His subject, "Our Girls" was greatly enjoyed.

Keen wit and humor being blended with practical sense in such an effective and delightful way that the attention of his audience was held to a marked degree. Mr. Gibson pointed out the fact that many homes were suffering from too many clubs—the old fashioned mother brought up her daughter, today daughter brings up mother. The open fire should be the heart of showing results of the "sparkless" home and too many homes were showing the results of the "sparkless" club. The home should be the girls' club and the girls should be glad to bring their friends home to meet "Mother." Daughters should not allow their mothers to become a slave and in reference to this subject Mr. Gibson read a very clever little poem entitled "Do it now, for he cannot read it on his tombstone when he's dead."

At the conclusion of the program an informal reception to all the teachers was held in the Gymnasium which was decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves and flowers. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Mrs. Saunders, chairman, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

The hostesses were Mrs. Phippin, Miss Pratt, Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Farnum.

A novelty shower was tendered to Miss Esther Russell by the Kum-O-Mist girls at the home of Miss Margaret Melley this week. She received many useful gifts.

AUTUMN FESTIVAL

Winchester Council K. of C., under the able guidance of their newly elected Grand Knight, Walter E. Shaughnessy are starting off on what gives promise to be the greatest year in the history of the Council. With their new home as an example of what hard work and cooperation can do they are starting a season of social events which will eventually help to clear all debts on the building and also make the clubhouse a wonderful center for social activities.

A monstrous Autumn Festival to be held in the clubhouse, Nov. 8, 9, 10 and 11 is the first event on the calendar. This affair is going to be run on a large scale and will provide four days of continuous pleasure and entertainment for all the townspeople, ending up with a grand finish on Armistice night, Nov. 11th.

The features included in the four days program consist of general dancing every evening, exhibition dances by Masters of the Art, introduction of the latest song hits by well known songsters, entertainment by performers of the best theatre circuits, a baby show and doll carriage parade and greatest of all, an automobile which is to be given away. In a few words this festival will give the patrons four days of excellent fun, pleasure and entertainment.

In preparation for the Festival a series of dances and parties will be held during the coming week. The first of these will be a dance next Monday evening at the clubhouse under the direction of the dance committee. The committee has been fortunate in booking, Mr. Ormsby Court, the well known eccentric dancer for an exhibition that evening. Other features will be an elimination contest with a prize of five dollars in gold for the winner and the appearance of popular singers.

Mr. William Murray is the general chairman of all committee assisted by the members of the council and a very efficient ladies' committee. The various committees are in charge of the following members. John W. Cullen, Tickets; Thomas Farrell, Novelties; Henry Haley, Midway; Terence Cullen, Dance and Entertainment; Luke P. Glendon, Refreshments and Francis R. Murphy, Publicity.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS OF WINCHESTER K. OF C.

District Deputy J. Lowe McMahon and suite of Wakefield installed the officers of Winchester Council K. of C. for the coming year at a meeting held in the K. of C. hall, Tuesday evening. The officers installed were: Walter E. Shaughnessy, Grand Knight; Terence Cullen, Deputy Grand Knight; Frank E. Rogers, Chancellor; John S. O'Leary, Fin. Sec.; J. Henry Haley, Recording Sec.; George E. McGourty, Treas.; James E. Boyle, Warden; Peter Cullen, Inside Guard; John D. Sullivan, Outside Guard; and J. Chris Sullivan, Advocate. Edmund O. Goggin was appointed Lecturer.

Following the exercises, addresses were made by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Fitzgibbons, newly appointed Chaplain, District Deputy McMahon and the incoming Grand Knight, Walter E. Shaughnessy. The new Grand Knight is one of the younger members of the Council and is very popular in town, his popularity dating back to the days when he was starring as an athlete on the High School teams and also the local Town Team. He is now engaged in Educational work.

Averages.

The law of averages is mathematical in its accuracy. When a scientifically managed pinball store system wants to open a new shop, it has "clockers" count the passing crowds, to learn what location has the most traffic flowing past its doors. It is definitely known that a set percentage of the passersby will turn into the new store. This is the law of averages—that, while a thing may not happen repeatedly, it will show up, on the average, every-so-often. Gamblers use the law of averages, figuring systems to beat the bank at Monte Carlo. It is a law that should be taken into consideration in all proposed undertakings.

Members of the Winchester Fire Department met with the Finance Committee at the Town Hall on Monday night to go over the question of the acceptance by the Town of the two-platoon act at the coming election.

CONGO: THE RAINBOW'S END IN AFRICA

A country nearly four times the size of Texas which was founded by a committee, provided poet money for a king, now is to be mined by a syndicate—such is Belgian Congo whither a group of New York business men are reported to have gone in search of a stream where golden pebbles may be scooped up by the handful.

Since Leopold II turned wistful eyes toward the "black gold," or rubber, of the Congo country and Henry M. Stanley proved that white men could survive there, this land of the rainbow's end has frequently held public attention, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

When Congo Stirred America

Once before rumors of gold, together with rumors of cruelty to natives, sent the name "Congo" echoing around the world. The U. S. Senate discussed Congo Free State, as the country then was known, and alleged atrocities were deplored in churches and in meetings all over the United States.

In the year America was celebrating her Independence Centennial, Belgium's young king helped form a society, along with other European governments and geographers, to explore Africa. After Stanley's expedition of the following year a committee of this society, continuing the work, developed into the International Association of the Congo. This body sought to unite various territories in Central Africa into a single state and obtain recognition as a political entity. The United States was the first to accord this recognition, whereupon the Congo Free State was born, in 1884.

Called "Free State," Was Neither Actually the new political division, the largest in Africa except the French Sahara, was neither a state nor free. It was an association for its governance which was recognized; and Leopold II, personally, not in his capacity of King of the Belgians, was its ruler. Leopold bequeathed the territory to his country in his will.

Before Leopold's death the controversy over harsh treatment of the natives who were pressed into service as rubbers gathers became a topic of discussion all over the civilized world. Missionaries and foreign consuls complained of the outrages. The system by which taxes were payable only in rubber, and the practice of holding women as hostages when such payment was not made, was liable to abuse.

Consul Casement Protests

One especially severe criticism was aimed by Consul Casement at Boma—later Sir Roger Casement, who was hanged for conspiring against the British in Ireland. Belgians averred that the agitation about those abuses followed suspiciously close upon reports of the discovery of gold. While Leopold denied the right of foreign powers to interfere in his rule of the Congo he instituted reforms. Continued assertion that measures of relief were not applied led to the cession of Congo Free State to Belgium in 1910.

Belgian Congo is a bowl-like plateau, criss-crossed by rivers, polka-dotted by marshes, ribbed with rock, and blanketed throughout with the equatorial forest. The veritable jungle of this humid wilderness surpasses any meaning the temperate zone dweller attaches to the word "forest." Into these primeval forests, Livingstone wrote, "the sun, though vertical, cannot penetrate, except by seeping down at mid-day thin pencils of rays into the gloom. The rain water stands for months in stagnant pools made by the feet of elephants. The climbing plants, from the size of a whipcord to that of a man-of-war's hawser, are so numerous, that the ancient path is the only passage."

"Weighed With Eternal Green"

More recent explorers have commented especially upon the dire depression which besets the white man when he traverses this forest. You are hemmed in by thickets which prevent you from penetrating the green depths on either side, and, on gazing upwards, the heavens to the eyes so wearied with eternal green.

Ancient Yucatan Relics.

At Chichen-Itza, in Yucatan, where there is a sacred sinking well, all sorts of beautiful sacrifices have been found embedded in the mud. Jade necklaces, gold plates and small jars heavily studded with jade, sometimes containing human hearts, have been found in this well, says the Detroit News. The Maya Indians made these sacrifices when they wanted rain or a blessing for their crops. Beautiful gold knives that were undoubtedly used to carve up the victims of sacrifice, usually young women, have also been found. The Maya Indians of northern Yucatan probably use the same language as the builders of the ruins among which they live, says Prof. A. M. Tozzer, of Harvard University.

Among those who took part in the Mardi Gras carnival at Woburn last week was Mr. Harry Good, who had several of his horses in the parade.

Your Telephone World

"Why, I couldn't find his name in the telephone directory."

This is the reply I get occasionally, when I ask a subscriber why he didn't send a toll message, and thus quickly settle some important matter.

As it would be practically impossible to include in one book all subscribers to the Bell System, each book is designed to include a given territory within which there are numbers frequently called.

If a Bell subscriber who lives outside this territory is wanted, you can reach him quickly and easily even if his name and number do not appear in your telephone directory. Just ask for the Toll Operator and give her the name and address of the person you want to reach. If you make your call on a station-to-station basis you will save both time and money. It really makes no difference whether he is in Bangor, Sioux City or San Francisco—wherever he is, if within range of a telephone, he can be reached if he is connected to the Bell System.

The next time you want to reach some distant friend whose name you can not find in the telephone directory, just call the Toll Operator and tell her what you want. She will try to help you, and may be able to get a message to your friend, even though he has no telephone, and get him to a Public Telephone Station to talk to you.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

Healing

Broadly speaking, there is, and I think you will agree, no difference between what mankind needed in Jesus' time, and what mankind needs to-day. The remedy also is exactly the same now as it was then. Was there not sickness and suffering in Jesus' time? Was there not also envy, hatred, malice, dishonesty, deceit? Were not exactly the same conditions or claims of evil apparent among men in those days that we see to-day? And were not all these conditions healed by Christ Jesus and his disciples? Did not the Master reveal the only remedy, and is there not abundant proof that the remedy was successful? Why, then, was that remedy ever dropped, and others substituted which have failed of success? Is it not time that the practical nature of Christianity, as it is demonstrated by Christian Science, be universally recognized?

Do not think, however, that Christian Science is merely a system of physical healing. Indescribably wonderful as is the experience of physical healing which it brings, it is a small thing when compared to the spiritual regeneration which is inseparable from its physical healing.

The question which naturally arises at this point is, How is physical healing brought about by Christian Science treatment, and without drugs or recourse to materia medica? To find the answer to this question we must go back about two thousand years when the humble Nazarene declared that he had not come to destroy but to fulfill the law and the prophets. He showed that the fulfilling of God's law consisted in the healing of sickness and the destruction of sin, sorrow, fear, and all discord, through the correct concept of God and man.

Let us consider this question for a moment. I believe you will agree that the law of God, which Jesus fulfilled, has not changed. If, therefore, it was not in accordance with the law of God nineteen hundred years ago that a man should be sick or bound by sin, and the understanding of the law of God at that time healed the sick and reformed the sinner, surely the understanding of that same law will accomplish similar results to-day. In order that we may understand the law of God, we must, however, first understand God. Before we can understand God, we must desire and be willing to learn—be willing to pray in the words of the Psalmist, "Show me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me."

The healing through Christian Science is brought about through spiritual understanding, or the knowledge of the truth. Just as the knowledge of the fact that three times three are nine corrects the mistake of some child who says three times three are eleven, so the knowledge of the truth about man in his relation to God will heal the mistaken belief that man is separated from God or can suffer from some physical trouble.

The Works Must Be Done

The question here arises, Are not we, you and I, and not only all Christian Scientists but all Christians to heal the sick and do the other works that Jesus and his disciples did? The answer is most emphatically, Yes. Did not Jesus say, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also?" Now, the day when people were willing to accept blindly whatever was told them, whether from the pulpit or anywhere else, is past. This is said to be essentially a practical age; therefore people are demanding proof rather than mere statement, practice rather than theory. This is why so many, in the hour of misery, disappointment, or sickness, turn to Christian Science. They know, perhaps, of friends who have been comforted, or healed of some serious physical trouble through Christian Science treatment, and so have been given a practical understanding of God as a very present help at all times and under all circumstances.

God

Perhaps the most familiar reference to God in the Bible is that wonderful statement, I John 4:8, "God is love." Yet how many people still look upon God with fear, and still feel that any reference to the Deity must be made with bated breath. Is it logical, I would ask you, is it practical, to fear Love? How few people realize that God is the greatest, the best friend they have, the best guide, adviser, and comforter. The prophet Jeremiah wrote: "Am I a God at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God afar off? Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith the Lord."

The beloved disciple stated clearly that God is Love, and Jeremiah the omniscience, or all-presence, of God. Is it not logical, then, to state that a correct understanding of God includes the recognition and demonstration of the omnipresence of divine Love? And does it not inevitably follow that such an understanding must finally eliminate the belief in hate? Let us amplify this statement. Picture to yourself a locality where no one is hating, no one is feeling even uncharitably toward his neighbor. Would not the happiness of those individuals be assured in such circumstances? Would it not mean for them the elimination of misery? And if a sufficient number of individuals ceased entertaining any thought of hatred through their recognition of the omnipresence of divine Love, would it not mean the overcoming of strife, the end of war—war or conflict between individuals, between communities, between nations?

Perhaps the synonym for God most frequently used in Mrs. Eddy's writings is "divine Mind," defining the "all-knowing, all-seeing," ever present God, or good. Could the great First Cause or creator be unintelligent or less than intelligent? Surely not. Can intelligence be better defined than by the term "Mind"? And could you conceive God to be inactive or unconscious, or less than all-knowing or omniscient? What better term, then, could be used than "divine Mind" to define God, the omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient good? If not all, doubtless the majority of us here, accept the usual definitions of God as Love, Spirit, to be holy, all-powerful, and ever present. You believe that God is omnipotent; that is what Christian Science teaches. Christian Science also teaches that God is Love, Spirit. Therefore the teaching of Christian Science is not in conflict with what you believe about God; on the contrary, it is based upon it, or agrees with it. Therefore, that there is but one God, one cause or creator, we all agree. Consequently, there is but one divine Mind, knowing all, all-inclusive—and the effect of the great First Cause or creator must be like it, for does not like invariably produce like? We see, then, that this one and only cause could not create anything, or could not be expressed or reflected in anything, unlike itself. Therefore we have a perfect God or creator; perfect cause and perfect effect; manifestation or creation, including man.

Salvation From Evil

Since this is true, the opposite must be false or untrue. What is the opposite? It is the belief that God causes sin, sickness, evil, and death, and that His universe, including man, is liable to express these discordant conditions. Now this belief (and please note that I use the word "belief") is untrue, and Christian Science affords the only way of salvation from this mistaken belief. Think, then, what such a message must mean to the invalid who has turned to Christian Science for healing. Many of you have doubtless experienced the indescribable joy that comes with that message, that it is not God's purpose you should suffer, and you need no longer be limited by an opposite and false belief. Hope begins at once to spring forth with the result that every Christian Science practitioner knows so well.

You will remember that St. Paul says in his epistle to the Romans 8:6, "The carnal mind is enmity against God." He went even further than that when he said, "To be carnally minded" (or, as the Revised Version has it, "the mind of the flesh") "is death; but to be spiritually minded" (or "the mind of Spirit") "is life and peace." It is, then, the carnal or mortal mind that declares sin and sickness to be true. The less, therefore, we have to do with the carnal mind or the flesh, the better.

The first step, then, is to refuse to believe the testimony of the carnal mind, refuse to accept the arguments of sin, sickness, discord, death, which emanate from this so-called mind. St. Paul shows us how we can do this when he says, "Whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord." The way, therefore, is as he further states, "to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." In other words, it is to understand and prove that the one divine Mind, God, is omnipresent and omnipotent.

Testimony of Physical Senses Unreliable

How, you may say, can you expect me to reject what the physical senses say? To such a query I would reply, Are you not already doing that every day? I need quote but the familiar illustration of the sun appearing to travel across the sky from east to west, whereas you know it is the earth which is revolving. So, then, astronomy has revealed the unreliability of the physical senses with regard to the sun; but Christian Science has shown us how this unreliability is very much more far-reaching than would at first appear to be the case.

Christian Science shows that the belief that man need sin, suffer, or be controlled by sickness, vice, or any form of discord, is a mistaken or false belief. A false belief or a mistake can only be corrected by the knowledge of the truth. It is, then, the truth about God and man demonstrated, that corrects these mistaken beliefs. Jesus said, "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." No man is "free" so long as he is bound by sickness or sin or fear, and the freedom from the bondage of sickness, sin, fear, and all discord is the healing which is so widely recognized throughout the world to-day—the healing by Christian Science treatment, through the understanding and demonstration of the truth about God and man.

If, then, Christian Science brings to mankind the fulfillment of this promise of deliverance from all the ills the "flesh is heir to," is it not surprising that there should be opposition to, or even reluctance to accept the teachings of Christian Science?

Simplicity of Christian Science
As you begin to take in, through practical application of them, the teachings of Science and Health, you realize that a transformation or reformation is taking place. A new light is dawning, and you feel and declare, in the words of St. Paul, "Behold, all things are become new." Why? Because you are being "born again," because you are beginning to recognize the truth about God, man, and the universe; because you are beginning to understand that God is indeed at hand, here and now with you, "a very present help," that man, created by God, is the image of God or Godlike; that man is not separated from God, but is now at-one with his Father-Mother, God.

You are beginning to understand, also, that it is not necessary for man to implore and beseech God to do something He has not done. In recognizing the truth, we begin to see that the statement of the perfection of God's creation, found in the first chapter of Genesis, is not only true but demonstrable.

Prayer

This brings us to the question of prayer. What is prayer? In my experience, as it is in the experience of innumerable others, one of the greatest blessings and revelations of Christian Science is the understanding of how to pray aright. You may say, What is there to pray about if God, Principle, or divine Mind, is infinite, all, and man is His expression? The answer is, Just so long as there is any belief in the presence, power, or effect of evil, will it be necessary to "pray without ceasing." Prayer is not only the desire for the knowledge of the truth, but it also exemplifies or demonstrates it. For example, suppose you understand something about Christian Science, and have demonstrated the truth of what you understand by healing yourself or others of some physical troubles. Some one then comes to you and says, I am suffering and I want you to help me—to give me a Christian Science treatment. You have learned at least something of the truth regarding God and man, and by reason of your knowledge, you can prove or demonstrate it. In asking for treatment, the patient is reaching out for Truth. His honest desire is prayer, but it is probably rather along the lines of blind faith. The Christian Science treatment given by the Christian Science practitioner would be prayer based upon understanding, the understanding or knowledge of the truth about man as the reflection of God. That knowledge of the truth frees, because it destroys the erroneous or false belief about man, and the patient is healed.

Desiring, recognizing, accepting, and affirming these divine facts about God, man, and the universe constitutes prayer. Prayer is the heart's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed; The motion of a hidden fire That trembles in the breast.

Prayer is the simplest form of speech, That infant lips can try; Prayer is the sublimest strains that reach The Majesty on high.

Prayer is the Christian's vital breath, The Christian's native air; His watchword overcometh death— He enters heav'n with pray'r.

(Christian Science Hymnal, p. 91.)
Such prayer is answered. Why? Because the old, false beliefs, refuted by the knowledge and affirmation of the truth, die of their own inanition, and that which we declare to be real is proved to be a present actuality, and God's will is done—"in earth, as it is in heaven."

In this way, through Christian Science, we learn and prove that man has dominion—dominion over all the earth, over all that is unlike God.

In response to the petition of 100 citizens of Medford and Winchester, the Middlesex County Commission has issued notice of a hearing on Nov. 15 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at the Aldermanic Chamber, Medford, on the rehousing of Winthrop street from the Winchester line to Winthrop square, Medford. This street has been in a dangerous condition for a considerable time, the City of Medford having recently started an endeavor to have the State take it over.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Common as the belief is that storms at sea and hurricanes on land grow more numerous there can be no real comparison between an age of highly developed mail facilities and periods of the stage coach or the post-boy, on the whole, the perils of tempest do not markedly change while the progress of the race in safeguards is marked. A British statistician after sifting the figures for the five years ended 1913, estimates that the annual death rate among railway employees was 0.59 per thousand, among underground coal workers 1.56, among employed seamen 4.05 per thousand. By comparing returns for land and sea travel at about 1900 and later at about 1910, he reached the conclusion that hazards had markedly declined. With figures of the World War no Winchesterite is familiar because they have yet to be sifted. Destructive as were the submarines, safeguarding and counteracting influences were also at work. The sea is still more hazardous than the land, but less hazardous than it was before the signal service and the trans-Atlantic steamer.

Give us the friends that help uplift.
The true friends and the true,
Such friends are more precious than diamonds,
Every Winchesterite needs such friends—don't you?

A Winchester man who heard the phrase, "Isn't it dusty on the ocean today," thought it quite funny, but it is no joke at all. Winchesterites who have traveled on the high seas within recent months may have wondered about the dust found on ships in the North Atlantic hundreds of miles from land. But Willis Edwin Hurd of the United States Weather Bureau explains that some seamen sighting a fine white haze near the West Indies attributed it to volcanic origin. Checking up all the incidents of this kind reported about the same time from other ships, Mr. Hurd concludes that the dust came from some African desert, was carried to sea, and there caught up in the northerly and easterly winds of the trade belt. Last year a similar instance was reported from the Yellow Sea at the time of a severe storm over the Mongolian Desert. Dust from Australia has been borne a distance of about 1500 miles to New Zealand. It has been calculated that the total amount of dust swept by the sirocco from the Sahara Desert to Europe year after year during the last 30 centuries is equivalent to an average of at least five and one-half inches. Indeed, the Sahara dust has been distributed not only over Europe but over parts of Africa, Asia and the Atlantic Ocean.

"Coming-out" parties do not worry some fond mothers here in Winchester like "staying-out" parties.

"Oh, for the good old days," sighed a Winchester gentleman. Well, we know a lot of men who sigh for the good old days who would hate dreadfully to revert from the automobile to the bicycle.

Our spirit grieves at autumn leaves
And corn in shocks and sheaves
1922 grows old and somewhat cold,
A thing that really peaves.
And ere we're done we'll crack a pun,
So laugh into your sleeves.
For winter time awaits Winchester's clime
As soon as beautiful autumn leaves.

Winchesterites who smoke in garages are in grave peril of paying the penalty for downright carelessness. Which reminds The Spectator that there seems to be some basis for the claim that there are certain places where smoking is bad form.

Lord Mansfield said that he valued popularity, but added, "I mean the popularity that follows, not that which is run after." The saying has a healthy tone. Popularity is worth having—that is, the character in public or private life who has done something worthy of regard may rightfully take pleasure in recognition. Since Mansfield's day the number of books, pamphlets, magazines and leaflets has multiplied and remultiplied. Photography and films have increased the chances of publicity, and each day there is more likelihood that a good deed in a naughty world or a criminal action in a well-ordered community like Winchester will get its full share of the limelight. Anybody can now get publicity, for a simple issue of a newspaper or for a flash on a screen. But the world, though it is amused or disgusted for a moment, cannot be fooled all the time. The publicity that is worth having is not easily won. Something worth chronicling precedes the chronicles. An explorer, a scientist, a man of letters, a philanthropist may have a generation of publicity, but at the cost of doing something of value to the race.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Supt. William T. Dotten of the Water Department and Mrs. Dotten quietly observed last Saturday, their 50th wedding anniversary. The event was celebrated by a supper at the home of their son, Mr. Harry W. Dotten on Washington street, at which about 20 relatives and close friends sat down. The evening was pleasantly passed with a program of music. Mr. Dotten has been in Winchester for 59 years and for that period lacking a few months has been in charge of our water system. He and his wife have received warm congratulations from many friends in the observance of their anniversary.

Mr. George J. Barham is attending the convention of the American Legion at New Orleans.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Think of gas at $6.00, $7.00, $8.00, and $9.00 a thousand cubic feet! That's what the housewives residing in many American cities had to pay a little over fifty years ago. And instead of complaining at the size of their gas bills, they were glad to get gas service so cheap.

Here are the "cheap" rates charged in those days: Memphis, $5.50; St. Louis, $4.50; Nashville, $4.50; Mobile, $5.00; Atlanta, $5.50; Savannah, $6.00; Norfolk, $6.00; Vicksburg, $6.00; New Orleans, $4.00; Charleston, $7.00; Montgomery, $8.00; San Francisco, $6.00, and Sacramento, $9.00.

Compare these rates—the average of which is $6.20 per thousand cubic feet—with those charged today, keeping in mind the fact that fifty years ago there was only one use for gas—lighting—whereas today there are more than a thousand separate uses for it, and your opinion of your gas bill will be greatly modified.

Censorship Not Practical

The censor in a certain state ordered eliminated from a biblical film practically the entire episode of Cain and Abel, apparently on the grounds that it incited to "violence" or "crime." This is absurd but not uncommon in censorship rulings. The censor, merely an average individual immersed in the details of office, loses his perspective. State censorship of motion pictures has not proved practical, but it has shown itself to be dangerous. First censorship of dramatic films, then news reels and recently censorship of political thought are steps that have already been taken in some states. In this steadily encroachment the press is but another step. From unsuspected beginnings we find the door to political and religious intolerance opened and the door to freedom of thought closed. In Referendum Question No. 3 a serious principle is at stake. The voter in the coming election should bear this in mind. He who desires to see our fundamental liberties preserved will vote NO on this question, secure in the knowledge that in Mr. Hays' capable hands has been left the completion of a purpose, already in the way of accomplishment, Better Movies.

"NO PARTY LINES"

The Elks A Real American Organization

It is difficult to conceive of an accurate expression of "no party lines" in the roll-call of the United States Senate but there's one "calling of the choir" in that August assemblage of legislators which has no connection with political party, needs no class distinction, knows no territorial limitations.

Questions of the day may cause difference of opinion among some fifty-five of our senators but they respond as "brothers" when the call of Elksdom issues forth. Among the illustrious names contained in the list of the Elks members of the senate are such well-known statesmen as Borah, Calder, Capper, Cummins, Edge, Elkins, France, Frelinghuysen, Glass, Hale Harrison, La Follette, McCormick, McCumber, New, Owen, Pomerene, Reed, Underwood, Wadsworth, Walsh of Montana, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Williams.

Seldom will all of those named in the foregoing be found in complete accord politically but they stand united in the acceptance and promotion of the principles of Elksdom.

Patriotism is the language of Elksdom and it gains most eloquent expression in the ever constant and whole-hearted practice of charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity.

With the drawing near of the Yuletide season the charitable work of Elksdom, the country over, is stimulated to its greatest heights and it is to be expected that Winchester Lodge will contribute generously of time, effort and money to the furthering of this work in our own community.

In last week's Star it was announced that plans were well under way for the first Grand Charity Ball of the local lodge. Tickets have been distributed to members representative of all sections of the town and Winchester people will be given ample opportunity to assist in bringing the affair to a most successful conclusion.

If one is to judge by the enthusiastic response shown by the townspeople who have already been approached to help in the good work it is a certainty that the First Charity Ball of Winchester Lodge will be a memorable one in every way.

The Ticket Committee, any one of whom will be glad to supply you with tickets is comprised of the following:

Help the Elks! Help Winchester!

Lindsey H. Ayer of Water street reported to the police that as he was driving up the Parkway Sunday morning at two o'clock in his Ford speeder, his auto overturned in avoiding a collision with a car driven by Thomas Davidson of Lowell. No one was hurt.

EDWARD STANLEY FOSTER

The friends of Edward Stanley Foster who have known and loved him from his early years to the time of his recent passing out of his earthly life, are glad to bear in mind the grace and sweetness of his boyhood and young manhood and the beauty of his later years.

Although the youngest of four sons, it was to him that his mother turned, while he was still a boy, for counsel in her perplexities and helpful sympathy in her troubles. By her own testimony, given many times, he never failed her. His strength was hers to lean upon.

We remember him as a boy of a natural religious instinct which found its expression in a life of singular uprightness and purity and in a joyful interest in the little struggling church of the community. He was always in his place, eager to help and to give of his very best for its life. For many years he played the little organ, giving freely of his natural musical talent. One of our happiest memories of him is of his earnest, boyish face as he sat playing, feeling his responsibility for the beauty of the service.

We remember him as a very young man going out into the world to make his way with neither help nor influence, but with a courageous heart and high ideals. Those were hard years, but his motive power was his desire to help and to make easier the lives of those he loved and he counted nothing as hardship that brought that desire to fulfillment. Wherever he went men found him earnest, unselfish, honest and kindly. His religion was real and deep, simple, without cant or hypocrisy. It was a part of himself which was born with him and which deepened with his years.

We love to think of the joy and happiness that later came to him in his home; of his love and tenderness to his wife and children; of what that home meant with its wide-flung doors, and warm welcome to any who needed help or encouragement. The growing cares and responsibilities never dimmed his joy in sharing with others all that was his. He gave of himself unspareingly—of his time and his strength, of his sympathy and charity, of his cheerful readiness to serve wherever he saw the need.

We sorrowed with him when he experienced the great tragedy of the swift and sudden death of his only son. His heart was torn with grief but his head was raised in triumphant faith, his spirit strong and serene.

We stood by his side when the greater tragedy came upon him, when the thick cloud of calumny spread, when those whom he loved and called friends fell away from him and left him standing all but deserted and alone. But neither evil tongues, rash judgments nor the sneers of selfish men could quench the light that was in him. A light that has never failed nor grown dim in a half century of right living, is too strong to be quenched by any darkness of destruction.

He met this darkness with gentleness and patience, without bitterness or complaining. His heart was broken, but it poured forth love and not hate. He has taught us that an affliction nobly borne opens and discovers to us the very truth of God. We, his friends, send our word in his honor:

"Well to suffer is divine:
Pass the watershed down the line,
Pass the counterpane 'Endure,'
Not to him who really dares,
But to him who nobly bears
Is the victor's garland sure."

HOW DIAMONDS ARE MINED

A "rush" such as frontier America knew in its free-land days, but in this case to peg out claims in a newly discovered diamond field was mentioned in recent dispatches from South Africa. This new diamond country opens up possibilities of a rival to the great Kimberly diamond field in the same general region, the world's greatest source of the sparkling white gems.

The methods of mining diamonds at Kimberly, which may be followed in the new fields if the formation proves the same, are outlined in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Like Needle in Haystack

The mines at Kimberly, says the bulletin, are in very ancient volcanoes which ages ago lost all semblance of activity. But during their youth the great heat and pressure of these volcanoes created gigantic laboratories in their depths in which thousands of the hard white carbon crystals, which are diamonds, were created. The precious little lumps are embedded in a great volume of worthless rock known as "blue ground," and under conditions were as hard to find as the proverbial needle in a haystack. But just as a clever searcher could probably locate his needle with a powerful magnet, despite the straw, so engineers have evolved mechanical means cleverly to separate the few tiny diamonds from the many tons of dirt in which they are hidden.

The effectiveness with which nature has concealed the crystals is evidenced by the fact that the "blue ground" brought up from the depths of the mines and carrying its priceless gems, is spread out in the open for four months to a year to the weather. The diamonds are perfectly safe, for officials who have walked over the weathering "floors" for many years assert that they have never found a diamond in this way. As the "blue ground" weathers it crumbles, and great harrows like those used on the bonanza farms of the West are dragged over it to facilitate the process.

Gems Trapped in Grease

Eventually the material is broken down into relatively fine particles. It is then taken in truck-loads to the mechanical plant of the mine for treatment. The ground is mixed with water in great mixing machines and passed over screens of fine wire meshing.

When as much as possible of the foreign material has been removed in this way the coarse residue, containing the diamonds, is passed over sloping, vibrating tables covered with thick grease. Because of some little understood physical property, diamonds stick to the grease while the worthless material flows over the edge of the tables. The grease with its load of crystals is then scraped into a perforated container and heated by steam. The grease melts away and leaves the small but valuable object of these months of work.

How widely spaced the diamonds are in their matrix of earth can be shown best perhaps by a comparison of volumes. The earth taken out in a year by the largest mining company in the field, would form a cube more than 430 feet in each dimension. This would fill a large city block to a height of more than thirty stories. The diamonds found in this vast amount of earth would fill only two or three desk drawers or a cubical box less than three feet in each dimension. But these few pecks of stones for which a mountain was moved were worth perhaps in excess of $25,000,000.

Laborers Voluntary Exiles

One of the most striking features of the mining of diamonds by the large companies in Kimberly is the existence of the unique labor compounds. Since diamonds are so easily stolen, only those native laborers are employed who will agree to "enlist" for at least three months and remain for that period, (when not in the mines, or on the "floors") within a walled enclosure. In the largest compound, covering more than four acres, 3000 men live. Not only are these compounds surrounded by high walls, but they are also covered overhead by fine wire netting so that diamonds cannot be thrown outside to confederates.

Laborers entering or leaving a compound must go through a procedure not unlike that when entering a foreign country having strict immigration and customs laws. They must pass a health examination and if diseased are rejected or placed in quarantine. Only certain articles may be taken into a compound, and no boots, shoes or other hard or solid materials may be taken out—only clothing which has been searched. In the largest of the compounds, where some laborers have chosen to stay for years, are stores, a church, a school, a hospital and dispensary, athletic grounds and a swimming pool. The manager of the compound is a sort of mayor and judge rolled into one and is called upon to decide innumerable disputes.

Mr. Harry E. Stephens of Brintree, who was buried Saturday in Wildwood Cemetery, was formerly well known in Winchester, he residing for several years on Woodside road. The funeral services were held at the home of his brother in Woburn, who survives him, together with his wife.

Up to the outbreak of hostilities with Great Britain the postal service of the Colonies was in a primitive stage, but such as it was, due largely to the genius of Franklin, it was of the utmost value in uniting the colonies and enabling them later to organize the Revolution. At the beginning of the struggle for independence there were two rival postal systems—the British or "parliamentary" post office, and the "constitutional" post office. The latter was the outgrowth of the need for independent and secret means of communication among the leaders in the agitation against British control.

Every school boy and girl is acquainted with the name of Paul Revere, made famous by Longfellow in his "Tales of a Wayside Inn," but not many may know that he was a post rider for the Massachusetts patriots as early as 1773 and that his celebrated ride April 18th, 1775, was taken in the performance of his postal duties.

The growth of the postal system since the Revolution has been rapid. When Washington became President there was not much letter writing and mails were mostly carried on horseback with little regularity and no speed, so that news sent by mail almost became history by the time it reached the reader, but before the close of his second administration the number of postoffices, the miles of post roads and the amount of postal revenue had all increased more than five times.

At the outbreak of the second war with England, in 1812, mail service was in operation over more than 50,000 miles of post roads, but although the system had grown so rapidly, up to 1837 the principal means of conveying the mails was by stage-coach and a large part of the service was performed by post riders and in sulkeys. The zone system of postage was still in effect and the rates which were oppressively high were essentially the same as they had been when Benjamin Franklin was postmaster at Philadelphia, 100 years before. Envelopes were entirely unknown and a letter on two sheets of paper was a double letter on which double rates were charged. Postage stamps were unknown and postage was paid in cash. Nevertheless, with all handicaps of the dead past still adhering to the postal system a great extension and development of the service had taken place.

THE UNKNOWN SEA BOTTOM

Explorers and geographers who have been sighing for new lands to conquer may find their best field of endeavor, paradoxically, in the sea. Now that the United States Navy has perfected a device for measuring the depths of water by sound waves without going through the tedious process of lowering sounding-lines it should be possible to add greatly to the relatively little we know about the underwater portion of the earth. The importance of this little explored region is brought out in the following bulletin issued from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

When it is realized that nearly three-fourths of the surface of the globe consists of water it is rather remarkable how little we know of the vast surface of the solid sphere which lies under this screen of liquid. The greater portions of our continents are mapped even to the smallest details, and our harbors and the shallow waters closely off shore are fairly well charted; but once the edges of the continental shelves are passed the features of the sea bottom are represented only by a few somewhat vague contour lines laid down between rather infrequent points of soundings.

Not Sure of Greatest Depth

We know without doubt that the highest point on the earth is the peak of Mt. Everest which extends above sea-level for 29,002 feet—or 38 feet less than 5½ miles. On the other hand we can only speak of the deepest abyss "yet discovered" for one great pit, hidden in the depths of the ocean, has scarcely established its title to first place in recent years when it has been surpassed by a deeper one; and it can hardly be believed that the deepest of all has yet been discovered.

School children were taught a few years ago that the deepest depression in the earth's surface was near the Fiji Islands and that it was 30,133 feet deep. Since then "the deepest hole on earth" has been successively Kermadec Deep, northeast of New Zealand, 30,930 feet; Nero Deep, southeast of Guam, 31,616 feet; and the present holder of the record, Philippine Deep, east of the Philippine Islands, 32,089 feet. This greatest known depth therefore lies six miles and 409 feet below the surface of the sea.

Like Scratch on Billiard Ball

The greatest range vertically of the earth's surface is between the bottom of Philippine Deep and the top of Mt. Everest, a distance of approximately 11.6 miles. This seems a tremendous distance until it is compared with the diameter of the earth which, near the latitudes of these great physical features, is approximately 8000 miles. On a globe with a diameter of eight inches instead of 8000 miles, this maximum range of depressions and heights would be represented by a scratch little more than a hundredth of an inch deep. The smallest division on a household ruler is one-sixteenth of an inch. The scratch would be less than a fifth of such a division in depth. On a billiard ball one could hardly scratch lightly enough with a pin to represent the great Philippine Deep, and a few grains of talcum powder would stand for Mt. Everest. The smoothest orange that grows has much greater irregularities on its skin in proportion to its size than those given to the earth by all its peaks and valleys.

HEATHERBLOOM JUMPING
8 Feet 2 Inches

Dick Donnelly, holder of the world's record for high jumping, mounted on Heatherbloom and making 8 feet, 2 inches at his farm "Nettledown" at Marmaroneck, L. I. Donnelly made the world's record (official) of 8 feet, 2 inch in 1916 at the Syracuse State Fair riding Confidence, a Canadian bred horse. He is now in Winchester, the guest of Harry Good, proprietor of the Good Riding Stables. During his stay here the classes at the Good School are receiving jumping instruction from this noted horseman.

TWO PLATOON SYSTEM Finance Committee Makes Report on Act to be Voted on

To the Editor of the Star:
The voters of Winchester will have the opportunity of deciding on Tuesday, Nov. 7th, whether the town shall accept the "two platoon" system for the permanent men of the local fire department. The referendum question as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"Shall section fifty-nine of chapter two hundred and eighty of the laws, providing for the division into day and night forces of permanent members of fire departments, known as the two platoon system, be accepted?"

The present fire department consists of one chief, one deputy chief, one captain, nine permanent men, and 21 call men. The deputy chief and the captain have the same tour of duty as the men as far as time is concerned, making the permanent force consist of 11 men, all at the Central station.

These men are on duty for 24 hours a day and have a full 24 hours free one day in every five. In addition the men on 24-hour duty have three hours off each day for meals. They also have two weeks' vacation each year will full pay. Because of the one day off in every five, the force at the station consists of either eight or nine permanent men on duty. During the vacation period, which extends from June until November, there is one less man present during these months. For six hours each day the force at the station is cut in two, in order that each half may have an hour in which to eat.

The number of alarms of fire in the town for a year run from 120 to the largest number known of 174. During the year 1921 the department responded to 124 alarms. For this service the town paid in 1921 $30,021.68, $22,094.84 going for department salaries. Thus, the town paid over $242 for every run the apparatus made. The permanent men receive $1600 for their first year of service and $1825 a year thereafter. The call men who respond to all alarms, day or night, summer or winter, receive $150 a year. In this connection it is interesting to note that the absentees from the 21 call men do not average more than two or three for each alarm.

THE UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP

The Boston Post, as already stated, believes that the interests of the people of Boston and New England will be best promoted by the re-election of Henry Cabot Lodge to the United States Senatorship. The Post is an "Independent Democratic" newspaper, with the accent on the "independent." It places principle above party; and, while recognizing the right of its readers to think as they please, reserves the same right to itself. Whenever, in its opinion, the interests and prosperity of the public generally conflict with partisan or personal interests, it favors the public welfare.

Many very important questions will come up in Congress in the near future, vitally affecting the prosperity of this section of the country; and to secure the decision of these questions, in the reasonable interests of Massachusetts, will require the utmost influence that can be exerted. We of New England occupy the extreme Northeastern corner of this country and the trend of population and development is heavily against us. The great States of the West are not disposed to be over-generous in their dealings with New England interests, and only by utilizing to the utmost all of our influence can we secure a fair share of the country's future prosperity. The comparative lack of development of the port of Boston is a case in point. While other ports have been expanding their trade, Boston has been distinctly retreating. Even the Cunard Steamship Line, which has stood faithfully by this port since 1840, is now forced to consider the problem of abandoning or greatly reducing its service here, because of its inability to secure adequate cargoes. The railroad rate differentials are against us and we are struggling under a serious handicap in the competition for traffic. This is partially due to our geographical position, but it is also largely due to the fact that the gigantic West, and other influential sections of the country, are looking out for themselves and are backed up by the movement of population and the consequent shift of political power.

Nevertheless, it is generally recognized that the most influential member of Congress today is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. His influence comes from long experience and exceptional ability. Having such an influential member of the upper house at Washington, it is common sense on our part to deprive ourselves of his valuable services when needed?

"I give and bequeath to the Home for Little Wanderers in Boston; to the Moral Reform Society, being the Florence Crittenton Home, so-called, of which Julia M. Plummer is now the General Secretary; to the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association Incorporated; to the Barre Hospital, or the organization owning the general hospital in Barre in the State of Vermont; to the Home for Aged People in Winchester (meaning in Winchester, Massachusetts), each the sum of two thousand ($2,000) dollars."

WINCHESTER INSTITUTIONS BENEFIT

Remembered in the Will of the Late
Marshall W. Jones

The will of the late Marshall W. Jones has been filed for probate. Included in the bequests are two Winchester institutions, the eleventh item of the will, containing munificent public bequests being as follows:

"I give and bequeath to the Home for Little Wanderers in Boston; to the Moral Reform Society, being the Florence Crittenton Home, so-called, of which Julia M. Plummer is now the General Secretary; to the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association Incorporated; to the Barre Hospital, or the organization owning the general hospital in Barre in the State of Vermont; to the Home for Aged People in Winchester (meaning in Winchester, Massachusetts), each the sum of two thousand ($2,000) dollars."

McGONDEL—CONNOLLY

Miss Sarah J. Connolly, daughter of Mr. Bartholomew Connolly of Main street, and Mr. Charles McGondel, a well known Y. D. veteran of Middlesex street, were united in marriage at a nuptial mass at St. Mary's Church on Monday morning at 7:30 by Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt.

The couple were attended by Miss Angie Connolly, sister of the bride, and Mr. Timothy McKeering, cousin of the groom. Little Miss Mabel Foley, cousin of the bride, was a flower girl.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. William Keating, sister of the bride, Richardson street, Woburn, after the ceremony, which was attended by intimate friends and relatives. The residence was most attractive with flowers from the Sweetheart Shop and the young couple were most generously remembered with many handsome gifts, included among them a handsome banquet lamp from fellow employees of the bride at Randall's confectionery store.

The couple will enjoy their honeymoon in Nova Scotia, they leaving Monday on the 10 o'clock boat for St. Johns.

Edward H. Shannon of Boston, for overspeeding in Winchester, was fined $10, and for not having registration $5. Nazareno Augustinelli of Boston, for overspeeding in Winchester, was fined $10 in the Woburn court on Monday.

HENRY CABOT LODGE

We cast no reflection on Col. William A. Gaston, Democratic candidate for the Senatorship. He is a man of notable ability, public spirit and devotion to the welfare of his section. He is a gentleman above reproach, and no one can question his capacity or integrity. But he does not possess the Washington experience or influence of Senator Lodge, and it would be years before he could acquire it in the nature of things. And besides, we have one very able, alert, eloquent, and useful Democratic Senator in the Hon. David I. Walsh, who, working in harmony in many matters with Senator Lodge, makes up a remarkably strong team in the United States Senate. Were it a purely business question, no great business house would seriously consider setting Senator Lodge aside for an inexperienced man, however able and devoted personally.

The fact is that the old Bay State needs the continued services of Mr. Lodge in preference to those of anyone else available, and needs them badly. We have no doubt that very many Democrats of Massachusetts, as well as the vast majority of Republicans, realize this fact, and that at the November election she will take good care to retain them by a very emphatic majority. The Boston Post by no means agrees with Mr. Lodge on every public question; but this Senatorial matter must be decided on broad lines of the general welfare and prosperity of the people of Massachusetts.

PARTY AT SPOOKY POND

The annual Halloween Party of the M. E. Church will be held at Spooky Pond, North Reservoir, Saturday, October 28. All those living on the West side of the town or near the centre meet at the parsonage on Myrtle street at 5:30 p. m. sharp. Those living in the Highlands go directly to the pond, leaving in time to get there by 6:00. All desiring to go, dress warmly. If you intend to go, leave your name with Dorothy Bradshaw, 192 Highland avenue not later than Saturday morning.

FINE NEW OFFICE OF EDWARD T. HARRINGTON CO.

We present above a sketch of the new offices of the Edward T. Harrington Co., real estate and insurance brokers, now in process of erection on Church street adjoining the building of the Winchester Trust Co. The building will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. The outside construction is of tapestry brick with a green tile roof and white trim. It will contain the last word in furnishings and equipment, the interior having a large reception room with open fire place, director's room and a suite of offices for the Winchester manager, Mr. Loring P. Gleason. Work on the new building is progressing rapidly.

AUTOS IN THE FELS

Chance to View Our Reservoirs Next Week Saturday

Last year, when the Massachusetts Planning Boards met in Winchester and enjoyed an auto ride through the town, the wish was expressed by many residents that they too might be privileged to ride through the Fells and see our reservoirs and water supply, and note the important improvements and changes which our Water Board is carrying out.

This wish is to be granted, and on Saturday of next week, Nov. 4th, all residents who desire to do so, may be privileged to drive their cars through the Fells and around the reservoirs. Special permission has been secured for this trip from the Metropolitan Park Commission.

Announcement is made this week that all who desire to make this trip must meet at the Town Hall on the afternoon of Nov. 5th at 3 o'clock. Owing to the narrow roads in the Fells it will be necessary that all cars be kept in line, the route having been mapped out by the Water Board, whose members will lead the line.

Our Water Board has made many improvements at the reservoirs during its term of office, all of which will prove of great interest to Winchester residents. We enjoy an ample and exceptionally pure supply of water, due in no small degree to their untiring efforts. Their energy and activity in arranging for this trip will be appreciated by all.

DON'T MISS THIS TO-DAY

Bi-Partisan Rally at Small Town Hall today, Oct. 27, 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. Speakers from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Auspices of the Winchester Branch of the League of Women Voters.

How can you vote wisely unless you study both sides of the question? The value of Democracy is destroyed by careless voting.

The measures in the coming referendum are vital to you. Do we need the two platoon system? If so, we want it; if it is an extravagance we do not want it. From a member of our Fire Department and from a member of our Finance Committee you shall hear both sides stated.

That legislation affecting Labor and Labor Unions touches us personally we know keenly from our present coal situation. How about the coming referendum concerning Labor Unions?

And shouldn't a district attorney be a lawyer? But there are five referenda in all. Do you know the others? They are very widely important. Nothing is more disastrous to good government than ignorant voting on referenda. Ask questions this afternoon at the information booths. Printed political information will also be available there.

Both sides of every question will be presented by speakers from Republican and from Democratic Headquarters. Among them are Mrs. Colin MacDonald, Democrat, and Mrs. Schulman, Republican, the latter having engaged particularly to speak on "The A. B. C. of the Referenda."

Mr. Arthur K. Reading and Mr. James Riley will present their qualifications for district attorney of Middlesex County.

The reception to follow the speaking will transform an instructive afternoon into a pleasant social occasion. If you cannot be there to hear the speakers, drop in at any time.

JUVENILE JAMROREE

Masons, Eastern Stars and Shooting Stars, attention!

On Friday, Nov. 3, at 3:30 P. M., a Juvenile Jamroree will be held at Masonic Hall. Mr. Taylor will entertain with his magic and his delightful Punch and Judy show, and Jean Muir will tell some unusual stories.

All Shooting Stars, that is, children of Masons and of members of the Eastern Star between the ages of four and twelve, are most cordially invited.

SCHOOL CASES SETTLED

Five Residents Found Guilty and Fined $5 Each

The conclusion of an all-day session at the Woburn court last Friday found five of the colored residents charged with refusing to send their children to the Chapin School, judged guilty of keeping their children from school and fined $5 each. The sixth case, that of Rev. William Smith, was discharged, it being shown that the children of which he had custody were not his children, nor was he appointed their legal guardian, therefore he was not guilty according to the statute. The five residents who were fined were Esau Green, William Robinson, Charles Smith, George Jackson and Charles B. Kirby.

The trial came as the result of these residents refusing to send their children to the Chapin School after having previously sent them to the Washington School. This year the section in which they live was redistricted and included in the Chapin School territory. The residents claimed discrimination, to which the School Committee replied that crowded conditions at the Washington School made the change necessary. This was denied by the colored people. The fact that they were not notified of the change also added to their dissatisfaction. Following the refusal of teachers at the Washington School to accept their children at that school, they refused to send them to the Chapin.

The case was taken into court after various hearings and conferences between the School Committee and residents upon the initiative of the Committee, which instructed Truant Officer Nathaniel M. Nichols to swear out warrants against the parents. The case had dragged along for several weeks in the court, two adjournments being granted to allow the two parties to get together and settle the argument.

Attorney William H. Lewis represented the parents and Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter of the School Committee conducted the case for the Commonwealth. The issue was narrowed down at the start to the simple charge that the parents had refused to send their children to school, the question of distance, conditions, etc., being eliminated, as the School Committee without question contained the right to send any children to any school it pleased.

Although this feature of the case was eliminated, there was no disposition on the part of the School Committee to exclude it in the testimony, and much of the time consumed was used in explanations on one side and charges on the other as applied to the distance between the schools, conditions of travel, race discrimination, etc.

The School Committee, it developed, has made changes all over town in its school districts, probably in good faith, but possibly unwisely handled. No evidence of race discrimination could be found. Although the arguments were extended, nothing along this line influenced the case, as it was only a question of keeping children out of school.

Truant Officer Nichols testified that the children had not attended school and Superintendent of Schools Fahey testified regarding the redistricting. A fine of $5 was imposed and the defendants appealed, they being released on personal cognizance.

The defendants will not send their children to the Chapin School, but it is reported that they will send them to a private school beginning next Monday. Whether the case will come up on the appeal next month at East Cambridge is in question.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE

The first meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held at the home of Mrs. John Abbott Rabbi Harry Levi spoke with great impressiveness of the problems of Jewish immigrant girls, and of the difficulties attendant upon their forsaking their old faith and trying to adjust themselves to new-world conditions. The constant struggle between immigrant parents and their children was touchingly presented. Dr. Chidley spoke briefly of the work of the League and urged the members to respond loyally to the demands for service.

After the meeting adjourned tea was served, at which Mrs. William Palmer and Mrs. Frederick Snyder poured.

WINCHESTER REPUBLICAN WOMEN HOLD SUCCESSFUL MEETING

The general verdict of those who attended the Educational Mass meeting at the Town Hall, Tuesday evening was that the opportunity for voters to secure useful information far exceeded even the announcement given.

The principle difficulty, like that at a Thanksgiving dinner in the country, was the inability to carry away as much as one wished.

Any one of the four speakers, chosen because of their special fitness for their various tasks, might well have filled the evening with the subject assigned, but, as the chairman, Mrs. Woodside, announced, the purpose was not exhaustive treatment of these subjects, but rather the distribution of samples of information in the hope that those who were interested would go looking for more.

The subject, election laws, or, in other words, "The Rules of the Game," was covered by Mr. Wm. L. Parsons, The Powers and Duties of Senator, and some of the higher offices, by Senator Lewis Parkhurst; the five Referenda and some of the minor offices, by ex-representative Wm. A. Kneeland, and Recent Impressions in Turkey, by Rev. Howard J. Chidley.

Every speaker held the closest attention of the audience, which was unusually large for a purely educational purpose.

The music by the Winchester Laundries Orchestra, with Mrs. French at the piano, was a most delightful surprise to all who had not previously heard this skilful combination of players.

RECEPTION FOR MISS DAVIS

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Winchester firemen are doing their bit for the High School by repairing various toys and games for the sale which the Education Committee will hold shortly before Christmas. No one who knows our firemen is surprised to learn Chief DeCourcey say that his men are showing much ingenuity and enthusiasm about this work. Plans for the sale are progressing, but more toys will be welcome. It has also been decided to make a feature of children's used books as well as games and toys. A few were collected through the drive in the schools, but the committee think that they can sell as many as are donated. Will any one who has children's books to dispose of, please call Dr. Mary Y. Maynard (Win. 313-M) or any of her committee?

Monday afternoon marked the first regular meeting of the Fortnightly for the season. The program was one of special interest to the large number of members and guests assembled.

Mrs. F. S. Scales gave an account of the business meeting of the Annual Convention of the Mass. State Federation of Women's Clubs held at New Bedford in May. She said that the Soldier Welfare work of the Fortnightly was highly spoken of at the convention.

Mrs. S. Emma Cole continued the report giving bright bits of anecdote and adventure which occurred during the closing festivities.

President, Mrs. Hildreth, then gave biennial notes of the General Federation of Women's Clubs held at Chautauqua in the summer. She gave a graphic picture of Chautauqua and outlined the program of a typical day, every moment of which was intensely full. Mrs. Hildreth gave interesting summaries of the addresses of prominent speakers, among them Count Tolstoy, who spoke upon the evils of Bolshevism in Russia and Mr. Will Hays who said that the aim of the motion picture industry was to procure the highest possible standard for motion pictures.

The music by the Harvard Double Quartet, which followed was a decided treat as was shown by the hearty applause of the audience. Their program consisted of a group of songs of the 16th century, deep, measured and ecclesiastical in tone; a group of English madrigals of the 17th century with their characteristic lilt; and a group of later compositions by Mendelssohn, Haydn and Foote. Mr. N. W. Woolson, Rubenstein's "Azra" in a rich, full bass, with Mr. V. Thompson at the piano, Mr. F. C. Whitten, baritone sang "Mr. Dear" which was enthusiastically received. The leader, Mr. Joseph W. Sautner, rendered two tenor solos, "Do Not Go My Love" by Hagmar, and "At Dawning," by Calman, which were keenly appreciated. Smug gay little folk songs concluded the afternoon's entertainment.

Dear Mainam Club President:

This is an emergency call. Tuesday, Nov. 7 is Election Day. It is the sacred duty and the privilege of every woman whose citizenship means patriotism to vote on that day. It is the duty of each club woman to cast her ballot in the party of her choice. Please do everything in your power to secure a full vote from the women of your club. We urge you to compile definite records as to the number of your club women who vote Nov. 7, as this is information desperately needed. Send percentage of those voting to General Federation Chairman of Citizenship by Dec. 1, that due publicity may be given the figures.

Feeling sure you will rally to this call, we are Ever faithfully yours,

WINCHESTER TOPS MELROSE

By Harry Price

Winchester won her third straight league game, this season, by defeating Melrose 41 to 0 on Saturday afternoon. In spite of the many college football games which were being played in the city, a crowd of well over 1500 people were present. The spirit of the Winchester fans was far superior to any that has been exhibited in town for years, and there is no doubt that the citizens as well as the students of the High School are behind a winning team this season.

Winer received the Melrose kickoff and by a remarkable bit of open field running, he sped 50 yards before he was stopped on the opponent's 30-yard line. French tallied 15 yards. Kendrick 10, and Winer slipped off tackle for the remaining five and crossed for the first touchdown, scored in exactly three plays. Fitzgerald scored the extra point with one of his drop-kicks.

Melrose received and was forced to kick on the third down. French ran it back in a spectacular manner to the 20-yard line. Then in four plays he and Winer crossed for the second touchdown. Fitzgerald again added the extra point. Thus in the first seven minutes of play Winchester had scored 14 points. Melrose then proved that she had some fighting spirit by holding the local boys for the remainder of the half. The ball changed hands many times in the second period due to the frequent interception of forward passes by both teams and two fumbles by Melrose. It was in this period that the visitors seemed best but even then they never looked dangerous, for at no time were they within 40 yards of Winchester's goal.

Melrose received the ball at the opening of the second half, but were again forced to kick when on their own 40-yard line. French rushed it back to the 40-yard mark, McNeilly grabbed it forward for 10, French a second for 15, Kendrick smashed through guard for eight and Winer crossed for the third touchdown. Fitzgerald with unfailing accuracy dropped-kicked for the extra point.

The fourth touchdown was almost a repetition of the third. Melrose was held after receiving, and kicked. French started back and with the assistance of the wonderful interference offered by Kelly, Winer and Kendrick, he passed through 10 of the Melrose team, but was dropped by Harrington on the 30-yard mark. Winer bored through for 15, French for five and Kendrick crossed, while Fitzgerald unfortunately missed his try for the extra point. The third period ended with the ball in Melrose's possession on their own 40-yard line. They kicked and French was stopped on his return at the 50-yard mark. Winchester was penalized and when it looked as though they would have to kick, Kendrick uncorked one of his speedy forwards to Mason, who was dodging the Melrose backs, scooted 40 yards for the fifth touchdown. The dropping of Fitzgerald again proved the factor in adding the extra point.

Melrose received the kick-off and was stopped within their own 30-yard line. Losing five yards by penalty they kicked to French and it was Winchester's ball with 50 to go. An incomplete forward and a penalty forced Winer to kick. It was blocked and Winer recovering his own kick reached the 30-yard mark before being fumbled. Tansey, who had replaced French, made 10 through tackle. Winer added another 10, Kendrick five, and Winer crossed for the sixth and final touchdown of the game. Fitzgerald dropped-kicked the extra point.

The brilliant playing of "Art" French and "Abie" Winer is certainly exceptional for players of their age. French's open field running is truly remarkable, while Winer's consistency at gaining through the line is unsurpassed in the league. The dependability of Kendrick and Kelly adds greatly to the moral as well as the physical support of the team. To name the stars of line play would be a difficult task and to say that every man in Winchester's line played a real game of football for Winchester is to speak the truth. "Jimmy" Fitzgerald's reliability as a drop-kicker is a by-word of the side lines and he is expected to get it over almost as a matter of course.

WINCHESTER HIGH BOYS OUT-SCORE MELROSE 41 TO 0

Coach Bond's football men again showed their followers some real football last Saturday afternoon when they defeated Melrose High School by the score of 41 to 0. Melrose came to Winchester with high expectations and with what they considered the best football material which their school has had for a number of years. The Winchester boys won not because Melrose was a small and poorly coached team but rather in spite of the fact that Melrose was heavier and expected to win by at least two touchdowns. Winchester won because the boys showed the best of fighting spirit and also because the team had the plays with which to dazzle completely the visitors' defense.

Melrose kicked off and Winchester received the ball on the 33 yard line. Kendrick ran back the kick-off about 10 yards and from there French took the ball for a 50 yard run around the end for a touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal. Melrose next received. They lost the ball to Winchester on a fumble. Kendrick made 15 yards around the end. A Winchester pass was intercepted. Melrose was forced to punt. Mason caught a pass and made a gain of 20 yards. Winchester advanced the ball to Melrose's 40-yard line where Fitzgerald tried a drop kick. His aim was true but the ball fell short. The ball was brought out to the 20 yard line and Melrose punted. Winchester took the ball at midfield and by line plunges advanced the ball to the 12 yard line from which spot Winer took it over for the second touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal. Winchester kicked off to Melrose and the ball was run back about seven yards. Melrose was forced to punt. Winchester received the ball on the 50 yard line. Winchester lost the ball in a fumble. Melrose failed to gain and punted. Winer ran the ball back for a touchdown, but Winchester was offside so the ball was brought back. At this point French hurt his ankle and was replaced by Tansey.

Winer took the ball and advanced it 20 yards. Tansey made 10 yards off tackle. Melrose for the first time during the game held Winchester for three downs and Winchester was forced to punt. Winer's kick was blocked and the ball went to Melrose. Melly intercepted a pass and was downed in his tracks. Mason received a forward pass from Kendrick and made 18 yards. Melrose intercepted a Winchester forward pass and ran it back 15 yards.

At the beginning of the second half Melrose kicked off to Winchester. French received and carried the ball back 25 yards. Kendrick made 20 yards off tackle. Winer went through the line for 15 yards and a touchdown. Fitzgerald missed the goal. Winchester kicked off to Melrose. Melrose received on the 40 yard line and ran back 10 yards. On the next play Melrose was given a five yard penalty and first down because Winchester was off side. Harrington of Melrose went 12 yards off Winchester's tackle. Shattuck caught a pass and went 18 yards. Melrose was off side in the next play. A drop was tried but failed. The ball went to Winchester on the 20 yard line. French made 15 yards off tackle, and on the following play made 9 more yards. Kendrick made 15 yards off tackle. End of the third period.

The fourth period opened with the ball in the possession of Winchester on the Melrose 30 yard line. By a steady march down the field Winchester took the ball to the 8 yard line. Winer took the ball over for a touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal. Melrose kicked off to Winchester. The ball was run back 8 yards. French went 40 yards, and then by short gains the ball was advanced to about the 7 yard line where Kendrick took it and went over for another touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal. Melrose received and failing to gain punted. After two plays a short forward pass, Kendrick to Mason, was successful and Mason proceeded to make one of the best runs of the game. He reversed his field beautifully and took the ball 60 yards for the last touchdown. Fitzgerald kicked the goal.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Mason played a very good game at end. His handling of forward passes was one of the features of the game while his run for a touchdown was excellent.

The backfield played so well as a unit that one must say that they all starred.

Melrose was frequently thrown for losses by the fast charging Winchester forwards.

French and Winer continue to figure prominently in the account of the game.

Kendrick can certainly throw a pass in great shape.

Melly gives his opposing center a chance to find out that he has been in a football game. This is Melly's first year in football. We wonder what he could do if it was his fourth year.

Francis Tansey is showing in every game that he is of first team calibre. With two years of High School before him he should keep the name of Tansey before the public.

YOUNG PEOPLES' SOCIETY GIVES HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young Peoples' Society of the First Congregational Church gave an informal Halloween party in the vestry of the church, on last Saturday evening. Dr. Chidley and Miss Stickney acted as matrons, and the committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Marion Henderson and Henry Chapman. About forty persons attended.

The usual Halloween games were played, such as ducking for apples, and biting at doughnuts. Dr. Chidley, Mr. Caldwell and Miss Stickney entertained with a few "Around the Fire" stories. The party ended at ten-thirty after the entire gathering had enjoyed the singing of some old favorites, in chorus.

K. OF C. AUTUMN FESTIVAL

The plan for the Autumn Festival are now nearly completed and as they now appear it is sure to be a great success. The Committee has booked a great many features and where they are worked into the program it will make the affair very pleasing to those in attendance. A few of the features are a player-piano, which sings and plays at the same time, this being the second one to be seen in public in the U. S. The Moxie Company will have their servers on hand to find the Moxie Girl to pair up with Our Moxie Boy. A radio-concert will be heard each evening from a Radio which is capable of hearing messages from London. These are only a few and many more will be announced later.

The Dance and Entertainment which was conducted by the Dance Committee last Monday evening went over big and a large crowd went on hand in spite of the stormy weather. Mr. James Madden of South Boston had his audience in an uproar for a half hour with his witty Irish stories and his character sketch of the popular song entitled, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shaw."

Prof. Taylor of Chicago certainly lived up to his reputation as Houdini's only rival and the boys are still talking about his wonderful tricks with cords.

Armsby Court, making his first appearance in his home town gave a masterful exhibition of acrobatic eccentric dancing and responded to encore after encore.

Mr. John Estes, the noted singer from the Irving Berlin Music Co., sang the popular song hits and received a great reception from his listeners.

Miss Alice Lawlor and Mr. Lawrence Kean were the lucky couple in the elimination contest.

SCHOOL NOTES

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 19, the parents of students who had received efficiency reports were invited to meet the High School faculty. Many took advantage of the opportunity. "I was glad to have a definite time set," said one mother, "when I could come without fear of interrupting the regular routine." In general, both parents and teachers feel that this meeting led to a better mutual understanding and that they can now work more wisely for the interests of the children.

Friday morning the freshmen and sophomores elected their class officers. As with the upper classes, the Australian ballot system was used, and the entire procedure was modeled upon that of town elections.

The results of the balloting follow:

Sophomore Class
President—Frank Black
Vice-president—Constance Williams
Secretary—Charlotte Webster
Treasurer—Richard Barnard
Freshman Class
President—Kilbuck Barrows
Vice-president—Henry Mitchell
Secretary—Eather Hollins
Treasurer—Mitchell Putnam

Following a custom of recent years, the Fortnightly class invited students of the senior and junior classes to attend the Fortnightly meetings of Oct. 23, Dec. 11, and Jan. 22. Practically all the girls of these classes have responded to the invitation and have applied for tickets. Many were present Monday and enjoyed very much the delightful program furnished by the Harvard double quartet.

The assembly period Tuesday morning was devoted to a rally for the Recorder. Mr. Chapman, editor of the Recorder, was the first speaker. He outlined proposed changes in the magazine, referred to the fact that the Recorder has not yet been authorized by the Board of Trade to secure Winchester advertisements, and emphasized the exceptional need of 100 per cent subscription in the school. Appeals for support were also made by Mr. Ryan and Mr. Bensholm. Music was furnished by Winifred Vayo, Gwendolyn Maddocks, Fred Cole, Edgar Taylor and Francis Coakley. Many students paid their subscriptions during the rally, but more immediate financial support is requisite to ensure the Recorder a successful year.

Mr. Paul V. Donovan will address the school next Tuesday morning in assembly period on the Junior Red Cross. Mr. Donovan is supervisor of this work in the Boston schools.

CADILLAC

A woman's confidence in her Cadillac is reflected in her deep peace of mind.

She approaches the car each day absolutely certain that it is the same ready and reliable
Cadillac it was the day before.

The beauty, the comfort, the unparalleled gliding smoothness of the Cadillac will ever rank high in appreciation of the owner.

But I believe these traits are surpassed in her esteem and their own charm heightened, by her car's sure reliability.

Through arrangement with the Harvard authorities, all Harvard Football Games at the Stadium will be broadcasted by AMRAD. FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

The first regular meeting of the Winchester Circle was held at the home of Mrs. John B. Abbott, Oct. 19. About 70 members were present. Sixteen new members have been recently added, making the total to date 244.

A bazaar in aid of the home will be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Nov. 15 and 16. This circle will have charge of the toy and doll table. They will also have a table at the Atlantic City Board Walk to be held at Mechanics Hall, Dec. 9.

The league already owns land in Allston, in which it is proposed to erect a new home, for which there is great need. Quite a large sum of money still remains to be raised, and the members hope that concerted individual effort will accomplish this.

Remarks were made by Dr. Chidley and by Miss Margaret Pierson, educational secretary of the league. The speaker of the afternoon was Rabbi Harry Levi of Temple Israel. His subject was "The Problems of the Jewish Immigrant Girl."

He called attention to the fact that there is less crime and illiteracy among the immigrants, than among the native born, and that, generally speaking, the immigrant girl is not immoral. Where this condition exists, it is found to be among those of the second generation, brought about, in his opinion, largely by poverty, which is always found in crowded parts of large cities.

Tea was served by the social committee. Mrs. W. I. Palmer and Mrs. Frederick Snyder poured.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LUNCHEON

There was an attendance of about 75 merchants and guests at the October luncheon of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, held Tuesday noon in Lyceum Hall. This was the second affair of its kind under the management of President Edmund C. Sanderson, and it proved fully as popular and enjoyable as its predecessor. The luncheon was held at 12 noon, a substantial and pleasing menu satisfying all. Following the luncheon a talk, with stereopticon pictures, on "The Power and Service Behind the Light" was given by Mr. Le Rue Vredenburg, assistant to the general manager of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company. Mr. Vredenburg gave an interesting talk on the growth and resources of the Edison Company, his remarks being illustrated by pictures of the company's plants, sub-stations and various departments in its system. Altogether the hour and a half consumed by the entire program was very enjoyable. President Sanderson announced at the conclusion another meeting of the Chamber next month.

HEARING ON RIDGE STREET

Upon the petition of Mr. Thomas H. Vinson and other residents, a hearing on the rebuilding of Ridge street in the west side hills was held at the Town Hall before the County Commissioners on Monday afternoon. The petition called for the building of a 70-foot roadway. The Commissioners will report in the matter later.

FORDS REDUCED IN PRICE

According to a statement just issued by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, a general reduction of $50 a car has been made in the prices of Ford model "T" cars and the Ford one-ton truck, effective Oct. 17th.

"The revision in prices," said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our company has enjoyed during the present year, and also, to the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody."

"Our production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 3000 cars and trucks, which means a complete Ford car or truck every 5 1/2 seconds of each eight-hour day. It is in anticipation of this continued demand that price adjustments are again being made in order to keep in effect the policy of selling Ford products at the lowest prices consistent with quality."

"Quality, as usual," said Mr. Ford "will continue to be a prime consideration in the building of Ford cars. As our business has increased we have consistently increased our equipment and manufacturing facilities, so that this price reduction merely reflects the progressive methods which come as a result of increased volume."

"This reduction, which is the sixth since March, 1920, brings the price of the Ford touring car from $575, the price in effect early in 1920, to the present extremely low level of $298, which is nearly 50 per cent less. Corresponding reductions have been made on all other types."

The new prices by types follows:

Touring	$500
Runabout	$269
Chassis	$298
Coupe	$380
Sedan	$530
Truck	$395

AMERICAN LEGION MINSTRELS

Winchester Post of the American Legion has already begun rehearsals for the biggest and best minstrel show to be staged Jan. 18th and 19th, 1923, in the Town Hall.

Rehearsals will be held every Tuesday and Friday at 7:30 in the Lexington House. There was a good turnout but we need many more girls in the show, and so are issuing this public appeal to the actresses of the town. The cast calls for about 50 girls, and the Post hopes that all girls in Winchester, with the welfare of the Legion in their minds, will come to the House this Friday night, so that the conductor of the show will be able to assign parts to them, as best benefits their talents.

The male parts in the show are not filled entirely as yet, and we members of the Legion hope that all former service men will report this evening at the Lexington House.

Here is an opportunity to show the residents of the town some of the spirit that carried the Stars and Stripes to victory in the troublesome days of '17 and '18.

Tonight is the night. 7:30 is the time. American Legion House is the place.

SEVERE STORM

Following a spell of warm weather, Winchester was visited by a thunder storm, or rather a succession of storms, on Monday evening, the down-pour being as severe as any during the summer months and accompanied by vivid lightning and heavy thunder. A wind of hurricane proportions added to the force of the rain, which flooded streets and washed out roads and gardens.

The rain started in the late afternoon in the shape of a light shower. Continuing intermittently until about seven, it increased in volume up to 10:30, at which time it came down in sheets, driven by the high wind with a force and fury which made it hard to even stand up against it.

The majority of the street drains were in good shape and took care of the flood of water, but surrounding places, including Woburn and Stoneham, suffered considerable. Whole streets being flooded nearly knee deep where the fallen leaves blocked the drains.

There were several cases about town of fallen wires, and a large part of the West side was in darkness for a period. Many street lamps were burned out also. Around 11:30 an alarm of fire was sounded from Box 411 for fallen wires on Main street at Elmwood avenue, but no damage resulted. Tuesday found clear and much colder weather, and repair gangs were busy all over town cleaning up and restoring service.

MR. LAWRENCE J. WINDE

Mr. Lawrence J. Winde, aged 49 years, residing at 19 Mt. Pleasant street, died at the Melrose Hospital on Monday of heart trouble. He was ill for only a fortnight.

Mr. Winde was born in Chelsea and was the son of the late Henry J. and Alice (Law) Winde. He had made his home in Winchester for the past two years since the death of his father. He was in the wholesale lumber business in the firm of H. J. Winde, founded by his father. He was for many years a resident of Melrose.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Lena (Bliss) Winde, a native of Berlin, Mass., and two sons, Ronald and Harry L. He also leaves one brother, Harry of Everett, Wash.

Funeral services were held at the residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church. The burial was in the family lot in Wildwood cemetery.

There was a large attendance at the installation of officers at Winchester Royal Arch Chapter Friday evening, the ceremony being preceded by a steak dinner. Rt. Ex. Martin J. Pleschinger installed the new officers, and an entertainment followed.

HEAR DR. CADMAN

To the Editor of the Star:

It has come to my attention that a surprisingly small number of people have so far signified their intention to hear Dr. Cadman speak at the Town Hall next Friday evening.

Inquiry as to the cause has brought the inquiry "who is he?" or the statement that a lecture by a clergyman is an uninteresting form of entertainment.

This attitude to me is most amazing. Around New York Dr. Cadman has been for years one of the most sought after speakers for dinners, meetings and functions of all kinds. This has been particularly true of Club and College Alumni gatherings. Announcement that Dr. Cadman would speak has instantaneously assured the success of any meeting for any cause. His popularity is not confined to New York and its vicinity. Other cities and towns have reported the same results.

Winchester is fortunate indeed in securing the opportunity to hear him. There is no chance of being bored. He does not lecture, he talks to you, and his talks are most interesting, entertaining, humorous and well worth while.

The cause for which this entertainment is being given is doubtless a worthy one. I am not speaking for the box office. A small house for one of the best speakers in the country would of course be humiliating and this concerns me not a little. But my real object in asking your indulgence is, if possible, to prevent any one from neglecting an opportunity which I am certain they would keenly regret.

Very truly yours,
N. S. Schroeder.

C. D. OF A.

The classes in dressmaking and millinery will open tonight in White's Hall with registration and a preliminary instruction upon the lessons which are to follow. Two very efficient teachers have been procured for a course of 10 lessons, Miss Katharine F. O'Connor for the millinery and Mrs. Helen Studley for the dressmaking class. The classes are open to members and friends and from all appearances, they promise to be mighty successful.

The Court's 12th annual Halloween Party will be held in Lyceum Hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 2, and bids fair to eclipse all earlier parties of this nature. There will be five prizes for the best costumes and the usual Halloween refreshments, cider, doughnuts, coffee and sandwiches. The future teller is a member of Court Regina of Malden and is considered a wonder in her line. Mrs. Arthur King will have charge of the ghost chamber and Misses Mary O'Melia and Mabel Keeley will guard the "Room of the Third Degree."

Rehearsals will commence in the very near future for the Christmas play, "Honey-moon Flats," to be staged by Mrs. Frances Conlon and Mrs. Helen Studley, the proceeds to be devoted to the Court's Christmas charitable work.

The meeting adjourned at 9 p. m.

Clerk of Selectmen.

WRECK ON CROSSING AVERTED

The Winchester centre crossing escaped another accident Saturday morning when one of the northern expresses, due here shortly before 8 o'clock, was stopped at the switch tower with the cowcatcher of the locomotive jammed in between the front wheels.

According to reports, the cowcatcher of the big locomotive, No. 3637, became detached in some manner and tipped forward, its toe striking the roadbed. The engineer of the train stopped his engine just before taking the switches at the north end of the crossing.

As it was, the locomotive was stopped just in the nick of time, for had it reached the switches the twisted mass of iron would have undoubtedly thrown the locomotive off the track as it passed through the centre, with disastrous results.

Inward trains were delayed during the morning hours, it taking considerable time to remove the twisted iron from the front of the locomotive.

Edward J. O'Brien of Winchester was fined $150 in the Malden District Court Wednesday for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and $10 for drunkenness. He appealed and furnished $500 bonds. O'Brien claimed Monday when his case came up that the car was operated by another man, but when the man appeared Wednesday and denied the charge, O'Brien said he misunderstood the question asked by the Judge, and said another man whose name he did not know was operating the car.

$1,441,486 A YEAR'S DISASTER RELIEF COST

Red Cross Aided 145,000 Victims in United States—Losses
Total $30,000,000.

Seventy-two disasters, with hundreds reported killed and injured, and more than 145,000 either homeless or requiring assistance, called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,441,486.30 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, according to a statement based on the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. The greatest toll of life was taken by hurricane and tornado, while the overwhelming of rivers, the breaking of dams and torrential rains drove the greatest number of people from their homes. The property loss was estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The year's disasters reported included twenty-six floods, nineteen tornadoes, fifteen fires, four epidemics, two theatre collapses, two shipwrecks (one an airship), and a bridge collapse, mine explosion, railway collision, and a drought. Of the floods in the United States that at San Antonio, Texas, caused the greatest property loss, $6,000,000 and the high mark of fatalities, 100, while the flood in the vicinity of Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., forced 31,000 persons from their homes.

A National Calamity

In the Red Cross disaster relief records there will probably remain for many years one calamity which touched nearly every state with a sense of horror and of loss. This was the distressing collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C., resulting in ninety-six deaths and 125 persons injured. Situated in the center of the beautiful Northwest residential section, this motion picture theatre was patronized by many persons of prominence both in the official and civil life of the National Capital, whose family and personal connections radiated out over the entire country. The horror was intensified by a terrible snowstorm which, though it retarded, did not block Red Cross relief.

Airship Crash Finds Aid at Hand

The crash and destruction of the U. S. Army's large airship Itasca in Virginia last February with the loss of 34 officers and men and 11 injured was the first disaster of its kind to call for Red Cross relief in this country. The suddenness of the accident tested the preparedness of the organization and of the chapter at Hampton, Va., but the response was immediate and relief furnished the survivors, also funds for the expenses of relatives of the dead, who came from long distances to claim their own.

In the year's averages record for aid rendered by the Red Cross are two fires in the Philippines, one in Manila, which destroyed 1,000 homes, with a loss of $1,500,000 and 5,000 persons made homeless, the other at Tonlo, which drove 3,000 from their dwellings. In medical relief that was quick and effective the smallpox epidemic in San Domingo, which had a total of 22,000 cases with 225 deaths in a single day, tested the readiness of the Red Cross for action, and the same can be said of the San Domingo hurricane, which killed 12 persons and reduced the homes of 182 persons to wreckage. A flood in San Salvador, with a death toll of 50 and 2,000 refugees, was also effectively handled by the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

Relief Machinery Perfected

The year has seen the further perfection of disaster relief administrative measures in every field of American Red Cross activity, and that the work may be carried on to still greater accomplishments the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during the annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from Armistice Day (November 11) to, and including, Thanksgiving Day (November 30).

Red Cross Roll Call Heard World Around

The Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross for registration of the membership for 1923 will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and close on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The ground work for this stupendous task of re-enrolling the membership throughout the world has been laid in a plan for the first complete and comprehensive system of registration of the Red Cross membership in all its 5,300 active chapters at home and abroad.

An important feature of the round-the-world Roll Call campaign will be a universal effort to re-enlist the service of war-time Red Cross workers in the peace program by their participation in the Roll Call. In this way the vast army of volunteers will once more affiliate with the work of the Red Cross in its manifold phases. Cooperation also has been assured by Government and private maritime interests in a deep-sea Roll Call that is designed to reach every member or potential member in every part of the world who may be en voyage or temporarily in any port.

Thousands of chapters will adopt the home canvass plan of enrollment which originated in Pittsburgh, where last year it resulted in a membership increase of 50 per cent. All records in this year's campaign will be kept on standard size cards to be filed by each chapter for future use.

Why Censorship?

To assume the need of motion picture censorship in Massachusetts is to assume that the public is indecent. Which we don't. Let us not forget that the salacious and the vulgar is but a phase and that, left to itself, public conscience always comes into operation effectively.

This conscience has undoubtedly made itself felt in the last year. Pictures have improved and the appointment of Will H. Hays to carry out further reforms within the industry is another healthy sign. Of Mr. Hays' sincerity there can be no question and he has already given tangible evidence that he can carry the work to a successful conclusion.

Why the need, then, of censorship by a single political appointee? It is a form of control that has proved utterly impracticable in those states which have tried it. Without being helpful to public morality it may well prove harmful in public interest. Censorship establishes a bureaucratic control of a form of expression of opinion. This is perilous business. Once instituted its extension to the press and pulpit is but inevitable.

The question comes up before the voters for decision in the November elections. A serious issue is involved—that of freedom of expression—and Referendum Question No. 3 should have a NO vote.

W. C. T. U.

At the regular meeting of the local Union last week, the members present spent the day in making all sorts and kinds of aprons for the Winchester Women's Club. The Italian Y. P. B. fair to be held Nov. 14 in Tremont Temple. While many aprons were made or planned, many more could be used and it is hoped that other members may be glad to contribute some to the table. They may be sent to the home of Mrs. Annie Blood, 8 Wedge Pond road. The Y. P. B. is doing excellent work in the North End of Boston where it has headquarters on Sheafe street. Hitherto the fairs have been held there, but this year an effort is being made to enlarge its field and draw a wider circle of friends into its activities.

As several members of the Union were in Hyannis at the State Convention but little business was transacted. To the great regret of the members Mrs. Adams announced her forthcoming departure for California where she and Mr. Adams will spend the winter at the ranch of their son, Walter Adams. She left early this week for that warmer clime.

Mrs. Ella A. Gleason, for four years president of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U., was chosen as honorary president of the organization when she retired from the active presidency. Mrs. Alice Ropes of Wollaston was elected in her place; Mrs. Laura Jones of Wellesley, vice president at large. The other officers remained the same, but Mrs. Jeannette Mann was made assistant recording secretary in place of Miss Jones.

Members of the Union are reminded that from this time on every white ribbon should be actively engaged in stirring up sentiment in favor of law enforcement. If you believe in prohibition, show your colors and do not forget to vote early and right. See that your neighbors vote also and encourage them to vote right. Now is the time for action.

RETIRING STATE PRESIDENT ELLA A. GLEASON HONORED

At the recent State convention of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held in Hyannis, the State president, Mrs. Ella Aldrich Gleason of Winchester, declining re-election, was made Honorary State President and presented with a brooch of 53 matched pearls in the form of a bow-knot, the emblem of the organization. In the center an amethyst. The amethyst esteemed, as the word implies, a preventive or antidote of drunkenness. There are only seven of these brooches in existence.

RED CROSS IN TIMES OF PEACE

M. C. W. G. WHIST

About a year ago the Winchester Red Cross ceased to be a Branch of the Metropolitan Division, and became a Chapter.

The existence of this chapter carries with it certain obligations and privileges. We share in the work of the National Red Cross and are sponsors for the success of our own chapter. Whether this chapter is going to amount to anything or not, depends entirely upon the interest and co-operation of the people of Winchester.

The work of the Red Cross goes on constantly. It often works under the handicap of insufficient funds and lack of active interest, and many times, in the face of the unjust criticism.

The Red Cross is fundamentally a civic, not a public institution. The distinction between the two, being the fact that it is maintained by public bequests, subscriptions, etc., and is not financially supported by the State. This in itself enables the work to go on without any of the interruptions which so often come when the State controls a large organization of any kind.

Last spring there was some question about continuing the Dental Clinic during the summer. Investigation showed that there were many Mothers who had been unable for various reasons, to attend the clinic during the school year. So it was decided to keep the clinic open. As a result many of the Mothers and young children under the school age were cared for, preventing many of the troubles that are caused by delay alone.

During drives, or at the time of Roll Call criticisms are often heard from various sources about the constant appeals that Red Cross seems to be making for money, in view of the fact that there is no actual need of the Red Cross at present. To those who know of the Home Service department alone, this criticism is unfair, to say the least. It also shows that the critic does not understand the facts of the case.

Experience has proved that the Red Cross gets better results through a local chapter than through a large divisional center, and does so with less expense.

One of the reasons that Red Cross is able to accomplish so much is that it does not shout from the house-tops what it has done or is doing. The private troubles of the individual are not given out for public discussion. Although, financially, much might be gained by the telling of "interesting cases" the Red Cross, in so doing would defeat its own ends, and destroy the confidence of those it has helped the most.

The expenditures for one month alone, of the past summer, show that nearly 75% of the money spent, was used for Home Service work, and so long as we have ex-service men and their families to be helped, in any way, there will be an actual need of the Red Cross.

Bearing these facts in mind we must recognize that if our Winchester Chapter is to be a success it must depend upon the true spirit of the "Greatest Mother of the All" and sincere community cooperation.

An invitation has been extended to the fire departments of suburban Boston who lent assistance at the great Boston fire in 1872 to take part in the celebration and parade on Nov. 9th in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the conflagration. Winchester was one of the places which sent apparatus to Boston at that time, and Chief DeCourcy has been asked to send in a piece of apparatus. It is very possible that Winchester will be represented by its Chief's car on the occasion.

An alarm of fire was sounded from Box 411, at the corner of Main street and Elmwood avenue, Tuesday afternoon for a small blaze around some back stairs outside the house at 15 Elmwood avenue. The fire was extinguished by a hand chemical without

A large gathering attended the Charity Whist given by Winchester Branch, M. C. W. G., Thursday night in the Winchester K. of C. Hall under the direction of Mrs. Mary J. Hall, assisted by Mrs. Susan L. Quigley and Mrs. Frances Sullivan.

The affair was a huge success both financially and socially, and the numerous beautiful prizes generally offered to the Guild whists, if anything, surpassed previous prizes. Mr. John Cullen won the boiled dinner, offered as first prize; Mr. Michael Quigley, the houliou lamp given away by subscription. Other whist prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. Bond, slippers; Mrs. F. Vally, girl's blouse; Henry Longfield, cut glass candlesticks; Mrs. Mary Golden, aluminum double boiler; Mrs. John Hanlon, tea-runner; Mrs. Felix Carr, cut glass candlesticks; Mrs. Welch, cut glass goblets; Mrs. M. Hannon, five pounds sugar; Mrs. Noble, coffee; Mary Hanlon, olive dish; Mrs. Catherine Callahan, silver ladle; M. McFeeley, mayonnaise set; Luke Glendon, fruit dish; Mrs. Hoban, vase; Mrs. Gertrude Nagle, cut glass dish; Mr. Fallon, cut glass vase; Marion Sullivan, towels; Mrs. Bowen, dish; Mrs. M. McNulty, sugar; Mrs. Henry Longfield, coffee; Mrs. Elizabeth Flaherty, card receiver and Winnie Joyce, coffee; Mrs. H. Flaherty won the bobby prize.

GEN. EDWARDS TO BE CHAIRMAN CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., has accepted the chairmanship of the Health Seal Sale in Massachusetts the coming Christmas season. In this he is aided by a committee of influential men and women representing all sections of the State.

The Christmas Health Seal Sale is conducted by the many local public health associations in Massachusetts advised by the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League, which is the federation of these societies, and thirty million seals will be ready in December for the renewed expression of the people of the State of their interest in better health. The Health Seal is the most democratic expression of interest on record, in that the seals may be purchased in the smallest quantities, and every man, woman and child may be a helper.

In eight or ten communities in the State the sales of last Christmas have financed the summer health camps for children, in others they have furnished the funds for introducing the Modern Health Crusade, and in others still they have helped pay the costs of a local nurse. They are devoted always to a public spirited community benefit.

There is evidence this year that other States of the Union will enter into the Seal Sale with unusual energy, and Massachusetts may be relied on to keep up her interest and standing in this country-wide annual appeal.

WATTERS ELECTED CAPTAIN

Following their meet with the Cambridge Latin School Friday, John W. Watters of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Watters of Wildwood street, was elected captain by the Harvard cross-country team. The Harvard team defeated Cambridge Latin 90 to 32. Watters has gained an enviable reputation as a runner, he having been a star at Exeter.

They are both graduates of Winchester High School of the Class of 1922. Miss Ruth Brooks of 33 Lloyd street is also taking the Secretarial Course at the same school.

RUNAWAY WHEEL HIT WOMAN

A peculiar accident occurred on Washington street Friday forenoon when a rear wheel from the automobile of Benjamin Edwards flew off, and after running for nearly 75 feet, turned suddenly and hit Mrs. J. Roy McGrath of Tremont street who was walking on the sidewalk. Mrs. McGrath was knocked down and injured about her left side. She was taken to her home on Tremont street after being treated by Dr. Sheehy. Mr. Edwards was not injured.

The accident occurred near the telephone office as the automobile was passing over the electric car turnout. The left rear wheel caught in the tracks and snapped off, the automobile swinging around and stopping. Mrs. McGrath was walking with Miss Mary A. Hanlon of Washington street, who barely escaped when the runaway wheel suddenly turned and ran onto the sidewalk.

Mrs. McGrath is well known as soloist at St. Mary's Church.

BIG GAME TOMORROW

The big football game in the Mystic Valley League takes place here tomorrow, when Winchester High meets Arlington. Winchester is credited with having this year's championship team, and under the efficient coaching and training of "Rufe" Bond has made a showing thus far which bears out the prophecy in every way. Arlington is considered the only team in the league which has any chance to contest the title, and this team has suffered a setback during the past 10 days which makes Winchester's chances stronger than ever.

Arlington has lost Capt. Leary and Walter A. Mahoney, one of its strong backs, but coach Bower is not letting up on any of that account. It is anticipated that the game will be witnessed by one of the largest crowds of the season.

EVENING SCHOOL OPENS

Evening School classes were opened at the Chapin School and the High School last Monday. Seventy-five pupils in all registered in the Evening School classes.

At the Chapin School, 45 pupils were registered; 31 adults, who hope, as a result of their evening school work, to take out citizenship papers, and 14 illiterate minors, who are required by law to attend evening school.

At the High School there were 15 pupils taking commercial subjects and seven taking grammar school subjects. There was also a class of Swedish girls, most of them over 21 years of age, who are studying English. All those interested in any of the foregoing classes will be welcome.

Uphold the Constitution!

By overwhelming votes in House and Senate, Massachusetts ratified the 18th Amendment.

In his address to the Legislature, on January 2, 1922, Gov. Channing H. Cox said:

"Officials especially charged with the duty of law enforcement report the difficulty of preventing traffic in intoxicating liquors since there is a variance between the Federal and State Laws. . . Considerations of compelling force require that the laws of Massachusetts be made to conform to the laws of the United States in this respect."

The House passed such a bill by a vote of 134 to 68.

The Senate approved it by a vote of 28 to 9.

The Governor signed it without delay.

The liquor element filed a referendum petition and the operation of the law is suspended pending the approval of the voters on Nov. 7th.

The question is NOT that of legalizing beer and wine. The question is NOT that of prohibition as a policy.

The question is: SHALL MASSACHUSETTS ENFORCE OR NULLIFY THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES?

TWO PLATOON SYSTEM

Under the two-platoon system all of the permanent men with the exception of the chief are evenly divided into a day and night force. After a certain number of days the day force goes on night duty, and vice versa. The number of days that each platoon shall be on either day or night duty, and the number of hours that shall make up the day or night shifts lie entirely within the control of the selectmen and the chief of the department. It is the custom where the two platoon system has been adopted to allow each platoon a full 24 hours off duty when the alternation from day to night service takes place. At this period one platoon works for a full 24 hours. The men on duty are expected also to eat such meals as may be necessary at the station. This was away with the meal hours and the depletion of the force at such times. The advantage of having the platoon off duty respond in case of a serious fire has been pointed out, but the service that they would render in such an event would be no greater than is now rendered by the call men who respond in the same way to all alarms at a comparatively small expense to the town. This is proven by the fact that in reckoning the available strength of fire departments, the insurance companies rank permanent men off duty as only equal in effectiveness to call men.

It is at once obvious that the adoption of the two platoon system may mean the addition of new men to a number a little short of doubling the present force. Chief DeCourcy is the authority for the statement that he would consider the addition of any short of five men absolutely inadequate and that he would like to have seven additional permanent men provided. The addition of five men, making the total force of permanent men 16, gives eight men on a shift, which is hardly what the present force averages. During the vacation period or because of sickness this number would be still further reduced. It must be borne in mind that if the department's efficiency of action is sufficiently altered as to affect the town's insurance rating, the additional risk will be borne by the property owners through increased insurance premiums.

The adoption of the two platoon system means no reduction in the present rate of pay for the permanent men although the hours of work will be practically one half what they are at present. One-half of the force would be on a veritable vacation all of the time, as the night platoon would be able to get a full night's sleep except for the occasional alarms and would have their days off entirely. Furthermore, at the end of such a period of thirty days they would have an additional 24 hours of freedom.

Thirty-eight cities and towns in this Commonwealth have adopted the two-platoon system. And, with the exception of Andover with a fire department of six men, it has been the larger congested centers or manufacturing towns where the fire hazard is the greatest and the alarms frequent, that have adopted this system.

The subject is one better considered by the annual town meeting and not one to be injected into a State election. Voting now, many citizens do not understand what the two platoon system is and with the overshadowing emphasis on National and State issues, they will not have time to give it proper thought. It seems unwise to thrust local matters into a State election.

The addition of five men, which would be the minimum requirement if the art is accepted, means an added expense of $8000 for 1923 and $9125 for 1924 and thereafter. Should Chief DeCourcy's suggestion of seven men be carried out, the expense in 1923 would be $11,200 and in 1924 $12,775. This would be the flat salary increase only without taking into any consideration the expenses in the way of personal equipment, etc., that would be incidental to increasing our present force nearly 50 per cent. Every $1000 of such additional expense means the permanent increase in our tax rate of about 5 cents. The adoption of this act means the addition of at least 40 cents to our 1923 tax rate and at least 45 cents to our 1924 rate and thereafter.

For these reasons the Finance Committee recommend unfavorable action—Vote "No."

WINCHESTER MEETS AR-

LINGTON

By Harry Price

Winchester plays Arlington High tomorrow afternoon on Manchester Field, and from all indications the game will be the best one played in the Mystic Valley League this season. Winchester has decisively defeated Woburn, Wakefield, and Melrose in the last three weeks, while Arlington has downed Woburn and held Cambridge Latin to a low score.

The game is attracting much attention in local circles and although many favor Winchester there is no doubt that the visitors will put up a hard, fast game. Arlington has a backfield that would do credit to any high school, while their line is as heavy as that of the local team. Their defense is especially strong and the Winchester backs will find that they are bucking a much stronger outfit than in any game heretofore.

Despite these facts, Coach Rond of Winchester, places much dependence upon Winer and French the two most reliable men in his aggregation. Much is expected of Kondrick's ability to throw forwards and Fitzgerald with Randlett and Melly will open the usual large holes in the line. Captain Kelly is so steady as a field general that it is not necessary to say that he will be ready to show Arlington all that he has in the most effectual manner.

The game is scheduled for three o'clock, and all those wishing to see one of the best schoolboy games of the year will do well to attend.

BIGGEST FOOTBALL GAME OF TEN YEARS TO BE PLAYED TO-MORROW ON MANCHES-TER FIELD

We have good authority for stating that the game between Winchester High School and Arlington will be the most important Mystic Valley League game in the past ten years. It is also the most important game that Winchester has played for nearly twenty years. Winchester and Arlington are annual rivals in all sports. There is intense feeling on both sides as to the outcome of the game. Both teams are confident of victory. Neither team has been defeated so far this year. This game will undoubtedly be the deciding game for the title of the Mystic Valley League. Winchester has one more league game with Watertown and Arlington has still to play Wakefield, Melrose, and Watertown after meeting Winchester, but the team which wins this game will probably be able to defeat the remaining members of the league.

At the Guild of Boston Artists. 162 Newbury street, is being exhibited this week a study of "Mehra" by Mary Brewster Hazelton, Portraitist. It is a painting of Miss Melora Thayer Davis, daughter of George Davis, formerly of this town, and now residing in Brookline.

COAL LIMIT $16

The fuel commissioner has set the price limit on hard coal in this town at the maximum figure of $16 a ton. This brings the hard coal about one dollar over the price of coke and soft coal. Local dealers are selling the hard coal under this limit, delivering it as fast as it arrives. Notwithstanding the fact that coal is arriving, it is almost impossible to make any great headway with the orders, it is reported.

THE AMERICAN LEGION SHOW

This year the Legion decided to stage an old time minstrel show, and intends to give the best minstrel Winchester has ever seen. We are in need of a few more girls and boys to make everything perfect. Now the Legion wants the people to enter into the old spirit and join them in making the show go big. Rehearsals will be held Tuesday and Friday nights in the Legion Home and Sunday afternoon Nov. 5th at 2 p. m. in White's Hall, over Knights Drug Store. Everybody Welcome.

REPRESENTATIVE VIEWS OF LEADING MEN AND WOMEN ON PROHIBITION AND ENFORCEMENT

"Prohibition is here to stay. It has increased efficiency and put the country ahead financially and morally. The demoralizing business of booze is dead. It has always defied law. It defies it now, but it is going, going and going forever."—Richard Lloyd Jones, Editor.

"Prohibition has come to stay. Our people will not turn back, and when Europe comes to her senses, one country after another will follow. Economic reasons will be patent as well as moral and social."—David Starr Jordan, President Stanford University.

"Prohibition in the highest degree promotes business prosperity and human welfare."—John Harvey Kellogg, M. D., head of Battle Creek Sanitarium.

"The best sentiment of educated physicians is against the use of liquors as a medicine and sturdy against the re-introduction of light wine and beer. Prohibition is here to stay."—Howard A. Kelley, M. D., one of world's foremost surgeons.

"More thrift; bills paid better; homes provided for and happier."—S. S. Kresge, proprietor of a chain of 5-and-10-cent stores.

"In Detroit, the favorable effects of prohibition are apparent even to a blind man. Prohibition has certainly made for contentment and prosperity among employees in industry. I find in Detroit no great sentiment in opposition to the Volstead act, except what may fairly be traced to the propaganda of the distillers."—Henry M. Leland, President of the Lincoln Motor Company.

"Brazen attempts to discredit and break down the Eighteenth Amendment only go to confirm the great moral achievement of its adoption. What has been saved and conserved of health, wealth and fireside content, comprises a more sensational story than anything ever printed about bootlegging."—James Schermerhorn, Editor of the Detroit Times.

"The longer I live, the more bitterly I am opposed to the manufacture and sale of liquor. I find a marked improvement in the number of men who are saving their money and buying their homes, and I find a decided improvement in the home life of the workers, due to the fact that the women and children have more food, more clothing and better care in every way. I think I can truthfully say that drunkenness has decreased at least 75 per cent among the workers."—Warren S. Stone, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"The betterment of homes and better care of women and children of the men who formerly spent freely for drink are marked."—Mary E. Wolley, President of Mount Holyoke College, Citizen's Alliance.

Mrs. H. L. Tibbets, Secretary.

FOOD SALE BY WESTERN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

A cake and candy sale was given by the Western Missionary Society of the Congregational Church on last Friday afternoon. The directors of the society, Mrs. Charles Lawson, Mrs. Howard Raze, Jr., Mrs. J. L. Cayting, and Mrs. G. B. Whitehorn, were in charge of the sale. The cake and candy which was sold was donated by the members. The proceeds of the sale will be used for the proposed new Parish House.

A cafeteria luncheon was served from 12-2 p. m.

The regular luncheons will be given on the first Thursday of each month as formerly. The committee in charge of these consists of Mrs. Bridge, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Mason.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION ON W. H. S.

A few weeks ago Mr. Farnham, principal of the Winchester High School, received a letter signed by parents of High School pupils requesting, with his co-operation, a Parent-Teachers' Association be formed in the High School. Mr. Farnham responded at once and called together a small committee to start organization. It was decided to issue invitations to all parents of High School pupils to be present at a meeting to be held in the High School auditorium on Monday evening, Nov. 6, at eight o'clock for the purpose of forming the Parent-Teachers' Association.

A constitution will be drawn up to be presented at that meeting. It is hoped that all parents and others interested in education will be present.

IN RADIO CONCERT

Many Winchester friends recognized in the singing last evening in the AMRAD wireless concert, the voice of Mrs. Newell Kingman Morton of Park Avenue. Although Mrs. Morton was given on the program as Pearl Bates Morton, those who had previously heard her had little difficulty in placing her.

She sang five selections in the evening program. Previous to coming to Winchester, Mrs. Morton was a soloist in Los Angeles, Cal. She is studying under Weldon Hunt of Boston. Her solos were greatly enjoyed.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Florence Crittenton League will hold a rummage sale over the A. & P. store on Main street, Friday, Nov. 10th. Any one willing to help the League by giving any articles can telephone Winchester 889 or 1014-W, and 241-M.

WAOLEIGH-PRINCE SCHOOLS

Parents of pupils in the Waleigh and Prince Schools have doubtless learned of the proposal to award to the children the right to buy and wear a certain school pin, provided a certain degree of excellence has been achieved on that part of the report card labeled "Home Report."

At the last Parent-Teacher Association meeting the question was asked: "How are you going to regulate the matter to avoid injustice to some children because of differences in marking due to differences in the parents' standards of working?"

As a result, at the principal's request, the executive committee appointed a committee of parents and teachers to confer with the principal concerning the matter. The following committee was appointed:

Parents—Mrs. William Walker, Chairman; Mrs. William Botten, Mrs. Thomas H. Dummer.

Teachers—Miss Mary Barr, Miss Irene Murphy.

The committee recommend as follows:

- 1—Candidates for right to buy and wear pin must be marked in not less than four items of the "Home Work" report.
- 2—The following items must be included in the report:
 - 1—Home reading (newspapers, magazines, books).
 - 2—Careful use of English.
 - 3—Careful school home-work.
 - 4—Thrift.
 - 5—Cleanliness and neatness.
 - 6—Manners.
 - 7—Care of work and lawn.
 - 8—Chores and errands.
 - 9—Sewing and Mending.
 - 10—Cooking.
 - 11—Serving Table.
 - 12—Ironing.
 - 13—Dressing.
 - 14—Child's marks in the 10 foreign items must include not less than 4 A's and the other six must be B's.
 - 15—The child must be marked in at least 4 additional subjects. Not more than 2 of these must be C's.

It was further recommended as follows:

- 1—The Home Report must correlate with the following items of the school report. A check against any of the following items denotes an unsatisfactory condition in that respect and thereby the child's right to buy and wear the pin for that marking period is denied.
 - A—Should improve school home-work.
 - B—Should be doing much better.
 - C—Should be more courteous.
 - D—Should cooperate better.
 - E—Should not annoy others.
 - F—Tardiness without good cause.
 - G—Absence without good cause.
 - H—Disobedient without good cause.
 - I—A mark lower than "A" in behavior.
 - J—Mark below a "B" in English because of faulty speech.
 - K—Mark below a "B" in History because of lack of knowledge on current events.
 - L—No bank book thru school savings system.
 - M—No show evidence of the habit of regular saving, regardless of amount saved in any time.
 - N—Lack of Thrift in care of school property.
- 2—The pin referred to contains in neat arrangement the following words against a background of the school colors, which are blue and gold:

Dependable	Thoughtful
Helpful	Work
Courteous	Thrifty
	Industrious

A little that will show that the recommendations of the committee find justification in the nature of the pin.

The foregoing recommendation were accepted by Mr. Raymond E. Pinkham, the principal, and will accordingly go into effect this marking.

NOV. 14-15—REO CROSS ROLL CALL

On Sunday, November 12th, the day after Armistice Day the churches in Winchester will cooperate with the Red Cross by making some special mention of the Roll Call.

Roll Call will take place in Winchester November 14-15. In other towns the period of Roll Call extends from Nov. 11th to the 30th, but it has been decided to follow the Pittsburg plan and to do all our work in two days.

Please be ready for the workers when they come to your house for your contribution. If you find that you are not going to be at home please leave an envelope with the money in it waiting for them, this will save double the work and make for success.

WORK TO COMMENCE ON NEW SCHOOL

The committee on new school buildings is about ready to commence construction of the new Wyman School, and in this issue of the Star is asking for bids on the work.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN OF BROOKLYN

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Central Congregational Church of Brooklyn, N. Y., gave a very interesting lecture in the town hall last evening. His subject was, "Lights and Shadows of the World."

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Florence Crittenton League, and in a few preliminary remarks Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott summed up the purposes of this organization and announced that the proceeds of the lecture were to be added to a fund to be used for building a Florence Crittenton Home in Allston.

Dr. Howard Chidley, president of the league in this town, introduced Dr. Cadman as one of the foremost orators of this country and remarked that he Dr. Cadman had recently returned from Europe after studying conditions there to obtain material for his lectures.

Dr. Cadman's theme was that the world needed more union and understanding between nations and races if it wished to advance in Christianity and civilization. The future of the white race is very uncertain, for petty quarrels and secret diplomacies are continually hindering the binding together, and striving to either of the peoples. The masses of the people of each nation look upon world affairs from the point of view of their own country and seem to have far too little regard for the rights and privileges of others. To overcome the feelings of suspicion and distrust which have arisen among other races towards Caucasians, the white race must show a moral dominancy which is not at this time evident. A spiritual feeling must be administered to the white race from within it.

The speaker said that the race cannot afford to war again for in the late struggle such a feeling of hate was aroused that it will take years of culture and peace to remove it, and further that another such blot upon our civilization will cause others to lose entirely any faith that they have in the white race and will without doubt cost the race the supremacy which it now holds.

In the opinion of Dr. Cadman the first step toward a united race and a united world will be to break down the sectarian feelings of religious and to form one great Christian religion. Since politics was the origin of almost all the present religions we must do away with shouting politicians and sly diplomats before the primary object can be attained.

An intelligent audience of about 700 persons listened appreciatively throughout Dr. Cadman's address and many afterward remarked that Winchester was fortunate in having the opportunity to hear a speaker of such brilliancy.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS NUMEROUS

Winchester youths were out in force Tuesday night, observing Halloween. This town escaped lightly in comparison with other places, if what has appeared in Boston papers may be taken as authentic. We had no fire alarms, and while some property was destroyed, the sum total was small.

Among the pranks were marking windows with soap, releasing air from auto tires, tying a 75 foot hose to the back of an auto and a pole, burning an old carriage near the foot of Mystic avenue, setting fire to a hay stack off Middlesex street, removal of signs, placing seats across Bacon street, throwing apples about where they were left out to season, breaking down young trees and various other harmless amusements.

Many complaints were heard from the Symmes Corner district, which appeared to be the centre of activities, although some glass was broken all over town.

It is reported that next year the police will place every available officer on the streets and will make arrests at Halloween.

WILL VISIT RESERVOIRS

According to report and indications, there will be a big line-up next Saturday afternoon on the occasion of the proposed visitation to the Town's reservoirs in the Fells. The automobiles will leave the Town Hall at 3 p. m., and all attending must be in line at that hour.

The roads through the Fells will be open to the cars through the courtesy of the Commission, arrangements having been made for this by our Water Board. All roads will be placarded.

Many important improvements have been made at the reservoirs by the Water Board. All of our residents should endeavor to make the trip and note what a fine water supply we have and how it is kept and cared for.

BEAT OFFICERS TO POLICE STATION

An interesting incident occurred yesterday morning. Chief McIntosh and Sgt. McCauley took a Winchester man to the Woburn court charged with drunkenness. His case was tried and placed on file, he being allowed to depart.

When the Chief and Sergeant reached home again they found the man safely locked in a cell, so drunk he could do little else than sing and shout. He had left the court room, tanked up and reached the centre about five minutes before the officers, being arrested and taken to the station.

Mrs. Agnes Lynch of Russell road, who has been associated with Mrs. Alice E. Cram campaigning through the State has been elected on the directorate of the League of Democratic Women.

HOME SERVICE SECTION

In January an office for the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross was established in the Board of Health rooms at 9 Mt. Vernon street. The visitor has given half time to the work, and each Tuesday evening she has been in the office to meet and help the man with their problems. It may interest the community to know that during the past year the Red Cross has assisted seventy ex-service men in their problems, which include help in prosecuting their claims against the government, arranging for hospitalization and medical care while awaiting action of government, counsel and help in family problems that arise because of sickness and the consequent inability to work. We have also been in touch with other Red Cross units and assisted them by obtaining affidavits from local people to establish the claims of ex-service men in other communities. Since September 1921 there have been 241 calls by ex-service men during office hours and the executive secretary has personally made 234 calls upon families of disabled soldiers. The executive secretary wishes to acknowledge at this time the cooperation and help of the business men, the physicians and the American Legion, of Winchester, and to express her appreciation of the weekly service given by Miss Mary Hodge.

Don't deny the enjoyment and privileges of home life to the Fireman, who is ready at any time, day or night, winter and summer, to risk his life to protect you and your loved ones.

Can you as a father conscientiously be a party to a condition that denies to a fellow citizen, who has enlisted in a service to protect you, the rights and privileges which you enjoy?

Can you as a mother deny to the wife and children of the fireman, whose only ambition in life is to protect you, the same fatherly fellowship and protection which you enjoy?

M. C. W. G. MASQUERADE

Last Friday evening the K. of C. was taxed to its utmost capacity by nearly four hundred members of the Winchester Branch and their friends assembled for their annual masquerade. The hall was decorated in orange and black, with lanterns and Halloween novelties which made a fitting background for the many mysterious characters who appeared for the grand masquerade. Mrs. David DeCoursey in costume, led the march and was followed by Mrs. Annie Harlan in full suit. Every conceivable character was represented in the masquerade that followed her, and among whom was State Secretary Navien, had much difficulty in cutting the three best costumes. DeCoursey was awarded the prize for the prettiest, Miss Catherine Valley's costume was the most original, and Miss Moran was awarded a prize for the most grotesque.

The entertainment which followed the grand march was given under the direction of Mrs. Frances Sullivan assisted by Mrs. Sadie Brine, with Miss Mary Kenney, as master of ceremonies. A mock marriage with the following characters, was first on the program:

Minister—Miss Kathleen Kenneally
Sexton—Mrs. Mary J. Carr
Groom—Mrs. Annie Harlan
Best man—Mrs. Mary Dineen
Bride's Father—Mary Holland
Bride—Elizabeth Glendon
Bride's Mother—May O'Leary
Bridesmaid—Ella Foley
Bridesmaid—Alice Foley
Impostor and Child—Mrs. M. J. Halwartz and S. L. Quigley
Mrs. Mary Fallon acted as organist. Each impersonated the character she was cast for in a killing solemn manner, especially the sexton whose "improvements" on her part brought down the house.

Miss Kenney announced the following vaudeville numbers, and each performer in turn received an enthusiastic encore.

Piano Overture—Miss Mary Boyle
Solo—Mrs. Madeline Jackson
Old-time Melodies—Mrs. Josephine V. Kane, Mrs. Fella Carr, Mrs. David DeCoursey, Mrs. Frank Dineen, Miss Ella Foley and Miss May O'Leary
Step Dancing—Miss Helen McNally
Irish Melodies—Miss Charlotte O'Brien
Popular Songs—Miss Mary Boyle, Mary Fitzgerald and Mary Holland
Black face Sketch—Mrs. Frances Sullivan
Grand Finale—"Spook Minstrelsy" directed by Frances Sullivan as "Ham Burger."
Characters—"Robinson Crusoe"—Mrs. Annie Harlan; "Abe Link-on"—Mrs. Annie Harlan; "Gerry Baldy"—Mrs. Mary Dineen; "Captain Kid"—Mrs. M. J. Halwartz; "Boney Part"—Mrs. Mary Boyle; "John Barley Korn"—Mrs. Sadie Brine; "Davy Jones"—Susan L. Quigley.
Miss Mary Fitzgerald acted as pianist for this group of merry spirits whose jokes on local characters kept the house laughing throughout the sketch.

After the entertainment coffee, cider and doughnuts were served under the direction of Mrs. Josephine V. Kane, chairman of general committee, assisted by Mrs. Richard Glendon and members of the Charitable and Sewing committees of the Branch. During the evening these committees conducted a sale of fancy articles and food, realizing quite a sum of money for charity. The five-dollar gold piece was awarded Mrs. Sadie Brine, whose name was drawn by State Secretary Navien. The wonderful financial and social success of this party is due wholly and entirely to Mrs. Josephine V. Kane, whose untiring efforts to establish a Charity Fund for the Branch led every member to sacrifice time and money for the cause. During the months of November and December donations are expected by the Little Sisters of the Poor, Home for Destitute Children, and for local charities. Members are requested to make individual donations of underwear to the Little Sisters of the Poor for their "Bundle Day" November 24th.

CALUMET ACTIVITIES

The first dance of the season will be held at the Calumet Club this Friday evening when the regular observance of ladies' night for this month will take place. Excellent music has been secured for the evening and a large turnout of members and their ladies is anticipated. This is the first formal dance of this fall at the club.

Next Tuesday evening, election night, the usual big time will be in order at the Club. An innovation this year will be the announcing of the election returns by wireless. Through the courtesy of Mr. M. P. Stevens of the American Radio and Research Company, one of "AMRAD'S" modern wireless sets will be installed at the club and the returns announced direct. The usual election night lunch will be served.

A smoke talk for the members is announced for Saturday evening, Nov. 11th, the program consisting of an illustrated lecture entitled "Elephants and Hippopotami" being given by Mr. Harry K. Eustace, noted explorer and traveler. An interesting evening is assured.

The ladies' afternoon open on Wednesday, Nov. 22, when an afternoon bridge is announced. The tickets for the affair are in charge of Mrs. Ernest W. Hatch, Mrs. William L. Parsons and Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase.

On Nov. 28th a mixed bridge and dancing party is announced. On this evening the bowling alleys will also be open for the ladies and gentlemen.

SALE SATURDAY, NOV. 18th

It should be noted that the sale to be held Saturday, Nov. 18th, at the home of Mrs. John Nickerson, 172 Highland avenue, is to be from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. It is a sale that Winchester people should not miss, for included in the list of articles are many desirable pieces in dress material, furs, jewelry, Japanese silk, scarfs and Canton crepe waists. Mrs. Nickerson's home is opposite Park avenue. Do not miss this opportunity.

A NEW PASTOR FOR WINCHESTER HIGHLANDS CHURCH

Through the action of the committee of pulpit supply at the Second Congregational Church the Rev. John E. Whitley of Cambridge, at a called meeting of the church and congregation, received a unanimous vote to become the pastor. He has accepted.

Mr. Whitley has been the supply for some time. He is a graduate of Drury College and has received degrees from Yale and Harvard Universities.

Previous to the world-war he held two pastorates in Penacook and Lebanon, N. H., and during his studies at Harvard preached at Ayer. Later he became the acting pastor of Immanuel-Walnut ave. Congregational Church in Roxbury, now the Eliot Church, for 18 months.

In estimating the services he rendered there the Congregationalist of September, 1915, has this to say: "the various activities were sustained and the benevolent and missionary endeavors were kept up to the usual standard. The sermons were of high order and the services well attended. As a spiritual guide and comforter in times of need and sorrow, he has endeared himself to every one, young and old. The prayer meetings have showed signs of new awakening by doubling in attendance. A children's church was started and at the first meeting 150 children were present. A pro-membership class of young people was also started and proved of great value. It was through this class and the earnest efforts of Mr. Whitley to instruct as well as to lead to the Savior that the majority of about 100 additions to church membership were received."

In 1918 Mr. Whitley left a pastorate in Bristol, R. I. and volunteered to serve a year as a Y. M. C. A. Secretary in France. Since his return he has been a field worker in the campaigns for the Pilgrim Memorial Fund and the Congregational World Movement.

Therefore he comes to his present pastorate well equipped to render an efficient and an all-round service. A reception and also a special service of recognition are being planned for in the near future.

WINCHESTER LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

A splendid opportunity was given to the women of Winchester last Friday afternoon in the small town hall to gain all necessary information regarding issues and candidates in the coming election. Mr. Kelly of Lowell and Arthur K. Reading of Cambridge, Democratic and Republican candidates respectively for district attorney spoke to the point leaving a very definite impression of their personalities and standards. Mrs. Colin MacDonald of Boston summarized her reason for voting the democratic ticket. Mrs. Schulman, president of the Mass. Ass'n of Women Lawyers explained the state referendum clearly and concisely. Both sides of the motion picture issue were ably presented. Mr. Carlisle W. Burton explained the local referendum, the 2 platoon system. His recommendation was that action on this matter be postponed until the next annual town meeting when an opportunity could be given to discuss its merits. Those who attended this Bipartisan Rally felt that it was one of the most valuable meetings ever held under the auspices of the Winchester League of Women Voters.

What 1430 Visitors Saw At Our Laundry Last Week

The 1430 visitors we entertained last week had an opportunity to learn in detail about the different classes of work we do, and thus could decide for themselves the kind of service that will fit their needs best. Here are the classes:

STARCH WORK FINISHED FAMILY WORK
SEMI-FINISHED WORK DRY CLEANSING AND DYEING

Doing these kinds of work, we are enabled to render each family complete service, at a price which those who know the quality of our work accept as reasonable.

If you will telephone, one of our representatives will call and explain to you in detail each class of work, so you can decide for yourself what you want us to do for you.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Life isn't in holding a good hand, but in playing a poor hand well.

It isn't what you need to be, it's what you are today.

Private opinion doesn't always follow general reputation.

You may figure that next summer will be a cool one, but that thought won't cut any ice this winter.

The less people are prepared for eternity, the more they seem to take chances of getting there.

All things come to the other fellow if you sit down and wait.

Let's see. No schools in one year and then one each Spring.

If our High School isn't long on learning, it's certainly famous in football.

It is reported that the School Committee has placed a new teacher in the W. M. School. All the saving at the Washington gone to waste!

The warrant for the special town meeting was closed in short order. Is the need of money so imperative that time could not be allowed for the insertion of other articles?

Either Lodge or Gaston will be elected U. S. Senator. Every vote that is not for Lodge results in favor of the Democratic candidate, Gaston. Is that your wish?

Following rumors covering several weeks, it has been decided at a joint meeting of the Selectmen and the Finance Committee that a special town meeting must be held to care for debts in town departments. Two departments are specified, the Highway Engineering Department, as badly in need of funds. It is said that between $6000 and $8000 will be asked for.

The condition of Winthrop street in Medford, together with the relaying of the electric car tracks, is responsible for a largely increased trucking traffic on many previously little used streets in town. With the opening of the new Bacon street bridge Monday the trucking traffic on Bacon street was so heavy that calls were sent to the police for protection for the Mytic school children. One of the most important phases of the ever growing automobile traffic is the matter of handling the heavy trucks.

From reports about town considerable damage was done here this Halloween. From harmless pranks, the celebration ran the whole gamut to an apparent wilful destruction of property, which every boy in this town knew to be downright wrong. One subscriber to the STAR thinks it about time to commence an agitation for a "safe and sane" Halloween. It is to take a barrel of apples from a cellar-way and throw them all over the neighborhood; to climb trees and tear down bird houses; to deliberately break windows and young trees—and in fact to do any of the things which the boys of today did this week, should be stopped. A few genuine arrests would soon stop the damage.

It might be a good idea if some white marking signs were painted in the centre streets either side of the railroad crossing. When long trains, or several trains pass, and the gates are down for an extended period, many automobiles stop far over on the left side of the roadway, seriously congesting traffic when the gates are raised. The trains obstruct the view of the opposite sides, and the drivers imagine that there are few or no cars in front of them. After the trains pass there is a mixup in getting into line. Markings on the street would divide the traffic and keep the cars on their own side of the roadway.

Strong efforts are being made to push the "two platoon act" through in Winchester at next Tuesday's State election. Our Finance Committee, in a statement issued last week, advises against such acceptance at this time, stating that the matter should come before the citizens at the annual town meeting and a thorough discussion be given before action is taken. Probably few, if any, of our citizens have given this act any great attention, and its coming up at this time finds many without accurate knowledge of the matter. It appears that the Finance Committee's recommendation should be carried out, and that the matter should be placed in the March warrant. A majority vote carries the acceptance of the act, and it does not need the usual two-thirds vote necessary in the passage of other votes carrying an appropriation. The referendum articles on the ballot are all important, and all should be voted upon according to their individual merit. It is the thought of many, that after reading the first referendum, the majority of the voters will either vote upon the remainder in a similar manner, or not vote on them at all.

POSTERS AT STATION

From a letter received by Chairman George E. Willey of the Board of Selectmen this week, it appears that Winchester is still to have posters at its railroad station to welcome its residents and visitors upon their arrival here. It is fortunate that Wedgemere is to be immune, and that one section of our town is to be allowed to escape this "back yard" decoration.

The letter to Mr. Willey was as follows:

Boston & Maine Railroad
North Station, Boston
October 25, 1922.
Mr. George E. Willey,
Chairman, Board of Selectmen,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:
Referring to our telephone conversation yesterday on the subject of advertising signs in and about stations: As I stated to you, the management shares your views as to the desirability of keeping stations free from advertising, and have taken this step only from the absolute necessity of obtaining additional revenue from every available source.

The subject of advertising at stations and in passenger coaches of the Railroad has been under consideration for several years, and, as you probably know, many roads with much greater financial resources than the Boston & Maine have found it advisable to add to their revenues through the rental of space available for advertising. In European countries, which are generally considered to have higher standards of architecture and to be more free from commercialism, the development of railroad advertising, particularly in stations, has been carried to an extreme. The financial situation of the Boston and Maine in recent years is well known. The stockholders are receiving no dividends, and the management has been unable to secure adequate funds for improvements, and has been obliged to restrict service to the inconvenience of some of its patrons.

Under these conditions, it is essential that no source of substantial additional revenue should be neglected, and the management have therefore reached the conclusion that neither in justice to their security holders nor the public served by the Boston and Maine can they refrain from entering the advertising field. The contract for advertising has been placed, after competitive bidding, with a high grade firm which handles the advertising for several other railroads. Under the contract no advertising of an objectionable character will be permitted, and the Railroad will attempt to administer the arrangement with the least possible offense to its patrons.

Yours truly,
J. H. Hustis, President.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Santa Maria Court, 150, Catholic Daughters of America, held their 12th annual Halloween masquerade in Lyceum Hall, last evening in aid of the court's charitable fund.

From 8 to 9 there were side-shows and fortune telling. Mrs. Arthur King presided over the ghost chamber while Miss Mabel Kelley and Miss Mary O'Melia were in charge of the "third degree." A member of Court Regina, Malden, told fortunes.

Prizes for the most beautiful, unique and grotesque costumes were awarded after the grand march of those in costume. Specialty numbers were given by Miss Mabel Coty, Miss Mary J. Kelley, Mrs. Mollie Maguire, Mrs. Helen Studley, Mrs. Frances Conlon, Miss Mollie Poland, Miss Margery Lynch, Miss Elizabeth O'Melia, Mrs. Benton Walsh, Miss Beatrice King, Miss Helen Reagan, Miss Elizabeth Noonan and Mrs. Josephine O'Brien. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Joseph O'Connor, Mrs. Thomas Kelley, Mrs. Katherine Lynch, Mrs. George Poland and Mrs. Nora O'Melia.

THE FORTNIGHTLY BRIDGE PARTY

A very successful bridge party was held last Monday in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Room, Social and Hospitality Committees of The Fortnightly. The hall was very attractively decorated by the Art Committee with potted plants loaned by the Sweetheart Flower Shop, and the Halloween colors. The Halloween colors were also carried out in the refreshments. Prizes were awarded to seven ladies.

The proceeds of the party will help defray the expenses of The Fortnightly room.

SUPPORT HENRY CABOT LODGE

To the Editor of the Star:
Next Tuesday, November 7th, the electorate of Massachusetts will have an opportunity to elect a United States senator to represent the Commonwealth in the United States Senate for the ensuing six years. It thus becomes imperative that the voters must exercise their intelligence in marking their ballot. The present incumbent of the senate, the successor of the mighty Webster the illustrious Sumner and the scholarly Hoar the honorable Henry Cabot Lodge, America's foremost Statesman, is a candidate for reelection.

I believe it would be a catastrophe for the State and the Country if the electorate fail to return him to the senate by an overwhelming majority. By the way Mr. Editor, after the Civil War a mighty era of prosperity dawned for America. Exhausted as she was, it took but a few years to heal the scars a terrible war had wrought. America was sound because her political foundations were erected upon the rock of democracy. Today another war in which America held a proud place has come to a victorious close. We are approaching the dawn of America's mightiest prosperity. We must be prepared to grasp our opportunities. We must ascertain that our foundation stones are intact. We must rely on American democracy; on the rule of the people.

Hence the necessity of Senator Lodge's leadership. His years of experience and wisdom at the present time undoubtedly is a valuable asset to this Nation. Senator Lodge is the same simple, unaffected, sturdy American Senator who was the recipient of so many scores of congratulatory resolutions adopted by various branches of the friends of Irish freedom and other organizations scattered throughout Massachusetts, during the campaign against the league of Nations. If he was entitled to the enthusiastic adulation of the friends of Irish freedom and other organizations during that troubled period, is he not now equally entitled to their earnest admiration and support?

Let us pay no attention to the political doctrines that emanate from the vocabulary of some of the political preachers assailing the most influential Senator since the days of Daniel Webster. I most heartily endorse the honorable Henry Cabot Lodge of Nahant, Massachusetts, for United States Senator for the ensuing six years.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the above space, I remain,
Yours very truly,
Patrick H. Craughwell

REFORESTATION WORK OF THE WINCHESTER WATER BOARD

The Water and Sewer Board feel that a public interest in the welfare and work of our water shed is a matter of much importance. In the work of reforestation there has been transplanted on the water shed 85,000 evergreen trees, very largely of the white pine variety. A few thousand Scotch and red pines are included, with a few hundred of the Douglas fir, aboretavitae and spruce trees. A very large percentage of the trees are making a vigorous and healthy growth. The evergreen trees afford a more dense shade upon the surface of the ground the year around, thereby protecting the snow and ice from melting and losing the water thereby over the wasteways in the early spring.

The great object of this reforestation work is to conserve and increase our water supply of the water shed. This water shed is composed of about 400 acres of land surrounding the three reservoirs, which cover a surface of 210 acres. Surrounding this property is the Middlesex Fells Reservation of about 2000 acres, and the water from at least 400 acres of the Middlesex Fells Reservation drains into our reservoirs. The Town of Winchester has a sanitary control of all of the land from which any water can drain into our reservoirs, which is of a decided sanitary value.

This water system of ours is one of the very few gravity systems in the State, our North Reservoir being located about 120 feet above the tracks of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the centre, the Middle Reservoir about 134 feet, and the South Reservoir 131 feet above the tracks.

Our water shed, practically speaking, is the only one in our State upon which there is not located a single human habitation and there never can be.

Our Water Board is anxious to continue this work of reforestation and have ordered 35,000 trees to be transplanted in the spring of 1923. It is safe to say by that time that one-third of the whole water shed will have been reforested by the use of the evergreen trees in place of the hardwood trees.

W. H. S. GIRLS' HOCKEY WINS

Winchester won one of the finest games of field hockey from the Dedham High School girls' team Tuesday afternoon at Stone Park, Dedham. It was the first game that has ever been played at Dedham in field hockey. The game was well attended.

Miss Marion Smith of the Winchester team started the crowd in the final minute of play when she started the ball going toward the Dedham goal and later caged the sphere. The Winchester team deserves much credit for the win, but to Dedham belongs the credit for such a wonderful comeback. Before the game the Dedham team was rated as an easy one to defeat but the practice sessions of the past week were hard and the girls had profited by it. The playing of both teams was sensational. Winchester won by the score of 1 to 0. Score: Winchester 1, Goal: Marion Smith. Umpires: Miss Barbara Streheigh and Miss T. Cobb. Lineawomen: Miss A. Pateo, Miss Betty Chane, Miss C. Jansen and Miss A. Oliver. Miss C. Jansen, Miss A. Oliver, Miss Margaret Mullen and Miss E. Brown. Scorers: Miss M. Haynes and Miss B. Maddocka. Time, 10-min. periods.

Mr. Leo McNally received a broken arm this week cranking an auto.

An incident at Saturday's football game created considerable comment when one of the Arlington backs, running with the ball, fell out of bounds and was kicked by a spectator. The offender was not a Winchester man. Officer Farrell arrested one Woburn man on the field for creating a disturbance.

MURPHY'S PICTURE WINS PRIZE

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. H. Dalrymple of Cambridge street, who is spending the winter in Denver, Col., the STAR has received a number of papers from that city relative to its recent authorization of the expenditure of $6,150,000 for new schools. The city has many conditions similar to this town, it being said that Denver is far behind other western cities of its size in its school building program, having spent only $5,000,000 during the past 20 years. According to the papers, classes are being conducted in dark basements and crowded corridors. Plans are now being prepared for several new High schools, Junior High and Elementary Grade schools.

STUDENT NURSES GIVE DANCE

The student nurses of the Winchester Hospital Training School gave an informal Halloween party and dance, at the Nurses' Home, Highland Avenue, on last Wednesday evening. The evening was ideal for dancing and since about one hundred persons attended, the party was enjoyable throughout. Miss Norton and Mrs. Russell acted as matrons. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Jennie Johnson and Miss Edna Beebe. An impromptu orchestra from the American Legion furnished highly satisfactory music, the syncopation being an added feature.

The large living room was decorated very tastefully, thanks to the efficient committee and the assistance of members of the student body. Black and orange crepe paper was intertwined endlessly about, while the conventional ghostly black witches with their usual cats were upon every wall.

At 10:30 refreshments were served downstairs where the basement had been cleverly transformed into a typically medieval, witches' cave. A human skeleton dangling from the centre of the ceiling gave an ultra-Halloween aspect, bordering on the gruesome, to the room. Much amusement was manifested by the on-lookers when two young men nearly enjoyed the unexpected pleasure of surf bathing while ducking for apples.

The party was admitted by all as being the best ever given by the student nurses and judging by the reluctance with which the visitors departed they wished that it would have continued to a later hour.

Charged with the larceny of an automobile from Daniel T. Leahy, an Arlington man was in the Woburn court Tuesday morning. It was alleged that the man secured employment from Mr. Leahy, being commissioned to sell automobiles. Thursday morning he asked to take a new Durant coupe to Belmont to demonstrate to a customer. Mr. Leahy testified that the car was not returned that day, but the following morning the coupe was in the garage and a new Durant sedan was missing. At 4 a. m. Monday the Winchester police found the sedan on Church street. The machine, it appeared, had been on a trip to New York and was somewhat damaged. The case was continued.

EVERY DAY STORIES—NO. 1

Winchester vs. Arlington

"Come on, it's time to go to the game!" I cried out, and we started. When we reached the High School we stopped in amazement. Automobiles were parked everywhere around us so that we could hardly see Manchester field. Then we heard loud cheering. This couldn't possibly be Winchester. But it was! Winchester had awakened at last and was ready to show her spirit. We hurried on listening to the shouting and noise that never lessened for even one moment.

Arriving at the field, we found a large group of pupils who looked as if they were preparing to cheer Arlington out of the field. They were all full of gay spirits, eager to encourage their team; and with the spirit of the cheer leader, everything was wonderful. Then Winchester scored. Girls about me began pulling my sweater, jumping up and down, and seizing me by my shoulders. Boys were shouting out, "Gee, that was great! Good work, old boy!" Everything was excitement. No sooner did the cheering die down for a moment than it started up again. Meanwhile our team scored and scored until at the end it was 33-0 in Winchester's favor. Then the whole group of us sang the football song. But this was not all. Out in the middle of the field, boys and girls were marching in snake fashion in a circle. The excitement reached its height.

As we were walking out of the field I heard one woman remark, "I never knew before that the Winchester High School had such spirit."

Pauline Mansfield, 1924.

Miss Katherine Pike, a junior in Wellesley College, is one of the Winchester girls who have won distinction. She has been elected to the board of editors of the College News, a position which is awarded as a result of competition. She is also one of the limited number of juniors who have been chosen for membership in the societies. Admission to these is based in part upon scholastic standing. Miss Pike graduated from the Winchester High School in 1920 and was editor of the Recorder in her senior year.

The girls' hockey team defeated Delham Tuesday by a score of 1-0. Marion Smith made Winchester's goal near the end of the last period.

Miss Jessie M. Hagar, music instructor, began her work in the high school this week. The usual chorus is to be continued and a new course in Music Appreciation has been started.

Classes in drawing are now to be resumed with Miss Mary U. Yaffee as instructor. Miss Yaffee will be at the high school Mondays and Fridays after the first period.

Is your education of any present value to you?

Here are the ideas of three freshmen who are studying Community Civics.

"My education has a present as well as a future value: it teaches me to work conscientiously while I am in school so that I may be able to do the same in later life."

"My education is teaching me how to use spare time properly."

"My work in High School even though it has been only a few weeks has been of great use to me, for were I to leave school now I would try to put my whole self into my work, an example set by my teachers. It has given me a broader view of life and created in me a desire for higher ideals and the best things in life."

The first issue of the "Recorder" will not appear until the middle of the month. This delay has been caused by a financial situation which confronts the staff for the first time this year. According to the ruling of the Board of Trade the "Recorder" is not authorized to secure Winchester advertisements. Like all other publications our high school paper is partially dependent on advertising for its support. However, the management is now confident that sufficient money can be secured from subscriptions and out of town advertisements and the first issue will be brought out as soon as possible.

In response to an appeal made by Mrs. Jordan at the close of Mr. Donovan's address Tuesday morning, one hundred pupils are already enrolled as members of the Junior Red Cross.

The Dramatic Association which was started last spring has met and completed its organization. The following officers have been elected: President—Arthur French Vice President—Sunny Hight Secretary—Malcolm Jones Treasurer—George Salver Carolyn Breen, who has entered Wellesley College this fall, has been made house chairman in Miss Nye's house.

Rebecca Barrett, also Wellesley '26, has been elected volleyball captain.

The experiment of a "Silent Hour" will be given its second trial Tuesday evening between 9:00 and 10:00 p. m. The comments of our radio audience on this experiment are invited.

Thursday, November 9th
Recital by advanced students from Joseph Adamowski's ensemble classes, New England Conservatory of Music. Mr. Adamowski is recognized as the leading teacher of ensemble work in New England. This concert will be one of the finest of the season.

Saturday, November 11th

There was a large crowd at the station Friday evening to greet the Dartmouth football team when it arrived on its way to the Belmont Springs Country Club in preparation for the Harvard game. Winchester has many old Dartmouth men, and it was several minutes before the team could board the waiting fleet of Reo automobiles waiting to take it to the club. The team came down on the second section of the Concord express, which was split into five sections, and landed here at 5.05. Green flags and lights on the front of the locomotive were appropriate to the occasion.

SENSE AND CENSORS OR, REGULATING THE THERMOMETER

To the Editor of the Star:

To anyone who has never resorted to the movies for entertainment, and heard only incidentally of them through press and public, the wording of Official Referendum 3 will seem at first glance perfectly innocuous and eminently desirable. There can surely be nothing but good, he will argue, in voting to "disapprove any film or part thereof which is obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, or tends to debauch or corrupt morals or incite to crime," and without further thought on the matter he may cast his vote. The regular, or even occasional, patron of moving pictures may not be so fast. Surely he may be pardoned if disposed to investigate a little more carefully into the mental make-up and functioning of these prospective censors into whose hands his favorite indoor amusement is to be summarily delivered.

It is not unnatural, purely as a preliminary precaution, for him to turn to the states where such censorship is already in operation to see if it is giving results satisfactory alike to the censorious-minded and the picture-loving public. Are the censors keeping his interests in mind, or are they absorbed only in cutting out what they consider objectionable, caring not at all whether the remaining fragments, when thrown upon the screen, form a meaningless hodge-podge lacking any trace of continuity or development of plot interest? If, moreover, in the course of his investigations, he stumbles upon some fact of this nature—that in Ohio "Treasure Island" was objected to as teaching boys to be pirates, when his own experience and common-sense assures him that it was a magnificent picturization of an immortal classic, it is not strange if it opens up to him new possibilities of "censorial" interpretation of such a phrase as "tending to incite to crime." When he finds that Pennsylvania insisted on a legal marriage for Kipling's "Without Benefit of Clergy," that a picture of suckling pigs is too naughty to be shown to Philadelphians, that the words "It's a boy" had to be taken out of "The Four Horsemen," that a scene of a young mother sewing on baby garments in anticipation of a coming event, although beautifully and tenderly done, was branded as "suggestive," that a delicate and fanciful film which was so unfortunate as to show a burglar in action (even though quick justice fell upon him!) was mutilated beyond recognition, is it strange that a doubt creeps into his mind whether Shakespeare, or even the Bible, would stand the scrutiny of official censors taking themselves too seriously? "But these are absurd instances," someone says. Absurd, indeed, but authentic instances of what the censors of New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Kansas have been doing in the course of their day's work. Many of the objections imposed in these states seem incredible. Indeed, the remark has been wrong from one critic that "from all its manifestations, the controlling spirit of censorship in these states is akin to that of the unclean-minded disciples of that pseudo-science, psycho-analysis, who scent out sexual complexes in verses as innocent as Longfellow's 'Excelsior,' Tennyson's 'The Brook,' and Whit-tier's 'Maud Muller.'"

Our inquiring friend discovers that such films as "Pollyanna," "The Four Horsemen," "Way Down East," "The Two Orphans," and "The Miracle Man" have been at divers times rejected of censors. What lover of the films but would resent being deprived of any one of these?

He discovers that the machinery of censorship involves a tremendous expense, which, willy-nilly, picture-lovers will be expected to pay in increased admissions.

The further he investigates conditions, the more he becomes convinced that the results of political censorship in other states show that it is exercised with neither intelligence or discretion. It strains at the gnat and swallows the camel. Bad pictures still get by. Good ones are often barred for some fancied or far-fetched reason. Would it work any better in Massachusetts? The character of the law to be submitted at the coming election does not indicate it.

The paradox in the whole matter seems to be that it is impossible to expect satisfactory censorship from imperfect human material, and none less than a human being with perfect qualifications is fitted to dictate to his fellowmen, of many and varying traits of mind and temperament, what pictures are or are not fitted for their entertainment.

And right here, it seems, lies the fundamental weakness in censorship. I quote Dean Charles N. Lathrop, of the Department of Christian Social Service of the Episcopal Church, as follows:

"Individual judgment of motion pictures varies so greatly on account of personal tastes and environment that it is difficult to get even a small group to agree on the probable influence of a picture, to say nothing of making the action of either voluntary or official committees satisfactory to the public at large."

"One would expect that high-minded people would readily agree as to whether a picture was a proper or improper one for public consumption, but in actual practice we find the sharp differences of opinion."

"It is surprising how we differ in our judgment of what is proper or improper for the boys and girls to see, hear and read. A father with the best of ideals and personal standards took his fifteen-year old daughter to see 'Damaged Goods.' He contended that the picture in its horrible details drove home a lesson that boys and girls might better get from the motion pictures than from personal experience."

At a sewing circle party which my wife attended the conversation turned upon plays, and mention was made by someone of one of the current successes then playing in Boston. Almost immediately—simultaneously, in fact—two ladies who had seen it gave utterance to these emphatic but diverse opinions: "Wasn't it SPLENDID!" "I was SO disgusted!" For a moment, there came an embarrassed pause. The episode is not without its significance. Was the one lady a light-headed nonentity and the other normal, or was the one normal and the other a prude? And who shall decide the question for us? Well, censorship says the only proper method is to have a THIRD party step in and adjust the matter—according to HIS particular point of view!

Here is one man's view of censorship (I quote because representative of a certain type of people):—the Governor of one of the states where censorship is in operation was asked what in his opinion good motion pictures should be. He replied, "in my opinion productions should be of a type that a father or mother would feel absolutely safe in having their children witness." Now anyone who believes that motion pictures have the capacity to become a medium of true artistic expression can appreciate the obstacle which this man would place in their way. Are they to be legally restricted to such stuff as children's minds can digest? In order that parents may be relieved of the responsibility of looking after their own children, are adults to be deprived of the best things the screen can give them? It is true that the accessibility of motion picture theatres makes the problem of children in relation to the screen more difficult than that of children in relation to books or plays, but does the greater difficulty mean that motion pictures therefore must be devoted to immature minds exclusively and forever?

Governor S. R. McKelvie of Nebraska vetoed the censorship bill passed in that State, and in giving the reasons for his action said: "There is no more reason to pass laws against the showing of pictures that do not have a strong moral influence than there is to prevent the publication of books and newspapers that carry the same stories as are shown upon the screen." "The right kind of parents do not permit their children to read indiscriminately, neither should they permit them to see pictures indiscriminately." "The guardianship of the child in these matters is a parental responsibility and minimize the importance of the home."

"What we want is not that parents should be encouraged to relax their proper vigil over their children, but that they should be called upon to realize that the State must not and will not relieve them of these responsibilities."

Is this not a plain statement of the elemental facts of the case? Where there is censorship, will not its evils be mitigated to the extent that these facts are recognized by the censors? If they are ignored, what chance will there be for pictures like "Passion," "Deception," "The Cabinet of Doctor Caligari," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Eternal Flame," "The Two Orphans," and, in fact, most of the best works of the screen, including, probably, "The Kid," which might incite some child to throw rocks at windows?

Interesting in this connection are the answers to a questionnaire sent out by the National Board of Review a year ago last Spring in which exhibitors were asked to state the percentage of spectators under 16 years of age attending their theatres. Fifty-nine replies, representing nearly 100 theatres scattered over the country, were received, and indicated that the general average of minor attendance was 10.8 per cent. The highest figure reported was 35 per cent, and the lowest one-half of one per cent. As fifteen exhibitors gave figures of 5 per cent or less, it seems likely that the number of children attending many theatres is almost negligibly small.

"Yet," as Walter Prichard Eaton says, "the advocates of censorship would decree that the vast majority of adults shall have no screen dramas above the intelligence of a fifteen-year-old child."

There are already in our State recognized limits beyond which no entertainment may go. In any Massachusetts community, indecent exhibitions on stage or screen are liable to censorship by virtue of the power vested in mayor or selectmen. If bad films get by, it is in the face of existing laws which, if enforced, are amply capable of dealing with the situation. In many cases of plays or musical plays that have offended, a mere hint from the authorities toward the application of the present statute has usually proved immediately corrective. When it is readily applicable to such films as may warrant it, why add one more chapter to our mass of regulatory laws?

Whoever may eventually be recon-doned in the office of censor will undoubtedly prove human, even as you and I, his mind just as prone to error, his judgment to defects. Automatically, however, he being the court of final appeal, his personal standards, morals, and habits of thought and reason must become the ones we are governed by in the matter of entertainment, his eliminations and prohibitions accepted by us as infallible. Unfortunately we are the descendants of Pilgrim forefathers, who, being of stern stuff and unwilling that others should choose their religion for them, sought across the sea opportunity to exercise their own preferences and judgment. If we enjoy any privilege under a Democracy, certainly it is the right to choose our religion, career, friends, books, and entertainment according to our individual tastes and standards. Do we want to establish in authority a supreme judge of last resort in moral matters? WHO IS GOING TO CENSOR THE CENSOR?

Even though he had the good health to weather the ordeal, it remains a physical impossibility for any one man or body of men to review the mass of new film that enters this state during every week of the year. The work must perforce be relayed out to others, who may or may not possess qualifications for censoring.

I quote the Boston Transcript of October 14th (speaking editorially): "The pictures, we are told, are sometimes 'inhuman,' tend to 'debase, to corrupt morals, to incite to crime.' Agreed that a few have been such and that a few more will be like unto them. There are books and newspapers that, by common consent, tend to 'debase and corrupt morals.' Talk and example, as well as print or picture, have been known to 'incite to crime.' Not schools, associations of the street, the store, the school even, have prompted to it. These are the ordinary conditions, the inevitable peril, of human existence. They are not to be exercised by law, except in ancient, elementary, universally approved statutes."

"Human wisdom agrees that defence against these dangers lies, and lies only, in the training each of us has received, in the tastes we have acquired, the standards we have gained, the life that we choose to live. The influence of home and school, or church and settlement-house, the better contacts of shop, store, office, work and courtes, the rewards of work and pleasure are the only sufficient barriers. In or out of the movies, there law or by bureaucratic formula there is no defining, circumscribing, eliminating maleficent suggestion. Temptations, corruptions, are a part of the warp and woof of life, yesterday, today, forever. It is the human lot to escape these entanglements or to be caught into them. There is not a valid reason to isolate the movies as the peculiar spinner of them. No censorship of the films will untwist and weave anew the web of life."

You can't change the temperature of a room by tampering with the mercury in a thermometer. It is much better to let the thermometer alone, so that it will indicate the temperature accurately, and devote yourself to the windows or the fans. And if you can't make the room cool enough or warm enough to suit you, then you simply have to admit that you, by no means an irresistible force, are up against an immovable body.

The removal or varying standards of censorship between towns and cities by state supervision will only establish a similar condition on a larger scale between states. If there must be a censorship at all, it should, in all fairness, be national and Federal. From Maine to Montana—Massachusetts included—human nature remains human nature—especially when it is busy a-censoring. There is not a reason to believe that in the long run we shall escape the usual absurdities and lapses, the usual play of subterfuge and influence. The movies will remain the movies, except as more ambitious spirits within them and more exacting audiences before them may work betterment. And on to other things, greater or smaller, will go the zealots of censorship, since to them, in their present ardors, the ideal world is a universe of prohibitions."

In respect to censoring the spoken

MASS. stage has been more fortunate. In Mr. Augustus Thomas it has found a man who admirably combines a sympathetic appreciation of the art of the theatre with practical common-sense in the ways of censorship. He holds the confidence and regard of both the artists themselves and those who would regulate their product. Of what state censor of motion pictures can as much be said?

To be sure, we have Mr. Will Hays. And he may not be so bad, either. At any rate, he is still in the testing-out stage, and we, for one, do not wish to begin to hamper him before he has gotten fairly under way.

It may be that you yourself do not enjoy movies, nor care particularly what happens to them. Then—be a little tolerant for there are so many that do. Here is a new art being born into the world—a NEW ART! Not music, or painting, or sculpture, but possessing the salient points of all three. Like all the other art forms, it must struggle for development. It cannot spring into perfection of being at the outset. The development of the motion picture in the past ten years has been remarkable. Who can tell what the future may bring? Already it has passed its much-mooted "infancy" and is learning to toddle along. Let's not throw obstacles in its path.

Sometimes, sitting in one of our splendidly equipped motion picture theatres, witnessing the presentation of some high-class film production, one almost wonders, in the popular slang of the hour, "What's all the shodin' fur?" Just how bad ABE these movies, if one cares to exercise ordinary discrimination as to the grade of house he attends? Here are the last fifteen I have seen. The best of them would ornament any screen (church vestry included!) the poorest are no better and no worse than the diverting and popular effusions, for instance, of our ingenious friend, E. Phillips Oppenheim!

TOLERANCE

My neighbor wears a curious hat,
I do not like him less for that.
Black coffee he declares is fine,
Sugar and cream I choose in mine.
Each of us owns a plot of ground
Whereon our choice of flowers is found.
Red roses make a lovely sight,
But he is fonder of the white.
Although on this we can't agree,
We stay as friendly as can be.
My neighbor is a Democrat,
I do not hate him though for that.
We differ in our tastes and views,
Pleasures he likes I'd never choose.
But I don't hold that he should eat
My favorite form of fish or meat.
I don't insist that he should wear
A hat for which he doesn't care.

"BOBBY" SMITH HURT

"Bobby" Smith, 9 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Smith of Wolcott road, was badly hurt and bruised, but not seriously injured last Friday afternoon when he mixed it up with an automobile in the centre. "Bobby" was riding his bicycle, and according to report enjoying a stick of candy at the same time. He failed to note the approach of a Westcott sedan driven by Mrs. Grace J. Crosby of West Newton, and at the corner of Conversa place and Mt. Vernon street the two came together.

Fortunately Mrs. Crosby had practically stopped her car, but "Bobby" struck the headlight, bending it and breaking the glass. He fell under the front of the car and his bicycle was wrecked. A bad cut near his mouth and the shock of the impact made his condition appear very serious, and he was hauled to the Hospital. After examination and a stitch in the cut on his face, he was taken home, where he is convalescing nicely.

In the car with Mrs. Crosby were Mrs. R. L. Green of Newton Centre, Miss Priscilla Delano of West Newton, and Mrs. Crosby's 14 year old son, William.

No Censorship

Citizens of Massachusetts oppose and will vote against censorship of moving pictures, newest and greatest development in the art of publicity, as they would oppose censorship of the press, wisely forbidden by the Constitution, or censorship of books which was ended by the noble fight that Milton made against it. Censorship implies LACK OF SUFFICIENT INTELLIGENCE TO ENABLE THE PUBLIC to decide for itself, and to punish where punishment is deserved, after it is deserved.

Unwise, Un-American

The unwise, un-American, UNINTELLIGENT censorship proposition is a censorship of YOUR INTELLIGENCE, your ability to control your own affairs and protect yourself by appropriate action in the field of moving pictures as in other directions.

The people of Massachusetts need no guardian or censors to direct or guide them mentally. They need no censor appointed by individuals to tell them what they may and may not see, what opinions and facts may be put before them either on the screen or on the printed page.

Massachusetts Needs No Guardian

Massachusetts has led this country in intelligence, education, morality, and sound statesmanship.

It will rely, in the future as in the past, upon police and courts to punish those that violate the law, whether in motion pictures, newspapers, plays, books, or public speakers.

Censorship, as regards books was defeated by Milton in his magnificent fight for freedom expressed in the Aeropagetic. Censorship of newspapers is forbidden by the Constitution of the United States. It will not be permitted by the citizens of Massachusetts in connection with motion pictures, the greatest, latest, most powerful development of publicity.

The courts can attend to violations of law. No need of more complicated public machinery with MORE TAXES.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

So much less mental effort is required for destructive than for constructive criticism that it is no wonder Winchester has "knockers" as does every community in this broad land of ours.

The verdict of $1000 given in a court a day's ride from Winchester, to a bicyclist who was run down and injured by an automobile, emphasizes a fact which too many drivers of automobiles choose to ignore; that is, that the roads are for the use of others than drivers of motor vehicles. The bicyclist, the man with the push cart, the woman with a baby carriage and the pedestrian each has a lawful right to use the public highways and this right must be conceded by the automobilist, some of whom seem to labor under the impression that the public highways are nothing more than speedways for high powered machines. Judges will instruct juries as to the respective rights of users of the highways and juries should not fail to return verdicts for the plaintiff where such rights have been ignored. The best rule of the road is the Golden Rule. If it were generally practiced there would be few damage suits.

A Winchester gentleman who takes more than passing interest in politics and the affairs related to it is boldly predicting that the day is not far in the future when the country will see the birth of new parties. According to this student of political affairs both parties are over organized and both are suffering from undernourishment. They are so well organized that men of very mediocre ability as leaders can put them through their paces and make them deliver the identical brand of goods each succeeding year. The Spectator is inclined to hold also that if either the Republican or the Democratic party is to endure permanently and expand it must be on the alert for men who have demonstrated their ability to do more than the commonplace; men who deliver as public servants "more than the customary measure; men who have the vision to see and the courage to do that which should be done even though it stir the dust of party dry rot.

The "infant terrible" seems to be very "hard boiled" these perilous days. In a community not far from Winchester liquor was unearthed in a baby carriage and in another community a revolver was discovered in one. What will the world be like when the youngest of the younger generation grow up?

"Star Reader" wants to know if The Spectator can tell him what the reason is the most unmusical man whistles and sings when he is in the bath tub? Winchesterites who have not any more sense of music than a back fence Tom cat whistle frots and even bits of light opera while they are sloshing around in the tub, or allowing the shower bath to trickle on them. We know one individual who sings "Ye Banks and Braces of Bonnie Doon" every time he gets into the tub, although singing is hardly his forte. Somehow with the bathroom door closed, no individual of the male persuasion thinks anyone can hear the musical tones he pours forth from his throat, and sometimes the family wishes he were right in his supposition.

The foregoing query induces The Spectator to wonder what it is about bathing out of doors that makes even the most retiring person begin to shout and scream and be noisy. This is especially true of salt water bathing. The Spectator has seen the most self-constrained young men turned into noisy roisterers in the salt water. The Spectator has seen the most poised and delicate women screaming and laughing like fishwives as the waves splashed over them. Of course there is nothing like having a big salt water wave slap one in the face, to smash all conventions and maybe that is the reason that man and woman go back to primitive yelling and screaming when they are disporting themselves in old mother ocean. She, old mother Ocean, is a democratic old thing and she doesn't care a snap of her finger whether the bathers are accustomed to cold creams and massages or are the sort that sees the bath tub rarely; she sloshes over all of 'em alike. It may be within the realm of possibility that the bathers catch their noisy devil-may-care mood from her.

The Winchesterite who sings his own praises sings a solo.

How many Winchesterites know that the age and growth of fish can be reckoned from the rings on their scales just as the life of trees can be read from the record in their annual rings?

The Spectator.

HIGH SCHOOL RED CROSS ASSEMBLY

A very instructive and interesting assembly was held at the High School Tuesday morning. Mr. Paul V. Donovan, Principal of the Boston Continuation School and Director of the Junior Red Cross in the Boston Schools, presented the work of the Red Cross in a way to appeal strongly to the interest of the pupils.

He spoke especially of the great reduction in membership since the war. The present number of five million young people actively engaged in this work sounds large, but when this is compared with eleven millions during the war and with the present terrible need of help in France and the Allied Countries, one realizes how shamefully we have forgotten the war. Mr. Donovan described the condition of the French villages in the War Zone, where children of fourteen through hardship and lack of nourishment look like children of only six. He told how these children have never learned to play and must be taught even so simple a game as tossing the ball. Almost sadder still is the fact that in these villages there are no young men, only children and old people. France with her loss of four and a half million in killed and maimed has few young men left. He described the huge cemetery where lie the hundreds of American boys who gave their lives in the war, and told especially of the old women who spend their days in keeping the place in the exact order the French know so well how to maintain. They have not forgotten. Should we?

Conditions of need obtain not alone in France. Mr. Donovan illustrated the situation in Naples by the story of a boy so weakened by starvation that he almost died even after he had been taken to the hospital by Red Cross workers and he is typical of hundreds of orphans in these war-ravaged countries.

Even more than money, these people need the sympathy and the interest of others. In giving this the American boys and girls can save themselves from the danger of selfishness, and can help their country, as an Italian boy in Boston suggested, by showing other nations that America has not forgotten; that she sees the misfortunes of others and wants to help. This will be a real service to the world.

Mr. Donovan then outlined briefly the various lines of work which the Winchester boys and girls might undertake, and asked for a large membership from the school. He especially spoke of the correspondence with the boys and girls of other lands which might form a very valuable project for the foreign language classes. The letters in English from foreign boys which he read gained the admiration of the pupils for their correct use of the language. The hearty applause which his lecture received convinced promising interest.

Mrs. Jordan of the local Red Cross then spoke of a present opportunity for volunteers to aid in the coming Roll Call.

HOSPITAL ALUMNAE GIVE HALLOWEEN DANCE

The Alumnae of the Winchester Hospital gave an informal Halloween dance in Waterfield Hall on Friday evening. About fifty couples attended. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Misses Dempsey and Timmins. The matrons were Mrs. R. V. Davis and Mrs. Marcia B. May. The Original Five of Framingham furnished the music.

The hall was appropriately decorated with toy balloons, attractively colored to match the autumn leaves, and cornstalks, which gave the hall a truly Halloween appearance. One of the most interesting features of the dance was a fortune teller, hidden in a secluded booth of camouflaged screens. In this dimly lighted and mysterious chamber many attractive, young nurses learned that their future was to be filled with romance and riches.

For the gentlemen, a "cut-in" dance by the ladies made the party most enjoyable, for they were then able to ascertain just how much popularity their graceful dancing had won for them.

Refreshments were served at 10:30, and, being in their usual good style, were very welcome.

The dance was one of the most successful ever given by the Nurses Alumnae, and the committee deserves much praise for the excellent manner in which it was handled. The number present was ideal, the music exceptional, and to use a trite expression, "a good time was enjoyed by everyone."

A VISIT TO THE WINCHESTER LAUNDRY

On Thursday, October twenty-sixth, the physics class of the Winchester High School made a visit to the Winchester Laundry. It was extremely interesting for the class to note the different stages that our clothes pass through in the process of cleansing.

We went at once to the top floor in elevators so that we might follow the operation from its beginning. The clothes are first marked with the owner's number and then assorted. They are next washed in large machines in which they are thoroughly cleansed. Drying is accomplished by placing the clothes in machines that revolve very swiftly. Some clothes require starching, and others are ironed directly after the washing. Ironing is done by machines, and thus more perfect and quicker work is accomplished. There is a department called the "Finish Family Department," where old pieces are ironed; some by hand and others by machines. In this room there are many peculiarly shaped implements that are used for ironing sleeves and other parts of clothing that are hard to press neatly.

After being ironed, the clothes are packed in boxes and marked. In this condition we find them when the laundryman comes with the week's laundry.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH WINCHESTER?

(Series Number Three)

The question is asked a good many times. Why do so many desirable citizens sell their property and move from Winchester? A business man where his business is located in Boston does not necessarily have to live in a certain town, if he can find another one within easy access of Boston. In recent years we are all aware of the increase in the valuation by the assessors of property in this town. So naturally a smart business man who bought property 8 or 9 years ago will say for $16,000 dollars and can make a sale at $30,000, will use good judgement in "getting it while the 'getting is good'" at the same time buying a piece of property in another town equally as good for less money, thereby making a few thousand dollars of easy money. Of course the cost of building has increased in the past five years, but there has not been enough in the town to bring values down to their proper level. A gentleman last week asked the question, if we wanted the houses they are building in Somerville put up in Winchester. Well, not at the East or West side of the town but there is plenty of vacant land in Winchester where such houses can be put up and be a big benefit to this town. Last month permits were issued in Arlington for $120,000 worth of just such buildings as this gentleman condemned, and no one can accuse Arlington of not being as good a town as Winchester to live in. Series No. 4 next week.

TALENTED 'CELLIST WEDS

Miss A. Laura Tolman, widely known throughout musical circles as a violinist of exceptional ability and known to music lovers the country over, was married at a quiet wedding in King's Chapel, Boston, on Monday noon to Mr. Fred Johnson Kilgore of Waterford, Me.

The ceremony was attended by a small group of intimate friends of the bride and groom and was performed by Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the First Baptist Church of this town. Mr. Preston Phillips of Providence, R. I., was best man and Miss Norma Gormully of New York City was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mae Phillips of Providence, R. I., Miss Alice McGill of Boston and Miss Alice Starratt of Boston.

The bride wore for her wedding dress a creation of white crepe de chine, heavily embroidered with crystal beads, tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The maid of honor wore rose crepe de chine and carried tea roses, and the bridesmaids were gowned alike in pearl gray crepe de chine and wore black picture hats. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony.

Miss Tolman has made her home in Winchester, residing with her mother, Mrs. Edward Hyde Rice, on Eaton street. For the past few years she has spent the larger part of her time at her fine estate at Harrison, Maine, where she and her husband will make their home for the present upon their return from their wedding trip.

WINCHESTER LAUNDRIES HOST TO 1430

Last week was Visitors' Week at The Winchester Laundries, Inc., and 1430 men, women and children were entertained at the Winchester Branch. All the visitors were taken through the plant, and guides explained each process to them in detail. Judging by their exclamations, it was a revelation to many of them who apparently had had no idea of the way a modern laundry is operated. This year there were nearly five hundred more guests than during Visitors' Week last year.

BRIDGE OPEN SATURDAY

The new Bacon street bridge was open for travel on Saturday, many taking advantage of the shorter route by way of the Parkway to Boston and obtaining their first view of the new structure. One and all acclaim it as the most artistic and beautiful bridge in this vicinity.

The roadway is 60 feet wide and the span of the arch 30 feet. The approach and roadway have not yet been completely built and will not be until Spring, it being anticipated that such settlement as will take place will be through the winter months.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

To the Editor of the Star:

Under the heading of a report signed by the Chairman and Secretary of the Finance Board in last week's Star, the impression has been taken by a number of voters, that the act in regard to the two-platoon system could be accepted at one of our town meetings. This statement coming from these two citizens, as officers of this Board is misleading, and we ask the citizens to read the Act and note the fact that, in order to be accepted by the Town, must be done at a State election, and not at a Town meeting, as stated by this Board. After the Act has been accepted by the Town, then the citizens will have the opportunity of debating, in Town Meeting, the question of the amount of money needed to put the Act in force. I take this opportunity to correct this error, and ask the citizens to vote "YES" on the last referendum on the ballot, and by so doing, you will be protecting your homes and families, and Winchester will take its place amongst the Towns in this State which have already accepted this Act; and remember the cost to the Taxpayers to make this change is less than twenty-five (25) cents on your tax rate, which is approximately the same amount added by the towns and cities who have accepted this Act.

Mr. A. W. MacKenzie,

Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of October 29th relative to taking a vote upon the two-platoon act for permanent firemen, and in reply you are informed that General Laws, Chapter 48, Section 59, paragraph 5, provides that the vote may be taken only at a State election.

Very truly yours,
F. W. Cook, Secretary.

NO APPARATUS USED

We are informed by Mr. Irving L. Symmes, whose father, the late Charles Symmes was chief of the fire department at the time that Winchester did not send any apparatus to the great Boston fire of Nov. 9th, 1872. According to Mr. Symmes the fire engine, the Charles R. Moseley, was in the shop at the time of the fire, and all that this town had in service was a hand pump and a couple of hose wagons.

Mr. Peter Walling returned to town Friday after a trip of over a month through the west and south. He attended the G. A. R. Convention at Des Moines, Iowa.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

To obtain full economy from the use of gas, keep careful watch of your gas flame. The correct flame is blue. If the flame is yellow or white, the mixture of gas and air entering the burner is imperfect. This can be remedied by adjusting the air shutter on the mixing tube, or, in extreme cases, by adjusting the size of the gas orifice.

A yellow flame is wasteful, furthermore, it deposits soot at the bottom of pots and pans. If you have a coil-type water heater, see that the coils are kept free from soot by brushing them at frequent intervals. The soot acts as an insulator, and considerable more gas is required to get hot water than when the coils are clean.

Of course, with dirty, greasy burners you can not expect to obtain maximum results from your gas service. It is just as necessary to clean gas burners as it is to clean windows.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

October 30, 1922.

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of Oct. 8rd were read and approved.

Beginning with a pony express for letters only, the Post Office Department has extended its activities to meet the needs of advancing civilization until its ramifications and activities, while clearly defined, have broadened far beyond the mere carrying of letters.

First of these broadening horizons was the Registry System, established in 1855 for the greater security in sending money and valuables, the loss of which is practically negligible.

Free delivery in all large cities, 1863, has saved literally billions of dollars worth of time.

Money Order Systems, 1864, made an absolutely safe way to send money by mail.

Postal cards were authorized in 1873, as an element of both time and labor saving, as well as economical for sending short messages.

The Special Delivery System was installed in 1885, as a special time saver when time is of great value, and at a minimum cost.

Rural Free Delivery, 1896, has so altered country living conditions as to make them unrecognizable to those who know them best.

Postal Savings System, was established in 1911.

WILL SELL GOODS AT AUCTION

Mr. Clarence M. Perkins, who for a number of years has conducted a milk business on Cross street at the Highlands, being widely known to many Winchester residents through his supplying the milk used in the public schools, leaves within a few days for St. Louis, where he will make his future home. Owing to the death of a relative, Mr. Perkins will engage in other business in St. Louis.

Mr. Perkins will accordingly sell at public auction on the premises, 99 Cross street, all his household furniture, china, cut glass, etc., and all of his cattle, wagons, harnesses, tools, etc.

The sale is to be held on two days, the household goods being sold on Saturday, Nov. 4th, at 10 a. m., and the stock, etc., on Monday, Nov. 6th, at 10 a. m.

A GARDEN OF LIGHT

The Epworth League held its annual Halloween Party at the north reservoir, Saturday evening, Oct. 28. Instead of the place being a spooky pond it was a garden of light. A big bonfire brightened the heavens already lighted by the moon. Having secured long sticks the guests gathered about a small charcoal fire and toasted marshmallows, "hot dogs," apples and doughnuts were plenty, and fun and frolic never better. About fifty young people were present, enjoying games, races, riddles and stories. Committee consisted of Dorothy Bradshaw, Esther Greenlaw, Hamilton and John Gixord. Ronald Hatch is president of the League.

According to the London Star, the "Duke of York's" sensational success, "The Broken Wing," is looked upon as another "Bunty Pulls the Strings." With its Mexican atmosphere it strikes a new note, just as "Bunty" did. Thurston Hall's characterization of "Captain Innocent" is delightful, and has established him as a new star who ranks with London's best. Mr. Hall, it will be noted, is a Winchester boy, residing here until he went upon the stage. He is well known to many residents, who look forward to seeing him on his American tour.

STATE ELECTION

Winchester Polled Usual Big Republican Vote

Winchester polled its usual big Republican vote on Tuesday at the State election, and not only that but produced an exceptional vote as well, for our total ballot amounted to 3546, the largest in the history of the town. The division was 1925 male and 1621 female ballots. It was seen early in the day that a big vote was in progress, and during the day booths were well filled.

While interest ran high regarding the success of the heads of the ticket, the local interest was only in the vote on the Two Platoon Act, which was voted down by a little over 200. The firemen were active in pushing their bill through, automobiles carrying banners, posters, circulars and cards being circulated.

Second to this vote, the "movie census" outcome was of interest here, and this was refused by nearly a thousand majority. Governor Cox received a big vote and Henry Cabot Lodge was well supported. Arthur K. Reading led the Democratic candidate, James C. Reilly, for District Attorney by a little over 600 votes.

The vote was not counted until about 1 a. m., the clerks working hard from the closing of the polls until that hour. The ballot officers and clerks were as follows:

Republican: Ralph F. Arnold, Joseph A. Blackham, Robert W. Hamilton, J. Leslie Johnston, Joseph T. McCauley, Harry E. Nutter, Frank T. Olmstead, William E. Ramsdell, Warren Johnston. Democratic: Henry T. Donahue, George D. Dunbury, Dwight D. Elliott, Timothy H. Haley, John F. Henry, Frank L. Humphrey, James F. Ledwidge, Joseph D. Mawn, Robert H. Sullivan.

There was no dinner nor supper served at the Town Hall for the clerks, they being given tickets for their meals at the restaurant.

The Winchester vote was as follows:

Channing H. Cox, Republican, 2546
John F. Fitzgerald, Democratic, 604

The special town meeting is to be held on Monday night, opening at 7:45 o'clock. Attention is called to this fact, that there may be a representative attendance, as important votes will be passed involving additional appropriations as outlined in the article published in this week's Star by the Selectmen. Attend the meeting.

WATER SYSTEM INSPECTED

About 40 automobiles were in line Saturday afternoon for the trip of inspection around the Winchester reservoir. The party, led by the members of the Water Department and town officials, left the Town Hall at 3 o'clock sharp and entered the Fella at the Mt. Vernon street entrance.

The route was well laid out, all three reservoirs being circled by the party, and a most comprehensive idea being gained of the work which is being carried out by the Water Department in clearing shores of the lakes and the planting of evergreens.

The party excited much interest, many people visiting the reservoirs on foot and on horse back in addition to those in automobiles. Every vantage point along the route contained groups of residents watching the novel and unusual sight of the cars traveling for the first time the excluded roads about the lakes.

The Water Department had the route well laid out and the roads were all placarded and sentries stationed at intersecting paths to instruct the drivers. The service auto of the Department followed the end of the line and rendered assistance to cars encountering trouble on the route.

The trip was a decided success, many residents gaining a good view of our reservoirs for the first time, and the Water Department came in for considerable commendation for its active interest in town matters.

BILLINGS—BENNETT

A quiet home wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at two, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bennett, 36 Highland avenue, when their daughter, Enid Alice Bennett, was united in marriage to Mr. Alson Powers Billings of North Scituate.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry E. Dodge, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of this town. The couple were attended by Miss Elsie M. Lyons of East Boston, who was bridesmaid, and Mr. Earl Birkenshaw of Waltham, who was groomsmen.

The bride wore a dress of white tulle, trimmed with pearls, and a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's dress was of orange pink cotton crepe with silver trimmings, and she carried pink roses.

A reception followed immediately after the ceremony, the attendance including a number of relatives of the couple. Decorations of yellow chrysanthemums and roses transformed the rooms into a bower of beauty and the warm and sunny afternoon added much to the festivities. The music for both ceremony and reception was rendered by Miss Marion Twombly.

Following a wedding trip through the Berkshires, Mr. and Mrs. Billings will make their home at North Scituate. The groom is a World War veteran, serving in the medical department.

ATLANTIC CITY COMING TO BOSTON

Largest Enterprise Ever Undertaken by Women

A pictured ocean, real sand, piers, snappy shops, roller chairs, fakirs, a theatre with two performances daily, fortune tellers, "The Hut" with its cafeteria and countless other attractions.

The Atlantic City Boardwalk is to be reproduced in Mechanics Building, Boston, Dec. 1 to 9 inclusive, as accurately as human ingenuity can accomplish that feat.

In this tremendous undertaking which will benefit the New England Hospital for Women and Children, disabled ex-service men, Massachusetts League of Women Voters and Frances E. Willard Settlement, Winchester will have its part.

On Dec. 1, 2 and 4 the Winchester League of Women Voters, under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Wadsworth and Mrs. Joseph Fessenden, will conduct a shop where Christmas wrappings, twines, cards and paper will be on sale.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON THE PARKWAY LAST SUNDAY

An unfortunate auto accident occurred on the Mystic Valley Parkway in West Medford last Sunday about 6:30 p. m. A powerful, greenish-gray roadster headed north at about 40 miles per hour hit a Ford touring car bound in the opposite direction, tore off the left front wheel and fender and turned the light car over on its side, throwing the occupants into the road. The roadster, apparently undamaged did not stop but continued to rush along at such speed that neither the make nor the number were ascertained.

The Ford was owned and operated by Fred E. Goding, 31 Forest street, Somerville, who upon examination was found to be suffering from a badly wrenched arm. Miss Anne Shephard, 452 Russell avenue, Watertown, who was also in the wrecked machine, was taken to the Winchester Hospital by a passing motorist. She sustained a compound fracture of the leg. The other occupants were Mrs. Thomas Clarke, 80 School street, Somerville, and her two daughters, Evelyn 14 and Edith 3. They were not seriously injured but were badly shaken up and somewhat bruised.

OSTEOPATHIC SOCIETY MEET

The Mystic Valley Osteopathic Society met on Wednesday evening at the residence of Dr. Ralph Manning. The wives of the members were invited to be present for the social gathering following the meeting. Refreshments were served. The members expressed their hearty approval of the Treatment Room newly arranged at Dr. Manning's residence.

"CURRENT AFFAIRS"

Boston Chamber of Commerce Journal endorses the Suburban Newspaper

"If you live in Boston, you read any one, or all, of the Boston dailies. If you live in Boston, and have been promoted here from any small town, you read the Boston papers and the weekly that the folks back home send every so often. The Boston papers you read for news, local metropolitas, national, and international. It is crowded with news. You haven't time to read it all, so you scan it rapidly, assimilate a little here and there, read the editorial. You've read the paper.

"But the home town paper you save to read thoroughly at your leisure. And you read it—title, date line, fire alarm boxes, advertisements and fillers. You are interested to know that Hudson Appleby has been seen around town in a new car; that Patsy Miele can find no trace of the criminal who embezzled $200 from the lunch cart; and that the dump will hereafter be closed on Tuesdays and Thursdays. That is news to you, news of much more importance than Marilyn's marriage.

"If you work in town, and live in the country, your own weekly gets the same attention. A weekly newspaper knits any community together. It is read by everyone in town. If you do not subscribe for it yourself, you borrow it from the woman next door, who reads it after the men upstairs get through with it. One publisher within fifteen miles of Boston found that one subscription served eight families. Each family read it after the other got through with it.

"As a public institution, the suburban or country newspaper is a public service in the fullest meaning of the term. The publisher serves his readers with all of the local gossip and news, and he serves the advertiser in more ways than in placing his advertisement in the paper. Advertisers expect him to make arrangements for window displays, locate jobbers to handle advertised lines, hunt up business men to handle agencies, introduce advertised products among merchants, and act as a combination sales promotion manager and auxiliary salesman. All of this service is included in the payment for the advertisement. His business demands that he work for himself, for other people, and sometimes for the town.

"When local organizations run a dance, or a profit-making entertainment he is expected to whomp it up in valuable advertising space by printing stories about it, arouse public sentiment, get the people interested. If it is a success, the publicity committee of the club gets the credit. If it is a failure, the publisher is blamed. And for all his trouble, sometimes he gets a free ticket.

"He records the history of the town from week to week. When the selectmen were just a little bit too self important and obdurate about putting the benches back on the public common in the Springtime so that mothers and babies could enjoy the air, it was the town paper that ridiculed them into it to the amusement and satisfaction of all readers. Every reader knows the publisher, either personally or by sight. They know the people in the news the same way. They are more personally interested in the news. It explains the difference in the attention given the metropolitan daily and the country weekly.

The publisher has his troubles, too. Publicity seekers are perhaps the most irritable of them all. National advertisers, particularly automobile accounts, seem to labor under the delusion that he does not know what to print, and that he would appreciate having someone send him stories all typewritten on one side of the paper in regulation form. Stories that they think are of absorbing interest to his readers, and always, even in the very receipt of the story, there is the insinuation that advertising will follow. He receives reams of it every week. If an article appeals to him, or if he thinks it will appeal to his readers, he prints it, but most of it goes into the waste basket. The national advertiser who actually advertises with him, gets the same fair publicity treatment that he would get on any paper.

JUVENILE JAMBOREE

About 250 children attended the entertainment given by William Parkman Lodge on Friday afternoon in Masonic Hall. The affair was entitled a "Juvenile Jamboree," and the attendance included children of Masons and Eastern Star members.

A most entertaining and delightful program was arranged under the direction of Mr. Harris S. Richardson. Magic and sleight of hand was illustrated by Mr. Herbert Taylor, known as the Clown Man, a Punch and Judy Show and unusual stories for children were told by Miss Jean Muir.

The children were accompanied by their mothers and a committee of ladies took charge of the hall and refreshments which followed the entertainment and closed the program.

EVERY DAY STORIES NO. 11

Fred's Philosophy
Fred, though a very small boy, was very exact. This characteristic asserted itself very strongly as he reached the inquisitive age. He was, in truth, a human question mark, and only minute details would satisfy his insatiable curiosity.

One day, after studying his Sunday School Lesson, he suddenly asked, "How do we eat when we get to Heaven?"

Before committing myself on this weighty subject, I asked him why he wished to know.

"Because," he replied, "I don't see how we can eat with a bill."

Floundering hopelessly I gasped, "A bill! What made you think we have bills in Heaven?"

"Well," replied that resourceful youngster, "we have wings, don't we?"

ATTENDED 50th ANNIVERSARY

Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Adriance returned home yesterday from Portland, Maine, where they were the guests of the Woodfords Congregational Church, which was celebrating the 50th anniversary of its organization. Mr. Adriance wrote an anniversary hymn for the occasion and on Tuesday evening delivered an address entitled "The Pictured Past; A Minister's Reminiscences." The exercises closed on Wednesday evening with a pageant depicting twelve episodes in the life of the church. This church has a membership of 745 and its Sunday School is the fourth largest of the Congregational Sunday Schools in the United States. The exercises connected with the celebration continued through four days.

FATHERS AND SONS NIGHT

In opening the season's entertainments for its members, the Calumet Club announces a "Fathers and Sons" night for this Saturday evening. Along the line of the title, a most entertaining program has been arranged by the entertainment committee, of interest alike to the father and the son. The announcement that Mr. Harry K. Eustace will give a talk on his African travels is welcome news to everyone. It will undoubtedly be one of the most popular programs of the winter. Plan to attend and take "the boy." The talk, which will be illustrated, opens at 8, and the usual Saturday night lunch will be served.

STATEMENT BY THE BOARD OF SELECTMEN

Reasons Given for Calling the Special Town Meeting

The special Town Meeting to be held next Monday, Nov. 13th, has been called so that the Board of Selectmen may report to the Town what has been done under its direction and to ask the Town to make certain transfers of funds at this time. The Board is not now asking for any new appropriations, which would increase the tax rate.

Bacon Street Bridge

This work has been completed so far as work contemplated this season is concerned. The roadway and sidewalk will be finally surfaced next spring after any possible settlement has taken place.

When the excavation for the foundations was being done, it was found that although every precaution had been taken to determine the grade of good bottom by means of borings, it was necessary on the southerly side of the bridge to carry the excavation deeper than the plans showed. This entailed additional concrete for the structure itself. Provision had already been made for such a contingency and the extra work was done at the unit cost determined when the contract was signed.

Before there was any definite appropriation for this job, it was necessary to do some work at this location such as providing temporary walks, removal of the fallen debris from the river, fencing, lighting, etc. After the completion of the general contract the Town spent some time putting the roadways and approaches in good condition. Some of this work has been charged directly to the Bacon Street Bridge Account, but a considerable sum was expended by the Highways and Bridges account, there being at that time no other appropriation from which funds were available.

The Town appropriated $25,000 for Bacon Street Bridge and the Metropolitan District Commission and Middlesex County Commission each appropriated $5000, making a total of $35,000. As of Nov. 6, 1922, the account stood as follows:

T. Stuart & Sons Co. $32,900.00
Contract 2,514.35
Extras 35,214.35
Allowance 1,550.00

Total $33,664.35
J. R. Worcester, engineering services 2,543.76
Town of Winchester, Bacon Street Bridge account 901.23
Town of Winchester, Highways and Bridges account 1,041.07

Total $38,149.44
Appropriation 35,000.00
Deficit, Nov. 6, 1922 $3,149.44
Estimated for lights and incidentals 329.56
Total deficit $3,579.00

Engineering Department

On July 1, upon the appointment of Mr. Hinds as Superintendent of Streets, it became necessary to appoint another man to the Engineering Department. Mr. Sharon, a local man, was appointed to this position at a salary equivalent to that which Mr. Holbrook had been receiving.

The difference between Mr. Clark's former salary of $2400 and Mr. Sharon's salary of $1900 was divided between Messrs. Hinds, Holbrook and Lawson, the total amount paid for salaries remaining exactly as before the consolidation of these two departments. Mr. Hinds' combined salary became $2700, Mr. Holbrook's $2150, Mr. Sharon's $1900 and Mr. Lawson's $1300.

For the balance of this year, however, the Engineering Department faces a deficit of $950 as Mr. Sharon's salary for the half year must still come from this department, the auditor having ruled that no funds could be transferred from the Highways and Bridges Account to the Engineering Department even if funds were available in the Highways and Bridges account. In addition to this the Planning Board requests an appropriation of $350 to cover the salary of an extra draftsman to prepare preliminary plans for zoning. This makes a total deficit of $1300.

Highways and Bridges

On account of various unforeseen conditions, this department has had to do considerable more work than was anticipated last spring, and consequently any deficits must be made up by transfers from other departments in which less work could be done than was originally planned, or from a reserve fund.

As stated above $1041.07 was expended by the Highway and Bridges Department for work done on the Bacon Street Bridge. This should properly be charged to the Bacon Street Bridge account and the Highways and Bridges account should have credit for this amount.

With the closing of Bacon Street Bridge and the diversion of traffic to the west side Central street which for many years had been in poor condition became so badly worn as to require immediate attention. This road was resurfaced at a cost of about $900. It was felt that it was good judgment to do this work this season particularly in view of the unusual traffic and the increased possibility of accidents, rather than to let it go until next year when undoubtedly a larger amount would be required to do the job.

High street started last winter and on which $2200 of this year's appropriation of $4000 had been expended when the present Board came into office was still uncompleted this spring, and in order to put this street in suitable condition it was necessary to expend on it about $1400 more than was estimated in the budget, or a total of about $8400.

BIG BAZAAR NEXT FRIDAY

Not for many years has Winchester had a real truly bazaar run along the old fashioned lines, but according to plans which have been worked out by the members of Winchester Chapter, O. E. S., under the direction of Mr. M. R. Doane of Lakeville road, it will have such an event next Friday afternoon and evening when the Chapter conducts its big time in the Town Hall.

Most extensive preparations have been made for the affair. The decorations are to be both superb and unique, including for instance a real country store and a cafeteria. The tables are to be of a number sufficient to cover every field in the sale of fancy and useful articles, while afternoon tea and an evening supper will be big features.

Opening at two o'clock, the afternoon will be given over to the sale, with plenty of ice cream and graha for the children and afternoon tea for the mothers. A fortune teller will interest both young and old. Mrs. Joseph Fessenden and Mrs. W. R. McIntosh will have charge of the tea and Mrs. Martha Tibbetta the ice cream.

At six o'clock the supper will open, extending to 7:30 to give all a chance to fill the inner man with a real "homey meal." From then on the program will be such as to please everyone.

Assisting Mrs. Doane in the affair, in addition to the ladies mentioned above, are the following:

Supper—Mrs. Joseph Fessenden and Mrs. W. R. McIntosh.

Apron table—Mrs. George W. Apsey.

Fancy table—Mrs. William E. Roberts.

Household table—Mrs. Frank W. Roberts.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Last Sunday at the Methodist Church, the Flying Squadron from the North End Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. provided the program for the evening service, under the general direction of Dr. N. L. Rami who has been the leader of the Branch since its organization some years ago. Mrs. G. M. Hamilton of the local U. C. Mrs. G. H. Hamilton of the local U. C. Five young men and one young woman constitute the Squadron which has been rumpaging vigorously for the enforcement law, urging people to vote Yes on Referendum 4. As all these young people are Italians or of Italian descent, their efforts in behalf of prohibition are worthy of especial notice, since we are so constantly told that the foreign element is wholly for the wet side. Their campaign songs and readings were very enjoyable and the addresses were stirring and convincing.

In behalf of the work of the North End Y. P. B. there is to be a sale and tea at Tremont Temple Tuesday, Nov. 14, from 2 to 4:30 p. m., to which you are cordially invited. Winter and Woburn Unions are to have an apron table and anyone wishing to contribute one or more such articles, of any style, is asked to do so and send to Mrs. Henry Blood not later than next Monday.

For various reasons it seems best to postpone the regular meeting of the local Union one week, so it will be held Friday, Nov. 24 and will be in the interests of the Soldiers' and Sailors' work. Please note the change.

RECEPTION AND DONATION DAY

Reception and Donation Day at the Home for Aged People will be held on Thursday Nov. 23rd, from 3 to 5 p. m. This is an annual event and of late years has proven to be one of great pleasure to the members of the Home.

The gifts of home supplies and money have been of very substantial help in maintaining the Home, which now has ten members in its family. Tea will be served. Mrs. Stanley Fitch and other directors will receive and the members of the Home will be glad to receive their friends in their rooms.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION FORMED AT HIGH SCHOOL

A Parent-Teacher Association was formed at the High School on Monday night, there being an attendance of nearly 100 parents present in answer to a call issued in last week's Star for a meeting for the formation of such an organization.

Mr. Henry S. Chapman was chosen president, Messrs. William L. Parsons and Clinton E. Farnham vice-presidents, Mrs. Eleanor P. Guild secretary and Mrs. Danforth W. Collins treasurer.

Mrs. Arthur E. Sanford of 97 Cambridge street, left town last Monday for a month's trip to New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Washington. She expects to stay in Washington a week, and while there will attend the 17th Triennial Assembly of the General Grand Chapter Session, Order of the Eastern Star.

BANQUET TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

The Mission Union and the Western Missionary Society of the Congregational Church gave a 'Mothers and Daughters' Banquet in the vestry of the church on last Saturday evening. The banquet was the first of its kind ever given in town, but in spite of this was a thorough success in every sense of the word. About one-hundred mothers, with their daughters attended.

Mrs. James S. Allen, Jr., acted as toastmistress; her keen wit and original introductions greatly pleased the audience. Among the speakers of the evening were Mrs. Hamilton, who spoke of humorous incidents of her own girlhood, Mrs. Hill, and Miss Stickney who spoke briefly of the relations of mothers and daughters, and Mrs. Parker, who told of numerous interesting incidents which occurred in Winchester forty years ago and of the pleasure and pastime of a young lady of that time. Misses Louise DeCamp, Francis Lowell and Marion Smith, all of the Winchester High School, spoke briefly on what a mother means to a daughter.

The special speaker was Mrs. Margaret Eggleston, a social service worker. She spoke of the modern girl, her good qualities and faults, and of what she owed to her mother and her mother owed to her. She further pointed out that both mothers and daughters could promote a greater feeling of understanding by being more confidential and regarding one another as pals. She spoke of the ways in which this might be accomplished.

The most impressive feature of the banquet was a candle-lighting service. When the last speaker had concluded the lights were extinguished and Miss Charlotte Healy entered garbed as an angel and carrying a lighted candle. Passing from table to table she lighted the candle of one mother at each, the light was passed from mother to daughter and daughter to mother until all the candles at every table were lit. When this was completed all arose and joined in singing 'Auld Lang Syne,' led by Mrs. Greene.

The committee in charge was made up of members of both societies and consisted of: Mrs. Maurice Brown, chairman, Mrs. Edward Tucker, Mrs. Maude Bridges, Mrs. Florence M. Scales, Mrs. Walter Balcke, and Mrs. Charles Connell. Miss Stickney, Director of Religious Education at the Congregational Church, deserves many thanks for the assistance which she rendered the committee.

The Mothers and Daughters banquet is a new idea and judging by the support which it received and the enthusiasm with which it was greeted bids fair to become an annual affair in town.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION GIVES DANCE

The first High School dance of the year was given by the Girls' Athletic Association, in the High School gymnasium on last Friday evening. About forty couples attended. Principal and Mrs. Farnham, Miss Goude, Miss Nelson and Mr. Hall acted as matrons. The music was furnished by Cullen's Orchestra.

The usually bare gym was made most attractive by well arranged Halloween decorations. Cats and witches covered the walls and paper pumpkins were strung back and forth. The windows and fire escape were completely disguised by yellow and black, crepe paper fringes which covered them.

The elimination and lucky dance was interesting because it became mixed up. When the last numbers had been called six couples still remained on the floor. However the prize was awarded to Norman Ash and Miss Dorothy Nutter.

The committee, consisting of Marion Breen '23, chairman, Barbara Pike '23, Francis Comins '24, Eatele Simonds '25 and Carolyn Jansen '26, deserves much praise for the commendable way in which it managed the dance. The music and refreshments were good while as compared to former affairs the decorations were excellent.

At the Andover and Woburn branch of the Woman's Board of Missions in a Trinity Church, Lawrence, Friday, Mrs. Joshua Coit was elected an honorary vice president, and Mrs. M. D. Kneeland and Mrs. D. A. Newton of Reading, vice presidents.

FOURTH ANNUAL NATIONAL

Children's Book Week

NOVEMBER 12th to 18th, 1922

Purpose of Children's Book Week

This national book week which was originated in 1919 by the American Booksellers' Association and the book publishers, with the co-operation of the American Library Association and the Boy Scouts of America, gives opportunity to bring together all organizations working for boys and girls for the purpose of encouraging a love of books among children and the discussion of boys' and girls' reading.

"Each year over a million children come to reading age. 'What books shall we buy for our children?' is a question every parent should endeavor to solve conscientiously. The schools teach the children to read, the public libraries give opportunity to boys and girls for forming the habit of reading and for developing good taste in books. The books that actually go into the forming of a child's home library are the ones that form his growing taste. His ability to use books for information and for pleasure when he is older, depends on his acquiring the reading habit when he is a child."

Come to the PUBLIC LIBRARY for suggestions of worth while books to buy for children.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The annual Presidents' Day comes on Monday, November 13th. Professor O. D. Warrington of Boston University will speak on "Problems in the Pursuit of Happiness." Miss Dorothy Peterson, lyric soprano will give a group of songs. Mrs. Grace M. Poole, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs and Mrs. Clinton A. Ferguson, our District Director, are to be guests of honor. It is hoped that we may have a large attendance of members.

The Conservation Committee will conduct a walk to inspect the old Indian Bowl on Horn Pond Mountain. The party will leave the Fortnightly room promptly at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, November 16th, in case of rain the walk will be postponed one week. A competent leader has been secured.

The basketry class of the Home Economics Committee will begin at 9:30, Nov. 16th, in the Fortnightly room.

The first regular meeting of the Literature Class was held on Monday at the home of Mrs. Getty.

There was a good attendance, and a very enjoyable, profitable program was given on "Contemporary Massachusetts Poets" under the leadership of Mrs. Wallace and Miss Weeks.

Miss Weeks opened the program with a very comprehensive, scholarly paper upon the work of Amy Lowell, reading from many of her poems; to illustrate her wonderful gift of word painting.

The rest of the program consisted of the reading of poems included in a book recently published "Anthology of Massachusetts Poets," by Mrs. Herrick, Mrs. Sache, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Cole.

The question considered was: Will the work of the men and women of today compare and stand with the classics of Longfellow, Holmes and the men of their day.

A dainty tea was served to the accompaniment of talk and laughter. Nov. 13, Monday, Presidents' Day of the Fortnightly.

About 75 couples attended the first ladies' night at the Calumet Club for this season Friday evening. Dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Cullen's orchestra, and the bowling alleys were open during the evening, being well patronized. Refreshments were served during the evening in the Dutch room.

A fact—admission at the door to Atlantic City Board Walk, 50 cents.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Starting off on Monday night, the last of the series in the bowling tournament at the Calumet Club before the re-rating, the teams showed very close competition. Team 8, in winning four points from 4, took the first by one pin and the second by 10 pins, while team 10, in dividing honors with team 6, won its second point by one pin. These results give a good idea of the close rolling and the excellent equality of the rating. Individual scores did not run high at that. Only one bowler totalled 300 and but a few rolled strings of any size. Leading the list was Etheridge with 110, Snow 109, Dolben 108, Hurd 106, Downs 105, Owens 105, Wilson 103, Morton 103, Lane 102, Tarbell 102 and Butterworth 101. High score was made by Keepers, who rolled 316 with a fine single of 123.

The scores:

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

All things come to him who waits, but the fellow who does not wait can take his choice.

The more people have the more they spend; in fact, the more they have the more they spend more than they have.

The more a man knows the more he knows he ought to know more.

When a man's hand is always going down into his pocket it may be because he is generous or it may be because he owns a car.

The report that the Calumet Club and the Winchester Chamber of Commerce have united in planning a dinner for the High School football team if its wins the league championship this fall has not been verified. It would be a pleasing recognition to the boys on the team, however.

The trip through the Fella and around the Winchester reservoirs was well attended and very interesting. It should be an annual affair and held earlier in the season. Likewise the Water Board should see to it that the roads are suitably oiled, or else hold the automobiles a half mile apart to give the dust time to settle. The first car had a beautiful trip, but the other 39 ate dust all the way.

The argument by President J. H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine Railroad for the retention of the posters at the centre station, petition for the removal of which was sent him by Chairman Willey of the Board of Selectmen, appears rather misapplied. That the railroad needs the financial income derived from these posters may be. How much it receives from the odd lot scattered about its grounds in Winchester we do not know, but we had not previously imagined that it added any great income to the funds of the corporation. The advisability of antagonizing a community on its system for the sake of this revenue, and to assist in retarding the best growth of that community by turning one of its entrances into a back yard to greet its friends, seems to us unwise. They may do it in Europe, and Europe may have higher standards than the United States. From some of our police records we doubt it. We hate to have it admitted anyway. Even so, it may be true—Europe has shown us its superiority in more ways than one during recent years. It looks as though Winchester will have to put up with the unsightly bill boards, notwithstanding its vote to eliminate them and its petition from the Selectmen to remove them, but the Town does not desire them any more than Mr. Hustis would enjoy them in his front yard. The Railroad, it appears, has a perfect right to place them about its station, the by-laws of the Town not holding jurisdiction on the property.

The Winchester High School Recorder, although endowed by a generous list of patrons, is having a hard time this year to meet expenses through the refusal of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce to allow its members to advertise in it. We always thought the Winchester Chamber of Commerce fostered local enterprise and upheld town institutions. Evidently it does not. The fact that the Chamber of Commerce does not give its approval to the school paper, bars its members from advertising in it. On the other hand, the approval by the Chamber does not necessarily mean that its members must advertise in it. In one way it is a good example of "passing the buck," for a merchant who does not desire to advertise simply states that "he cannot because the Chamber of Commerce forbids it." The Chamber of Commerce, being a collective body, escapes any personal criticism—so does he. In the opinion of the Star, if there is one thing that the Chamber should support, it is a school paper. We never heard of any other town refusing it, and every town of any size and progress maintains a paper in its school. The action of the Chamber of Commerce not only hurts the finances of the paper locally, but it has difficulty in securing foreign advertising as well, for outside prospects can hardly be enthusiastic in advertising if the paper is banned by the local organization of business men. Perhaps the fact that the scholars who are trying to run the paper constitute future patrons is lost sight of, but from any angle it appears a decided mistake for the local organization, representative of the business men and merchants of Winchester, to refuse any support whatever to the young people of its community in their efforts to issue an organ representative of the school maintained for them. One merchant argues that the parents of the scholars in the school should advertise in the paper. So they should. But that does not relieve Winchester merchants who do not have children in the school. If we are going to look out for our own children and let the others shift for themselves it does not need the Star

THE ATTORNEY for the Trust Department of the First National Bank of Boston gave a talk last month to a large group of men on the importance of making a will.
One of his illustrations was this: "If a married man having no children dies without a will his wife will inherit $5000 worth of his personal property, and half of the remainder. The other half will go to his next of kin—which may be a second cousin whom he has never seen."

to picture the results to anyone's imagination. By all means the ban on advertising in the paper should be removed by the Chamber of Commerce; then if any of our merchants do not desire to advertise in it they are at liberty to say so. So far as the parents of the scholars are concerned, they certainly should advertise. To those who have business interests elsewhere, the short period of assistance rendered during the time their child is in the school should be an added factor for their support of the paper. What the situation needs, in a word, is the support of the Town.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION LINGERS

To the Editor of the Star:
For the benefit of those who are interested one way or another in the school problem, I wish to say that it is not settled and is not likely to be for a good many months to come.
For seven weeks we tried to appeal to the intelligence of the School Board and impress upon them our sincerity, but we were treated as though we were eight or ten-year-old children.

We believe Mr. Guhl was willing to admit the children in the Washington School at the very beginning judging from what he said, and after two weeks Mr. Faussey was willing to compromise and end the trouble. "A wise man changeth his mind," so says the proverb.

This problem was considered at four or five meetings by the board, at one of which they spent four hours according to Mr. Carpenter. It was brought out at the trial that they had never voted on it.
If we are to be responsible for all of the trouble, will the committee please tell the people of the town just why they will not admit our children to the Washington School?
It was proven conclusively that the school was not over crowded last year, but was camouflaged to get $550,000 for creating new schools. The children did not sit in the corridors as you would have them believe. The third grade did go there to recite. We ask them to explain how the school could be over crowded with 147, when as a matter of fact in 1904 there were 198 children in the school; in 1905, 184 children; in 1906, 158 children; in 1908, 150 children; in 1909, 148 children; in 1911, 147 children; in 1912, 155 children. They could not answer this question in court.

Mr. Faussey said he made the change because the school was overcrowded. We intend to present the truth of this matter to the public before we get through.

George Jackson.

ONE THING NOT THE MATTER WITH WINCHESTER

Nov. 4, 1922.
To the Editor of the Star:
I note the following in your last issue under the caption "What is the matter with Winchester?"

"Of course the cost of building has increased in the past few years, but there has not been enough in the town to bring values down to their proper level. A gentleman last week asked the question, if we wanted the houses they are building in Somerville put up in Winchester. Well not on the East or West side of the town, but there is plenty of vacant land in Winchester where such houses can be put up and be a big benefit to this town."

"WHAT IS THE BIG BENEFIT?"

Will some one please explain what "big benefit" it will be to the present property owners and inhabitants of this town to have built in any part of the town a lot of two-family houses like those in Somerville. And also why it is possible to sell houses in Winchester for higher prices than equally good property in other towns? What do you think is the matter with Winchester?

Why do you ask the question?
Yours,
William H. Gleason.

The North Main street paving estimated to cost $9000 actually cost $11,400, partly because many of the paving blocks were found to be unsuitable to be used again and it was necessary to purchase about 14,000 new blocks, at a cost of $108 per thousand, to complete this work. Incidentally the old blocks taken from this job will be suitable for paving gutters on the steep side hill streets and it is planned to use them for this purpose in future years. Furthermore it was necessary to regrade Main street for a considerable length to meet the new grade of the rails, this work costing about $2500.

The Board has recognized that Highland avenue has been in bad shape and in need of immediate repairs. The Water Board had replaced some of its pipe in this street and it was necessary to re-surface the trenches which they had dug. It was deemed advisable, while the men were on this street, to make a thorough job of it rather than to defer the work until later at which time the expense would have been greater than this year. In addition to Highland avenue a considerable sum was spent by the Highways and Bridges account for resurfacing other trenches left by the Water Board about the Town. It should be added that the Water Board has no facilities for doing this class of work. No estimate was made in the budget last March to cover work done for other departments and for which payment could not be made by those departments. All of this work cost about $3650.

Altogether the Highways and Bridges account was required to expend about $12,350 for work which was not foreseen and was not taken into consideration by the Town in making up the budget for this department. This work could only be done by omitting the regular yearly work which this department is expected to do, in and about the Town, such as patching and surface treatment of streets and other miscellaneous work if the Board were to keep within the amounts estimated in the budget. Much of this work could not economically be deferred until next year.

In order to meet certain expenses such as the cost of Town stables and the salaries of certain other employees whose time is spent for the Highway Department and to meet bills contracted for this department, it is necessary to transfer certain funds at this time to this department.

Surface Drainage

On the other hand, it was impossible to do all the work laid out under the Surface Drainage account as time would not permit and additional men were not available. We estimate that there will be an unexpended surplus in this account of $3000, which we are now asking the Town to transfer to the Highways and Bridges account. It is to be regretted that the budget could not be more closely followed and the Board is of the opinion that it is advisable to adhere to the estimates upon which the appropriations for the year are based. In this case it appeared impossible to do all that was expected and the Board has assumed that it is a part of its function to exercise some judgment in the matters over which it has no control.

Workmen's Compensation

On account of unforeseen accidents an additional appropriation will be needed to carry this account through the balance of the year. In previous years the deficit has been carried as an overdraft. This is permissible but not desirable and the Board is, therefore, asking you to transfer $1000 to this account at this time.

Election and Registration

On account of the special Town meeting required by the formal ballot on the school building program, for which no appropriation had been made, this account faces a deficit of about $300.

Overlay Reserve Fund

Of the overlays added by the Assessors to the annual assessment for 1918, 1919 and 1920 there remains a balance of $8951.18 which has been carried to a reserve fund to be used for extraordinary or unforeseen expenses, as provided by law. This fund may be used in the present emergency by a vote of the Town.

Summary

The following table will show the standing of the various accounts:

Accounts	Credits	Required	Surplus	Deficit
Highways and Bridges	$79,443	$83,443		$4,000
Surface Drainage	8,900	8,900	$3,000
Workmen's Compensation	4,700	4,200	500
Acorn Street Bridge	35,000	35,500		500
Engineering	6,983	8,243		1,260
Workmen's Compensation	1,785	2,785		1,000
Election and Registration	1,800	2,100		300

It will be noted that of the construction accounts, the surplus very nearly equals the deficit. The Board will be able to finance very nearly $12,000 of emergency work, and at the same time take care of the regular work, without asking for any new appropriation, provided the Town will make the transfer of $3000 from the Surface Drainage to the Highway account, together with $1000 from the Overlay account.

The over-runs on the other accounts can only be met by transfers from a reserve fund.

Recommendation

The Board recommends the following transfers:

- 1—From the Surface Drainage account to the Highway and Bridges account, $3,000.
- 2—From the Overlay account to the Highway and Bridges account, $1,000.
- 3—From the Overlay account to the Acorn Street Bridge account, $500.
- 4—From the Overlay account to the Engineering account, $1,260.
- 5—From the Overlay account to the Workmen's Compensation account, $1,000.
- 6—From the Overlay account to the Election and Registration account, $300.

The total amount requested to be transferred from the Overlay account is $7,100, leaving a balance in this account of about $1850.

MASQUERADE OF CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

Lyceum Hall was the scene of a merry gathering on Friday evening of last week when Santa Maria Court 150, Catholic Daughters of America and its many friends, gathered for their annual Halloween Masquerade Frolic.

There were so many exceptionally good costumes that it was a very difficult task for the judges to select the six that were eligible for prizes. And after the prize winners were announced it was conceded by all present that there were at least fifteen more who would win "first prize" anywhere. The final decision of the judges resulted as follows:

1st prize for ladies—Miss Margie Lynch, "Winter."

1st prize for best male get up, Miss Elizabeth Kelley, college boy; prize for funniest costume, Mrs. Mary Kelley, Mother Goose Witch; prize for most original costume, Mrs. Frances Conlon, "Puss in Boots"; prize for little girls, Miss Margaret Cassidy of Arlington as a Ballet Girl. There were several other costumes which deserve especial mention, among them that of Miss Mary J. Kelley, who represented Sis Hopkins and with her dog who created as much laughter and applause as the usual vaudeville team. Then there were Mrs. Albert Horne and Mrs. Benjamin Cullen who, with their organ and penny cup, took off to perfection the traveling organ grinder and his helpful wife, and the little Misses Kathleen Lynch and Helen O'Connor, "Bride and Groom," the sweetest little couple imaginable; the "Watermelon girl from Dixie," Miss Beatrice King, in a tip-top dandy make-up; the "Rube pair," Misses Marie Lynch and Ethel Kean, in costumes of days gone by; Miss Mabel Kelley, the Zulu Chief; Mrs. Helen Studley, as Aunt Jimima; Miss Mary Martin, an American Beauty; and Miss Mary O'Melia, a cute little Topsy, with a sign on her back which read, "I won't go to the Chapin School," and Mrs. Patrick Noonan, "The Spirit of Halloween."

After the prizes had been awarded a very fine concert was enjoyed, the following taking the leading parts: Mrs. M. Mollie Maguire, who sang "The Cat's Meow," assisted by Mrs. Frances Conlon, Madame Romer, Miss Mabel M. REFRESHING

To the Editor of the Star:
It certainly was refreshing to your humble servant when I learned the glad tidings that United States Senator Lodge was returned to the Senate, showing that a majority of the electorate of Massachusetts still have confidence in his sterling ability as America's leading statesman.

When we consider that he was unable to defend himself on account of illness, to my mind his election last Tuesday was the most magnificent in his long and honorable career.

More power to the honorable Henry Cabot Lodge, and I trust that he will be spared for the next six years.

I remain yours very truly,
Patrick H. Craughwell.

FIREMEN EXPRESS APPRECIATION

We, the undersigned, of the Firemen's Committee in behalf of the permanent firemen of Winchester hereby express our sincere thanks to the 1464 voters who showed their approval of our effort to better our living conditions by voting yee on the "Two Platoon Act" in Tuesday's election. We cannot help but believe that those who opposed us could not have understood the true facts of the acceptance of the same or the justice of our appeal.

Two Platoon Committee,
H. E. Brown, Chairman.
O. W. McKensie, Secretary.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

A High School Parent-Teacher Association was organized Monday evening under most favorable auspices.

About one hundred persons were present.

A petition for such an association having been received a short time ago by Mr. Farnham, a committee had been called together and had planned the program for an initial meeting.

At the business meeting in the High School Assembly Hall, Mr. Farnham presided. After a brief welcome he introduced Mrs. E. C. Mason, Chairman of the State Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Mason gave a most pleasing and convincing address, setting forth the aims of a Parent-Teacher Association, its particular value in connection with a high school, and its great opportunities for usefulness in Winchester.

As it was the pleasure of the meeting that an association be formed, Mrs. Danforth W. Comins, Chairman of the Preliminary Committee, read a proposed constitution. This was then adopted. The chairman then appointed a nominating committee to prepare a list of candidates for the officers.

The meeting now adjourned to the gymnasium where sandwiches, cake, and chocolate were served by the Household Arts Department under the direction of Mrs. Johnston. A social hour followed.

During the evening the nominating committee made its report and the following officers were elected:

President—Mr. Henry Chapman

Vice-president—Mrs. A. E. Pecker, Mr. C. E. Farnham

Secretary—Miss Eleanor P. Gould

Treasurer—Mrs. Danforth W. Comins

Much interest was evinced in the formation of the society, and it is anticipated that its influence will be of great value to the High School.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION DANCE

The Girl's Athletic Association held its annual dance in the High School Gymnasium Friday evening, November third. All those who attended, including the spectators, pronounced it a very enjoyable affair. Financially too it was a success, as it netted the association about forty dollars.

The decorations, contributed by Pauline Brown, were most effective. Everywhere one turned one saw a pumpkin, a witch or some other characteristic Halloween decoration. These were the subject of much interested comment.

The seventh dance before the intermission was announced as the elimination dance. The lucky pair were Dorothy Nutter and Norman Ash. The prizes were most acceptable—a little powder puff bag and an Eversharp pencil.

The patrons and patronesses for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Farnham, Miss Nelson, Miss Good, Mr. Higby, and Mr. Hall.

Terry's orchestra furnished the music.

The success of the dance may be attributed in large measure to the girls who made donations and to the following committee:

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM

The Girls' Hockey Team played the Sargent School juniors here November 3rd.

The game was the best played by the team this season. Our wings did some spectacular flying the length of the field, while Sargent's swift, long shots kept us on the jump. At the close of the first quarter the score was nothing to nothing.

During the second quarter Winchester played its fine defensive game with Margaret Smart and Elsie Jansen full backs. Again no goals were made showing how well we held our opponents.

After the first half Sargent kept the ball near Winchester's goal until it rolled in. With a score of 1-0 we grew bolder, and when Marion Smith started the ball down to the other end of the field and made a goal we were tied 1-1. Though given six minutes to play the tie off neither team scored.

WINCHESTER MOTHERS ASSOCIATION

Dr. Karl Bowman, chief Medical Officer of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital will speak before the Mothers Association at 3:30 p. m. on Wednesday Nov. 15th at their meeting in the High School Assembly Hall.

The subject is Mental Hygiene for the Normal Child. Mental science has advanced to a point where it is useful every day. The mentality of children has been the subject of long and earnest study. Scientists like Dr. Bowman are in a position, to reveal to parents the processes of their own children's minds good and bad habits of thought, right and wrong attitudes toward life.

It is quite as important that those charged with responsibility for children should become acquainted with the young science of mental hygiene, as it is that they should know the natural law which affect the human physique. Everyone interested in children is welcome at these meetings.

Delano Ross Tratt, nephew of Messrs. Frank G. and Edward P. Tratt of this town, died last week at Camp Fitzsimmons, Denver, Col. He died from an illness contracted while serving in the Navy in the World War. Besides his two uncles, he leaves an aunt here, Mrs. William D. Tratt.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, NOV. 4, 1922

Nearly two hundred mothers and daughters assembled in the First Congregational Church last Saturday night for their first Annual Mother and Daughter Banquet. A delicious supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Maurice Brown, Mrs. E. A. Tucker and Mrs. Henry Bridge. A yellow and white color scheme was used in the decorations, symbolizing youth and purity. Original songs prepared for the occasion were enthusiastically sung during the supper and the program which followed. Mrs. J. C. Hinder and Mrs. Charles Green assisted as accompanist and leader of the musical numbers.

Mrs. James Allen made a charming toastmaster as she called on several Mothers and Daughters to respond to toasts. The following program was carried through very successfully: "When I was a Girl," Mrs. George H. Hamilton; "Chums," Miss Frances Lowell; "The Mother and the Daughter in the Church," Mrs. Harrison Parker; "What Mother means to me," Miss Louise DeCamp; "The Kind of Mother I Like," Miss Marion Smith; and "The Last Word," Mrs. William Hill. Mrs. Allen introduced the new director of Religious Education Miss Marion Stickney who spoke a few words of greeting.

Mrs. Margaret W. Eggleston was the special guest of the evening and she gave an address on "Building Together." She emphasized the need of mothers and daughters playing, studying and working sympathetically together in the home, church and community. Her power as a storyteller was shown as she held her audience spellbound during the rendition of one of Laura Biehn's stories and the fascinating Bible story of Ruth.

At the close of the address an impressive raffle lighting ceremony was introduced by Miss Charlotte Healey, dressed in a white Grecian costume and carrying a large white candle. Following her remarks, the mothers and daughters' raffles were lighted, and each in turn promised to pass on the light which they had received to their girls and the girlhood of the world. The program closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

In offering the course in Oral English to the club, the Education committee have been guided by the knowledge that this study is proving extremely popular in most schools where it is offered. Practically all colleges and many extension schools are giving such instruction to large classes. People are realizing that the ability to address an audience in an easy, natural and convincing manner is a personal asset of cultural and financial value.

The University Extension class which the Education committee are organizing consists of twelve lessons and the matters studied are as follows:

Platform Department.—Correct sitting, standing, and walking before an audience. Correction of faulty mannerisms. Entrance and exit.

Vocal Technique.—Correct breathing, proper placement of tone articulation, correction of faults in use of voice.

Gesture.—Development of spontaneous gesture—true response to thought.

Extemporaneous Speaking.—Opportunity for practice in logical thinking when upon the feet.

Conversation.—Means of overcoming self-consciousness—story telling. Arrangement of Programs.—Selection of material—appropriate balance of ideas.

Since the course is supported by the State Department of Education, the fee is very small. Dr. Mary T. Maynard, Tel. 313-M, will be very glad to hear from any one who is interested. The class will be held weekly on Tuesdays at 10 a. m., beginning the first week in January.

MORE ABOUT FOOTBALL

The Winchester game with Watertown High School is to be played at Watertown on Friday afternoon instead of Saturday morning as scheduled. Winchester has practically won the championship of the Mystic Valley League but the result of this game will decide it beyond all doubt. The Watertown team is not at all up to its standard this year and has lost every league game to date. However this may be, much "dope" is spilled over every week and no game is won until the final whistle is blown and the victor declared.

It is rumored that Coach Rufus Bond will not start his entire first team, but will place about seven substitutes in the lineup at the kick-off. But "substitutes" mean in no sense an inferior team, for Winchester's second team is equally as good as the average team of a school of its size.

The playing of the team this year has attracted attention from far and near and Manager Donald Tucker has received invitations for the team to play in distant cities. The most interesting of these invitations have come from Lacrosse High School, Lacrosse, Wis., Toledo High School and a school on Long Island. Whether or not the boys will make any trips to play inter-sectional games depends upon the action of the school authorities. The main objections to such journeys are the large expenses involved and the time which must necessarily be lost from studies.

To return to the game at Watertown this afternoon, there is no doubt that it will be interesting, for Watertown has always been a great rival and "revenge is sweet."

TO THE VOTERS

To the Editor of the Star: Through your paper, please convey my sincere thanks to the voters of Winchester for the generous support given me in my election as Senator, from the Sixth Middlesex District.

Very truly yours,
Chas. C. Warren.

Mr. Pinkham says the children are eagerly looking forward to this meeting. They are anxious to know what room is to have the Parent-Teacher Association banner for the coming month as a reward for being represented at the meeting by the greatest number of pupils and teachers.

Are you able to help your child's room out?
A. L. Parsons, President.

M. C. W. G. AFFAIRS

Reception of new members in the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild is to be held by Winchester Branch, Friday evening, Nov. 24, in the K. of C. Hall. The ceremony will be conducted by the local degree staff under the direction of District Deputy, Mrs. Lena Dole of Watertown. This being the first affair of its kind conducted by the local branch, great preparations are being made by Regent C. M. Kenneally and her staff of officers to make a success of it. Many of the state officers have been invited to attend as well as the clergy of St. Mary's parish, and it is hoped Rt. Rev. Monsignor Roche, State Chaplain of the Guild, will find it convenient to be present.

The twelfth of the series of Whist being conducted by this branch will be held on the next regular meeting night, Thursday evening, Nov. 16, in the K. of C. Hall, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Hayes, Mrs. David DeCoursey, Mrs. Mathew McKean and Mrs. Felix Carr. The Guild Whists are noted especially for the abundance of valuable prizes, and from all indications this committee of popular ladies will beat the record, as nearly every member has volunteered help or donations. The proceeds will go to the Christmas Charity Fund established by the Branch.

A bridge tea is being given on Friday for the benefit of the Child's Welfare Bureau of the Winchester Health Department, at the home of Mrs. P. S. Newton. The other hostesses are Mrs. K. B. Gerrish and Mrs. C. N. Ladd of this town and Mrs. Stanley Cooper of Malden. There will be 12 tables.

"CURRENT AFFAIRS"

"Again, local metropolitan advertisers are slow to see what national advertisers saw long ago, the real value of advertising in small town papers. Almost all of the large national accounts, selling automobile tires, household necessities, foods, etc. include them in advertising schedules. But the majority metropolitan merchant who draws most of his trade from outlying residential sections depends almost entirely on the metropolitan dailies without supporting this advertising in a weekly, where advertising is read almost with the same interest as reading text.

"Some Boston concerns are now distributing copy among nearby weekly papers. They are finding it profitable. Where checkups and keyed advertisements have been used, they found that the weekly possessed unusual pulling power. The weekly newspaper publishers feel that if more merchants would investigate they would find it profitable. Many of them think that Boston advertisers should go farther out into the country with advertising in weeklies.

"Within a fifteen mile radius of Boston there are about ninety weekly small city and town newspapers. The average circulation is about 3000 making an approximate total circulation in all nearby weeklies of 270,000. The average cost per inch is about twenty-five cents on more than 500 inches, annually, thirty cents on 250 to 500 inches, and thirty-five cents on 100 to 250.

"A ten inch advertisement at the lowest contract price placed in all of Boston's ninety suburban papers would cost about $180. The same advertisement in one of Boston's dailies would only cost about $55. There is but little difference in the circulation in both places, but advertising managers find that it is worth almost quadruple the price of the daily paper space to secure the close reader interest found only in the weekly. The weekly lasts for almost a week. The daily is no longer read after 24 hours. The circulation of the weekly is misleading too, inasmuch as one paper does for the whole family, and sometimes for three and four families in the same house."

WINCHESTER WINS CHAMPIONSHIP OF MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE

For the first time in nine years the football team of the Winchester High School has won the cup of the Mystic Valley League. Never, in the history of the league, has it been more decisively won by any team. Winchester has outclassed every opponent in every department of the game and at no time was there any doubt as to the outcome of a contest. The local team has piled up a total of 174 points in league games while they have been scored on but once.

The playing of the team has been throughout the season a typical example of the advantage of systematic, machine-like football. There is no outstanding man on the outfit who makes it a one-man team, but every man knows his job and does it. Of course there are stars as every team has stars, but these stars were made by the wonderful support which they received from the other members of the squad.

The man who deserves most praise as the one responsible for the victorious aggregation is Coach Rufus Bond, the former Harvard fullback. He came to Winchester last year and found that he had a squad of boys eager to learn, but who knew absolutely nothing of the finer points of football. Many of them had had some experience, but it was of such inferior quality that it was more of a detriment than an assistance to instruction. Coach Bond tackled his difficult task in a whole-hearted manner and by the close of last season those interested in the game knew that a real football team was in the making. This fall he continued his work where he left off last season and in the first game his boys held the strong Milton Academy eleven to a 6 to 6 tie. From that time on the team has kept going at an ever increasing pace and has defeated every team that they have met.

Many schools from all parts of the East have asked for post-season games with Winchester, but as yet none have been arranged. The boys were very anxious to meet Haverhill and Coach Bond tried to schedule a game with them. This was impossible, however, for they had no open dates.

The townspeople and students of the High School deserve many thanks for the excellent manner in which they have supported the team this year and if they continue to do so some post-season games may be arranged. This, however, depends entirely upon the financial backing that is given them and every interested person should fol-

WINCHESTER TAKES WATERTOWN 48-6 AND CINCINCHES LEAGUE TITLE

By Harry Price

Playing their last league game of the season the star Winchester team downed Watertown High School at Watertown, 48 to 6 on last Friday afternoon. Winchester was at her best and aside from winning the game also took the championship of the Mystic Valley League for this season. About 500 spectators attended the game.

Thrills started with the very first whistle. Winchester received and the ball came to Kendrick, he fumbled and Winer recovered, but also fumbled as he was tackled. Palmer of Watertown, pounced upon the loose ball and it was theirs on the Winchester 15-yard line. Watertown's hopes soared and they started determinedly for the goal. But the stone wall of the local defense stood as firmly as usual and the opponents were held for down. The ball was Winchester's on their own 12-yard mark. Kelly called for an end run and the fleet-footed French sped around the left wing for 55 yards and the first touchdown of the day. Kelly added the extra point by a drop kick.

Watertown received, were held and forced to punt. Winchester started back toward the goal but lost the ball on the opponents two-yard line. Edgar went back to kick out from behind the line but before he was able to do so was downed and Winchester won two points for a safety. The ball was taken out to the 30-yard mark and given to Watertown. From here they were forced to kick and the ball went to Winchester at midfield.

WILD LIFE IN AFRICA

Mr. Harry K. Eustace, explorer and lecturer, gave one of the best talks and collection of pictures at the Calumet Club Saturday evening to be shown in this town in years. The event was made a "Father and Sons" night at the club, and there was a big audience of young and old present, all of whom, from grandfather to son, were delighted and hugely interested in the marvelous pictures of strange and ferocious animals.

Mr. Eustace's lecture was interesting in itself, but his motion pictures, showing elephants, lions, tigers, wart hogs, snakes, zebras and the famous white hippopotamus, were in a class by themselves and intensely thrilling to everyone. He showed six reels of these pictures, many taken at extreme personal peril. Not only were the pictures interesting in their individual subjects, but they included a variety of animals unexpectedly large.

A move is on foot to induce Mr. Eustace to visit Winchester and show his pictures in the Town Hall, giving an opportunity for all of the boys and girls in town to see them.

The usual Saturday night lunch was served after the program.

"THE GLORIOUS GIRL"

On December 21 and 22 in the Town Hall, the En Ka Sorority will present "The Glorious Girl," which will be under the direction of Harrington Adams, Inc., who produced "The Camo Girl" last year with such great success. This is a musical comedy in two acts, and the cast consists of about 150 of our young people. Among those having leading parts are Dorothy Peterson, Dorothy Reynolds, Carolyn Shawhan, Phyllis Tuttle, Harry Cox, George Hodge, Alden Symmes, Roger Wilde, Harry Bigelow and Kenneth Caldwell. Tickets may be obtained from Gertrude Felber, tel. 11-M; Georgiana Watters, tel. 837-M; or the Winchester Star office. Get your tickets early.

AUCTION SALE

Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of the big auction of desirable household furnishings to be held next Thursday, Nov. 23, in the hall on Main street over the A. & P. store. The many articles to be offered should attract numerous buyers. The sale opens at 10 a. m., rain or shine.

Have a cup of tea, a restorer of cheer and gladness, at the Town Hall, today and tonight and enjoy the sociability that goes with it.

GIRL AT HOSPITAL CAME FROM MAYNARD

The case of the unknown girl taken to the Winchester Hospital from Reading Wednesday night suffering from a form of hysteria, was solved yesterday when relatives got in touch with the police.

The girl was taken from a train in Reading when the conductor found her without a ticket and apparently in an unbalanced state of mind. At the hospital here she was hysterical, and no means could be found to establish her identity.

Yesterday it developed that she came from Maynard. She was in Boston Wednesday with a relative consulting a doctor concerning her condition. When her companion went to purchase a ticket in the North Station on their return she boarded a Reading train. She was of Finnish nationality and 23 years of age, it being said that she had been in a highly nervous state for some time.

Her relatives will come to Winchester this morning and take her to her home.

HIS EXCELLENCY HELPS BOARDWALK

Governor Cux sitting in an Atlantic City Boardwalk chair to have his picture taken as evidence of his approval of bringing this great spectacle to Boston, stamps the affair as a State-wide project. The reproduction of the picture in the Boston Transcript shows the Governor in his most kindly and jovial mood. Indeed, everybody smiles in anticipation of the good times he and his wife and all the children will have at the Boardwalk at Mechanics Building in Boston during the first week in December.

The Massachusetts League of Women Voters and the New England Hospital for Women and Children, under the generalship of Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, are jointly responsible for the Boardwalk which will be a scenic reproduction of Atlantic City, with all the features, sea and sand, wheel chairs and nymphs, shops and sights, crowds and gaiety, everything under one roof.

MR. CHIDLEY TO GIVE CLOSING ADDRESS ON IMPRESSIONS ABROAD

Next Sunday evening Mr. Chidley will give an address on "Recent Impressions in Egypt." This will be the last in the series of addresses which Mr. Chidley has been giving on his cruise of last summer. Members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will play as usual. Their program is as follows:

Adagio Allettuo Bach
Rhapsody Thy Way Stradella
Abendlied Schumann
Largo from Sonata Loellic

Elks' Charity Ball, Thursday Evening, Nov. 24, at Town Hall

The social activities of Winchester folk for the next week will not be complete without preparations for attendance at the Charity Ball of Winchester Lodge, No. 1445, B. P. O. E. This is the first affair of its kind held by the local lodge since its inception and Chairman Fred Clement and his committee have left nothing undone to ensure its success.

The concert program arranged by Charles J. Harrold and his associates of the Concert Committee is bound to be appreciated by those who enjoy the efforts of a "refreshingly different" musical organization.

FRED D. CLEMENT, E. L. K. Chairman Charity Ball Committee Winchester Lodge of Elks

The Mordella Trio, headed by the celebrated Pietro who has earned considerable renown in the theatrical world, will furnish the audience with a musical treat that will make the occasion well worth while for those not particularly interested in dancing. This trio, which for the past 10 years has been one of the most popular musical combinations on the platform, is composed of Pietro Mordella, famous accordion player; Jane Golding, violinist and singer, and Christine Wismer, pianist.

FRED H. SCHOLL, Treasurer Charity Ball Committee Winchester Lodge of Elks

Pietro Mordella is known the world around as "the premier accordionist." Mordella first learned to play the accordion by experimenting with the accordions made by his father who was an expert at this trade. Pietro showed such obvious ability that his parents provided every musical advantage for him and he soon gained fame for his remarkable accordion music.

THE BIG BAZAAR TONIGHT

It is many years since the town has been invited to a Bazaar on a large scale at the Town Hall, and that of today and this evening promises to be even better than any of those given there in years gone by. The Order of the Eastern Star has gone to much expense and trouble to make this the occasion of the year in that line. There will be pleasure and entertainment for everyone. Especially will the children enjoy the dolls and pretty doll gifts which will please their dollies when they hang up their stockings at Xmas. No admission is charged, and a 6 o'clock supper at a low price.

WEAVER—TRAINOR

Miss M. Catherine Trainor of this town was married at a nuptial mass at St. Mary's church on Wednesday morning to Mr. George A. Wenfer of Woburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weaver of that city and prominent in local base ball circles. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons in the presence of a large attendance of friends and relatives of the couple.

Miss Helen Trainor, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Mr. Charles Wenfer, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white georgette, embroidered with silver, and a picture hat of georgette with silver trimmings. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore champagne colored tulle and a black panne velvet picture hat. She carried Ophelia roses.

Mr. James Kelley of the Cathedral choir rendered vocal solos at the opening and conclusion of the ceremony. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride, 26 Canal street.

Mr. Weaver is widely known as a base ball pitcher of merit, playing recently with the Woburn Legion team. He is a member of Woburn Council, Knights of Columbus. His wife served as Chief Yeoman (M) during the War, being stationed at the Charlestown Navy Yard. She had recently been connected with the firm of Jordan, Marsh & Co., as department secretary. She is a member of Woburn Post, A. L. and of Winchester Court, C. D. of A.

The couple are spending their honeymoon on a trip to New York and Washington, and are to reside at 87 Winn street, Woburn.

The TRAVELING MAN SENDS US HIS LAUNDRY

Although he can get a 24-hour laundry service in most of the hotels at which he stops, a certain traveling man insists on sending his laundry to us.

When he is in Portland, for instance, he will send us a bundle asking us to deliver the finished product to him at his hotel in Worcester, on a certain definite date.

An actor who values his appearance send his shirts and collars to us, even when he is on the road.

Both of these men, appreciating the best quality, insist on Winchester Laundry service, and refuse to be satisfied with any other.

ACCIDENT MONDAY

An auto accident occurred Monday afternoon at the dangerous corner of Church, High and Cambridge streets when a Chandler runabout, owned and driven by Mr. Wendell W. Locke of 17 Ridge street and containing besides himself his mother, was in collision with a Ford coupe driven by Samuel M. Davis of Nashua, N. H. The Chandler was coming out of High street and the Ford running south on Cambridge street. The coupe was overturned and badly damaged, one door being ripped off, a front wheel broken and springs and mud guards twisted. The Chandler escaped with a bent rear mudguard and other minor damage. None of the occupants of the cars were injured.

VISITED INDIAN BOWL

A number of Fortnightly members, under the guidance of Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, left the centre yesterday morning at 10 o'clock for the first Fall hike of this season. The party had as the objective of the walk the Indian bowl on the southerly side of Horn Pond Mountain, an interesting relic of former days when the red men in this section ground their corn on the mountain.

It is said that this Indian bowl is one of two such relics in this section, the other being at Hemlock Gorge, Woburn, near where the old Quaker settlement once stood.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR

A reception will be tendered Rev. John E. Whitley and family by the Second Congregational Church on Friday evening, Nov. 24th at the Church on Cross street.

This will afford a splendid opportunity for everyone to meet and become acquainted with Rev. and Mrs. Whitley. A very fine musical program will add to the enjoyment of the evening.

All the adult members of the Church and friends in the community are cordially invited to this reception.

BOYS WERE FREE SPENDERS

Officer Thomas Cassidy took into custody Monday two small boys who were spending money about the centre with a lavish hand. When questioned at the police station they stated they were from Woburn, and confessed they had broken into a house there and stolen $15.

The inauguration of Mr. Frederick S. Snyder of Highland avenue, head of the firm of Batchelder & Snyder of Boston, as president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce occurred on Tuesday evening, a banquet being held at the Copley-Plaza with many notable guests.

CHURCH WEDDING

Many Attended Salyer-Murphy Nuptials Last Evening

One of the most popular weddings of the season was that of last evening at the Church of the Epiphany, when Miss Florence Coleman Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Emanuel Murphy of Winchester and Corey, Pa., became the bride of Mr. John Townsend Salyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barron Salyer of Roslindale at eight o'clock in the presence of a large audience of society people of this and surrounding places, the large auditorium of the church being filled to overflowing. Decorations of palms, autumn foliage and cut flowers were effectively used about the chancel and sides of the auditorium, with laurel ropes at the pew ends.

The wedding march was played by Mr. J. Albert Wilson, organist at the church, the selection being Lohengrin. Mrs. Frederick L. Oliver, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Miss Mildred Partelow of Reading was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Annette Mason, Miss Dorothy Martin, Mrs. Carroll Stillman Hilton (Ruth Davidson) and Miss Dorothy Sautter. Mr. Charles Barron Salyer, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was charming in a dress of white charmeuse with court train and trimmed with old lace and orange blossoms. She wore a headpiece of Brussels lace caught with orange blossoms and tulle veil. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor wore lavender georgette and silver and carried lavender sweet peas. The bridesmaids were gowned in rainbow colored georgette trimmed with white lace and wore silver wreaths in their hair.

Little Jean Oliver, niece of the groom, was the flower girl, making a very dainty and captivating attendant in flesh colored georgette with lace yoke and carrying a basket of rose petals.

A largely attended reception followed the ceremony at the future home of the couple, 15 Central street. Assisting in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Salyer, the former lady wearing brown chiffon velvet trimmed with gold lace and Mrs. Salyer in blue ring velvet and silver cloth. They carried bouquets of roses.

The house was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums, palms and cut flowers. The ushers for both ceremony and reception were Mr. Robert F. Murphy and Mr. Edward Russell Murphy, brothers of the bride; Mr. Albert Payne Smith, Jr., Mr. Russell Semmes and Mr. Carroll Stillman Hilton.

Both bride and groom are widely known in Winchester society and have a host of friends. Mr. Salyer, a well-known member of the Calumet Club, is associated in business with the Charles B. Salyer Co. of Portland street, Boston. His wife is a graduate of the Winchester High School, the Katherine Gibbs' School of Secretarial Training and of the Garland School of Homemaking. They will spend their honeymoon on a cruise to Porto Rico, residing upon their return at 15 Central street.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB DINNER

The Annual Dinner of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church will be held on Friday evening, Nov. 24th at 6:30 p. m. Following the dinner, there will be the election of a president for the coming year and two addresses.

Prof. Walter Edward Howe, the newly appointed organist, will speak on "The Church From the Organist's Viewpoint." This is an opportunity for the men of the church to extend a welcome to Prof. Howe and to become acquainted with him.

Rev. E. H. Byington of the West Roxbury Congregational Church will speak on "The Modern Man and the Modern Church." Mr. Chidley considers Mr. Byington one of the most successful Congregational ministers in New England and looks for him the attendance of the entire membership.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

The man who meets troubles and masters them, is the man who rises to the top in the business world. A troubleless job draws only a small salary.

"Nowhere is the goal of him who follows the route of anywhere." The man who aims at nothing in particular, invariably hits his mark.

Your word of good will and friendly endorsement may be all that is needed to kindle the spark of inspiration that lies in the heart of every man.

In times such as we are now passing, we must not forget that it is these unusual conditions that give unusual men their opportunities.

If that Monday night's meeting had opened five minutes earlier than it did, the Finance Committee would have had anything it wanted, for its members constituted the majority voting strength of those present.

Everyone recognizes the factor for good in the Boy Scout organization. Every parent who has a boy knows that no better seeds for a growth to intelligent manhood can be planted than what the organization gives. The future of tomorrow lays with the boy of today. You are to be asked next week to give $2 for a membership in our Boy Scout organization. It is a cheap prize to pay for inestimable results. Take out your membership.

It is seldom that we have occasion to mention in this column a public entertainment, but after the favorable comment given the Harry K. Kustine motion pictures of wild life in the African jungle at the Calumet Club last Saturday evening, we would be remiss if we failed to recommend these fine pictures to every child in town. It is going to be possible for them all to see the pictures next Monday, two shows being given at the Town Hall. Make it a point to get a ticket for a boy or girl.

Not in a long while has our Finance Committee come in for as much commendation as that following Tuesday night's town meeting. Realizing that the Town must meet its obligations, however incurred, Chairman Blaisdell favored the passage of the vote of transfer, at the same time voicing a vigorous protest at the over-stripping of appropriations. He stated that the citizens deserved an explanation and he gave it to them, separating the meat from the bone. In vigorous yet moderate language he stated the facts as his committee saw them and told how the situation might have been avoided and should be avoided in the future. He made an able speech and handled a difficult situation capably. The first appearance of our present Finance Committee has been such as to create confidence in its future work and recommendations.

RESPONSIBILITY ACCEPTED

Nov. 9, 1922.

Mr. T. Price Wilson,
Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.
(Personal)

My dear Mr. Wilson:

The conclusion of the censorship referendum in Massachusetts brings to us very certainly the deepest sense of appreciation and gratitude for the co-operation of the press in Massachusetts. The following statement was issued last night:

"Censorship of motion pictures has been defeated in Massachusetts in a direct vote of the people by a majority of three hundred and forty thousand. This overwhelming vote against censorship is a splendid response to the appeal of the press and citizens of that State that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts stand against this undue political aggression. Just as certainly it is a definite and unmistakable challenge to the motion picture industry to carry out its program for its own continual improvement in the full discharge of its duty to the public. This responsibility is accepted by the industry in the spirit of highest service and it will in grateful earnestness fully discharge this duty."

This statement indicates just how I feel about it; i. e. that the vote was really a most splendid response to the appeal of the press itself in Massachusetts and to the work of the Citizens' Committee. And it brings too a still greater responsibility and duty to the industry to make good. This responsibility is realized. I am sure, and it shall be the purpose of us all to make our performances square with our promises in the whole matter.

With assurance of my very kindest personal regards, and best wishes always, I am

Sincerely yours,
Will H. Hays.

APPRECIATION TO VOTERS

Nov. 11, 1922.

To the Editor of the Star:

May I avail myself of your columns to express my appreciation to the voters of Middlesex County who recently elected me District Attorney.

It is my earnest desire to conduct the office in a manner that will commend itself to the right-thinking people of the district and the Commonwealth. In that effort I hope to have the cooperation of all the people of the district.

Yours very truly,
Arthur K. Reading.

APPRECIATION VOICED

To the Editor of the Star:

Will you kindly print the following, which is a portion of a letter received this morning from one of our townspeople:

"I'd further like to take this chance to voice my appreciation of the general excellence of the Winchester post-office service. Considering that this matter was sprung somewhat abruptly, all of you met it with rare and commendable enterprise and ability. The carrier on this route has been especially attentive and accommodating. The whole service is quite exceptional."

While we doubtless deserve some of the adverse criticism heaped upon us (for we are only human) it is, as we all know, very pleasant to have a little sweet sprinkled in with the bitter.

G. H. Lochman,
Acting Postmaster.

DEDICATED

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSN.

On Wednesday afternoon the Winchester Mothers' Association met in the High School Assembly Hall.

After the opening exercises the audience listened with much enthusiasm to violin solos by Mrs. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill Higgins. "Sing Me to Sleep" was particularly enjoyed by many.

Mrs. Savage spoke in behalf of the milk fund and contributions for this fund will be very welcome.

Dr. Karl D. Bowman, chief medical officer of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital spoke on the dental health of the child, showing to the parents the necessity of caring for the dental as well as physical needs of the children.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served in the library. Miss Lyons and Miss Dodge acting as hostesses.

His Wife Curbed Peter Stuyvesant

Peter Stuyvesant, governor of the Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam, which is now New York, married Judith Bayard, a French Huguenot, the daughter of a minister of that calling. She seems to have been a very remarkable woman, both for her beauty and social accomplishments, and for her practical good sense and sound judgment. It was his wife's presence which gave social tone to the Stuyvesant administration, and it was she to whom her husband turned when harassed by cares of state. He was notoriously irascible and quick-tempered, but his wife was able to deal with his humors, and maintain harmony in the household. She successfully educated her children in a land where good teachers were so scarce that education was a rarity.

Strange Thing.

One of the strangest things in this world is why a woman will tell the neighbors her daughter can sing when their ears are perfectly obvious.—Dallas News.

RED CROSS WILL ENROLL MEMBERS

Engaged in Tremendous Relief Task As It Enters Annual Roll Call Nov. 11

PEACE ACTIVITIES CONTINUE

Maintenance of Strength in Membership and Funds for Local Service Essential

The American Red Cross will enter its sixth annual Roll Call, November 11th to 30th, to enroll members for the coming year, engaged in the greatest relief task it has undertaken since the World War—the succor of more than half a million homeless, destitute refugees who have fled their homes and migrated from Asia Minor and Thrace into Greece and adjacent European territory to escape Turkish rule.

The Red Cross had, up to November 1st, expended nearly one million dollars for this relief work an amount believed sufficient to provide for the immediate, temporary needs of the refugee army, until Vice Chairman A. Ross Hill, head of the newly organized Red Cross Commission to Greece, can complete a survey and inform National Headquarters what further expenditures will probably be necessary.

The Red Cross Chapters in New England and throughout the country are rapidly collecting and preparing used clothing for shipment to Greece for distribution by the Commission, and are calling in their volunteer forces to make garments, particularly for women and babies.

IN KEEPING WITH CHARTER

Thus the American Red Cross is meeting this disaster crisis, in keeping with its charter obligations and the request of the President, so far as it relates to the European Near East and will continue the task until it is completed.

Meantime, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, Chapters throughout the United States will carry on the Roll Call, inviting every American to join his Red Cross for another year of service. In the New England Division every one of the 130 Chapters, and their Branches, will conduct a Roll Call by some method, many of them planning to send their volunteer forces from home to home, to make it as simple as possible for the people to join. The indications are that the present membership in the New England Division will be retailed and possibly increased.

TWO PHASES OF ROLL CALL

"The Roll Call presents two distinct phases, membership and funds for local service," says Arthur G. Rotch, Manager of the New England Division. "The American Red Cross is a volunteer society chartered by Congress to relieve and prevent suffering in peace and war. The very nature of its charter obligation calls for a very large membership to give that moral force and potential ability necessary to cope with the upheaval of war and the ever-present emergency of peace. The membership is the basis of the Red Cross. The vast majority of members are annual members, who pay $1.00 a year for their membership. They are the minute men and women, the greatest proved reserve for relief the world ever saw. This reserve should be maintained at the highest level possible.

"As money left from war days has been depleted by the increasing and essential peace time activities in communities many Chapters and they are unable to finance present and needed chapter work from the Chapter share of membership fees alone. The Chapters have, therefore, the necessity of requesting additional funds in order to serve their communities effectively.

"The peace activities, authorized by charter and approved by the Central Committee, include, as a primary obligation, service to the disabled veterans of the World War and to the Army and Navy home service to civilian families, public health nursing and other health activities, instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, first aid and life saving, volunteer service and Junior Red Cross.

VALUE OF PREPAREDNESS

"And now we are, unexpectedly, facing the new and terrible calamity in the Near East. We have agreed to do our share to meet the situation, which means that the Red Cross will deal with the emergency in Europe, where for the most part the refugees have been driven, and the Near East Relief will continue as heretofore to operate in Asia, dealing with such emergency as exists there in addition to its regular work.

"The President has announced an appeal for a special Near East Emergency Fund, to be made during our Red Cross Roll Call, to finance the relief work in the Near East. The Red Cross has already expended or committed itself to expenditures of $780,000, and more, probably much more, will be needed. This money we must ask for during our Roll Call.

"The disaster at the eastern end of the Mediterranean makes very clear the importance of maintaining a Red Cross organization here at home prepared through its strength in membership and funds to meet such crises as this.

"We ask the people to join the Red Cross, to contribute to the maintenance of Red Cross service by their local organizations, and to help make possible the huge emergency task to which we have been called overseas, on the successful accomplishment of which thousands of lives depend."

Early Church Utanalla.
When our Puritan forefathers first began to pass the plate for contributions in the meeting house it was not a plate they passed in most places, but a brass warming pan. Into this the colma jingled cheerfully until someone decided that it was too cheerful and a long-handled wire corn popper was substituted. The artistically carved and velvet-lined plates used in many churches today are a recent adaptation. In the earliest colonial days no collection was taken at all and the salary of the parson was paid in pork and pumpkins, potatoes and peas, flour, dried apples and beans, with occasional "donation parties" that provided further luxuries. When church activities began to extend beyond the immediate parish it was necessary to collect coins, so the warming pan and the corn popper were both used to gather them up quickly.

Young Ambition.
A brown-haired, bright-eyed newsboy, not more than nine years old, was in the midst of a heated argument with the news stand man when the Woman noticed them. The man couldn't understand just what the boy wanted, although he was explaining loudly in newsboy jargon that he was very definite about the matter. Presently the boy took the man by the arm and led him to his choice among all the magazines that were hung about the news box for display. The Woman wondered what it would be—Diamond Dick or Racy Stories. Without hesitation the boy pointed to his desired magazine. The Woman blinked and looked again. The cover under his small, slightly soiled index finger said, "What to Sell and How to Sell It."—Chicago Journal.

Yucatan's Influence.

Hequen means reasonably cheap and plentiful binder twine; while binder twine makes possible the use of harvesting machines; harvesters cheapen grain production; cheap grain means cheap bread, and so hequen—and arid Yucatan—play important parts in feeding America and the world. Hequen, which is a sort of vactus not unlike the century plant or the "pulpue cactus" in appearance, has been grown in Yucatan since prehistoric times and its fiber was used in local plantation and village industries. But there was no outside market of considerable magnitude for the fiber until the increasing use of harvesting machinery in the United States created a demand for larger quantities of binder twine.

Sea-Elphant Lozy Marine Animal.

The sea-phant which abounds about the island of South Georgia, located more than 1,000 miles east of Cape Horn, is one of the largest of marine animals, one of the laziest and most contentions. His main business while ashore is sleeping and fighting bitter battles with other sea-phants. The animal is so named from his great bulk, which, in the bull, often attains a length of more than 20 feet and proportionate girth, and his long snout. His mode of progress on land is similar to that of an inch-worm, traveling entirely with the aid of his fore-clippers and bumping his unwieldy body in what is said to be a very ludicrous manner. Despite his awkwardness, he can travel as fast as a man can walk.

Eagle Sometimes Ill-Omened.

The eagle is found on the royal arms of a great many civilized nations. Curiously enough, the eagle has often proved a bird of ill omen for nations who adopted him as their device; for in many cases they have risen to great power only to sustain terrible reverses. Rome conquered the world under the eagle-standards of her legions, and then crumbled into dust. Napoleon's eagles made him the terror of the world, till he fell more rapidly than he had risen. In the World war the eagles of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Russia were brought low.

Sight of Fleets.

To the fish the surface of the water, seen from below, presents a circular whorl surrounded by mirrors, according to Edward Rignwood Hewitt, author of "Secrets of the Salmon." It seems that a fish can see out into the air only through a limited aperture; everywhere else the surface reflects the contents of the stream, or (if it be a shallow one) the bottom. This is because the light rays passing from water to air are bent, and when the angle of the light ray from the fish's eye with the vertical becomes great enough, it is bent backward so that it does not enter the air at all, but is directed downward toward the bottom.

Who Are the Prizes?

The Nobel prize-winners are selected by the Swedish academy and the Norwegian storting, or parliament, four by the former and one by the latter. Nationally has nothing to do with the choice. During the short time that the prizes have been awarded the principal countries of Europe, as well as the United States, have been recognized by the selectors. The Peace prize is the one awarded by the Norwegian storting. Those whose duty it is to award these prizes of world-wide fame are naturally always on the lookout for works of merit in the various departments. But, no doubt, they have many claims for investigation from those who feel that their work entitles them to some consideration.

Wisdom for Wives.

A wise old minister, before parting with a young couple he had joined in matrimony used to slip a card into this advice: "When you marry him love him. After you marry him study him. If he is honest humor him. If he is generous appreciate him. When he is sad cheer him. When he is quarrelsome ignore him. If he is slothful spur him. If he is noble praise him. If he is confidential encourage him. If he is secretive trust him. If he is jealous cure him. If he favors society accompany him. When he serves it kiss him. Let him think he well you understand him, but never let him know that you manage him." Boston Transcript.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Winchester Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, held its annual meeting on Nov. 1, in the Parish House of the Church of the Epiphany, in which church this active branch first started, some 15 years ago, with five directors. In now numbers 21, and all were present or represented at the meeting. No director comes empty handed—indeed she comes with basket or boxes so heavy with good warm new garments that a chauffeur or the sexton is called upon to carry them up stairs to the waiting tables.

Each director is required to collect not less than 22 garments or articles of household use from her group of 10 or more contributors. There must have been some misunderstanding this year for but five of them delivered their number—the rest all went beyond it, one having 78 garments to her credit, another 38 and another 34. All counted there were five 583 gifts upon the tables. We wish all who contributed could have seen them. Within a few days these new garments, mostly for children, were distributed to 17 active welfare societies in our own community. But two out of town organizations were remembered—the well-known Mothers' Rest at Revere and the Reading Tubercular Sanatorium.

The directors themselves decide where the gifts shall go, and as nearly every church in Winchester has one or more representatives on the board, a fairly even distribution throughout the town is assured.

Nov. 9, 1922.
My Dear Mrs. Kelley and Members of The Needlework Guild:

I am gratified by this opportunity of expressing to your Guild in behalf of the Overseers of the Poor Department its sincere appreciation of the articles donated for distribution.

Every piece was not only useful, but attractive and the selection was what was most needed for our dependents at this season of the year.

The work you are conducting is of great practical value to the community and every one benefited must consider the results most satisfactory.

Thanking you for your cooperation,
I am

Yours sincerely,
Maudie L. Smith, Sec.

Nov. 10, 1922.

My Dear Mr. Kelley:

I want to thank you with special emphasis for the fine bundle of household articles just received through you from the Needlework Guild.

I have inspected them with great satisfaction and want you to know how much I appreciate them.

Gratefully yours,
Frederick B. Allen.

The present officers: President Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, Vice President Mrs. Louis Barta, Secretary Mrs. Anthony Kelley and Treasurer Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks have served for a number of years and wish here to express their grateful appreciation of the growing interest, in our community, of the work of the Needlework Guild and of the generous response to their annual call.

WADSWORTH-PRINCE PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The November meeting of the Wadsworth-Prince Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Wadsworth School, the President, Mr. Parsons in the chair. The meeting was largely attended, which fact proves the interest that is fast gaining in the Winchester Association. It was moved and seconded to make the December meeting a joint meeting with the newly organized High School Parent-Teacher Association. The program of the evening consisted of a free discussion of various questions of interest which had been handed to the President by various members. The first question to be discussed was whether there should be organized athletics in the schools, the discussion being led by Mr. Parker. It was voted that a committee of 3 or 5 be appointed by the chair, to investigate suitable grounds for tennis courts, and to take steps to organize other athletics. The question of whether one year of Latin should be made compulsory for a child, before entering High School, was led by Miss Barr. While it is recognized as being very beneficial to every child it was considered unwise to enforce it. Whether formal English should be started earlier in the grades to enable a child to better understand French and Latin was discussed by Miss Haywood. She maintained that seventh and eighth grades were early enough to begin the teaching of formal English. The question of furnishing money to establish a reference library in the Wadsworth School was discussed by Mr. Pinkham. Such a library seems necessary, and it was considered wise to ask the School committee for necessary funds, rather than to solicit money from the parents.

A most enjoyable social hour followed.

The attendance of Parents and Teachers was as follows:

THE ELECTRONIC REACTIONS OF ABRAMS

To the Editor of the Star:
Many false statements and misrepresentations have been made in the lay press concerning the stand taken by certain prominent physicians and others, in regard to the pretensions of Dr. Albert Abrams, of California. The time has come for the public to know the truth. The following letter in the Oct. 26th number of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal explains itself:

A Disclaimer.

17th October, 1922.

Mr. Editor:
In the Advertiser of Sunday, October 15, in an article by Elizabeth Rintels advertising the pretensions of Dr. Albert Abrams, I am quite falsely accused of having approved of Dr. Abrams' theories and methods. As I consider him one of the most gigantic frauds of the century, and as a number of persons have asked me whether I believed in Dr. Abrams, I wish to take this opportunity to state as emphatically as I can that neither he nor any other person has had any authorization to use my name in this way, and that I feel the same disgust and indignation against his fraudulent methods that any other reputable physician must.

Richard C. Cabot, M. D.

Because of misrepresentation by the Associated Press, President Wilbur of Leland Stanford University, California, has written the following letter:—

Oct. 10, 1922.

The Manager, Associated Press, Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

May I call your attention to the enclosed clippings, apparently sent out from your office, indicating that Dr. Albert Abrams is connected with Leland Stanford University. The same error has been corrected several times. Dr. Abrams has never had any association with Stanford University. He is a graduate of Junior Medical College, which was taken over by Stanford University long after his graduation. It is evident that Dr. Abrams, or some one associated with his publicity work, has tried to keep up the fiction of his association with Stanford.

It seems to me had enough for such a responsible institution as the Associated Press to herald far and wide the scientific rubbish of Dr. Abrams, and worse still to connect the name of the University in any way with such absurdities. If there is an opportunity in any later dispatch to correct this misstatement it would be appreciated. Naturally I realize the difficulty of ever following up such a mistake.

I should think it would be clear to the managers of the Associated Press by this time just what kind of a man they are dealing with in Dr. Abrams. Why not give publicity to some of the worth-while things that are being done in this country instead of making American science the laughing stock of the world? With the monkey gland publicity, Abrams' electronic diagnoses of male and female handwriting, and other such stuff, it is naturally confusing to all of those that are not trained in such matters.

I am writing this because I realize that there is a constant desire in the Associated Press to be accurate, conservative and constructive rather than to merely see how many lines of space can be occupied in the papers of the country.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) Ray Lyman Wilbur, President.

Concerning his recent visit to Boston the editor of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, in the issue Oct. 19th, page 581 says:

"Dr. Abrams consistently refused to submit his method to any test offered by those present, and confined himself to demonstrating the presence of lesions, the existence of most of which could be proved only by post-mortem examination. He selected for his experiment a member of the Journal staff, a man in apparently perfect health. Yet this individual, according to Abrams, presented the following pathological conditions: Streptococcus infection of the left frontal sinus and of the right antrum; two abscesses of the lungs, one in the left lung, one in the right; congenital syphilis; sarcoma, non-metastatic, of the intestine. In demonstrating the situation of the sarcoma, Abrams located it first in the right lower quadrant and later, by another method, in the left lower quadrant.

Analysis of the results of Dr. Abrams' statements and demonstrations while in Boston shows two outstanding facts. First, he persistently refused to submit his method to a scientifically controlled test, or to a demonstration given under such conditions that the investigation of the method could be carried on under the usual rules of scientific criticism. Second, in the one case upon which he did demonstrate his method, he found the existence of four diseases—syphilis, tuberculosis, sarcoma, and streptococcus infection—in an individual entirely free from symptoms of any disease whatsoever. If, by his method, he could diagnose disease where no symptoms existed, he surely should have been able to approach without fear of failure a test based upon the diagnosis of blood specimens from a patient with well-marked clinical pathology. The fact that he refused to perform such a test is capable of only one interpretation—that is, that he knew full well his inability to make a really correct diagnosis.

The marvelous 'cures' reported by himself and his followers must be explained on the ground of mental suggestion. Abrams gave this away when he said in his Sunday lecture that 'if the patient will convince himself that he has no disease, I cannot elicit a reaction.'

Abrams says that his Electronic Reactions are either the greatest miracle of the age or the greatest fake. No one who witnessed his demonstration and who listened at all critically to his vague explanation of the theory of these reactions could concede the former. Whether the thing is a conscious hoax or is a case of self-deception we cannot say. Whichever it is, it is dangerous doctrine; the time has come for the Board of Registration in Medicine to put a stop to the further perpetration of this fraud.

RED CROSS PUTS UP $9,739,872

Year's Budget Stresses Relief and Services at Home and Overseas.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Over $3,000,000 Allotted to the Disabled—Foreign Work Lessens.

Washington.—Expenditures totaling $9,739,872.47 for carrying through its program of services and relief during the fiscal year in the United States and overseas are authorized in the budget of the American Red Cross, effective July 1, 1922. This total is $2,735,975 less than the expenditures for the last fiscal year, when disbursements reached $12,475,847.69. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement emphasizing the necessity of continued support of the organization by enrollment during the annual Roll Call, November 11-November 30 inclusive. This total for the budget is exclusive of the large financial operations of the 3,300 active Red Cross Chapters, which, it is estimated, will more than double the total.

War Veterans Have First Call

First call on Red Cross funds is for the disabled ex-service men, of whom 27,487 were receiving treatment from the Government on June 1 last. This work for veterans and their families in a wide variety of service that the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither funds nor facilities has the call on $1,030,000 during the current year, or about $300,000 more than was expended last year for soldier service. Adding the funds disbursed in this humanitarian work of physical reconstruction following the World War by the Chapters throughout the country will approximate a total for the current year approaching $10,000,000. This work, in the opinion of the Surgeon General's office, will not reach its peak before 1923.

Through its Chapters the American Red Cross is equipped to find the individual ex-service man, help him in his problems and difficulties, provide immediately for his necessities, and open the way for him to the Government compensation and aid to which he is entitled. The extension of this work to the families of such men proves to them that the Red Cross has lost none of its sympathy nor will to service manifested in wartime. Similarly the service goes out to the men still in the Army and Navy, 11,087 of whom were under treatment in Government hospitals on June 1, 1922.

Greater Domestic Program

This year—after five years of constructive effort during the war and after the armistice—brings with it a greater responsibility for domestic service to the American Red Cross. The budget for foreign operations, however, totals $3,404,000, but of this amount $1,834,000 is for medical relief and hospital supplies for Russia, which is a part of the gift made by the American Red Cross in 1921 to the Russian famine relief work of the American Relief Administration program. The child health service in Europe continues, moreover, and $654,000 is appropriated for this work undertaken in 1920. Other items in the stringently diminished foreign program include $200,000 to support the League of Red Cross Societies, $22,000 for nurses' training schools instituted by the Red Cross abroad, and $600,000 for liquidation of the general Red Cross foreign relief program.

Prepared for Emergencies

For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $750,000, and for emergencies in Chapter work $500,000 to be available for domestic, insular and foreign demands. This is more than $345,000 above last year's expenditures. For service and assistance to the 3,300 Chapters and their branches $1,233,000 is provided by the National organization.

Other budget items of importance in the domestic program include $200,000 for assistance to other organizations and education institutions for training Red Cross nurses and workers; $100,000 for Roll Call assistance furnished to Chapters; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies.

Of the total budget less than $500,000 is allotted for management in the National organization. No cash estimate, of course, is possible to weigh the value of the service by volunteers in the Chapters.

THE RED CROSS SUPPLEMENTS GOVERNMENT SERVICE BY MEETING THE PARTICULAR NEEDS OF THE INDIVIDUAL EX-SERVICE MAN. THIS WORK CANNOT GO ON UNLESS YOU SUPPORT IT WITH YOUR MEMBERSHIP DOLLAR PAY UP TODAY

The Unconventional Professor.

One of the most extraordinary examples of unconventionality in dress was Prof. F. W. Newman. He often clothed himself in onion fashion—three coats, one over the other, and the last one green. In winter weather he would wear trousers edged with six or eight inches of black leather. During that period of the year his favorite outer garment was a rug, with a hole in the middle for his head. But even this, Professor Newman's biographer notes, was not such a surprising vagary of public costume as that of another professor, who, being intent on making some abstruse point clear to a young lady pupil, walked one evening round and round a London square with her, talking earnestly and attired in his top hat and dressing gown.—Manchester Guardian.

Weather Always With Us.

There are many who say that the seasons are changing, but a glance at a weather calendar shows that the "extraordinary weather" of mid-summer is very ordinary indeed if we take long views of things. In January, 1922, Pops noted in his diary that a fast day had been ordered by Parliament "to pray for more seasonable weather, it having hitherto been summer weather." In June, 1771, Swift was rendered exceedingly foolish by the heat. In July, 1757, Walpole writes, "I have made a tour of my garden but once these days before eight at night, and then I thought I should have died of it. For how many years we shall have to talk of the summers of '57!" In 1880 July was so hot that Wordsworth could not sit in his room, and, as Dorothy tells us, "went into the wood and altered his poems."

Sun Still a Mystery.

The sun is a hotter place than the old orthodox believed. Its temperature is about 6,000 degrees centigrade. In breadth Old Sol is 865,000 miles across. Compared with him, our earth is like a kernel of popcorn in the center of a dinner plate. But although Old Sol regulates our life, growth and health from a distance of 92,330,000 miles, to be exact, science as yet knows little about him, observes Capper's Weekly. People realize in their subconscious minds that the sun is closely related to the mystery of life, which is one reason they are forever talking about the weather that is regulated by the sun as completely as a furnace regulates the temperature of a house in winter. But the big day star is almost as much of a mystery to us as he was to the ancients.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Seventy-five years ago a woman of the middle west wrote to her cousin in New York:

"What do you know about this new device for making fire? It consists of small splinters of wood with tips of some substance that bursts into flame when rubbed on a rough surface. If you can send me some I shall be grateful."

A simple request for matches? Now consider the conveniences of today. You can turn on the gas and it is automatically ignited; you turn a faucet and receive pure, cool water; you lift the telephone receiver and talk to points thousands of miles distant, and by walking out in front of your house you may be transported from the city into the peace and quiet of the country.

All these things are at the command of the ordinary person, with an ordinary income, living in an ordinary way. Yet some of us are trying to find out what ails the world!

ARLINGTON GAS LIGHT CO

A ladies' afternoon bridge party is to be given at the Calumet Club next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 18, at 2:30 o'clock. The party is in charge of Mrs. Ernest W. Hatch, Mrs. William L. Parsons and Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase, and tickets for the afternoon may be obtained of these ladies.

Two fires called out the department last week, an alarm on Friday being for burning grass near the residence of Charles Herrick on High street and that of Saturday afternoon for haves at the rear of the stable on the property of Mr. George R. Brine on Washington street.

"Advertising managers find that it is worth almost quadruple the price of the daily paper space to secure the close reader interest found only in the weekly."

FOURTH ANNUAL NATIONAL

Children's Book Week

NOVEMBER 12th to 18th, 1922

Purpose of Children's Book Week

This national book week which was originated in 1919 by the American Booksellers' Association and the book publishers, with the co-operation of the American Library Association and the Boy Scouts of America, gives opportunity to bring together all organizations working for boys and girls for the purpose of encouraging a love of books among children and the discussion of boys' and girls' reading.

"Each year over a million children come to reading age. 'What books shall we buy for our children?' is a question every parent should endeavor to solve conscientiously. The schools teach the children to read, the public libraries give opportunity to boys and girls for forming the habit of reading and for developing good taste in books. The books that actually go into the forming of a child's home library are the ones that form his growing taste. His ability to use books for information and for pleasure when he is older, depends on his acquiring the reading habit when he is a child."

Come to the PUBLIC LIBRARY for suggestions of worth while books to buy for children.

TRUE CENSORSHIP

To the Editor of the Star:

Now that the citizens of Massachusetts have expressed in an emphatic manner their disapproval of an act that threatened to bring more ill than blessings in its wake, there remains for those who will employ it a method of censoring far more deadly—far more overwhelmingly effective—than any politically-appointed board of censors has ever been able to wield.

One earmark in particular never fails to typify the individual who holds up his hands in holy horror at the prevailing "badness" of the films. Quite possibly, one may agree with him in his denunciation of some particular one. "But how," one inquires, did you happen to pick out a picture of that type to see? Surely there is no lack of better ones. ("Oh, well," he stammers uneasily, "I happened to be passing by, and just dropped in for a little while.") Oh, these people that "just drop in!" He would not enter a dry-goods store, turn blindly in the general direction of the nearest counter, reach out his hand aimlessly, and expect to grasp the article for which he came. He would enter a book store and say, "I want three novels; anything you may happen to have." In each case, he must exercise his discrimination in order to obtain the greatest value for his money—in order to depart a "satisfied customer," and he knows it well. When he goes shopping for movies, he is by confession in a very particular person. The common run of films will neither edify nor divert him; hence his usual careful discrimination should stand him in good stead. But no; he "just drops in!"

"Well," he exclaims obstinately, if taken to task about it, "isn't that my privilege?" Surely there is but one answer in that;—he may, if he wishes, "drop in" until the end of time, but he may not hope to do so and preserve at the same time full rights of criticism. He has not the same right to complain that the pictures are not up to par as he would if he were doing his individual bit to keep them so. By continuing to "drop in," he not only deprives himself of the "worth of his money," i. e., the full satisfaction to which he is entitled, but he throws the same temptation in the way of the dispenser of motion pictures to cheapen his product that he would afford the storekeeper if he failed to let discrimination play its part in the selection of a neck tie. Stock improves in quality as discriminating patrons keep up the demand. If he enjoys pictures enough to attend them (and we assume that he does attend from the sweeping statements he has made in condemnation of them) then he should care enough to be discriminating in his patronage. I. e., knowing what he wants to see before he sets out, and seeking it where it is to be found. In other words, the success of good pictures, and the failure of poor ones, depends entirely upon the increasing number of people who use discrimination in the selection of their entertainment.

Particularly does this apply to the small community. In cities, where all trade is more or less transient, "drop-ins" will always be a large factor in any audience. There, too, each particular kind of picture will find its supporting public. But in small communities the situation is different; week in, week out, the same clientele is relied upon, nor can a manager afford to displease it. The privilege of discrimination of which a State board would have deprived them is still a weapon in their hands. If they refuse to patronize poor pictures, his only alternative is to show better ones. Moreover, one such lesson suffices for a long time, as it takes many weeks of good business to offset one week of bad.

"But how," someone may ask, "can we know whether a picture is good or not until we have seen it?" A fair question, fairly put. I might answer;—in the same way that one knows he wants to read a book before he has read it. Information frequently travels by word of mouth. One reads a current novel because people whose opinion he respects speak of it with approval or admiration. Or, he may read a good review of it in some reliable publication. Or an advertisement may appeal to him. With the films it is not otherwise. As regards reviews, several high-grade publications now review the current films and the habit is increasing. In this respect, "Judge" and "Life" are particularly helpful. They state quite frankly and openly whether a film is good, bad, or merely stupid; good artistically but in poor taste, admirable in subject matter but poorly produced, adapted to adults, good for children, etc., etc., whichever the case may be. Movie magazines, of course, are legion, but unfortunately, few are content to discuss the pictures as such. They harp everlastingly on personalities, and seem to think that in publishing an outline story on the plot they have covered the entire ground. Of course, this is not true. In many pictures, method of handling is everything. A poor producer can ruin a good story, while a good producer can sometimes transform a simple plot into a gem of rare brilliancy.

But enough. The substance of our argument is this:—good pictures need to be supported. Producers can not be accused of failing to supply them; the wonder is rather that they persist at all in the face of so much discouragement. As a box-office attraction, "Oceania" rated only 68 out of a possible 100; "Sentimental Tommy" went begging at 53; "The Old Swimming Hole," 63; "The Conquering Power," 64. Other instances are many. There is a huge public for the meaner commonplaces of the films. They who would censor are more discriminating. It is for them to supply the audiences for the better type of picture whenever it appears, thus convincing the producers that there is a public for the strictly high-grade production that they cannot afford to ignore. That, and that alone, will give us better pictures. That is true censorship.

With such discrimination being exercised by a constantly growing public at the consumers' end, and with Mr. Hays striking boldly at the root of the difficulty (as he has promised) by winnowing the pictures where they are born, i. e., in the producing studios, one may confidently hope for better—much better—things to come in the realm of the silent drama.

Rupert F. Jones.

MOVING PICTURES AGAIN

Moving pictures are to be shown in Winchester! They will be at the Town Hall and two performances are to be given on the afternoon and evening of Monday, Nov. 20.

Harry K. Eustace, big game hunter and explorer, possessor of what are said to be the finest moving pictures of African wild game, and who only last Saturday night entertained a big audience over two hours at the Calumet Club, will be the producer. Aiding in the show will be Prof. Eustace's fine electric cameras, which portray the pictures in the finest possible manner.

The afternoon show is to be wholly for children, and it is hoped that every child in town will attend. The evening performance will be for adults, and in this class there are few if any who will not say the pictures were a revelation after witnessing them.

To see the wild African animals is a novelty in itself, but to see them alive and in motion, roaming their native hills and woods, within a few feet of the camera, is a novelty second only to seeing the real beasts themselves.

The show is being arranged for by Principal Raymond E. Pinkham of the Wadleigh School, who feels that the opportunity of seeing these pictures should be given every child in town. The price of admission has been placed at a figure to meet every pocketbook—25 cents for children and 30 cents for adults.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The greatest of interest is being manifested in the classes in Millinery and Dressmaking which meet every Tuesday evening in White's Hall. It is now planned to follow up this course, on the same evenings, with a similar course in the making of fancy silk and leather bags, lamp shades and baskets. Many have already enrolled for the new course.

Committee's have been appointed to take charge of the Court's annual Christmas entertainment, the proceeds of which are always devoted to the Charitable fund. The Entertainment this year will consist of two parts, the first part an old-fashioned Darky Minstrel Show and the second part a play entitled "Honeymoon Flats." The usual Christmas Sale will be conducted and the afternoon performance will be given for the children.

Many of the members journeyed to Woburn on Monday evening to enjoy the Minstrel Show staged by that enterprising Court. Mrs. Helen Studley of our own Court was one of the big hits.

At the annual Guest Night of Court Reading on Nov. 21st, P. G. R. Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Lecturer of the local court, will give a talk on Current Events.

Mrs. Daniel Lyoch, one of the Court's hustling members, has been elected Regional Director of the Democratic State Committee.

There was a large representation of the Court present Wednesday morning at the Nuptial mass of Sister Katherine Trainer, who became the bride of Mr. George Weaver of Woburn.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF OUR POSTAL SYSTEM

Domestic Parcel Post was established in 1913, and today mail transportation by aeroplane is an established fact, so that the Post Office Department is now a banking institution, an express company, a special carrier, an insurance office, a disseminator of knowledge, and an encourager of thrift and business as well as a mere carriage institution of folded pieces of paper.

The great strides made by the Postal Service may be shown by a few comparisons. In 1790 there were 75 post offices; in 1921, more than 52,000, and this number has decreased from 76,000 on account of rural delivery. Postal revenue in 1790 was about $25,000; in 1921, $500,000,000; per capita expenditure for postage, 1790, one cent a year; 1921, more than four dollars. In 1790 there were 118 officers, postmasters and employees of all kinds; in 1921, more than 300,000. In 1790 there were about 2000 miles of post roads; in 1921, almost 2,000,000 miles.

No part of the United States Government comes into such close and intimate touch with its people as the Post Office Department. No function of our Government is more important; indeed, our whole commercial life is bound up with the post office, and a failure of mail service would mean a domestic tragedy compared to which a state war would be trivial. These facts, generally recognized by common consent, have been enacted into laws governing the mail service which make the "U. S. mail" sacred property and the integrity of the service a national pride.

This concludes the articles on the "Origin and History of our Postal System" which we hope you have found interesting and instructive.

Atlantic City Board Walk duplicated at Mechanics Building, Dec. 1 to 8th. Bigger than Allied Bazaar.

For overspeaking in this town, Francesco Gagliardi of Medford was fined $5 in the Woburn court Wednesday.

Winchester friends of William H. Bowe, Jr., playing back on the Coburn Classical Institute (Woburn, Me.) team, will be interested to know that Coburn comes to this vicinity Saturday to play Saugus High at Saugus Field. Coburn has had a banner year, its game lost to Dartmouth last week being its first defeat of the season.

ALEXANDRIA: THE MARIAN (OHIO) of 1776

Across the Potomac from the city which perhaps is the most elaborate and enduring monument that perpetuates the name of any human being is smaller, older, but an up-to-date city, which reverently pays her tribute to the great man who surveyed its town lots. He also commanded its troops, was a member of its fire company, sat in its historic Christ Church while President of the United States, and tripped the stately minuet in its parlors, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Alexandria, Virginia, which was so prominent at the close of the Revolutionary War that it considered a possible seat for the infant National Government, and which indeed might have had the honor, so the story goes, if the great man who lived within a stone's throw of its borders had thought it fair to use his influence in its behalf, is today an up-and-doing city. A naval torpedo plant is being constructed there at the present time, and during the World War it had a fully equipped shipbuilding plant.

Reborn as Shipping Center

The first ship built at this plant was the "Gunston Hall" named after the Virginia Declaration of Rights, at that time probably the most complete statement of the rights of man.

This shipbuilding plant, which now stands idle waiting the development of new plans concerning our merchant shipping, covers 46 acres of land along a river which measures 49 feet in depth at the city pier. At no point in its course to the ocean is the channel less than 30 feet in depth.

The coal fields of the Cumberland are but forty miles away and the cheapness of transportation to the city adds another commercial asset. The inhabitants in the decade between 1830 and 1840 foresaw the power which was coming into being to the west of them, and expended large amounts of money in building the Alexandria Canal and in contributing to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

The Lee Highway from New York to San Francisco, now being constructed, passes through Alexandria and westward through the beautiful and historic Valley of Virginia. Very aptly might Alexandria, from its geographical position be given the sobriquet, "The Gateway to the South."

A Shrine Near the American Mecca

Tourists to the Capital City—and everyone feels that sooner or later he must see the Capital, the White House, and the Monument—usually find a few hours, if no more, to cross the Potomac and sit in the silence of the quaint little church in its pretty green churchyard where Washington advocated before the townspeople in 1774 resistance to Great Britain, and where Robert E. Lee agreed to take command of the Virginia troops at the beginning of the Civil War in 1861. Washington's pew is marked today, but unfortunately the high backs of the seats, which in former days kept the President from seeing exactly what kinds of face the bewigged gentlemen in front of him had at their throats, were cut down by a subsequent restorer who wanted his church to keep space of the times. It is said that Washington and the famous and devoted Martha always rode from Mt. Vernon in a handsome cream colored coach to attend the services.

The seeker for excellent examples of Colonial architecture can have a sigh of satisfaction when he catches his first glimpse of Carlyle House, as this home in which the illustrious gentlemen and charming women of old colony days discussed state questions and tripped a measure or two is considered one of the best specimens of eighteenth century architecture in existence. Major John Carlyle, who built it in 1752 provided a means of escape for his family, in case of attack by the Indians, in a subterranean passage that leads from the house through the fort on which the house is located, to the Potomac. Here they could get into boats and sail down the river to safety.

QUESTIONS OF INTEREST TO THE STATESMAN

The statesman of today requires as comprehensive a vision and as profound a wisdom as those of former times, with intense labor, and a far wider range of knowledge; but he requires other gifts once scarcely needed; for he has not only to decide what ought to be done, and the wisest way to do it, but he has to do it or as much of it as he can, in the face of obstacles which would have baffled Mezerin, and before which Chatham and Walpole might well have stood aghast. To be useful and great he must carry the nation along with him, and be the embodiment of its soberest and maturest wisdom.—David Gregg.

He Would Like to Know

An official of the village improvement society in New Jersey tells of a note received from a Japanese of an intriguing turn of mind. The subject of the inquiry is one that is familiar to most parts of the world, but no doubt the community of which it was made felt flattered by this evidence of its popularity. The note read: "The honorable society are asked in what way do they rid themselves of him the much troublesome mosquito? How do they approach him in his house among the reeds and marshes, so as to remove him effectually from the doegers that he does to people of good minds whose skies he must procure? All this I would like so much to know."

A bargain until Nov. 24—an advanced sale ticket, 25 cents, for Atlantic City Board Walk. A fact—admission at the door when it opens Oct. 1st, 50 cents. Conclusion—save 25 cents. Tickets on sale at STAR office, Exchange and News Store.

IRKUTSK: CATCHING UP WITH THE WAR

The misfortunes of war have just caught up to Irkutsk, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society which describes the recent capital of the Kolchak government, now reported to be captured by the Bolsheviks.

Forty hours from anywhere, figuratively; five days from Petrograd, literally, in the best of times; farther, in fact, from the Russian capital than is San Francisco from New York, this Siberian metropolis was too far removed to suffer more than pin pricks from the World War, but now is engulfed in its turbulent wake.

Not only is Irkutsk a remote city of a sleeping giant country, but it has been an isolation ward for Russia's political exiles. From such a thistle the traveler usually did not expect much—and was agreeably surprised. Until the storming of the Reds a few years ago Irkutsk was a thriving, well built, modern city.

True, it experienced a few scratches in February, 1918, but these could not compare with the great fire of 1879, which did irreparable damage to archives contained in museum, library, government buildings, and the Si-Si-branch of the Russian Geographic Society.

But, in rebuilding, Irkutsk was the Baltimore of Siberia, and when General A. W. Greely visited it some thirty years later he wrote:

Among Siberian cities Irkutsk is noted for its churches, orphanages, hospitals, schools, observatories, and museums. It is a city of imposing buildings, beautiful homes, and is given to lavish hospitality, while its extended business operations are supplemented by all modern municipal equipments, including telephony and efficient fire service.

It must be added that it has in summer nearly impassable streets, that the prevalence of unpunished crimes is notorious, while it is said by free-speaking Russians that the inefficiency of its police is only surpassed by the corruption of its officials.

Irkutsk is capital of a province of the same name which has a million people. The city's normal population is about that of Omaha, Nebraska. Lake Baikal's southwestern shores are but 44 miles east of the city, which is on the right bank of the Angara River. Thus Baikal, deepest lake in the world, and largest, (except for our own Great Lakes and Victoria Nyanza and Tanganyika, in Africa) with its five contributory rivers, affords unusual inland transportation facilities. The Angara, a principal outlet of the lake, leads to the Yenisei River Basin, with its 10,000 miles of navigable waterway.

Irkutsk had its beginning from the station established there in 1852 for collection of a fur tax from the Buriats. This curious people still dwell in the Baikal Lake region. In them, it would seem, the ethnological east and west almost meet. Their business is akin to the herdsman of our own western plains; their appearance, with shaved heads and pigtales, like that of the Chinese. In winter they dress like Eskimos, with sheepskins and furs; their attire is the oriental gown of silk and cotton.

The horses the Buriats raise figure in the religion they cling to most tenaciously. This religion calls for sacrifice of the favorite steed at the owner's grave. The less faithful among the heirs, though, have been known to tie an animal with a tether so frayed that the horse soon broke away to join the herd.

Irkutsk is on the Trans-Siberian railway, a little more than five days' journey east of Moscow in peace times.

The Cathedral of the Virgin of Kazan is one of the most conspicuous edifices in Irkutsk, its five domes and detached belfry immediately attracting the eye of the visitor.

One of the peculiar customs which the traveler encountered at Irkutsk before the war was the closing of the railway ticket office for the sale of tickets two days prior to the departure of a train. He could never decide to take a trip to Petrograd (3792 miles), to Moscow (3384 miles) or to Vladivostok (2008 miles) on the spur of the moment.

Victor Hugo's Historic Funeral

The largest funeral ever held in France, and probably the largest in the history of the world, was that of Victor Hugo, the great poet, author and dramatist, who died in May, 1885, and was buried in the Pantheon the first of the following June. At the head of the funeral procession were three enormous wagons filled with floral tributes, among them a huge diadem of Irish lilies with the inscription "To the World's Greatest Poet," sent by Lord Tennyson, poet-laureate of England. Telegrams were received from virtually all the prominent men alive, and the number of spectators was estimated at 1,000,000, of all classes and kinds, all striving to do homage to the memory of the dead writer.

Anti-Fat Campaign in 1863

The fattest man of all history is a title that has rested undisputed on Daniel Lambert, who died in his fortieth year at Stamford, Eng., in 1809. Mr. Lambert is said to have weighed 739 pounds, almost 200 pounds more than his closest competitor, Mr. Bright, who lived in Essex in the previous century. Bright, however, was scarcely a slyph, for his waistcoat is reputed to have occluded seven persons of ordinary size, with room to spare. One of the first recorded anti-fat campaigns was that inaugurated by William Banting, who published a pamphlet on the subject in 1863. He urged as a cure greater moderation in the eating of sugar and starch, and gained so much fame that today "banting" is common vernacular for undertaking a restrictive diet.

TOWN MEETING

Half-Hour Session With 108 Voters
Transfers $10,100A half-hour session with 108 voters of the town present, transferred the sum of $10,100 at the special town meeting held Monday night. The money went chiefly to the Highway and Engineering departments of the town, the bulk of the amount—$7,100, being taken from the reserve fund, and the balance of $3,000 from the surface drainage account, the annual appropriation for the latter account not all being used.The meeting opened promptly with about 50 voters present, the number increasing before the actual business was commenced. Even so, several prominent citizens arriving at 8:15 came too late to participate.Chairman Wiley of the Selectmen spoke to the motion of transfer, outlining in substance the article published in the Star in last week's Star in explanation of the conditions.
Mr. J. Harper Blaisdell, chairman of the Finance Committee, followed Mr. Wiley, stating that his committee recommended favorable action. He took occasion in his remarks to place before the town the inadvisability of town officers exceeding their appropriations, urging that the present instance be an illustration of what this tendency by impeding the reserve fund necessitating a special meeting.Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck spoke against the motion offered. He thought the matter had better be left until the March meeting and settled then. He censured the Selectmen severely. Mr.
Edward S. Larned spoke in opposition of the Selectmen, to which Mr.
Tuck replied.The vote of transfer passed was as follows:1. The Family Circle conducted by the Youth's Companion.

2. "A Sectional Song."

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The music and dramatic committees have combined in arranging the club talent program which is to be the feature of the next meeting of the club on Monday afternoon, Nov. 27. Dances in costumes of the olden times and in modern costumes are to be a feature of the occasion, with the dance music played by Mrs. J. C. Hines, piano, Mrs. Theodore Smith, violin, and Mrs. Albert Hegel, violoncello. The musical part of the program will include vocal solos by Mrs. George Hale Reed and Mrs. J. R. Faussey, a piano solo by Mrs. H. A. Peterson, and a vocal duet by Mrs. W. W. Winship and Mrs. A. H. Abbott.

The women of the two committees are eager to have this day a big success and they suggest that Monday, Nov. 27 would be a good day on which to bring guests so that friends may see what The Fortnightly is doing.

The Fortnightly will join forces with the Red Cross in its work for the coming clothing drive for the benefit of the Near East relief.

Mrs. Alice Ames Winter, in advocating club study of citizenship, says: "Government is not remote. It is just the machinery which we have created and which touches our life in every hand and every day. To play our part as citizens we have to understand what the machinery is, how it works and how well or how badly it accomplishes its purpose."

With this end in view, the Legislation Committee is organizing a class in the "Fundamentals of Citizenship." This is a free course of six lectures given by a university extension instructor on Friday afternoons during January and the early part of February. At least 30 members must be enrolled to make this course a success. Will those interested please give their names to some member of the committee as soon as possible.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY

A delightful, happy and cheery place was the home for the aged on Thursday afternoon—the annual Recognition and Donation Day. All the folks at the home were able to receive and enjoy the gifts but one, who is having a slight indisposition. A large number called and had a social cup of tea in the rooms and the dining room was filled with good things for the winter. Several of the directors were present as also Mr. Preston Bond, the president, who is so kind and thoughtful of every need of the inmates. The decorations were roses and dainty cakes and confections were served with the tea.

ELKS' BALL

Big Affair Attended by Over 1000 Last Night

A capacity attendance recorded the first charity ball of Winchester Lodge of Elks last evening at the Town Hall. The affair was one of the most successful and popular events which has been carried out in this town in many years, and not since the former days when the Firemen's ball necessitated closing the doors of the hall to hold the attendance within the fire requirements has such a gathering been seen.

The sale of tickets gave ample notice of the popularity of the affair, and the guests included visitors from practically every town and city in this vicinity, as well as many from distant places.

Decorations of purple and white, with a beautiful and artistic illuminated clock, which was unveiled and lighted at eleven, when the toast of the order was given, transformed the hall into a fitting background for the festivities, while the music, furnished by a full orchestra, gave equal pleasure for the dancing.

The concert program was an exceptionally fine feature of the affair, the numbers being given by Miss Jane Gidding, soprano and violinist; Miss Christine Wilson, reader and Pietro Mordella, piano and accordion. Mr. Charles J. Harrod had charge of the concert, assisted by Messrs. John W. Johnson and Fred H. Scholl, and to this committee much credit for the excellent selection of the artists was due.

The concert occupied about an hour and a half, and at its close the grand march was turned, headed by Exalted Ruler John McNally. From that period until the close of the dancing the log throng enjoyed both floor and music.

The dancing was in charge of the following officers and members:

GODDU—BRADFORD

Miss Hester Katherine Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Bradford, of Mystic avenue, was quietly married to Mr. Paul Dudley Goddu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Goddu, at the Unitarian Church on last Saturday evening at a private ceremony. The Rev. George H. Reed officiated. Miss Marjorie Bradford, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Louis Goddu, brother of the groom, was the best man. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present at the wedding, and at the reception which followed at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white crepe de chine covered with crystal beads and coils of pearls. The wedding veil was held in place with orange blossoms, which contrasted most attractively with the beautiful white roses which she carried. The bridesmaid wore a dress of midnight blue georgette and carried pink roses.

Both bride and groom are well known in Winchester. The former Miss Bradford is a graduate of the Winchester High School and a member of the Eta Kappa sorority. Mr. Goddu is a graduate of Huntington School, and served in the aviation corps during the late war.

The couple left early Sunday morning for New York where they plan to spend a few days and will then continue south returning in about two weeks, when they will be at their home on Cliff street.

HAVE YOU OPENED YOUR BLUE ENVELOPE?

The Council of the Boy Scouts of Winchester have this past week communicated with everybody in our town old enough to vote, requesting their financial support of the work of the Boy Scouts in Winchester.

A contribution of only $2 is asked of each person, and to those in Winchester who know what scouting has done for our boys they will, without doubt, be only too glad to help this cause for another year.

The Council greatly desires that persons will promptly and graciously respond to the request that has been sent out and that the money desired for this work be sent to Mr. Joseph T. Clark, Treasurer, as a voluntary contribution, thus showing to the Council the strength and friendship of the Winchester townspeople for our Scouts.

We wish to call to the attention of our residents the article which appears in this issue of the Star from Mr. Frederick C. Hill of Milford, Conn. Mr. Hill has been connected with the Scout movement for over 10 years and has given greatly of his time and thought to this work. During the war he had ample opportunity to observe the very effective work that the Scouts are doing in France as well as in Germany as a matter of assistance and help both to the people and to the Government.

It is most earnestly desired that this request of the Council is cheerfully subscribed to by our people, and announcements will appear in next week's issue of the Star showing progress being made.

COMMUNITY THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The churches of Winchester are invited to co-operate in a union Thanksgiving service to be held in the Baptist Church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D. D. of the First Congregational church. The Quartette and Organist of the Baptist Church will render the following musical program:

Prelude, "Adagio" First Sonata..... Rogers
Anthem, "While The Earth Remains"..... Mauser Baritone Solo—Selected
Offertory, "Cantata"..... Hollander
Anthem, "Prayer of Thanksgiving"..... Kremer
Postlude, "Thanksgiving March"..... Lemare

The Governor's Proclamation will be read and the ministers of the co-operating churches will have some part in the service. All are urged to help make this a great community gathering. The pastors of the several churches and one layman from each church are invited to meet at the close of this service to consider the matter of Community Forums and other matters of vital interest to the church life of Winchester.

BOWLER AT P. G. A. MEETING

Harry Bowler, professional at the Winchester Country Club and secretary of the New England section of the Professional Golf Association of America, left for New York Tuesday, where he will attend the annual meeting of the national body.

Many matters of importance will be discussed, chief among them being the site of the championship tournament next year. Several courses have been suggested and bids have been received by the association from the officials of the clubs whose courses have been named as possibilities for the title event next year.

Financial arrangements were not wholly satisfactory at Oakmont last season, and this question is another that will be ironed out before the meeting is adjourned.

COUNTRY CLUB PLAY

Saturday's tournament at the Winchester Country Club, a four ball best ball match, was won by C. M. Crafts and R. L. Smith with a gross of 78 and a net of 71.

The scores:
Winchester C. C.
Four ball, best ball—C. M. Crafts and R. L. Smith, 78-71; A. M. Bond and R. S. Dunbar, 81-75; T. R. Bateman and J. W. Osborne, 81-78; C. E. Cook and W. W. Smart, 83-76; E. H. McDonald and T. R. Freeburn, 89-78.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna DeLuca, residing on Swanton street, was held on Saturday. She was 81 years of age.

AFRICAN PICTURES FOR CHILDREN

There were good audiences at the Town Hall, both afternoon and evening on Monday at the showing of Mr. Harry K. Eustace's films of wild African animals. The pictures were exceptionally fine and included a wide range of strange and fierce animals. The afternoon performance was given for school children, every child in school in town being admitted. In the evening the show was for adults. The production was arranged for by Principal Raymond E. Pinkham of the Wadleigh School, an educational feature, and no attempt was made to realize any substantial profit from it, the evening show carrying the cost of the afternoon session.

Every boy and girl in the public schools in grades 1 through 8 who did not buy a ticket was allowed to go to the pictures free if he or she desired. This was done because the pictures were felt to be of real educational value and it was desired that everyone see them if possible.

The result was that some of the late comers to the afternoon show could not be admitted. All such people, upon payment of five cents more, were given tickets for the evening show.

Mr. Pinkham wishes to say that he regrets exceedingly that Col. Eustace should have undertaken, without his knowledge or consent, to ask people to donate money towards the printing press and stereopticon machine and slides now in the Wadleigh School. While the Colonel's intentions were of the kindest, Mr. Pinkham desires to make it plain that he does not approve the course taken.

It was not the intention to make money on the show; rather to allow the children to see it. If money was realized it was to be placed to the credit of the press and stereopticon. As more than sufficient funds were received than what were necessary to meet the costs, the following statement is issued by Mr. Pinkham:

Receipts
Afternoon admission $199.10
Evening admission 113.29
Total $312.39

Expenditures
Booth $100.00
License 50.00
Printing 2.00
Advertising 12.50
Tickets 11.00
Incidentals 8.00
Total $183.50

The balance will be placed to the credit of the printing press and the stereopticon at the Wadleigh School.

FORTNIGHTLY CO-OPERATES WITH RED CROSS

The Red Cross has sent out an appeal for clothing for the sufferers in the near east. Two days will be devoted to collecting the clothes, Dec. 7 and 8. The Fortnightly is co-operating with the Red Cross in this work, and has given the use of its rooms in the Lyceum Building as a receiving center. The clothes will also be sorted and packed there.

A first hand report comes from Miss Sophie Nelson of the Red Cross Nursing Service, just returned to Athens from Saloniki, the largest refugee center in Greece. Miss Nelson states: "There are 70,000 in Saloniki and another 70,000 in the surrounding country; hundreds dying daily; malaria sweeping all camps. There is no food, no clothing, no medical supplies. Whoever gets sick dies." "Suicide among those who can no longer endure suffering is one of the outstanding tragedies in Saloniki, now a maelstrom of deepest woe."

FROM PRESIDENT SNYDER

President Frederic S. Snyder of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in his inaugural address, said some awfully good things which it would be well for all the people of the city to read and upon which they should reflect. That the organization of which he is the guiding spirit has no thought of slackening in the good work in hand is indicated in these words of his:

"Retrench wherever we choose, there is one direction in which the community can never afford to do other than adequately support this vitally necessary central organization and to maintain it so fully that its efficiency will remain complete and its opportunities to serve our total public will be steadily enhanced. In this spirit and to these ends the officers, directors, committees and permanent staff of the chamber dedicate their services for the work of the ensuing year."—Traveller.

RECOGNITION SERVICE

There was a splendid gathering Thursday evening Nov. 16th, at the Recognition Service, held in the Second Congregational Church, in behalf of the Rev. John E. Whitley, who takes up new duties as pastor, in the field of church work at Winchester Highlands.

REV. JOHN E. WHITLEY

Rev. H. J. Kilbourn, D. D., of Stoneham, acting as presiding officer of the meeting, gave a word of welcome to the people present, and a message of friendliness and good will from a neighboring town. Mr. Kilbourn introduced Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Society of Winchester, who led the devotional exercises.

The records were read by Mr. Arthur A. Belville, Clerk of the Second Congregational Church, relative to the unanimous call sent by the Church and accepted by Rev. Mr. Whitley.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church, gave a most inspiring address on "Recognizing the Church," taking as his text: "If Timotheus come, let him minister amongst thee without fear." Some excellent advice was given by Mr. Chidley to the people of the Church, admonishing them to be careful to be frank at all times, and support the Pastor in his work, and not to criticize unjustly and harmfully in secret. The Pastor may act as leader of his people and as a guide to the Gospel but acceptance of the same rests entirely with the people.

Rev. David Fraser of West Somerville, spoke on "Recognizing the Pastor" and emphasized some of the qualities the congregations of today required of a Pastor. Mr. Fraser advised judging the Pastor not on what he said or on what he did, but on what he was. The call of the hour is that every preacher of the Gospel must be of great character, as increasing grace means increasing power, and established Christian character augments the authority of what the preacher says.

Miss Jean McLellan rendered very beautifully the solo "By the Waters of Babylon" and the anthem "Hark, Hark, my Soul" was sung by the Church quartet. Mrs. Fields, Miss Ruth McKelhaney, Miss Flora Richardson and Miss Isabel Copland.

A very interesting and helpful part of the Recognition service was the greetings from the various local churches.

Rev. Wm. H. Smith, Pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church brought a message on "Co-operation."

Rev. George H. Reed, brought a message of fellowship from the Unitarian Society and spoke of the similarity in church services, church work, and church problems.

Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, brought greetings and paid great tribute to the religious life of the people of Winchester Highlands expressing his belief that Churches were not overworked in communities but that Churches were underpeopled.

A letter was received from Rev. Allison Gifford, Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Winchester, extending the good will of the Church and a welcome to Rev. Mr. Whitley.

The need of a live Church is much felt in Winchester Highlands. Much good work has been done in the community in the past and the fact that the work still lives, proves that the community today must carry on and continue in the service of the Church in Winchester Highlands. The prospects look very bright with a leader of Rev. Mr. Whitley's type, a man of sincerity, knowledge, experience, and with an unbounded sympathy which has already won the hearts of the people of the community during his work at the Highlands. A growing community such as the Highlands needs a growing Church around which will center the finest interests in life. Let all help in the upbuilding of this Church.

THE PATHFINDER'S CLASS

The Pathfinders of the Second Congregational Church held their monthly business meeting at the church, Friday, Nov. 17. "Sport" Kendrick and "Babe" MacEwen were the two caterers and they served a delicious supper, although "Babe" did not stay to supper he had a good time "somewhere else" who knows?

"Sport" Kendrick took charge of the business meeting during the absence of the president. All members of the class were present including Rev. Mr. John E. Whitley, the pastor of the church.

After transacting a large amount of business the meeting adjourned. Every one had a glorious time.

The first snow storm of the season arrived last night—or rather early this morning, the ground being well whitened with snow and ice at sunrise.

FOUR OVERCOME BY GAS FROM UNKNOWN ORIGIN

About 11 o'clock last Friday morning an almost fatal gas accident occurred at the home of Mr. Benjamin Hartwell, Salisbury road. Mrs. Leslie Hartwell, Mrs. Benjamin Hartwell and her baby Benjamin, Jr., who is 12 months old, and Miss Minnie Desmond, a maid, were overcome and narrowly escaped asphyxiation by monoxide gas coming from an origin which as yet has not been ascertained.

Mrs. Benjamin Hartwell becoming alarmed at the condition of her baby, which seemed on the verge of a convulsion, summoned her mother-in-law Mrs. Leslie Hartwell, of Calumet road, to her assistance. Mrs. Hartwell came immediately and called Dr. Sheehy. When he arrived, the doctor found the younger Mrs. Hartwell and the baby overcome and Mrs. Leslie Hartwell in a fainting condition. Before he had succeeded in resuscitating any of them, Minnie Desmond the maid had also been overcome. About this time Mr. Benjamin Hartwell, who had been summoned at his office in Chelsea, arrived and with his assistance the doctor succeeded in carrying the two Mrs. Hartwells and the baby to the sleeping porch adjoining the room in which the accident occurred. By this time Dr. Sheehy himself, had become partially affected and was forced to remain outdoors, while Mr. Hartwell returned and rescued the maid. The gas came from an unknown origin which despite investigations of the past week has not yet been learned. It was of an imperceptible nature and could not be smelled.

All of those who were affected are fully recovered but Mr. Hartwell and family have abandoned their home for the present fearing another attack of the gas.

KILLED BY AUTO

Frank Noonan, 11 years old, son of Henry G. Noonan of Middlesex street, a pupil at the Wadleigh School, was killed by an automobile on Main street at the bridge near Blanchard's lumber yard this morning.

With two other boys he was either sliding on the icy street or playing behind an ice wagon. Just as George Doherty of Woburn was passing in his Ford car, going in the opposite direction, the Noonan boy ran from behind the wagon in front of him. Doherty turned his car quickly and avoided striking the boy, but his car skidded and the rear end caught Noonan and carried him with it to the sidewalk, crushing his head between the rear wheel and a pole.

The boy was taken to the hospital but was dead upon his arrival there. Doherty was uninjured. The rear end top of the Ford was wrecked.

WINCHESTER COUNCIL BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

BOY SCOUTS' FATHER AND SON SUPPER

Last Friday night 102 Scouts of our town met at the Unitarian Church for the annual supper with their fathers and mothers. These boys besides bringing their fathers and mothers brought appetites of 204 Scouts and the good things that were provided on the table by Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight and her 26 assistants were certainly appreciated by everybody. The three cheers and tiger for Mrs. Hight and her committee, after the boys had partaken of the repast, surely were given with a will.

The Scouts with their fathers and mothers were seated at tables having 10 at each table, and the supper of ham, hot lima beans, baked potatoes, graham rolls, jelly, pickles, cocoa, ice cream and cake was soon traveling down the long red lane.

After supper the tables were cleared from Metcalf Hall by the Scouts, and under the efficient leadership of Mr. Howard L. Bennett, their song leader, numerous songs were sung. The competition song between the fathers and sons still showed the dads in the lead as far as lung power was concerned, but they certainly had to look to their laurels when it came to some of the songs that were of more recent origin.

President Merton P. Stevens of the Council then spoke to the fathers and Scouts of what scouting meant to the boys in general and to Winchester in particular. During the past year 45 merit badges have been awarded by the Council to boys in the four different troops for proficiency in the various Scout requirements. The Scout Commissioner, Mr. Francis E. Smith, mentioned specific instances of the efficiency of Scouts, and of boys being prepared for whatever emergencies that might arise where they were present. The Scout Executive, Mr. Arthur E. Butters, also addressed the meeting, telling of some of the requirements for the obtaining of merit badges.

At the request of President Stevens, Captain Kelley of our famous football team at the High School, who is also Senior Patrol Leader, Troop 1, called the scouts to attention and under his leadership the Scout oath was given by all the Scouts present in a dignified manner. When one knows what a Scout promises in his oath one cannot help but feel that it is leading these boys along the right path for clean, upright living. This oath is as follows:

"On my honor I will do my best—
1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey Scout law.
2. To help other people at all times.
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."
Mighty good maxima to be adhered to by older persons.

The gathering was entertained by moving pictures which were educational as well as humorous. After the meeting was over it was very interesting to see fathers get acquainted with the father of their son's chum, and to have a better understanding and acquaintance among the men of our town whose boys are growing up to be the men of tomorrow.

ELKS ENTERTAINED VETERANS

What was probably the last entertainment to be given the wounded veterans at the Parker Hill Hospital was held on Monday evening, the day the hospital officially closed, by Winchester Lodge of Elks. A large party motored over to the hospital, and a program of interest was given which was greatly enjoyed.

The list of artists taking part in the evening's program included the following:

Miss Anna Tracy—Singing.
Miss Dorothy Eben—Trio dancing.
Mr. James Horn—Cello playing.
Miss Mary Kelley—Soloist; accompanied by Miss Kerrigan.
Mr. George Keane—Piano.
Mr. Francis Oakley—Violinist.
Mrs. L. C. Crutten—Soloist.
Miss E. E. Jordan—Entertainment.
Mr. James Wall—Soloist; accompanied by Miss May Miller, piano and Miss Irene Miller, violin.
Miss Margie Lynch—Scotch dance.
Miss Vera Joyce—Soloist.

The evening was in charge of a committee composed of George Harold, John McNally and Frederick Clement. Those of the boys at the hospital who could not be present at the show were presented with cigarettes by Frank Randall, assisted by Mrs. Randall and Miss Julia Fitzgerald. Exalted Ruler McNally opened the evening and introduced chairman George Harold, who outlined the program.

Among those who accompanied the entertainers were Miss Hattie Carter, Mrs. James Horn, Mr. Charles Farrar, Mr. Harry Dotten, Mr. David H. DeCoursey, Mr. Thomas Farrell, Mr. John Coakley and Mr. Ted Connor.

AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

A bad automobile accident occurred Sunday noon at 12:45 at the corner of Church and Wildwood streets, two cars being wrecked. Fortunately the occupants escaped with minor cuts and bruises. An Essex sedan, owned by Mr. Herbert S. Underwood of Central street and driven by his daughter, Betty, was traveling from Central street across Church into Wildwood street. This car was in collision with a Ford runabout traveling on Church street towards the centre, it being driven by Edward C. Murphy of Woburn. The Ford was struck at the rear, being completely turned around, its front wheels striking the curb and both breaking. The Essex was badly smashed about the front. That no one was injured was a miracle.

DECEMBER ACTIVITIES ANNOUNCED

The Calumet Club, in the calendar for December issued this week by its entertainment committee, announces some very attractive events for the coming month. Opening on Friday, Dec. 8, the program starts with a visitation to the Central Club of Somerville, when competitive matches will be held in bowling, billiards, pool and bridge. Automobiles will leave Calumet at 7 o'clock.

On Tuesday, Dec. 12, the ladies of the club will have a "chicken roll," every lady bowler in the club being asked to participate. A ladies' afternoon bridge will be held on Friday, Dec. 15th, with tickets at 50 cents, obtainable of Mrs. Chas. W. Batchelder, Mrs. George H. Lochman and Mrs. Ernest Keepers.

Saturday, Dec. 16, has been reserved for a smoker for the members, an entertainment by Mr. Pitt Parker being announced. Mr. Parker is a cartoonist and crayon wizard, and will furnish something new to the club members in the way of a novel entertainment. He will be assisted by Miss Ruth Eastman.

Another ladies' night is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Dec. 19, when the Old Belfry Club of Lexington will come to Winchester as the guest of Calumet. This event is always an especially enjoyable feature of the winter's activities, as the games are participated in by both ladies and gentlemen, and there is a close friendship between the two clubs. The program includes mixed bowling matches and mixed bridge matches, with dancing during the entire evening.

This season's entertainment committee at the Club includes Messrs. Walter J. Brown, chairman; Alfred G. Barr, Willard T. Carleton, J. Alfred Dolben and John H. Taylor.

WHAT WINCHESTER RED CROSS HAS DONE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

During the past year the Winchester chapter of the Red Cross spent in Winchester for home service work alone, $1,500.

If there had not been a surplus in the treasury, this home service work could not have been carried on, because while $2,106.00 was collected by the roll call canvassers only $1,090.50 was available for local work.

During January, February and March and one summer month, the Red Cross spent $210.00 for the dental clinic.

In March, the town took over the dental clinic which the Red Cross had established but Miss Cunningham, the health nurse, saw the necessity for a summer clinic to care for the teeth of mothers and children of preschool age. The older children were urged to bring their younger brothers to this clinic and many did so. Eighty-six patients were treated, the total number of operations being 567.

This certainly proves conclusively that the Red Cross in addition to its great national work is rendering a genuine local service, and for that reason, if for no other, merits most generous local support. Canvassing the town, the solicitors found that there are many life members. None of the money paid by life members came to us locally.

The local Red Cross officials hope that these life members will manifest their interest in local Red Cross work, by making an additional contribution to the present roll-call which must be completed by Thanksgiving.

The local chapter is confronted by the problem of ex-service men, and contributions from life members, as well as from annual members, are needed now as much as ever before. The cash on hand at present is only $865.00, and at least three times that amount additional is needed.

If it were not for the help of a part-time worker, who works with the ex-service boys, pushing their claims with the government, enabling them to get what they deserve, many of them would become objects of charity. In answering the Red Cross Roll Call, all you need to do is to send one dollar.

Needless to say, the more money you send the more effective the work done by the local chapter will be.

Why not send your dollar (or more) today? Send your donation to Mrs. A. C. Jordan, 118 Highland avenue, Chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call.

WINCHESTER FINISHES SCHEDULE, DOWNING LEXINGTON

By Harry Price

Winchester High finished its schedule successfully by defeating Lexington High 38-0, on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon, before a crowd of almost 1000 people.

The game was greatly different from any that the team has played this season. There was no showing of the wonderful spirit exhibited on previous occasions, either by the team or the spectators. Everyone seemed to take it for granted that Winchester would win and consequently there was little enthusiasm.

Winchester started without Arthur French, the speedy halfback, but in his place was Francis Tansey, a player of exceptional ability, who has proven his worth in former games. Lexington received the opening kick-off and by line plays managed to get through Winchester for three first downs and a total of 35 yards. They were then held for downs and kicked. Winchester started on the usual march to the goal but at the forty yard mark they found that Lexington could withstand their attack and Fitzgerald went back to kick. The opposing ends were upon him, however, before he could get it off, the kick was blocked and the ball went to Lexington. They tried three times to get through but found that the holes were blocked, and kicked. This time Mason and McNeily were on the job and the blocked kick went to Winchester on the forty-five yard line. Winer plunged through guard for ten yards, added five around the end, Kendrick went off tackle for fifteen and Winer crossed for the first touchdown. Captain Kelley's attempted drop-kick for the extra point was blocked.

The second period was the most interesting from the spectators point of view for in it the few thrills of the game took place. Lexington received after the first touchdown, and managed to reach the fifty yard mark. Here they were held and kicked. George O'Connor was through as usual and blocked it, knocking it right into the hands of Fitzgerald who came in through the opposite tackle. Fitz seized the ball and galloped to the goal, while Mason made his run possible by taking out two of the Lexington backs from behind. Kelley added the extra point by his drop-kick. Lexington now kicked to Winchester and they were forced to kick at midfield. Lexington tried a forward on the first play but Melly, always alert, grabbed it and the ball was Winchester's on the fifty-five yard mark. Kendrick made ten through guard, his forward to Tansey netted five, and Winer covered the remainder of the distance by three line plays. Kelley failed to kick the goal. Lexington received, but lost the ball on a fumble on their forty yard line. However, Shelton, their left-half back intercepted Winchester's first forward and the ball was theirs with seventy to go. They rushed it to the fifty yard mark and then kicked successfully to Winchester's thirty yard mark. Winer plunged through tackle for twenty yards and the stellar play of the game took place. Kendrick tossed one of his long, straight forwards to Mason, who without turning or breaking his stride caught it as it came over his shoulder and raced thirty yards to the fourth touchdown. Kelley drop kicked the extra point. Here the half ended.

Winchester received at the opening of the second half and after making two first downs were forced to kick on the forty-five yard line. Lexington completed two good forwards and gained through the line until they were at a midfield where they kicked. Winchester fumbled on the first play but Lexington repeated the slip and the ball was the locals' on the thirty yard mark. Tansey slipped off tackle for fifteen then Kendrick and Winer pushed it to the three yard line and "Abbie" crossed for the fifth touchdown. Kelley failed to kick the goal.

The fourth period was much the same as the third. Lexington received, after Winer had scored, and were held at their forty yard mark. They kicked and Kelley ran it back to midfield. Winer and Kendrick pushed it thirty yards and then a fumble cost them the ball. Lexington rushed it back to the forty yard mark and were held. The kick was blocked and Winchester started to their last score. Winer carried it to the fifteen yard mark and Tansey swept around left end for the touchdown. Kelley failed to add the point. Lexington received, were held and kicked. The whistle blew before Winchester was again able to score.

Coach Bond's machine does not play so well with French absent but as may be seen by the score, they play a "whale of a game," nevertheless. Winer was in his prime and looked speedier than ever when he broke through the Lexington line. Tansey was as shifty as ever but because of his light weight took a lot of bad jolts. Mason was the star end of the game, his interference and receiving of forwards made him outstanding. Melly also came to the top when it came to intercepting forwards. Captain Kelley playing his usual brainy game, Shelton and Lothrop played well for Lexington.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

The man who meets troubles and masters them, is the man who rises to the top in the business world. A troubleless job draws only a small salary.

"Nowhere is the goal of him who follows the road of anywhere." The man who aims at nothing in particular, invariably hits his mark.

Your word of good will and friendly endorsement may be all that is needed to kindle the spark of inspiration that lies in the heart of every man.

In times such as we are now passing, we must not forget that it is these unusual conditions that give unusual men their opportunities.

Now that we all have had opportunity to look over the handsome new Bacon street bridge, we can offer our congratulations to our Selectmen in unison.

Now that the New England radio broadcasting stations are going to observe Monday evenings as "silent night," in order to allow radio owners to listen in for distant stations, it might be a good idea for the owners of the numerous small sending stations about town to also observe the silent hour. We have received several complaints that difficulty was experienced in receiving Monday night through the young man next door persisting in his practicing on cello.
No doubt those who have sending stations about town will be glad to observe the night for the benefit of their neighbors.

The handling of traffic during the recent relaying of the electric car rails on Winthrop street just over the Melford line was about as poor as we have ever seen. Two long stretches of road, just wide enough for the passage of one auto or vehicle, were left intact after night absolutely unprotected, cars and teams becoming tied up in the sections by head-on encounters through both entering the street at once. Who was to blame for the conditions we do not know, but it may safely be said that it would never have occurred within the limits of Winchester. Men should have been placed on the road every night to handle the traffic. It was a wonder that there was not a serious accident during the work.

Mr. Reuben M. Kimball of the firm of Kimball and Earl, lost the tip of a finger this week while examining the front end of a motor, the fan doing the damage.

UNSPORTSMANLIKE HORSE-MANSHIP

Editor of the Star:

The proximity of Middlesex Fells has always been one of the attractions of Winchester. Pedestrians have for years made constant use of the wood roads and paths. The opening of riding schools in town has now brought large numbers of new people to see and enjoy our Fells.

It is much to be regretted that some of these visitors are so forgetful of the rights and privileges of others.
Certain parties riding two or more abreast overlook the fact that their formation often takes up the whole road. Pedestrians ahead of them must either take the ditch or climb the embankment when they pass.
Other riders who have fallen behind their party seem to delight in making a lone cavalier charge just as tramps have returned to the road after leaving it for the main party.

After several close personal escapes from being trampled upon I have found it good judgment to take the precaution of leaving the road altogether whenever horsemen are heard behind. Doubtless others have had similar experiences. It has certainly been a surprise to find such disregard among users of roads that are open to all, in marked contrast to the care shown by motorists on South Border road, a highway primarily for automobiles.

I have no doubt that the acts criticized are purely unintentional. Some are perhaps due to lack of skill and others most certainly to indifference.
In either event they are decidedly unfair and are liable to cause accident or injury. It is to be hoped that all who believe a spirit of sportsmanship exists in horseback riding as well as other kinds of sport, will make earnest effort to eliminate this unnecessary grievance.

Wallace V. Plummer

Mr. Albert Brewnell of Canal street was struck by the locomotive of the 4:48 train at the Woburn crossing Wednesday evening and badly cut and bruised. He is thought also to have concussion of the brain. He went under the gates it is reported, and was hit by the cow catcher of the locomotive.
That he was not killed was a miracle. He is well known here.

O. E. S. FAIR

The bazaar of last Friday evening at the Town Hall under the auspices of the newly formed chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, was a huge success in every way and all the workers feel gratified at the result of the labor put into it. Mrs. M. R.
Doane was at the head of the undertaking and proved to be the right one, as everything was carried out in a most systematic manner. The decorations transformed the hall into a most attractive place. The booths were arranged under the balconies and the centre of the hall was reserved for the dancing which continued until midnight. All the decorations were done in white enamel with colonial columns of the same. There were pretty articles of every description for sale which found ready purchasers.

The big feature of the evening might well be said to be the supper.
About 300 people came to enjoy the "homey meal," which was prepared and served by the ladies of the Chapter. Although this was one of the happiest features, requiring much labor, a substantial, dainty meal was served for the low price of 60 cents.
The music was by the Winchester Laundries' Orchestra and in their usual charming manner they played music suitable for the occasion. A large number of dancers entered the gate and danced until midnight. The balconies were well filled all the evening with guests who enjoyed the music and scene below.

One of the fascinating places in the hall was the fortune-teller's booth where a thriving business was done by a professional seer who told the future of old as well as young patrons.

Assisting Mrs. Doane in the affair were the following ladies:

Supper—Mrs. Joseph Fessenden and Mrs.
W. R. McIntosh.
Aisles—Mrs. George W. Apsey,
Fancy Table—Mrs. William E. Priest,
Household Table—Mrs. Frank W. Roberts,
Surprise Table—Miss Ethel Jewett,
Grate—Mrs. William Cummings and Mrs.
Charles Morrill.
Dolls—Mrs. Raymond Merrill and Mrs. T.
Parker Clarke.
Candy—Mrs. C. William Morrill.
Ice Cream—Mrs. Martha Tibbotts.
Food—Mrs. Grace M. Johnson.
Beverages—Mr. Charles Lawson.
Grocery Table—Mr. William Wood.

The general committee in charge included:

Mrs. M. R. Doane
Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Hatch
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Sanford
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrill
Mr. and Mrs. William Cummings
Mr. W. S. Doane

The receipts above expenses are over $500 and will be used in work connected with the order.

Thanks are extended to all those who responded so generously and all who helped make the fair a success.

The lucky prize winners were: Mr.
W. Cummings, doll house; Mrs. John Sharon, electric iron; Miss Delia
Whitney, embroidered center-piece;
Mrs. Wm. Cummings, large decorated cake; Miss Morrill, doll's trunk; Mrs.
C. W. Webber, towel; Mrs. Squires, silver and glass compute; Mrs. Martin, blankets; Mr. Walter Dotten, box of candy.

The winners of the doll and lamp will be announced in the Star later.

WINCHESTER GIRLS TIE MEL-ROSE HIGH AT FIELD HOCKEY

Far too few attend the interesting field hockey games which the high school team is playing each week on Winchester Field. Although almost every girl in the school is supporting the football team to the fullest many neglect the games which despite the fact that they are not so thrilling, are characterized by skillful playing and a fine showing of team spirit.

On last Monday afternoon the Winchester girls held the fast Melrose team to a 1-1 tie and though there were scarcely 100 students present to encourage them they played a fighting game throughout. During the first period there was no scoring. The ball was rolled up and down the field with neither team showing to advantage.
In the second period, however, the local girls suddenly opened up and Mary Cullen with the brilliant assistance of Marion Smith managed to get the ball through the Melrose goal and made the first and only score for Winchester.

At the beginning of the second half Melrose came determinedly upon the field and although the Winchester girls showed a strong defense Miss Batchelder of the visitors scored the only goal for Melrose. In the last period both teams seemed fatigued from the strenuous playing and no further scoring was accomplished by either side.

Mary Cullen was the star of Winchester; her fast, energetic style of playing makes her a player of outstanding ability. Captain Marion Smith and Lucille Skillings also played brilliantly. Misses Batchelder, Carpenter and Sampson played well for Melrose.

Winchester meets Woburn on Friday and the game promises to be an interesting one. All that the local team needs is a little support and it will rank among the best teams of schools of the size of Winchester. To date the girls have won one game, tied three, and lost two, giving them a total of six points in the race for the league Championship.

NAVAL HONORS ACCORDED

The funeral of Alfred Yetter, a sailor on the U. S. S. Wyoming, who died at the naval hospital following the bursting of a blood vessel, was held yesterday, full naval honors being accorded and a firing squad from the navy yard attending. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St.
Mary's Church at 10 o'clock, the interment being in Calvary cemetery.
He leaves his mother, three brothers, William, John and Charles, and two sisters, Miss Jane and Miss Catherine Yetter.

Surgeon to Birds.

Miss Virginia Pope, a surgeon to birds, intended to be an artist when she started out in life. She became interested in birds while selling prepared bird food in order to maintain herself while Art was still a beckoning Muse, with nothing substantial, from a financial standpoint, in her luring palm. The birds were so fascinating that Miss Pope decided to devote herself to feathered friends and let Art drift on over the mountains—Ex-

M. C. W. G. AFFAIRS

Of the series of Charity Whists being run by the Guild, the most successful one, financially and socially, was held Thursday evening, Nov. 16, in the K. of C. Hall, which proved hardly large enough to seat such a large gathering.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Felix Carr, Mrs. David DeCoursey, Mrs. Charles Hayes and Mrs. Mathew McKee, and it was to be expected that such a popular committee would succeed in breaking the record. Sister Carr, with characteristic thoroughness, not only canvassed the town with tickets, but brought in relatives from Swampscott, Peabody and Wakefield, who subscribed generously and cheerfully to the Charity Fund. Sister DeCoursey also established a high record in selling tickets and obtaining donations, and to her efforts is due the fact that many friends from Cambridge were present.

The electric lamp donated by Mrs. Josephine V. Kane was drawn off by subscriptions and was awarded to Mrs. Frances Sullivan. About 50 valuable prizes were distributed among the whist players who scored high.

The next whist of the series will be held on the regular meeting night of this Branch, Thursday evening, Dec. 14, under the direction of Mrs. Waldo Ledwidge and Mrs. John Hanlon. As this will be the last before Christmas, all members are expected to make it a credit to the Branch.

This Friday evening, Nov. 24, an initiation and reception of new members will be held in the K. of C. Hall. District Deputy Mrs. Lena Dooley and other State officers will be present. The floor work will be done by the local degree staff, and all members of this Branch are expected to attend. After the reception ceremony a buffet lunch will be served by the following committee: Mrs. Annie M. Murphy, Mrs. Mary J. Halwartz, Mrs. Mary Golden, Mrs. Annie DeCoursey and Mrs. Ann Longfield.

ATTORNEY GENERAL ALLEN SPEAKS HERE

Come and hear Atty. Gen. J. Weston Allen speak on "The Criminal and the Law" at the First Congregational Church on Sunday, Dec. 3rd, immediately following the morning service.

Come and learn first hand about the overthrow of Ponzi, the cleaning up of the offices of the district attorneys of Suffolk and Middlesex counties, and the institution of justice.

Or if you are anxious to know about the great powers of the district attorney and how they can be used or abused, no one can tell you better than the speaker.

Or if you believe in law enforcement and wish to know what each citizen can do in this respect, perhaps Mr. Allen can give you some ideas.

Finally, if you believe in showing your appreciation of what he has done, if you want to endorse the qualities of courage, independence, and truth in your public officials, you will not miss this opportunity.

"THE TIME OF MY LIFE"

Thanksgiving eve is the night when the Town Hall will be crowded with St. Mary's Catholic Society's enthusiastic admirers, for on Wednesday next at the stroke of eight by the clock, a comedy in three acts, "The Time of My Life," will be staged under the personal direction of Mr. Charles J. Harrold. The success of last March still carries happy memories and those who attended the "Morning After" know that the present cast of St. Mary's Catholic Society will produce another gem—if able coaching and hard work coupled with exceptional histrionic talents can bring results.

Bernie Cullen of Stone avenue plays the lead as "Tom" with John Davy in his usual crutchy manner as the eccentric old man. Mildred Kennealy makes a delightful wife, and Hazel McKenzie as "Dorothy" will please, as she alone can, with her sweet winning deportment. Norman Harrold as the old colored man and his "head of the house," Marie Logan will cause many a laugh. John Cassidy, Vincent Ambrose and Edward Daney round out a splendid troupe and will bring tears to the eyes of the most joyous.

A large committee of young men and women are working with Fr. Fitzgeralds, the director, and plan an enjoyable evening for everybody from 8 till 12 midnight.

Dancing will follow the show. Music furnished by Cullen's orchestra.

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE E. P. H. CLASS OF BAPTIST CHURCH

The regular monthly meeting of the E. P. H. class of the Baptist Church was held at the church on last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Helen MacDonald presided. The entertainment committee offered several interesting tableaux, plans for the coming month were discussed, and refreshments served. The meeting closed at 10:00 P. M. About forty members attended.

Each member contributed some article of food and the whole will be given to some worthy persons at Thanksgiving time. The class plans to give its annual party, as formerly, to the Italian children in Boston's West end during the Christmas holidays. Gifts in the form of candy, toys and clothing will be presented to those little ones who would ordinarily be without them at the festive season.

The committee in charge consists of the officers of the class, Mrs. Helen MacDonald, president, Miss Clara MacDonald, vice-president, Miss Florence Jewett, secretary and Miss Alice Romkey, treasurer.

Well planned and well enacted tableaux depicting household articles were given by the entertainment committee, Miss Anna Holbrook, chairman, Mrs. Hammond and Miss Romkey.

A number of the young ladies of the telephone exchange enjoyed a whist party at the home of Miss Mary Kelley on Glenwood avenue. Tuesday evening, Miss Winnifred Kelley, Mary Kelley, Margaret and Theresa Sullivan entertained the guests. Prizes were awarded and dainty refreshments were served.

WINCHESTER HIGH-SCHOOL

Our new column heading is the work of Benjamin Priest, 1922.

In a preliminary Algebra test at Tufts College, William Garbino, W. H. S. 1922, ranked second in a class of thirty. This test was given to determine a student's fitness to advance to higher mathematics.

Miss Gwendolen Windle and Miss Annie Drohan, who entered Boston University Secretarial School this fall, have been placed in the junior or third year class in stenography and typewriting. They received their previous training in the commercial course of the Winchester High School, from which they graduated last June.

At a recent meeting of the class of 1926, W. H. S., the following were chosen as a committee to select the class pin: Lewis Wadsworth, chairman; Avaril Walker, Philip Jackson, Priscilla Chapman, Kathleen Lynch.

Before the Junior-Senior Assembly Wednesday morning Mr. Higbee awarded silver cups to Hubert Bernard, winner of the tennis tournament for singles, and to Sidney Pecker, the runner-up.

The Principal has received a letter from the treasury department referring to the maturing of 1918 War Savings Stamps on January first, 1923, and asking that publicity for this fact be secured through the school children.

W. H. S. girls tied with Melrose 1 to 1 on Manchester Field Tuesday in the Greater Boston Inter-scholastic Girls Hockey League.

(Every Day Stories—No. 4)

Winchester
A short time ago, while walking in the Falls, I accidentally discovered an excellent view of Winchester. There before me was a vista of the town stretching to the hills of the surrounding cities. Winchester!

What a beautiful town! The riotous autumn colors were visible everywhere—in the foliage of the trees and in the small, well-kept patches of lawns. All over the town I could see the network of streets bordered by the trim houses. And there were the schools, the center, the churches and the town hall. Following down with my eye the windings and twistings of the Allegheny, I came to the broad waters of the Mystic Lakes sparkling in the afternoon sun. This was Winchester—the town.

Then I started home while twilight descended on the hills, gradually blotting out the gorgeous colors of the sunset. In the center a stream of Winchester commuters came from the evening train, hurrying along to the twinkling lights of home. They walked away briskly, talking animatedly with their neighbors. And I thought of all the other citizens returning to their homes that night—men who, like these commuters, showed in their eyes the spirit of Winchester—men who were every ready to uphold the town and protect it, to work for it and improve it and to stand by and praise it when in need. And I knew that that night those people would congregate as parents, as church members and as civic organizations, all to work unselfishly for the betterment of Winchester as it is and as it is to be. And this was real Winchester, the people.
Frances Dinneen, 1922.

Hockey Rally

A spirited rally for the girls' hockey team was held in the High School assembly hall on Tuesday morning. Keen enthusiasm for the game with Melrose was aroused by the cheers, speeches and orchestra selections. Miss Dolores Maddocks, as team manager, introduced the speakers. Captain Marion Smith, the first to be called on, realized that hockey had been a matter of second importance this season owing to the splendid record of the football team; nevertheless, she was confident that the hockey team, if strongly backed, could accomplish wonders during the two games still to be played.

Dana Kelley, captain of this year's football team, urged the football devotees to transfer their loyalty to the support of hockey.

Miss Nelson, girls' athletic instructor, gave a short summary of the season thus far, and confidently stated that, with enthusiastic backing, the game with Melrose might easily be a victory for Winchester.

The following girls, all members of the team, also spoke: Miss Carrier, Miss Smart, Miss Jansen, Miss Vayo, Miss Gwendolyn Maddocks, Miss Skilling, Miss MacKenzie, Miss Mason, Miss Cullen, Miss Brown.

The speaking was interspersed by cheers, led by Miss Laraway and Miss Wilson, ticket selling and selections by the High School orchestra.

The rally closed with a few words from Mr. Farnham.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

FAIR AND SUPPER GIVEN BY MISSION UNION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

A food sale and fair followed by a supper was held in the vestry of the Congregational Church on last Tuesday. About 300 persons attended the sale and 200 were present at the supper. The vestry was tastefully decorated in yellow and black and set off with large pumpkins, the whole presenting a most attractive background for the well arranged booths and tables. The proceeds of the sale will be used to further the work of the Mission Union. The committee on arrangements consisted of Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, chairman; Mrs. Florence M. Scales, Mrs. Albert K. Hucksins, Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott, Mrs. Herbert T. West and Mrs. William A. Kneeland.

Articles of almost every description were on sale, and those who attended found that there was a large variety from which one might choose. Mrs. Walter Rice was in charge of the housekeeping articles table, Mrs. Fred Woolley of fancy articles, Miss Ruby Fontaine of the food table, Mrs. G. D. Elmer of toys, Mrs. H. H. Wright of books, Mrs. William Ledyard of candy, Mrs. W. R. Palmer and Mrs. Norris Brown of flowers, Mrs. Cline of cards, Mrs. Harry Parsons of the grab, Mrs. Walter Balcke of ice cream, Mrs. W. A. Lefavour of the table and Mrs. Fred Jordan of pies and cakes.

A delicious cafeteria supper was served from 1 to 7:30 p. m. and judging by the amount of food which was consumed it was certainly enjoyed by everyone. Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. W. I. McKown, Miss Georgie Stone, Mrs. F. H. Knight, Mrs. Scales, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, Mrs. John R. Faussey, Mrs. West and Mrs. Winship made up the supper committee.

The men serving in the dining hall were in charge of Mr. Delbert W. Estabrook, and included Messrs. Albert K. Hucksins, John R. Faussey, George Grey, and Howard Bennett. The ticket committee included Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase, Mr. L. K. Snyder and Mr. James Allen.

The general committee wishes to make mention of the splendid help which was offered by Messrs. Estabrook, Faussey, Hucksins, Gray and Bennett. Mrs. William Hill also deserves much praise for the interest she showed in her assistance to the committee.

K. OF C. BASKETBALL

The basketball team of the local Knights of Columbus held its third practice at the high school gym on last Tuesday evening. About fifteen men have reported to Coach Widell and have received uniforms. Among the well known players who have reported are Sloughness, Frank Valley, Donahue and Joe Tansley, former high school star who also played a brilliant game for the St. Mary's team last season. This is Tansley's first year with the K. of C. The work-out to date has been light since Coach Widell does not consider the men in condition for too strenuous playing. He has already started instructing them in some of the finer points of the game and is laying the foundation for a fast, well-trained team.

There is some talk of starting a K. of C. bowling team, since there are a number of men in the council at the present time who are bowlers of more than average ability. William Rogers has been appointed to take charge of the arrangements and is endeavoring to pick a strong team to meet aggregations from neighboring towns.

Van French, former high school athlete and star of the Tufts College backfield early in this season, has removed the cast from his leg which was seriously injured in the Tufts-Connecticut Aggies game about seven weeks ago. As yet he is unable to walk upon the foot but with the assistance of a stout cane manages to attend classes.

MRS. HILDRETH TALKS BY RADIO

Winchester radio operators will have another opportunity to hear a resident of the town by wireless. Mrs. Harriet C. Hildreth (Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth), president of The Fort-nightly, will talk from WGI on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hildreth is head of the literature department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. She will describe the work of the literature department. The talk opens at 2 p. m. under the auspices of the Amrad Women's Club.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

How can you practice economy on a gas range? Here are a few hints:

Always boil water in a covered tea-kettle. If larger amounts of water are needed, use the gas water-heater.

Regulate the height of your gas flame until its tip just touches the bottom of the cooking vessel. Don't permit the flame to curl up around the vessel.

Do not use the oven or broiler for toasting bread. Purchase a small toaster.

Reduce burner flame after contents of cooking vessel have reached the boiling point, or transfer vessel to simmering burner.

Never light burner until you are ready to place vessel over it, and turn off the gas when removing vessel.

Keep all burners clean. Boil them occasionally in strong solution of soda and water, or lye.

Follow the above hints and you will help to make your gas bills thrift bills.

Avoid Uncertainty

If you use sour milk and soda in your baking you can never be certain of perfect results. For, when too much of either is used, or when the milk is too acid, an unpleasant taste is given to the food.

It is quicker and surer to use Royal Baking Powder in which the proportions of cream of tartar and soda are always the same.

SCOUTING

Sooner or later individuals and organizations are weighed in the balance, and the yard stick applied to determine to what extent they are functioning in the community. Thus it is proper at this time for us to consider if Scouting, with a history of twelve years in this Country, occupies a position worthy of the time and energy of educators and others interested in the moral, mental and physical development of our youth. Surely in these days of multiplied activities it would be unwise to continue an organization that has not the elements necessary to perform duties incumbent upon a successful enterprise.

As one looks about him these days, and considers the many enterprises working along the same, or similar lines, one wonders if there is not a duplication of effort, and if some would not be more successful if others were eliminated, and thus the energies of individuals applied in concentrated form. But which ones should be eliminated? Who shall be the judge in the selection? Upon what standards shall the judgment be made? It would seem that the only practical and worthwhile standard to apply would be one that would measure results, and not aims. Plans may appear well on paper, but the shrewd business man would ask—"Do they work?" "Do they deliver the goods?"

Scouting has been organized long enough in this Country to produce results to stand up under an examination, and so at this time, let us consider what has been accomplished in the past twelve years.

It is not easy to read the mind of a boy, and to know whether his activities are prompted by a conscious purpose. We have often applied questions to our boys to determine, if possible, their ideas of why they were engaged in the Scout movement. The results are always varied, depending upon the age of the boy, his home training, environment, troop leadership, school and other contributing factors.

It would be presumptuous to state that the majority of Scouts have as their ideal that high and worthwhile motive service. We desire to establish that motive in their minds, and through a process of education, hope to graduate them from the Scout movement, as they cross the threshold of manhood, carrying into their mature lives the ideal of sacrifice and service.

If boys give an honest expression, it would seem that their purpose in engaging in the activities of the Scout movement is "the fun they get out of it," and if the program of activities is properly constructed and developed, the element of fun will be as the sugar coating of a pill, remaining within that element which, in later life, will give permanent satisfaction to the individual, and assist in making the world better.

I believe that the development of the ideals of Scouting is a gradual process, unfolding with the advancing years of boyhood, and that in the middle and later years of adolescence their activities will be more purposeful. The intensity of their interest in their activities depends again, on the leadership of the particular troop. At this period of a boy's life, we are dealing with the most intense passions and feelings; they are lullies of nerves, moods, with forces seeking expression and development. The properly constructed program that works parallel with their interests is bound to succeed, and the control of their interests is the great task of the leader.

It is doubtful whether in early adolescence, at the time when most boys join the Scout movement, if there is present conscious thought to any great extent. This, we believe, develops with years.

It would be difficult to find a program of the depth and breadth of the Scout movement. It is difficult to imagine any program that would offer expression to the highest available motives possessed by any boy, better than does Scouting. Can anyone add anything to the oath and the twelve laws in which a boy subscribes upon becoming a Scout? Surely any boy possessing any motive of a high type will find in the Scout program avenues through which he can develop and reach his highest aspirations.

The program of Scouting develops and unfolds like the complicated system of tracks one finds in a freight yard, where trains coming in on one of four tracks may be shunted to any part of the yard, depending upon their destination. The Scout program opens up very simply with the Tenderfoot requirements, becomes harder and more complex in the Second Class requirements, still harder in the First Class, and then radiates into many forms of activities, as expressed in the Merit Badge tests. There are practically no boundaries to Scouting, and a boy can never feel that he has reached the end of the journey, for always there is some test just ahead beckoning him on and challenging his ability.

There is a law in Physiology which states that "Function makes structure," so we believe that by engaging in community service, there is not only an opportunity for, but actual development of self-service. Community service on the part of boys will teach them the importance of team work in their community, and that as they give of themselves in the form of service to the community, the community will be better thereby.

What greater satisfaction could there be to a boy than to realize that he had been a part in some activity aiming at community betterment? He thereby feels that he has become an organic part of the town or city's life.

If the troop program is properly constructed and executed, this feature of self-service will occupy the most prominent place in the activities of that troop.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH WINCHESTER

Series 5

In this article the writer will take up the present Board of Selectmen in which case there is nothing the matter with Winchester. The present Board has probably done as much as any in twenty-five years. They have completed streets that a cow could not wallow through in the spring so that at present these streets are a credit to the town. High street was left in bad shape last fall and had to be finished at an extra cost. Highland avenue was not safe to drive on, but now it is the favorite driving spot of everyone passing through town. Woodside Road has been practically finished opening up valuable land for development and making an easy ride from Arlington Road which Woburn is completing through Winchester. They have got in touch with the street railway to have been the means of reducing the fare from Melford to Cross street to 10c. They have had completed under their direction the Bacon street bridge which is another ornament to Winchester. So taking everything into consideration and the obstacles placed in their way the present Board measures up to any in past years.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL XLII. NO. 21

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1922

PRICE SEVEN CENTS

"BE PREPARED"

On Saturday, Dec. 2, uniformed scouts of the four troops in Winchester will call on all of our citizens to receive from them the subscription which each one of us are glad to give to the Boy Scouts.

Please have your envelope that is addressed to Mr. Joseph T. Clark, Treas., of the Boy Scouts, all ready. If this envelope is mailed give your money to the Scout in a plain envelope. The Scouts will not solicit any money, they are only to help you, get your subscription to the Treasurer safely. This is a chance for the townspeople to live up to a scout law and do a good turn daily. Make this giving your good turn for Saturday, Dec. 2.

Now that you have opened your blue envelope, did you use your white envelope in sending your two dollars to Mr. Joseph T. Clark, Treas. of Boy Scouts.

It is to be regretted that certain boys of scout age, do not belong to some of the troops in town. The nulling up of a scout bulletin on the Unitarian church lawn only a half hour after it had been there, shows that their education as to the property rights of others has been sadly neglected. Both the bulletins on Mt. Vernon street at the river, were pulled up and thrown into the river on Saturday last and the remarks passed by these boys when they viewed the results of their destruction was anything but complimentary to their family life.

A GOOD TURN DAILY MAKES A LIFE MEMBER

A Winchester Scout has been living up to a scout law of doing a good turn daily for the past two years, by helping one of his elderly neighbors about his place. He has seen that his neighbor has his paper, before the scout started for school each day. In winter the paths and walks have been kept free of ice and snow. The furnace ashes have been carried for and many other kindly acts, done that have been greatly appreciated.

This elderly gentleman has been trying to think of some way to show his appreciation of these kindly acts. The past week the opportunity came when he received the letter from the scout council, asking for subscriptions.

To show how much he thought of the scouts in general and this scout in particular he sent to Mr. Joseph T. Clark, Treasurer, a life membership of $25, and told of his reasons for so doing.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL ALLEN TO SPEAK

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen will speak on "The Criminal and the Law" at the Forum meeting of the First Congregational church, Sunday, Dec. 3rd, immediately following the morning service. Drawing from a wide and exceptionally fertile experience, he has a very interesting and timely message for each one of us.

This is a citizen's meeting—and all are invited to come whether they are members of this church or not. Come and show your appreciation of Mr. Allen's magnificent work and hear an eloquent address.

ONCE-A-MONTH CHORUS

A chorus of twenty-five men has been formed to sing at the Methodist Episcopal Church, the first Sunday evening in each month, beginning Dec. 3. Mr. Benjamin Hill is the leader.

In response to the general request to observe "American Education Week," Mr. Gifford's subject for Sunday evening is "Making the Grade." Members of the Epworth League Orchestra will play.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETING

The Woman's League of the First Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Social Service Department, is to hold its sewing meeting, Thursday, Dec. 7th, 10-4 o'clock.

Yesterday proved one of the mildest Thanksgiving days in years, the weather resembling early fall, with a warm south wind and sunny skies.

THE XMAS NUMBER

Of the STAR will be issued Dec. 15th. Special colored supplement and additional news features. Advertisers are asked to reserve space early.

OUR OFFER

In accordance with our usual custom, all new subscriptions to the STAR received between this date and December 30th will be given a January 1st dating. Subscribe now and receive the remaining issues of this year free.

Subscriptions must be made at this office and paid in advance.

RECEPTION

A brilliant reception was tendered the Rev. and Mrs. John E. Whitley and their daughter Ruth, last Friday night at the Second Congregational Church.

REV. JOHN E. WHITLEY

The Church was beautifully decorated with flowers, potted plants, and pines. In the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Belville, Miss Mary McElhenny, Mr. F. Bockmaster, Miss Laura Tolman and Mr. Ralph McElhenny, representing the various branches of the Church work. Mrs. Whitley carried a large bouquet of pink roses, stellas, and ferns, a gift from the Church members and Mr. Whitley was presented with a handsome large yellow chrysanthemum, as a greeting in the Church color, from Mrs. Hinds of Forest street, who though an invalid for some time, has never lost her kindly interest in the Second Congregational Church. The young men of the church acted as ushers, in presenting the large number of members and friends of the Church in the community who enjoyed this splendid opportunity of meeting the new pastor and his family.

After the reception, Miss Jean McLellan sang two groups of songs, accompanied by Miss Margaret Copland, pianist. The first group, "The Merry Dance" and "The Sunshine of Your Smile," then two Scotch songs "Bonnie Mary of Arzyle" and "My Laddie."

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way. Ice cream and cake were served by the young ladies of the Church and later hot coffee was served by Mrs. Wigglesworth and Miss I. Copland. The Committee in charge of the arrangements for this Reception deserve great credit for the successful management which afforded such a pleasant evening to all present.

MOXIE STUNTS

There came striding into the Star office last Friday afternoon an apparition which reminded us of Barnum & Bailey or Ringling Bros., or some other mince pie and cabbage dream of our youthful days. All in white, with blue "Moxie Boys" stamped thereon from neck to toe, skillfully managing a tiny woolly Teddy bear on the end of a ship's hawser, he sang out to the group of awestruck girls which grace in the front office "Where is he?" There was no question in their minds as to who "He" was. With one accord they closed their gaping jaws to gasp "up stairs." Up stairs he went, and down the press room to where we were trying to puzzle out what the latest sickness was with the automatic. Tying the squash hound securely to the cylinder press and warning it severely not to go near the linotype, he gracefully presented us with a whole box of the famous Moxie lollipops "with Mr. Archer's compliments." He would have made his exit equally as auspicious, no doubt, but Bob Vining, who had sleuthed him from the front door asked "to what circus he belonged; did he do ring stunts in winter; was his clothes cold; would his dog bite?"—and in fact so many questions that he was glad to escape. Many thanks Mr. Archer! The Star and all its families enjoyed Moxie lollipops immensely.

BATHING BEACH AND TENNIS COURTS

The Park Department, under the direction of Mr. George Davidson, has completed making a bathing beach at the Palmer street playground on Wedge Pond. The work was started some time ago and has progressed quietly to its completion. A fine sandy beach has been completed 100 feet long, which will undoubtedly come in for much attention from town children next summer during the hot days.

Having finished the beach, the department is now beginning work upon the construction of two of four tennis courts planned for the playground. Much of this land was once used for tennis courts, many old residents recalling the West Side Tennis Club of former days, which maintained courts and a club house there. The land needs little grading and the high bank on Palmer street helps do away with a fence at the side and back.

Next summer the Palmer street playground promises to be very much in the popular eye.

A large family gathering sat at the festive board on Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Winn on Kenwin road, twenty being present to celebrate in the good old-fashioned way. Would there were more such occasions of united families now-a-days.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Food Sale by Winchester Girl Scouts in the Winchester News Store Saturday afternoon, November 25th for the benefit of the "School Milk Fund" and netted over seventy-dollars. Much credit is due Captains Dolan and Boone for the successful carrying out of the sale.

Many thanks are due to the proprietor of the News store who allowed the Scouts the use of the store free of charge.

Captain Dolan's troop consists of the following patrols:

Patrol I
Margaret Sawyer
Barbara Westworth
Laura Puffer
Patrol II
Mary McGarale
Virginia Hunkins
Griselda Eastwick
Patrol III
Ethel Dinsden
Barbara Robbe
Clara Butterworth

A recent meeting of Troop III was held at the home of Griselda Eastwick where they listened to a very interesting and instructive talk on nature. The Scouts were very interested in her collection of minerals. The meeting ended around a crackling fire in the garden where apples and toasted marshmallows were served to the delight of all.

Troop III has enjoyed the Saturday hikes through the Fells; their destination usually being the "Sheep Fold" near Spot Pond, where they have cooked their meals over true Scout fires.

Troop III is making possible a real Thanksgiving Day for a family that without its aid would not have much for which to be thankful on that day.

All the Scout Captains are attending the Monday morning training class at the Blue Triangle, Mechanics Building, Boston.

Fire chief DeCourcy is arranging a meeting with the Scouts wherein he will instruct them in fire prevention and what a Scout can do in case of fire.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The meeting of the Literature Committee next Monday, marks the beginning of the study of contemporary drama with Eugene O'Neill, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for the best American play for the year 1922, as the dramatist under consideration.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Wallace at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Ely and Mrs. McDonald are in charge of the occasion.

A pleasant afternoon is in store for those who attend the luncheon and bridge to be given on Wednesday, Dec. 6 at 304 Boylston street, under the direction of the Home Economics Committee.

Those who took the walk to Horn Pond Mountain on Nov. 16th under the direction of the Conservation committee had a very enjoyable time. The committee is planning for another walk on Friday, Dec. 8th leaving the Fortnightly room promptly at ten o'clock. This time the trail will lead through the Fells to the South and Middle Reservoir. It is hoped that all members who enjoy walking will come.

The Art Committee announces that there is an exceptionally fine exhibition of paintings by John Singer Sargent at the St. Botolph Club, Newbury street, Boston, open to the public from 10 to 12 a. m., and 2 to 4 p. m.

Children's Day, a joyous time for the kiddies comes Monday, Dec. 18. Members are entitled to one child's ticket; additional tickets may be had from Mrs. C. M. DeLoria, Mrs. Martha T. Bhetts, Mrs. C. R. Greco, Mrs. B. F. Miner, Mrs. E. F. Boyd, Mrs. E. W. Hatch, Mrs. I. S. Symmes, Mrs. Gen. Goddard.

The sale of reclaimed toys for which the Education Committee have been planning so long is to come in the near future. While the school children responded generously to the call for toys there is plenty of use for more. Will anyone having toys or children's books to donate, please telephone Mrs. Charles Morrill, Win. 1425.

The proceeds of this sale, as has been previously stated, go toward the fund for taking high school pupils to the Henry Jewett Repertory Theatre.

MEN'S CLUB DINNER

The annual dinner of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church was held on Friday evening last. An excellent menu was served to about a hundred members.

Mr. Ralph W. E. Hopper of Wildwood street was chosen as the new President of the club and Mr. Arthur Harris, the retiring President, acted as toast master for the after dinner exercises.

Prof. Howe, the new organist, gave an interesting talk on church matters from the organist's point of view. Dr. Chidley spoke in his usual impressive manner, and Dr. Byington of the West Roxbury Congregational Church gave an inspiring address on "The Modern Man in the Modern Church." He dealt principally with the duty of men towards the community, taking the ground that he who only does what the laws require him to do in community work has not progressed beyond the middle ages, and is by no means entitled to be called "A Modern Man."

The club will hold several meetings throughout the year and some interesting talks have been planned, both for the entertainment of its members and for the furtherance of the work of the Church.

Mr. William C. Corey is spending Thanksgiving and the week-end in Winchester with his mother, Mrs. Charles E. Corey. Mr. Corey came from his home at Wilmington, Del., with his mother who had been spending several weeks there.

RED CROSS AND THE NEAR EAST RELIEF

A first hand report coming from Miss Sophie Nelson of the Red Cross Nursing Service, just returned to Athens from Saloniki, the largest refugee center in Greece. Miss Nelson states:

There are 70,000 refugees in Saloniki and another 70,000 in the surrounding country, hundreds dying daily and malaria sweeping all camps. There is no food, no clothing and no medical supplies. Whoever gets sick dies.

Dr. Hill, vice-chairman of National Headquarters, who is directing relief work throughout the territory over which the American Red Cross has jurisdiction says, every message received from the field of relief operations, emphasizes the need of food-stuffs. Everyone in touch with the situation agrees that flour and clothing is the greatest need. The misery increases and the needs grow greater every day. All the Greek people, the Greek government and foreign colonies are working with their might and main to cope with the situation.

Americans know that the mutual impulse to afford adequate relief in a big emergency emanates from their Red Cross. They know too that support through new memberships allows the organization to afford relief both abroad and at home. Home Service has been brought to our attention many times recently, the various types of work and the great necessity for the continuation of this branch of the Service.

In the close of the President's proclamation of Roll Call we are urged, in the interests of our common humanity and of the service we owe our fellow citizens to renew their allegiance to the American Red Cross during the period of Membership Roll Call. If you have not contributed it is not too late to do so now.

On Sunday Dec. 3rd notices will be given out in all the churches of the clothing drive for the benefit of the sufferers in the Near East.

Every church will be open two days, the 7 and 8th to receive the clothing. There will be some one in charge both days. The Transportation committee will take care of the collection and packing.

Notices have also been sent to each school, and students may bring clothing to school where they will also be collected by the committee in charge.

The Winchester Red Cross assisted by the Fortnightly will carry on their drive for clothing. They have given the use of their rooms in the Lyceum Building as another receiving station for clothing.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS

Will Observe National Education Week

The week of December 3rd, has been made National Education Week by a proclamation of President Harding.

In response to this proclamation, the High School and Wadleigh-Prince Parent-Teacher Associations have called a general meeting in the High School Auditorium for Tuesday, December 5th at 8 p. m. All who are interested in educational matters are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

The committee in charge has been fortunate in securing Mr. Stanley H. Holmes, Superintendent of Schools of New Britain, Conn., as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Holmes has a statewide prominence in Connecticut where he has assisted materially in formulating the State Program of Education and has a national reputation as well by reason of his success in building up one of the most progressive school systems in the country. He is a strong and forceful speaker and his address on the subject "The School and the Community" will be well worth hearing.

The Parent-Teacher Association has already made good headway in Winchester and is increasing in popularity. The Wadleigh-Prince Association has a large membership and has done much constructive work since its organization in June 1921. The Association in the High School held its first meeting during the month just passed and upon that occasion, in spite of the inclement weather, enrolled one hundred members.

It is the purpose of these Associations "to bring the home and school together in the interest of the student, that the parents and teachers may cooperate more intelligently." This purpose will appeal to the parents of all of our school children and not to them alone but, as well, to all persons who are interested in Youth and its problems. Memberships in these Associations is open to all who are in sympathy with their purpose and there is sure to be a large enrollment.

As a means to the desired end, these Associations will present from time to time some of the broad phases of Education. It is in accordance with this plan that Mr. Holmes will address the meeting of next Tuesday, thus laying a foundation for the later consideration of topics of a more concrete nature.

CADY-JONES

Deloris Cristina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Jones of 341 Lincoln avenue, Mendville, Pa., and Patrick E. Cady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cady of 846 Main street, Winchester, were married Tuesday morning, Nov. 28, at 7:30 in St. Bridget's Church by Rev. Fr. Meagher. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, after a trip to Boston and Portland, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Cady will reside in Mendville.

Winchester Lodge of Elks distributed 26 baskets containing Thanksgiving dinners and delicacies about town yesterday.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Thanksgiving was observed by an excellent program in the assembly hall, Wednesday morning under the direction of Mr. Benshimol. Kibbreth Barrows read the Governor's proclamation, Esther Carrier read an essay on "The First Thanksgiving," Joseph Ryan recited Kipling's "Recessional," and Woodbury Saunders delivered a Thanksgiving address. The parts were all effectively delivered and served to emphasize the true spirit of Thanksgiving.

Many members of the Junior Red Cross Chapter of the High School made very generous contributions of money, vegetables, preserves and fruit for the Thanksgiving dinners to be distributed in Winchester by the local Red Cross Chapter.

Fakes and People

(Every Day Stories—No. 5)

With much difficulty, I finally elbowed my way into the crowd to a point where I could see a little man in the center. He was small and poorly dressed with no particularly noticeable features. He talked continually and I soon found that he was selling magic paddles. These were little wooden affairs, which he claimed possessed extraordinary powers. To prove his point he took the nine of hearts from a pack of cards in his pocket, fastened it to the paddle with an elastic, and by quickly turning the paddle changed the card into the nine of clubs! He then waved the paddle swiftly through the air and the nine of hearts reappeared. Of course the majority of the crowd bought a paddle.

It was very amusing to observe them. After watching the man and reading the directions carefully, they would place the nine of hearts on the paddle, fasten it with a special elastic (furnished with the paddle) then holding the paddle between the thumb and fourth finger of the right hand (per directions) with a quick twist of the wrist bring to view the same nine of hearts. Then with a sheepish look they would throw the entire outfit into the street, as if to say, "Of course, I knew it, wouldn't work in the first place."

Yes, they all knew the paddle wouldn't work, but they paid their dimes to be shown. And the next time someone tries to sell them a similar impossible contrivance, will they buy? There isn't the slightest doubt that they will.

A G. A. A. meeting was held on Tuesday, Nov. 29. It was decided first, that all girls, serving two consecutive years on any team, shall receive a sweater; second, that an inter-class gym meet for all High School girls be held just before the Christmas vacation; lastly, that sweaters instead of jerseys be given to the hockey team.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Unusual Speakers at the First Congregational Church Sunday morning. Attorney General J. Weston Allen and Reverend William E. Strong, D. D.

At the First Congregational Church Sunday morning, Rev. William E. Strong, D. D. of Boston, one of the officials of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions will deliver an address on "The Church and the World Outlook." Dr. Strong by virtue of his position is in a peculiar way in touch with the trouble conditions of the world and can speak authoritatively as to its reactions upon Christianity. He is not only an interesting speaker, but has unusual resources of information as a background for his utterances. It will be an illuminating address.

Attorney General J. Weston Allen will speak at the Men's Forum, under the direction of Carlisle W. Burton, at the close of the morning service in the Church Auditorium on "Criminals and the Law." Needless to say he will speak out of a vivid experience in connection with the clean up that has been recently made in connection with the State's attorney's office. His address will be well worth listening to. Women are invited to the Forum meeting and a general invitation is extended to the public to both of these addresses. Mr. Chidley will conduct the worship.

Sunday evening Mr. Chidley will give an address on "A Text that Won the Indians." This is the first of a series of addresses on Texts that have carved Empires. Members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will play as usual. Their program is as follows:

Romance Saint-Saens
Fantasia Ravanovic
Santa Notte Orlando
Benedictus MacKenzie
At the Brook Holloffer

INTER-CHURCH LEAGUE

At the close of interesting and largely attended union Thanksgiving services at the First Baptist Church last Sunday evening, the ministers of the Protestant churches held a meeting and formed an Inter-Church League, electing Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church president and Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the First Baptist Church secretary.

A project for union services on the last Sunday of each month will be placed before the various churches, together with the request for a church census in town to be made by the Mass. Bible Society.

REGRETS OFFERED

Wilson the Stationer offers regrets to the many disappointed customers who failed last week to secure a copy of "Kritters of the Kitchen Kingdom" by "Aunt Jo and Uncle George" (Mr. and Mrs. George Adams Woods). Mr. J. H. Dwinell was the first customer, and when he completed his purchase the supply was exhausted. A new lot of the books have been received, and those customers who left their orders will find their books awaiting them.

Mrs. Carr, the "greatest mother of the screen," will be seen at the Stoneham Theatre in "Silver Wings," a William Fox special production, for a three days' engagement, starting Wednesday Dec. 6.

Mrs. Carr's little daughter, May Beth, a beautiful and talented child, also is seen in the picture. In the early part of the film she plays the role of the daughter of her real mother, which is probably the first time anything of its kind has ever occurred in motion pictures.

MEN'S CLUB SUPPER AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

A supper was given at the Congregational Church by the Men's Club on last Friday evening. About 100 men attended. The committee in charge of the supper consisted of Mr. Arthur Harris, president of the Men's Club, chairman, Mr. Albert K. Hinkins, and Mr. Carlyle Burton.

Grace was said by the Rev. Fletcher Parker of the Boston City Missionary Society. At the conclusion of the meal all present joined in singing songs lead by Mr. George Wilby, chairman of the local Board of Sabetmen, while Mr. Robert Hamilton accompanied on the piano.

The annual election of the Men's Club also took place at this time. Mr. Ralph W. E. Hopper was elected president for the coming year and will appoint a secretary and treasurer before the next meeting. In a short address following his election, Mr. Hopper spoke of the club's plans for the year. There will probably be a speaker at each meeting and if possible District Attorney Reading will speak in January.

Professor W. E. Howe, the newly appointed organist at the church, was formally introduced by Mr. Harris. He spoke briefly on "The Church from the Organist's point of view." He feels that music plays a large part in the work of any church and announced his intention of broadening the musical field in the Congregational Church. He said that suggestions would be greatly welcomed at all times and concluded with a strong appeal for a new organ.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. E. H. Byington of the West Roxbury Congregational Church. His topic was, "Modern Man in the Modern Church." He said that every man should take a civic interest in the church, for next to the school the church is the greatest maker of good citizens in the country. Ministers should attempt to instill in their congregations a spirit of civic consciousness which may be built up around a religious consciousness.

In closing the meeting Dr. Chidley asked that all present heed that which had been said and thereby assist the church in reaching an ideal.

HARVEST SUPPER GIVEN AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A Harvest Supper, followed by a social evening was given in the chapel of the First Baptist Church last Friday evening. About 175 guests were present. The Social Committee consisting of the following members, Mrs. Frank W. McLean, chairman, Mr. Frank W. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O. Wohl, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Moulton, Mrs. Charles M. Thibodeau, and Mr. Donald Eldredge, were in charge of the supper and entertainment.

Supper was served at six forty-five and throughout the meal pleasing music was rendered by Frazee's Orchestra, headed by Mr. Alfred Frazee, organist and musical director of the church.

During the social that followed Miss Helen Isensee, contralto soloist, sang. The church quartet consisting of Mrs. Pearl Bates Morton, soprano, Mr. Howard Chambers, tenor, Miss Isensee, and Mr. Edward W. Hall, bass, also rendered a few enjoyable selections.

The speaker, Rev. Harry W. Freda of the Clarendon street Baptist Church, was introduced by Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the local church. Mr. Freda spoke briefly of the duty of every man to his fellow-man, not only at this season, but during the entire year.

Everyone in the congregation was requested to bring some article of food, either vegetables or groceries, to the supper, these to be distributed among the needy families of the town. The request was so heartily responded to that the bin allotted to the articles was filled to overflowing.

Rev. Edward Pierce of Pittsfield will take the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Reading on Jan. 1. The pastor of the Reading Church, Rev. D. Augustus Newton, resigned his position this year. He was previously pastor of the First Congregational Church of this town. Rev. Mr. Pierce has been pastor of the South Congregational Church of Pittsfield for the past 14 years, and the church has experienced remarkable growth during his pastorate.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

A vivid account of present day conditions in Turkey was given before the Fortnightly, Monday afternoon, November 27th. The speaker was Mrs. John Kingsley Birge, wife of Professor Birge, of the International College, Smyrna, and her description, as an eye witness, of the cruelties of the Turks, was most graphic. Mrs. Birge and her three small children fled to the College for protection, where safety was maintained only by resort to machine guns. When she finally escaped on an American destroyer, Mrs. Birge succeeded in taking with her eleven Armenian college students. She made an earnest appeal to the Fortnightly for help for the Near East Relief.

The entertainment for the afternoon was in charge of the Music and Dramatic Committees and included a series of dances, beautifully costumed and presented, showing the development of the social dance from 1830 to the present time. The dancers were singularly graceful and each dance was skillfully interpreted. The musical program consisted of an excellent piano solo, delightful vocal duets and solos; also a beautiful selection by a trio of violin, piano and cello. The trio supplied the dance music. The program follows:

Winchester radio operators were privileged to listen to two Anrad programs this week which were of more than passing interest. In addition to the talk on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Harriet W. Hildreth, a very fine program was given on Wednesday evening by the Winchester Landmarks Orchestra. The orchestra gave a long program, the numbers including a trombone solo by Mr. T. Parker Clarke, director of the orchestra, and many local radio fans enjoyed the music.

CALUMET AT CENTRAL

The first of the inter-club visitations of this winter occurs next Friday evening, when the Calumet Club will go to the Central Club of Somerville for matches in bowling, billiards, pool and bridge. The automobiles will leave Calumet at 7 o'clock.

PRACTICAL JOKE ENDS BADLY FOR A WINCHESTER FIRE- MAN

While pouring a quantity of powder from a small bottle into a wooden pipe, partly filled with tobacco, to "load" it for a fellow fireman off duty Sunday, Alexander W. McKenzie, driver of Hose 3, combination fire auto, sustained a number of cuts on the chin, right hand and side of the face.

The powder in the pipe ignited and a spark entered the bottle, which was blown to fragments. Dr. Simonds attended McKenzie at the Central Fire Station, where the accident occurred in the repair shop on the street floor. Frank B. Welch and four or five more firemen, who were near, were not injured by the flying glass.

WINCHESTER GIRLS FINISH HOCKEY SCHEDULE — DE- FEAT WOBURN HIGH 2-1

The field hockey team of the Winchester High School finished their schedule by triumphing over Woburn 2 to 1 on Manchester Field last Friday afternoon. About 150 attended the game. The teams were well matched and the game was in the balance until the final whistle was blown.

There was no scoring in the first period and although Winchester seemed a shade the better they were unable to put the ball across. Early in the second period, however, Elizabeth Brown scored the first goal for Winchester. By some brilliant passing between Gwendolyn Madocks and herself she rushed the ball to within striking distance and with an accurate stroke put it across.

In the third period Woburn came on the field with a swoop and in a few minutes had scored their only goal of the game. Gladys Carlson and Katherine Drisko proved to be the scoring factors and before their opponents had realized it they had placed the ball far into Winchester's territory and Miss Carlson scored. Thus the score stood tied until about the last three minutes of play when Mary Cullen playing her usual fine game managed to score Winchester's second and winning goal.

The girls played one of their best games of this season and throughout there was a well-marked feeling of team spirit and co-operation. Mary Cullen, Lucille Skillings and "Peggy" Madocks were the stars of the local team, while the Misses Carlson and Drisko played well for Woburn. The team has won nine points and stands third among the teams of Greater Boston Interscholastic Field Hockey League for this year.

WHO AM I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.
I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the nations.
I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.
I steal in the United States alone over $300,000,000 each year.
I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and the weak. Widows and orphans know me.
I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train.
I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners a year.
I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.
I am relentless.
I am everywhere—in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at the railroad crossings, and on the sea.
I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to destroy me.
I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing, but take all.
I am your worst enemy.
I AM CARELESSNESS!

HOW CAN WE PREVENT COLDS?

The State Department of Public Health sends out the following suggestions:
Colds are caused by a germ which must come from some one or some thing. So—
First of all—keep away from the person who has a cold. Avoid the cougher and sneezer. Never kiss on the mouth.
Secondly—Do not use a common towel or drinking cup. Do not borrow anyone's handkerchief. Especially baby should have his own handkerchief.
Thirdly—Keep your fingers away from your nose or mouth.
Special precautions can be taken by avoiding dry, over-heated rooms, which predispose to colds. Pans of water should be placed on the radiators to supply moisture.
Fresh air is the best of tonics, and exercise goes a long way toward keeping you fit.
Dress for the weather! Too many clothes are as bad as not enough.
Be careful of your food. Contrary to the usual belief it is dangerous to stuff a cold. People who overeat are more likely to catch cold.
In young children the removal of adenoids will often do a great deal toward ridding the child of colds.

DELBERT E. MARSHALL

Delbert E. Marshall of Woburn, for many years a resident of this town, died suddenly on Saturday at the home of his son, Hiram. He was 74 years of age and was born in Nova Scotia, coming to Winchester early in life. He was a familiar figure in the centre for years, having a wooden leg which replaced that member lost in an early accident. Besides his son Hiram, he leaves one other son and several grandchildren.

The funeral services were held at 9 Main street, Woburn, on Monday afternoon. Rev. R. C. Phillips of Lexington officiating. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

Three Solutions to the Fuel Problem

These gas appliances will keep you comfortable on extra-cold days and help a scanty coal supply last all winter. Buy what coal you can and supplement the furnace with a gas heater.

The Gas Radiator

comes in two sizes: one a complete steam heating unit in itself, the other a hot air heater. No furnace or extra piping required.

The Fireplace Heater gives all the cheer and comfort of an open fireplace without its dirt and inconvenience. Ready for instant use.

The Portable Heater

Only one style is shown above; all types may be carried from room to room and will provide safe, odorless warmth.

A small initial payment secures any heater.

"BLAME THE SCHOOLS"

A member of the School Committee requests that we publish the following poem. He adds that desirous as the Committee are of taking the blame for its authorship, along with the other ills of the world, common honesty forbids their doing so, though they enthusiastically acclaim its sentiments.

Is your child's digestion bad?
Blame the schools!
Is he sick, nervous or sad?
Blame the schools!
Do your children learn to fight?
Do they lie awake at night?
Do they fail to do what's right?
Blame the schools!
Do your boys smoke cigarettes?
Blame the schools!
Are your girls all aufragettes?
Blame the schools!
Do your children's shoes wear out?
That's the school board's fault, no doubt.
Are your children getting stout?
Blame the schools!
Are your children getting thin?
Blame the schools!
Do they choose the path of sin?
Blame the schools!
Do your children work too hard?
Are they playing round your yard?
Do they play the wicked card?
Blame the schools!

In the noon recess too short
Blame the schools!
Do they need more time for sport?
Blame the schools!
Is the noon recess too long?
Oh, that plan is surely wrong—
They should spend that time in song!
Blame the schools!

Is your child a nervous wreck?
Blame the schools!
Are there pimples on her neck?
Blame the schools!
Blame the schools for what they do
And for what they don't do, too.
They should seek advice from you!
Blame the schools!

Do your children's teeth decay?
Blame the schools!
For the tax you have to pay
Blame the schools!
For the teachers they have hired
And the ones that they have fired
Tell the board they make you tired!
Blame the schools!

Is your daughter's eyelight bad?
Blame the schools!
Is your son a little cad?
Blame the schools!
Do your children learn to swear?
Is there something in their hair?
Is there trouble anywhere?
Blame the schools!

If your daughters are too bold,
Blame the schools!
If the winters are too cold,
Blame the schools!
If you feel like being witty
Here's a title for your diary.
"Damn that stupid school committee
And the schools!"

Are your children white or black?
Blame the schools!
Are you valiant in attack?
Blame the schools!
Blame the school committee, too,
They're a weak and stubborn crew.
But their terms will soon be through.
Blame the fools!

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH WINCHESTER

Series No. 6

It has been called to the attention of the writer that there is a movement on foot to put a woman on the Park Board at the coming election in March. It seems with the experience the town has had in the past year it would be a good idea to "let well enough alone." The Park Board as it is made up at present, and provided anyone of the members wishes to be reelected, should remain as it is without any opposition, and any woman running against a member of the present board should be beaten so badly at the polls that she would not care to run again for any office.

Now then, this board is above criticism, and I ask any citizen in this town to show where the board has made a failure of any undertaking in which they have had a hand. Possibly the writer may be prejudiced in favor of this Board, but after visiting the different towns in this section as often as I do in the course of a summer and see what we get from our Park Board and what other towns get from theirs, I stand ready at all times to back the present Win-

MURRAY—MELSAAC

Mrs. Mabel Melsaac was married on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at St. Mary's rectory in Mr. James Murray of Woburn. Rev. Joseph Fitzgibbons performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a dress of white canton crepe with tulle veil, caught with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Helen Rogers was bridesmaid, wearing a dress of Nile green, over-draped with gold lace. She wore a picture hat of panne velvet trimmed with gold lace and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. Dennis Murray of Woburn, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home, largely attended by many friends of the couple. This following a wedding supper served to the wedding party. The residence was most attractively decorated for the affair and the couple were the recipients of many handsome gifts.

Following a trip to New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Murray will reside in Woburn.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

By the President of the United States of America, a Proclamation

The ideals of democratic government and democratic education were planted simultaneously in our country. The fathers rightly believed that only a people trained to a vision of public needs and duties could develop and maintain the institutions of popular government. The system of universal education, established in the beginning, has developed with the country and become one of the characteristic features of our life. In it we have laid the foundations of that system of American culture which has enabled us to absorb and assimilate millions who have come to us from many countries, bringing the traditions of widely varying institutions.

In order that we may keep in mind the need constantly to improve our educational system, it is proposed that the week of Dec. 3-9, inclusive, be set aside for special observance as American Education Week. It is recommended to the Governors of the States that they co-operate with the educational and civic authorities of their commonwealths to make the week a period for revival of interest in the broad work of national education.

It is gratifying to know that in a time when public burdens have lain very heavy upon the people there has been everywhere a determined purpose to maintain education unimpaired. In order that the coming generation may be equipped, regardless of sacrifices in the present, for the increasing responsibilities which it must bear.

"Without vision the people perish." Without education, there can be little vision. Of education it may be said that "It is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that takes." It will be greatly worth the effort if, as an incident to the observance of Education Week, we can impress this thought upon the young manhood and womanhood of the Nation and redirect their interest and patriotic zeal to the idea of making a proper contribution to educational work. It is regrettable that so few young men and women, equipped for such service, are nowadays disposed to give their time and talents to teaching. Education needs their young vigor, zeal and enthusiasm. There is no school of discipline more effective than that in which the teacher goes to school. We could do no greater service than by convincing those young men and women who have enjoyed educational opportunities, that they owe a reasonable share of their time and energies to teaching.

The strength and security of the Nation will always rest in the intelligent body of its people. Our education should implant conceptions of public duty and private obligation broad enough to envisage the problems of a greatly distracted world. More than anything else, men and women need the capacity to see with clear eye and to contemplate with open, unprejudiced mind, the issues of these times. Only through a properly motivated and generously inspired process of education can this be accomplished.

In view, then, of these and many other considerations, I hereby proclaim the week of Dec. 3-9 as American Education Week, recommending to the appropriate National, State and local authorities that they give their cordial support and co-operation to making its observance inspirational and beneficial. Civic organizations and religious bodies may render special service by their co-operation; and particularly it is recommended that parents enlist themselves in behalf of closer understanding between the school and the home, with the purpose of mutual helpfulness.

In consideration and witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington, this 20th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-seventh.

Warren G. Harding.

(Seal)

By the President:
Charles E. Hughes,
Secretary of State.

Plans are being made for the observance of Education Week in Winchester. There will be a joint meeting of the Wadleigh and High School Parent-Teacher Associations, the details concerning which are announced elsewhere.

The High School will be open to parents on Tuesday, the Wadleigh and Union Schools on Wednesday and all other schools on Thursday.

In the elementary schools parents will be invited by children to visit the school in order to see some particular activity.

"Mother Carey."

The telephone bell rang and a faithful reader said: "We all know that sailors call the stormy petrel Mother Carey's chicken, but who was Mother Carey? I've asked several shipmasters, but they're as ignorant as I am." Inasmuch as the ultramarine reporter was absent on assignment, it was necessary to consult the reference books, with this result: "The name Mother Carey is possibly corrupted from the Latin mater cara (dear mother), in allusion to the Virgin Mary." The explanation is plausible, at least. Sailors of old carried their religion with them, even when they embarked on a voyage of plunder, and it is reasonable to suppose they directed their prayers to the Virgin when the stormy petrel gave warning of heavy weather.—New York Evening Post.

MR. ROLLI ANSWERS

To the Editor of the Star:

I read in the Star of Nov. 17 some astonishing news. I read that there are to be found here in Winchester a handful of individuals who still hold to socialist views.

Believe me, I was very surprised. I know that the American people of Winchester are all faithful to the government and none of them conspire against it. Perhaps this handful of individuals who still hold to socialist views are to be found among the foreign people of this town? The only foreign colony here is Italian, and as I belong to it, I can disclaim this fable.

I know every one of the Italian people, if not personally, although I know their faith, and I am sure none of them understand the socialistic theory. They are intelligent and laborious, but they have defects of instruction. Even if they are discussing about socialism, they do not understand the very meaning of this word. And if today they show their sympathy for the socialism, tomorrow their sympathies are all for the Fascisti, which is the last Italian party organized with the intent to overthrow the socialist party, therefore with an opposite theory.

I can speak about both theories, perhaps better than anybody else in this town, not because I am smarter than anybody else, but I tell soon the reason.

In Italy any student, even in his first year of high school, begins to get interest in political life, as the American students concentrate their attention in the sport's life. Therefore any Italian of slight education can tell about not only any party of his own country, but even of other countries, as the Republican and Democratic parties of the United States, or the Whigs and Tories of England, and even of the "Young Turk's" party.

Now, as an Italian student I was interested in political life, therefore I know the Socialist and Fascist theories very well, especially the latter party. When I was a school boy I belonged to the Nationalist party, and the "Fascismo" is the extreme left of it.

Now, I will not give an exact explanation of this theory. First, because I think there is not much space in the Star for this purpose, and second, because I will not stand as an erudite, especially among a people with so high an education; but I will explain my views about those theories.

I do not like the Socialist, even if I agree with them in few points, and I hate the communist. I agree nearly all with the Nationalist, but I hate cordially the Fascist. I hate the latter principally because to reach their purpose they use always violence. And in the 20th century, an epoch of civility and freedom, we must express our ideals freely. I do not like the Socialist and I hate the Communist, principally because they deny the idea of fatherland, which is the most sacred thing of any people. And then, because I do not believe in an equality for the whole people on the earth. Until the ignorance will live, there will never be a spiritual communion of souls among the people. I agree with the Socialists when they take the words of Jesus, preaching the brotherly love.

There is not any danger for governments or for any community if we love the people, even if among them we find ignorance and ingratitude. I said I will not stand as an erudite, and now I will say that I will not stand as an apostle, but let me tell a few words about the religion. There were many temples on the paganism's epoch, and it was an epoch of barbarity and cruelty; then came Jesus and told us the true faith. All gathered around Him to the prayer, and that prayer made on the open field was so accepted by the Lord because it came from their hearts. Now we have the churches. But that the church shall be for us except a place of inspiration of love and truth. Hypocrisy and egotism are great sores for the humanity. The charity is the greatest thing of Christian faith. Even if we have only our pity to give, it is very acceptable to God.

The most beautiful expression on the humanity, is that of a man who pours out a tear on the misfortune of others.

Attilio Rolli.

THE GENTLE HOTTENTOT AND HIS EXPLOSIVE LANGUAGE

Pity the poor Hottentot! He has been misused as a metaphor for irascibility, which he scarcely deserves.

His name represents a Dutch effort to imitate his speech, which cannot be spelled in Dutch, English or any other language.

And, after all, his quaint clicking and clucking is not so different from the method by which a farmer summons his chickens, or a huckster signals his horse to move along, or the plain "tut, tut" of anyone who is annoyed. These facts are set forth in a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington, D. C., headquarters concerning the recent outbreak among Hottentots in the Southwest Africa, which was formerly German but now is a British mandate.

Required New Symbols
The philologists have done better by Hottentots than they have by our own language, says the bulletin, for they have devised symbols for tongue tricks that resemble the cracking of a whip and pulling a cork from an empty bottle, whereas these and other symbols of our own everyday use can only be described, not written.

If you will pronounce the three syllables of "Hottentots" with snap and vigor you will gain an idea of the onomatopoeic quality of the Dutch appellation for the Khoi-Khoi, or "men of men," as they prefer to call themselves.

Formerly the Hottentots ranged through most of southern Africa. Today they are to be found mostly in the Capr Colony and in Southwest Africa. Few pure Hottentots remain even in those places. Their origin long formed a fascinating problem for students of human races. Some thought they were an offshoot of the Caucasian people, isolated in prehistoric times. Others believed them to be the missing Hamites. At present they are generally classified as a blending of many centuries ago between the Bantu native and the Bushmen.

Some Ways Like Ours

There are some surprising parallels between the customs of this primitive people and those of our own civilization. They are good conservationists. They camp in places where pasture lands are rich, but move before the grass has been depleted. Their exercises upon settling in a new kraal resemble rural American "house warming" ceremonies. Women bring flowers, herbs, and foliage to an arbor which forms the center of the homestead. Murder is punished severely but if the miscreant escapes and is not caught within a year he is immune, a legal practice suggestive of our time limit upon debt collection. Their chiefs levy a tax upon hunters consisting of certain quarters of the animals killed, and distribute this meat to the poor. But this communal care does not extend to the aged or to children who are deformed or crippled. Frequently both are killed.

When the young Hottentot's fancy turns to love he informs his parents, they choose a wife by arrangement with the father of a likely maid, and then the prospective bridegroom and all his relatives drive several faxes to the home of his lady-love. The oxen are slain for the wedding breakfast, which is an all day feast, and a tribal patriarch sprinkles the couple in a manner suggestive of Christian baptism. Then the young man goes off to his hunting and the bride does all the other work. Her son will be known by her family name, and a daughter by the family name of the father. As a mother she will command high respect and in her name her husband and sons will take any especially sacred oath.

Seldom Engaged in War
Despite the ferocious connotation of his name the primitive Hottentot seldom engaged in war. He was accounted gentle and tractable. His most explosive quality was his language, now rapidly disappearing, which was easy enough so far as the noises that sound like a fuse had just burned out, and also in respect to its vowelized syllables, but the rapid combination of the two few white men could imitate. There was little reason for the Hottentot to fight, since all he required for his simple communal life was a patch of grass. In the evening he danced and sang and smoked. His musical instruments were few. The characteristic orchestral piece was the gorah, a crude sort of moun organ made of a hollow stick and the entrails of a sheep. A drum and a reed which had the quality of a flute completed the list.

ODESSA: SEAL HOMES IN WINTER AND WEAR OVERCOATS ALL SUMMER

Odesa, where newspaper dispatches say the flag of rebellion against the Moscow bolshevik regime is flaunting its colors, will in a week or two seal up its houses for the winter season, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

One peculiarity of this important port on the Black Sea, as well as of other Russian cities, is that during the first frosty days of the fall the hotels and private houses put up their double doors and windows and thereafter go through the entire winter without once opening an aperture unless it proves necessary to come in or go out of the house. Some say that the inhabitants even go so far as to stop up all the cracks with lichen butter. To American and English fresh-air fiends an elegant reception in Odesa during the winter season is not an unalloyed pleasure.

Wear Overcoats in Summer
The Odeans have another peculiarity which strikes the average comfort-loving American as the name of queerness. The men, particularly the army officers, wear their winter overcoats all during the summer season regardless of how hot it gets. It is hard to imagine a dashing captain of the cavalry equipped in the outfit which he is supposed to wear into the frozen north, promading down the main boulevard with a charming young girl clad in a dainty summer frock.

The gay city, for it has the reputation of being one of the most popular places on the whole continent—long its paths. It is one of the main embarkation points for the thousands of Russian pilgrims who each year leave their country for the Holy Land. Many of them, old men and old women who never expect to see their native land again, and know that they are probably on their last earthly journey, have marched on foot hundreds of miles to Odesa.

Real Homes are Few
But mind-boggling and merry the city usually is to all outward appearances. In its streets, which are well-paved and neatly always shaded with long lines of trees, the people laugh and laugh in the most light-hearted fashion. Few of them have real homes. They live in apartments attached to their places of business. Behind a hardware store, a bakery or a shoeshop, or adjoining the offices of a lawyer or an insurance agent you will find the rooms in which his family is living, and the public restaurant is the family dining room.

One-third of Odesa's numerous inhabitants are Jews, and their initiative and business acumen have earned for them the most responsible places in most of the industrial enterprises in the city, as well as the prejudice of the native Russians. But so irrepressible have the younger men among their own countrymen become because of their intelligence in gambling and dissipation of all kinds, that Russian parents prefer to do their business through the Jews.

Night is Filled with Music
When evening drops her cloak over the city, the night is filled with music, and the dances that infested the day, if there were any, stand away like the Arabs in the moon. The former from the Middle West or the manufacturer from New England would be inclined to wonder if these night revelers ever did any work, so late into the night do they laugh, talk and play, but by the early forenoon business is humming in the marts of men, as it does in any other big city.

About twenty years ago Odesa shipped out yearly through the Black Sea nearly three million tons of grain or about one-fourth of that exported from Russia, but she failed to keep pace with invention in her freight-handling machinery and recently Nikolaief, Kherson and Rosent-on-the-Don have been sapping the influx of produce which was the lifeblood of the city. Sebastopol, too, has been one of the factors in the defeat of Odesa. The harbor of the former city is one of the best on the Black Sea, and has the advantage that it never freezes, while that of Odesa is ice-clogged for two or three weeks every winter.

Odesa is one of the newest towns of any importance in the former Russian Empire. In 1810, according to the first census taken, its population was 9,000. But it is located on a bay near the northwest curve of the Black Sea, not far from the mouths of the Dnieper and the Dniester Rivers, and it grew rapidly. When Turkey ceded this area to Russia, Catherine the Great decided that it would develop the little Turkish for-

SELECTMEN'S MEETING—NOV. 27

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present. The records of the meeting of Nov. 20 were read and approved.

Street Lights, 1922 (Highland avenue): A report was received from the town engineer submitting a plan of street lighting in Highland avenue from Mt. Vernon street to Forest street. He states that if this street is to be reasonably well lighted six new lights should be added, and the location of two others changed to adjacent poles. This matter was referred back to the town engineer, he to estimate the cost of carrying out his plan.

Town Hall Building (Steam Boiler): An external inspection report of the steam boiler was received from the Employers Liability Assurance Corp. Ltd. of London, Eng. (U. S. branch). Same was ordered filed.

Acceptance of Streets (Sheridan Circle, Pickering Street, Watson Place and Border Street): Messrs. George T. Davidson, 19 Park avenue; Rudolph Hakanson, 30 Sheridan circle; James Dooley, 22 Pickering street; James Grimes, 18 Sheridan circle and Frank S. Noyes, 1 Watson place, appeared to request the Board to put these streets before the Town for acceptance in accordance with the vote passed by the Town at the last annual Town meeting. After those who appeared before the Board had been heard in regard to this matter they were told that the Board was to make a review of several streets on Tuesday, Nov. 28 and that the Board would also view these streets.

The meeting adjourned at 10:10 p. m.

Clerk of Selectmen.

A CORRECTION

Editor of the Star:

In the last issue of the Star there was an account of the Eastern Star Fair in which the Winchester Laundries Orchestra was highly complimented for its playing.

While we greatly appreciate all compliments, we wish to state that our orchestra did not perform, but that several of our members, assisted by their friends, volunteered their services to the Fair Committee for the concert, while Ned Perry's Orchestra was engaged for the dancing, and the credit for good work belongs to them.

The appearance of some of our musicians was probably the foundation for the mistaken idea that we furnished the music.

Yours very truly,
Winchester Laundries Orchestra
T. Parker Clarke,
Conductor.

CHARLES S. TENNEY

CHARLES S. TENNEY

Mr. Charles Stearns Tenney, a prominent and well known resident of this town, former president of the Calumet Club and also of the Winchester Boat Club, and for more than 35 years a member of the S. S. Pierce Company of Boston, in charge of the buying department, died at his home on Calumet road Monday. He was 62 years of age.

Mr. Tenney had made his home in Winchester for about 15 years, always being prominently identified with social and club activities. Two years ago he suffered a severe illness and later a slight stroke, and although he recovered to be able to travel, he steadily failed in health.

He was born in Marlboro, N. H., the son of Hartwell and Josephine Paine (Stearns) Tenney. He attended Ashburnham Academy and upon graduating entered the employ of the S. S. Pierce Co. of Boston. He was widely known among business men and was noted for his genial and generous disposition.

He was a past president of the Calumet Club, holding that office for four years and recently being elected an honorary member of the club. He was also a past president and member of the directorate of the Winchester Boat Club. He had served on the Finance Committee of the Town and was a member of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., besides holding membership in a number of business organizations. He was affiliated with the Winchester Unitarian church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Louise (Stevens) Tenney, a native of Keene, N. H., and three sons, Paul S. Tenney, Julian R. Tenney and Charles H. Tenney.

The funeral services were held at Mt. Auburn chapel on Thursday afternoon under the direction of William Parkman Lodge, Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian church officiated. There was an attendance of business associates and representatives of various social organizations present and many beautiful flowers were sent in appreciative memory. The remains were cremated at Mt. Auburn.

During the service a solo was rendered by Mr. Harold S. Tripp. The pall bearers were Messrs. Francis E. Getty, George Nelley, Franklin L. Hunt, Joseph E. Gendron, W. D. Eaton and N. H. Morse.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

December 4, 1922

The Board met at 7:30 p. m. Present Messrs. Willey, Bateman, Bryne and Smalley.

The records of the meeting of November 27th were read and approved. Celebrations: A letter was received from Mr. Bowen Tufts, 7 Stratford road, a director of the Mass. State Chamber of Commerce, relative to the observance of Halloween. The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Tufts that the Board commended the idea of a proper Halloween celebration, but as this is more or less of a civic nature, they feel that the celebration should be handled by one of the local organizations.

Street Lights 1922 (Cross St.): A petition was received from Frank E. Frost, 33 Cross street, and 12 others asking that Cross street from Washington street to the Woburn line be relighted. This matter was referred to the Street Light Committee and the Town Engineer for report.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p. m. George S. F. Bartlett, Clerk of Selectmen.

Edson Laraway, a member of the Stone School football team at Cornwell-on-the-Hudson, suffered an injury to his foot in the last game which his team played, injuring two tendons. The Stone School only lost one game in its this year's schedule.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS BAZAAR AT THE UNITARIAN CHURCH

The Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church gave their annual Christmas Bazaar and Luncheon on last Tuesday afternoon. Luncheon was served from twelve to two and the bazaar continued until four. About 400 attended. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. G. W. Apsey, chairman, Mrs. G. H. Ferguson, Mrs. H. A. Goddard and Mrs. Arthur Pitman, decorations.

The fair was managed in a novel and interesting manner. There was a "Christmas Cottage" comprising the entire vestry. This "cottage" was divided into rooms as in a house and in these rooms the articles ordinarily used in them were sold. Mrs. Arthur Pitman was in charge of the decorations and to her belongs the credit for the attractive and tasteful manner in which the rooms were furnished. Those in charge of the rooms were as follows:

Conservatory—Mrs. H. A. Gue, Miss Elizabeth Dones, Sunlight—Mrs. Irving Symmes, Mrs. Arthur Dow, Reception Hall (Paper tables)—Mrs. Robert Perkins, Mrs. Arthur Hodgins, Living Room (Basket Table)—Mrs. Herbert Symmes, Mrs. Frank Russell, Mrs. A. D. Rogers, Mrs. Stillman Williams, Mrs. Edward Abbott, Dining Room—Mrs. R. T. Damon, Mrs. Fred Preston, Mrs. Charles Newhall, Mrs. Ches. For Smith, Kitchen—Mrs. Arthur Lombard, Mrs. Elwell Butlerworth, Playroom—Mrs. A. V. Rogers, Mrs. George Goude, Mrs. J. M. Livingston, Mrs. D. F. Higgins, Linen Closet—Mrs. Mary W. Studley

The feature of the bazaar was an Attic storeman, arranged by Mrs. E. A. Stephens and Mrs. D. W. Pratt. Here were exhibited a most interesting and valuable collection of antique furniture and quilts.

The proceeds will be used in furthering the work of the society.

"JOHNNY'S NEW SUIT" PRESENTED BY METCALF UNION

"Johnny's New Suit" a two-act playlet was presented by the Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church on last Friday evening. The play was followed by an informal dance which made the entertainment one of the most successful ever given by the society. About 200 persons attended. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Parker acted as matrons. Perry's Orchestra played popular selections between the acts and for the dancing afterwards.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Ruth Chamberlain, president of the Union, chairman, Clinton Mason and Herbert Miller. The play was coached and staged by Miss Dorothy Reynolds who deserves much praise for the excellent manner in which she handled the affair.

John Kenerson who played the part of "Johnny" did very well, while Dolly Maddocks was the co-star in the part of "Johnny's Mother." The cast: Dolly Maddocks, John Kenerson, Elizabeth Jacobs, A. Friend, Edgar Taylor, Barbara Walters, Warren Hadley, Marietta Barnes, Caroline Drisko, Georgia Locke, Frances Mason.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the play, while the floor was being cleared for dancing. The entertainment of the Metcalf Union are becoming more and more interesting at each performance and if the committee continues to present such attractive affairs their success is assured.

The Senior members of the Union will present "Polly Wants a Cracker" this evening in Metcalf Hall. Miss Reynolds has also coached this play, and judging by her work with the cast of "Johnny's New Suit," this will be well worth seeing.

FOOD SALE BY LADIES AID SOCIETY OF M. E. CHURCH

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church had a "Christmas Market Place" in the small Town-Hall on last Tuesday afternoon and evening. Food and provisions of all kinds were on sale and so successful was the fair that everything was sold an hour before closing time. About 300 persons visited the "Market Place" during the day. The hall was decorated in appropriate Christmas colors of red, white, and green. A large candy booth stood in the center, attractively arranged with candy canes and boxes, and around it were placed the various tables.

The general committee consisted of Mrs. F. W. Roberts, chairman, and Mrs. L. E. Crouch. Mrs. R. M. Armstrong acted as matron. Those in charge of the separate tables were: Provisions—Mrs. Walter Brudshaw, Mrs. N. V. Osborne, Housekeeping supplies—Mrs. A. M. Stearns, Food supplies—Mrs. Helen E. Bax, Refreshments—Mrs. F. H. G. Finmore, Miss Mollie Hodges, Winifred Bent, Fancy goods—Mrs. J. Walter Moran, Mystery Table—Mrs. G. E. Baneroff.

The G. L. C. Girls Class had charge of the Candy table. The majority of the things which were for sale were contributed by members of the church. The proceeds of the sale will be added to the fund for the building of the new church, for which the ladies of this congregation have pledged to raise $5,000.

ARRESTED MAN PLANNED WINCHESTER FOR HIS HOME

He was married only three days before his arrest, his bride being Miss Elsie West of Woburn. His case was continued for a week, he being held in $2,000 bonds.

TBB WYMAN SCHOOL

On November 20th bids for the construction of the new Wyman school were publicly opened at the office of the architects Messrs. Kilham, Hopkins & Greeley.

Of the sixteen bidders the lowest was J. Nicholson & Son and a contract with him has been signed. Work was begun last week and a steam shovel is making rapid work of the excavation for foundation wall.

The plans show nine standard class rooms, one of which is equipped for use as a kindergarten. There is a Principal's and a Nurse's room with an ante room opening into each and on the second floor is provided a large room for use as a lunch room and also a teachers' room.

The main building sets back seventy feet from the property line with a main entrance in the center of the street facade and a corridor extending entirely through the building from front to back.

At the rear of the building, extending toward the east, is an "L" which contains an assembly hall to seat 300. This hall is provided with a platform large enough for an entire class and with separate entrances from the outside.

The building is designed in the Colonial style and appears to have a somewhat domestic scale. The institutional character is further softened by a pitched roof covered with slate. The vents are taken care of in large brick chimney stacks.

The exterior walls will be of selected Epping brick. It is hoped that weather conditions may be such that foundation may be finished before the extreme cold weather.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM SUFFOCATION

A tragedy was narrowly averted in the family of Mrs. Hattie Weldon Sunday morning when the three members were overcome with gas fumes from a coal stove in the parlor, they being saved only by the prompt work of neighbors. The conditions were discovered at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, when Mrs. Weldon, aroused from her condition by the moaning of her youngest daughter, Mildred, struggled to the window and tried to summon help.

Joseph McCauley, son of Sergt. Thomas F. McCauley, who lives nearly opposite the Weldon house on Kendall street, was returning home with Joseph Blackham and James Ledwidge. They saw Mrs. Weldon at the window of her home and went to her assistance. McCauley notified his father, who telephoned to the police for the lug motor and a doctor.

Mildred was in the worst condition, and Dr. Sheehy, who responded to the call, had to work over her to bring her out of the gas fumes. Mrs. Weldon and her other daughter, Ruth, while overcome, were quickly resuscitated. The fumes originated from a stove in the parlor, the house being so thick with gas that the rescuers could hardly stand it themselves.

SALE OF RECLAIMED TOYS

Our firemen have finished repairing the toys which Winchester children gave in the school drive, and they will be sold December 16th upstairs in the Brown Building. Many of these toys are in perfect condition, but others called for a lot of ingenuity on the part of Chief DeCoursey's men. Paint and varnish have done good work and it will be hard for those who attend the sale to distinguish the mended toys from the new ones. Grown-ups will find this a fine chance to buy sturdy playthings for Santa Claus' work.

Children's books will also be on sale at a low price, so that boys and girls can buy two or three of their favorites for the amount that one new book would cost.

The Education committee of the Fortnightly are conducting the affair, and they will be glad even now to receive books and toys that do not need too much repairing. People who still have things to donate can call Win. 1425.

STONEHAM—METCALF

The marriage occurred on Friday, Dec. 1, at 8 p. m. of Miss Rachel Frances Metcalf, only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joel Metcalf of Portland, Me., formerly pastor of the Winchester Unitarian Church for many years, to Elbridge Fernald Stoneham, a Portland young man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Metcalf, who is pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Portland, assisted by Rev. Dr. Goddard, pastor of the Methodist Church of Portland. The ceremony was performed at the church and attended by over 600 guests. Afterwards a reception was held in the parish house. Both church and reception hall were decorated profusely with white chrysanthemums, palms and ferns. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white brocade satin with overdress of Brussels point lace, an old family heirloom, and carried a small bouquet of sweethearts roses. They are on a trip to the White Mountains and on their return will reside on State street, Portland, Me.

The bride has held the position of secretary of the Unitarian State Federation of Maine since residing in Portland and is very popular among the young people there, and the groom is advertising manager of the same, as well as being connected with one of the city's papers. Many friends here extend congratulations to the young people.

MYSTIC VALLEY LODGE A. F. & A. M.

The second annual communication of Mystic Valley Lodge A. F. & A. M. was held last evening in the Masonic apartments. The meeting was preceded by a dinner in which over fifty members participated.

The annual reports of officers revealed the Lodge to be in a flourishing condition and steadily growing. The election of officers for the succeeding year resulted in the unanimous choice of the following:

Harold M. Richmond, Master
T. Parker Clarke, Senior Warden
J. Lawton Whitlock, Junior Warden
Franklin E. Crawford, Treasurer
William A. Lefavour, Secretary
Charles H. Tozier, Trustee of Funds for 3 years
Amasa Harrington, Associate Member, Board of Masonic Relief.

Two features of the evenings exercises were the presentation of a State Flag, contributed by members of the Lodge, and the presentation to the retiring Master, Wor. Bro. Amasa Harrington of a Past Masters apron by Wor. Bro. Percival B. Metcalf in behalf of the Lodge, this being the customary gift from the Lodge at the completion of the Masters' second year in office.

A bright future seems assured for this popular Winchester organization.

AMERICAN LEGION TO PRESENT FOOTBALL TEAM WITH BANQUET

The local post of the American Legion will present the Winchester High School football team, Champions of the Mystic Valley League, with a banquet in Lyceum Hall on Saturday evening, December 16th.

Messrs. Allan E. and Robert C. Boone have sold the modern house of eight rooms and about 13,000 feet of land situated at 14 Fenwick road to Mr. Royal N. Halliwell of Cambridge, who will occupy the estate.

MACMILLAN TO LECTURE AND EXHIBIT MOVING PICTURES

MacMillan, the Arctic explorer, is delivering his lecture and showing his moving pictures of the North to capacity audiences everywhere. He is speaking every night in towns and cities throughout New England. An audience of 2500 people came to hear him in Symphony Hall when he spoke there two weeks ago. He told them the story of his recent trip to unknown Baffin Land and showed his remarkable moving pictures and stereopticon news. The pictures brought great icebergs and glaciers before the eyes of the audience, showed the Eskimo building their snow homes, showed them hunting seal and walrus, and lassoing the polar bear. MacMillan's descriptions were vivid bits or narrative telling of the life of the Eskimo and of the members of his expedition. He told why men go to the Northland, and what it is that so fascinates the explorer and the scientist that he goes back again and again in spite of perils, suffering and the separation from his home. MacMillan is engaged to come to Winchester on January 11th and will deliver his lecture and show his pictures in the Town Hall.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Automobile travel was dangerous Tuesday night, when the soft snow and rain of the day froze on the streets, leaving them a glare of ice. Two accidents occurred during the evening, although the icy conditions may not have been wholly responsible. At 5:20 p. m. as Wm. A. Fisher of Somerville and Arthur Armstrong of Melford, driving Buick and Chevrolet touring cars respectively, were crossing at right angles at the square in front of the Town Hall they collided. The Chevrolet hit the Buick at its rear end, sending it into the big elm tree at the corner of Washington and Mt. Vernon street. No one was injured although Fisher was somewhat bruised and received a cut on one hand. Both cars were damaged, the Buick receiving the worst of it.

At 9:05 p. m. as Robert Symmes was driving his Red truck down Main street, Joseph Pizzano of Somerville started from in front of the bowling alleys in his Ford runabout. The cars came together and both were more or less damaged. No one was injured.

MISS MARION DOW GIVES PARTY

Miss Marion Dow gave an informal Thanksgiving Party last Friday evening at her home on Main street. About 15 couples were present, many of whom were home from school and college for the holiday. The large dining room was attractively decorated with roses and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Charles P. Dow, Mrs. Frank Howe and Mrs. George Goddu were the matrons. The music was furnished by Johnson's Tempo Orchestra of Cambridge. The lucky dance was won by Mr. Arthur Sinclair and Miss Miriam Deloria.

Among those present were Misses Audrey Goddu, Alida Goddu, Edna Sherman, Dorothy Cummings, Aurora Rondina, Priscilla Lombard, Helen Raynor, Katherine Hunt, Dorothy Laraway, Carolyn Dow, Helen Bowe, Ruth Abbott, Miriam Deloria and Mr. William Clarke, Stephen Ryan, Reginald Kibbe, Robert Hart, Ralph Symmes, Gleason Buckley, Ler Court, Edward Curran, Webster Harlowe, Hall Gamage, Guy Howe, Ellis Groton and Arthur Sinclair.

ST. MARY'S HOLY NAME SOCIETY

The men of St. Mary's Holy Name Society have been especially favored in listening to two such eloquent Priests, as the Rev. D. Murphy of St. John's Seminary and Rev. Dan. Deamond of Somerville. The former lectured to the men on "The Beginnings of Christianity" a few weeks ago in conjunction with the regular monthly meeting and Father Desmond, recently returned from Europe, gave a most delightful talk with stereoscopic last Sunday night in White's Hall on "The Trials of the Early Church." Both lecturers drew a capacity gathering and augurs well for the other six lectures which Fr. Fitzgibbons, the Director of the Society, has in the process of preparation.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Mead of Montclair, N. J., are the parents of a son, born Nov. 28th. Mr. Mead is well known as the son of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Sullivan delivered the address.

REPRESENTATIVES OF WORLD'S DRY FORCES MEET IN CON-VENTION OF WORLD LEAGUE AGAINST ALCOHOLISM IN TORONTO

The International Convention of the World League Against Alcoholism opened in Toronto November 24th, with over eight hundred registered delegates in attendance. More delegates are expected before the session closes.

Sixty-three delegates from countries other than Canada and the United States were present the first day, representing forty-one countries other than the United States and Canada.

These countries included Lithuania, England, China, Mexico, Poland, Scotland, Finland, Australia, Slani, Sweden, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Argentina, India, Italy, Siberia, Albania, Bulgaria, Japan, Rumania, Spain, Formosa, South Africa, Hungary, Turkey, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, Ukraine, France, Syria, Republic of Columbia, Korea, Armenia, Ireland, Jamaica, Liberia, Brazil, Sierra Leone, Philippines and Denmark.

Several thousand people were present at the first day's session held in Massey Hall. The keynote address was delivered at the afternoon session by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The November all day meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Congregational Church vestry. At this enthusiastic meeting, coffee bags for sailors were made, which will be sent to the Baptist Bethel for distribution. Mrs. Fannie Weid and Miss Eugenia Elliott, delegates to the State Convention, held at Hyannis, gave comprehensive and inspiring reports. There was a strong feeling of optimism evident in spite of the fact that Massachusetts had not done her duty on the referendum. The West and Middle West stand firm and the 68th Congress holds out no promise of success to those who hope for modification of the enforcement act.

The December meeting of the Union will be held at the home of Mrs. George Hamilton, 6 Wedge Pond road on Friday the 15th at 3 o'clock. The meeting will be in the nature of a gift Christmas tree party. Mrs. Daniel Kelley, superintendent of the flower mission department, urges all to be present and bring their gifts of fruit and delicacies for the sick and shut-ins. Contributions will be sent to Boston for the Christmas distribution.

MR. CARHART RESIGNS

Mr. Alfred B. Carhart of Ridgefield road, a member of the local Park Board since March 1916, has resigned that office in a letter sent to his department last week. He will leave Winchester shortly, moving with his family to New York.

There was a good attendance at the memorial services of Winchester Lodge of Elks Sunday afternoon in Lyceum hall. Past Exalted Ruler Eugene J. Sullivan delivered the address.

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRA AT AMRAD

The musical concert played Thanksgiving Eve by the Winchester Laundries Orchestra at Amrad Radio Broadcasting Station made a decided hit with the radio public. The Amrad officials say it has brought them three times as many letters and telephone messages of commendation as they usually get after a good program has been broadcasted, and that 24 letters came in one mail alone.

Many writers said that it was the "best ever" and asked if the Winchester Laundries Orchestra would be secured again soon, at the same time voicing their appreciation of good music well played, and their pleasure at hearing a program of popular music entirely free from the jazz which constitutes the main features of the music now played at many of the broadcasting stations.

The Laundry Company officials as well as the members of the orchestra have been liberally complimented on the excellency of the work of the organization, and it is especially pleasing to them in view of the short time in which they have been rehearsing.

The program was as follows:
March—Love and Glory
Sole from Trepigne The Lost Chord
Played by T. Parker Clarke, Conductor of the Orchestra
Selection from the Musical Comedy "The Prince of Pilsen" Concert Waltz Danab Waves
March—Bombastic

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

A joint meeting of the High School and Wadleigh-Prince Parent-Teacher Associations was held in the High School Auditorium on Tuesday evening Dec. 5th at eight o'clock. A very able address was given by Mr. Stanley H. Holmes, Superintendent of Schools in New Britain, Conn. Mr. Holmes pointed out the greater necessity of co-operation between parent and teacher. This joint meeting was arranged by the presidents of the two associations, Mr. Chapman and Mr. Parsons to observe education week. A social hour followed.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL J. WESTON
ALLEN SPEAKS AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen spoke at the First Congregational Church last Sunday morning immediately after the regular service. About 300 persons attended. His subject was, "Criminals and the Law" and so interested was the audience that scarcely a sound could be heard during the entire hour in which he spoke.

He said, that the selection of jurors is one of the most important tasks set before the defending and prosecuting attorneys. These attorneys are often not discreet in their choices and consequently many juries are formed of men who are incapable of serving intelligently. He referred to the Ponzi case as one example. Here the jurors were not representative of the people and in his opinion were not the proper men to render a decision. It is every man's duty to serve on a jury and those who shirk the duty are to be compared with "slackers" and other types of poor citizens.

The average American does not respect the law as he is expected to. Typical of this disrespect is the non-rhalance with which the 18th amendment is broken and mocked. Whether or not one believes in a law, as a citizen it is his duty to regard it as something sacred and to obey it. The Volstead Act is looked upon by many as a joke and is thoughtlessly disregarded by them.

Attorney Allen also spoke of the unrefined and degrading types of movies and musical shows which are being given to the American public today. The need of good drama is a great one at the present time and we could well afford to have more companies playing the type of show that the Jewett players put on in Boston. The people must raise the standards of the stage to a much higher level. The speaker concluded with a strong and emphatic appeal for good citizenship, urging everyone to support and to live by the legal statutes of the nation.

Mr. Carlisle W. Burton was responsible for having Attorney Allen in Winchester and many thanks are due him for having our town thus honored. The audience was most appreciative throughout and at the conclusion seemed to have gained much from the points made by the speaker.

EDISON COMPANY HONORS GENERAL MANAGER

Members and employees of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company united last Friday in honoring Mr. William H. Atkins, general superintendent of the company, on the observance of the 50th anniversary of his connection with the Edison Company. Mr. Atkins, who has served the company as general superintendent for the past 25 years, joined the company as an inspector on Dec. 1, 1887, and not only rose rapidly to his present position, but through his energy and ability has been largely responsible for the growth of the business of the corporation. The celebration tendered him was for the most part a surprise, and the list included a dinner at the Engineers' Club given him by the Arlington Street Scientific Society, of which he is a member.

Mr. Charles Eckert and Mr. William Shermer of Brooklyn, N. Y. spent the past week-end at the home of Sgt. and Mrs. John Harrold.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Winchester National Bank, of Winchester, Mass., will be held in its Banking Rooms on Tuesday evening, January 9th, 1923, at eight o'clock P. CALUMET BOWLING

Teams Still Fighting Hard For First Division

Calumet bowling teams have lost none of their aggressive spirit in recent matches, each aggregation fighting hard to gain ascendancy and hold a position in the first division if not in the leading places. Friday night saw team 5 take three points from 13, 6 and 14 split even and 15 win three from 7. Although these scores were not exceptionally high, the rolling was close and spirited. Sam Taylor led the field, making 338 with 130, while C. A. Lane gave him a close run with 135 on 122. Other scores of note were made as follows: Stratton 307 with 113, Dolben 108, Newman 106, Maddocks 104, Sawyer and Armstrong 103 each, Barron and Waldmyer 102 each and Godfrey 101.

"JOHNNY'S NEW SUIT"

On December 11, the Metcalf Union presented a two-act play entitled, "Johnny's New Suit." This play was very humorous and required good acting and coaching. Miss Dorothy Reynolds ably filled the part as coach, while the acting was exceptionally well done. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Silas Larkin Miss Dolly Maddocks
Johnny Larkin John Keaton
Mrs. Albert Spencer Miss Elizabeth Jacob
Miss Miranda Brown Miss Frances Mason
Amelia Pettigrew Miss Marietta Barnes
Matilda R. Green Miss Gertrude Drake
Anne Tebbell Miss Georgia Locke
Deacon Rice Edgar Taylor
Other Judges Miss Barbara Watters, Warren Hadley

After an hour of laughs, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Perry's orchestra was on the job.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Stoneham Theatre opened on Monday under a new management and ownership, it having been acquired by the Stoneham Theatre Inc., and now being managed by Mr. F. E. Fitzgibbons, Jr. The new management proposes to greatly increase the desirability of the films shown, and make this one of the best theatres in suburban Boston.

The first real cold snap of the winter arrived this week, Wednesday and Thursday being real samples of cold weather, the glass yesterday morning going down to 10 above. Monday was one of the finest days for weeks, being so mild as to resemble late spring, and the warm weather combined with bright, sunny skies, tempted everyone to go out of doors. Following the mixture of snow and rain of Tuesday, Wednesday saw a decided drop in the temperature, accompanied by a high wind. The coldest weather was experienced Wednesday evening, and although yesterday morning was lower in temperature, the absence of wind was a relief.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Seniors and Juniors in High School are the invited guests on Monday, Dec. 11, when Mr. Carveth Wells, explorer, speaks before the club on the "Jungle of Malay." Mr. Wells has actually lived in the depths of the tropical jungle in the world for over six years. He tells the most fascinating tales of that land of mystery, describing the natives, their industries, customs, religion, superstitions and folk-lore. His thrilling pictures have delighted scores of boys, girls and adults.

Mr. J. Corwin Wright, baritone soloist, will furnish the musical part of the program. Members daughters of high school age and under twenty are also invited. Mrs. A. J. Wallace was hostess for the Literature class on Monday, when the life and writings of Eugene O'Neill were the subject of study under the leadership of Mrs. Ely and Mrs. McDonald.

The life of the dramatist who, at the age of thirty-four, is in the front rank of American dramatists, was ably sketched by Mrs. McDonald. After a year each in Princeton and Harvard, he led a roving life, making several voyages as a common sailor. Thus he learned to know life at first hand and although he undermined his health he laid up rich stores of experience which are evidenced in his writings. Mrs. Reynolds read parts of "The Emperor Jones," a very powerful study of a strong man's struggle against terror. Mrs. Reynolds' reading of the negro dialect was especially fine. Mrs. Ely read a one act play, "In the Zone," which held everyone breathless until the end. She was particularly fortunate in her depicting of the characters. The social hour closed the afternoon.

TO MARRIED MEN

During the past five years it has been my privilege to pay more than $50,000 in death claims to the dependents of Winchester men who were killed before their time. I have now several million dollars in life insurance on my books, all of which must eventually be paid.

Should you be among the first to go it would be distressing and unfair to your family to leave them inadequately provided for. Act wisely now and you will certainly save them great mental anguish in the years to come. Our new contract grants the following benefits:

- Pay to you personally, during your entire lifetime, a Monthly Income equal to 12% annually of the face of your Policy; And in addition
- Relieve you of paying any more premiums; And further
- Will pay your beneficiary at your death the full amount insured without any deductions;
- In the event of your death, before age 65, the direct result of an accident, DOUBLE the face amount of the Policy will be paid.

"But, Mr. Stephenson, I am not quite ready," is the answer frequently. To every responsible and insurable married man in Winchester, to hold good for two weeks until noon on December 22nd, I make the following offer:

- To place your insurance immediately in force without any cash payment,—to be met at your convenience later.
- To render assistance without any obligation on your part in analyzing your present insurance estate, whether it is now provided as a lump sum, or will be left as a Monthly Income.
- To consider that all such information is given to me in the strictest confidence.

For Your Family's Sake - Face the Facts!

Upon my present policy I desire information:

(Mark by cross)

- Monthly Income to self or family.
- Waiver of Premium in event of disability.
- Double indemnity for accidental death.
- For a new contract giving old age protection and insurance combined.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

We don't know just who it was that invented the Kodak but certainly he was no flatterer.

No woman ever doubted a story so much that she would not repeat it.

There is no doubt but what your sin will find you out, and sometimes it is out quite a lot.

Don't go ahead until you are right, but go ahead as soon as you find that out.

It is reported that every eleventh person in the United States owns a car, and the balance own filling stations.

A CUSTOMER FOR THE TOWN

To the Editor of the Star:

A real estate broker from a neighboring town has mailed letters to so many Winchester real estate owners, in which he claims to have a cash customer for property such as theirs and in their vicinity, that one is obliged to conclude that the broker's claims are founded more on a hope than a certainty.

Before one ventures to list his property with a broker who makes such extravagant claims, one should satisfy himself that such claims are well founded, for if they are not, it would then be manifestly unwise to enter into any business relations with one who would attempt to secure business by deceitful or misleading statements.

Another form of deceit frequently practiced by some people who claim to be real estate brokers is by placing blind advertisements in the newspapers which tend to give the impression that the advertiser is an owner rather than the broker.

One continuing to negotiate for real estate through a broker he finds using this method to secure business, has no one but himself to blame if he finds later that he has bought some-

LAST MONTH a widow whose husband had been a leader in his line of business, and a very conservative investor, said that some of her securities which were considered gilt edged at the time her husband purchased them had passed their dividends; so the income from his Life Insurance which arrived the day it was due was more than welcome. Once he divided his insurance between the Northwestern and another company, and took the same form of policy in each. A few years later he said to me, "You may write anything you please about the Northwestern, and I will sign it."

The right way to save

Many women think that by using sour milk in baking they are making a saving.

They often fail to realize that if the sour milk contains a little too much acid, or if the proportion of milk and soda is not exactly right, the whole baking may be spoiled.

Strange birds make their habitat in the Belgian Congo, in the dense forest and high grass region of Central Africa.
The hornbill, for instance makes a curious nest. The female lays her eggs in a hollow tree. The hole is filled up with mud, leaving an aperture, too small to allow the female to get out, but through which the male supplies food while the eggs are hatching. Weaver birds weave their nests out of strips of grass or leaves, and, although the entrance to the nest is from below, it is so constructed that the eggs never roll out. A variety of birds called grass warblers sew their nests of the same manner.

He Liked to Be Kept in Mind.

The Sultan of Trengganu was an ahunt at exercising himself for his slight deviations from the paths of rightness.
At least so it would appear from his story, which Mr. Charles Mayer, his one-time unofficial adviser and good friend, tells in his recent book on the Malay Jungles. On one of my visits to Trengganu, he says, I spent several days with the sultan and discussed his problems with him. He owed a sum of money, and, knowing that he had money in the treasury,
I asked him why he did not pay the debt. He was thoughtful for a time.
"Well, I'll tell you," he said at last.

I don't pay them, they'll never forget

WINCHESTER HIGH-SCHOOL

The parents of high school pupils were invited to visit the school Tuesday.

The Recorder is this week making a special drive for advertising and subscriptions.

Tuesday evening the Parent-Teacher Associations connected with the High School and with the Prince and Wadleigh Schools held a joint meeting in the high school assembly hall. Mr. Henry Chapman and Mr. William L. Parsons, presidents of the two associations, presided. The speaker was Mr. Stanley A. Holmes, Superintendent of Schools in New Britain, Connecticut. Mr. Holmes discussed the origin and importance of Education Week, and proved by statistics the serious illiteracy of the country. He then discussed the relations between a Parent-Teacher Association and the schools, pointing out possible harmful effects and emphasizing valuable activities. The meeting adjourned until January.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE MAKES ALL-SCHOOLISTIC ELEVEN

Arthur French, the star of Coach Rufus Bond's Mystic Valley League champions, has been named by the Boston Traveler as half-back on the All-Schoolistic eleven. That he deserves the place he has won is doubted by none who have seen him play. Throughout the season French played his hardest for Winchester and at all times for the team, entirely forgetting personal glory.

This is the first time in the history of the High School that Winchester has had one of its players thus honored, and for this honor the school and town owes thanks, not only to French, but to the team as a whole and to Coach Bond in particular.

EVERY DAY STORIES

THE TABLES TURNED

No. 6

"Not exclaimed Dad," for the hundred and forty-eighth time I say not you can't go fishing with me today." But when Mother interceded for me saying, "Oh, take him along; he won't be a bother," I was allowed to go.

It was about six or seven years ago that the incident took place. On the way to the pond Dad assured me that he would show me a real fish or two. He also kept saying, "Take my advice for this, and take my advice for that," to which I paid great attention.

When we arrived at the pond, Dad said that he alone would go out in the boat and I would have to fish from the bank. He gathered up his fisher, artificial bait, and rod, and soon was out on the water, looking very hopeful. Meanwhile I was left on the bank with a few worms. I walked around and threw my line in a few places without avail. At last I felt a bite, which I thought must be an alligator. After a few minutes of lucky pulling and hauling I landed the fish. He was a pickerel and measured about twenty-one inches.

Soon Dad was back, having had no luck at all. When he saw my fish, he looked somewhat crestfallen and thought he would try again. So we both went out this time. Dad was strolling when all of a sudden there was a mighty splash as the bait was taken. "Now you'll see a real fish," he said. Easily landed it came in an eight inch pickerel! And Dad hasn't gone fishing since.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL

Coach Higbee started the High School team last Monday with a short practice. About twenty-five men reported and have been provided with uniforms. Many of last year's stars will again be on the court for Winchester, among them are, Captain Francis Tansey, Winer, French, Kelly and Lydon. Gordon Chapman who has recently returned to the school will also be with the squad and should be a valuable addition.

The boys were allowed a short scrimmage and instructed in some of the new rules, many of which are far different from those heretofore encountered.

On next Monday afternoon an exhibition game will be played between the Juniors and Seniors. To impress the afore-mentioned new rules upon the squad, Coach Higbee will have a league referee to officiate and the game will be regarded and handled like a scheduled league game. The line up will probably be:

SCHOOL COMMITTEE ABOLISHES NO-SCHOOL SIGNALS

No-school signals for grades seven and eight and the High School have been ordered discontinued by the School Committee. The change will affect the Wadleigh and High schools only. In case of severe storm no school signals will be rung as usual for the Kindergartens and grades one to six inclusive. The new rule will go into effect Monday, December 18.

The School Committee took this action last Monday evening. The Committee has had the question of no school signals under consideration for a long time and took its action only after careful consideration. It costs about one thousand dollars a day to run the schools and they should not be closed, when they can possibly be kept open.

In making his recommendation the Superintendent of Schools made the following statement:

"The present system of signals calls for no school for all grades. High school pupils are treated the same as Kindergarten pupils. It seems that there should be a difference. Many times the weather is too severe for younger pupils to go to school but not severe enough to keep older pupils away. Some times the signal is given for no school for all the grades because it is thought parents will not be willing to send the younger children out. It is impracticable to have two signals, one for the younger children and one for those who are older. My conviction is that the schools ought to be open unless there are the strongest reasons for closing them. Pupils in the upper grades should take the attitude that it is their business to go to school just the same as it is the business of the father to go to his work or to his office."

Hereafter, pupils of the Wadleigh and High Schools will disregard the no-school signal.

The one session signal for the Wadleigh and Prince schools blown at 11:40 will not be changed. These schools are attended by children from all over town and the change from the two sessions to a longer one session on stormy days is a reasonable provision.

For the Wadleigh and Prince schools, a signal at 11:40 a. m. will mean one session, closing at one p. m.

Signals for the Kindergarten and the first six grades will be as follows: 7:40 a. m.—no forenoon session; 12:40 p. m.—no afternoon session.

When 900 out of every 1000 toll calls are made in this way month after month, you need no better proof that a large majority of telephone users get satisfactory service, quicker action and lowest rates by making their toll calls on a station-to-station basis; that is, by asking for a number, or for the listed name of a subscriber, and not for a particular person.

If you make your calls in any of the following ways, you will save time and at least 20 per cent on toll charges:

A call for "John Smith, Pittsfield, Mass., or anyone" is a person-to-person call because the request is primarily for a particular person and the operator attempts to find him first.

Experience has shown that in nearly every case the person you want will answer at once or, if not, that you can talk satisfactorily with someone else.

You turn a lever and gas service is instantly ready to cook the evening meal, light or heat the home. Did you ever stop to think that the source of that energy may have been in the coal mines and oil wells hundreds of miles away?

You pick up a telephone receiver and a city thousands of miles away answers your call. You board a street car and an invisible power moves it and you reach your destination.

You want to converse with London or Shanghai, and through the air without the aid of a wire, or through cables under the ocean, goes your message to points on the other side of the world.

A switch is pushed and great engines start a mill in operation employing thousands of men.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

"Star Reader" is in favor of the organization in Chelsea of a "Society for the Prevention of Useless Noises." The possibilities in this direction ought to be evident to any man or woman not totally deaf.

Unless a Winchesterite has learned obedience he cannot command successfully.

With Winter right at our door, the Spectator wishes to call attention to the case of a Boston woman who obtained a verdict for $12,000 in a suit against the city for injuries sustained by falling into a hole in the surface of a highway. Courts have repeatedly held that city and town governments are bound to see to it that roadways and sidewalks are kept in condition to ensure the safety of pedestrians, and an ice-covered sidewalk is as liable to prove as costly to Winchester as a pitfall in Main street.

Some men here in Winchester think that they would be philanthropic if they had a lot of money, and then, if they happen to get it, they forget all about what they thought.

"The Well Ordered Day" is the title of a poem and would it not be a grand thing if every man, woman and child in and out of Winchester were to have every day well ordered?

How shall the day be ordered? To the sage the young man spoke. And this was his reply: A morning prayer. A moment with thy God who made the dawn. Thy from the east; to thank him for the case. That kept thee through the night; to give thy soul. With faith secure to his complete control; To ask his guidance still along the way. So starts the day.

A busy day. Do with it will the task that lies before. So much there is for every man to do. And soon the night when man can work no more. And going but he to life's best is true. Who works with zeal and purpose only when he stretches forth his hand to help the men Who fail or fall beside him on the way. So runs the day.

A merry evening. When toil is done, then banished be the care That frets the soul. With loved one by the hearth. The evening hour belongs to joy and mirth. To lighter things that make life fresh and fair. For honest work has earned its hour of play. So ends the day.

It takes some people a long time to learn that their convictions do not settle all questions.

The mischief that Satan particularly delights in finding for idle people to do, is gossip.

When a boy learns that more than 1600 years before Columbus was born, Eratosthenes believed the earth to be spherical and estimated its circumference at 30,000 miles he is startled. "The world-seeking Genepose" had the advantage of all that the wise Greeks had learned of mathematics and astronomy. But so had others. Columbus had the physical and moral courage to pass from the reasoning to experiment. He was bold enough to enter unknown seas, to face the voyage terrors of the unknown, to sail on despite the outcries of his crew, to dare all the hazards of imagination, and to find the shores of the western world. At long intervals some one tries to depreciate Columbus on the ground that he was mentally indebted to the Greeks. So is everyone who begins the study of any science. In every branch of intellectual work, from astronomy to zoology, the common terms show how Greek influence is everywhere. No man did more than Columbus to make the modern world.

The winter girl with winsome charms. The truly fellows of Winchester farms. The burkhead eases, the maple drip. Plum puddings and the brandy dip. The falling snow, the whitened road. The merry bells, the precious load Beside us on the rustic seat. And "good old summer-time" is beat. The Spectator.

A CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS

Winchester Elks Will Entertain Town Children on Big Scale

500 children of Winchester are sure of a happy and joyous Christmas this year! They are sure Santa Claus will not forget them; that they will receive a present, some ice cream, some candy and enjoy besides a real, truly show, made just for themselves. And furthermore, their celebration is to be in the Winchester Town Hall.

It is evidently to be "some Christmas" for somebody, and who somebody is no one knows except the committee of Winchester Elks, who have the big affair in hand, for of course it is impossible to include all of Winchester's children at the Town Hall at one and the same time, and of course those children who are to have a super-celebration in their own homes would rather let the others enjoy the generosity of the Elks.

The committee in charge, which is working night and day under the direction of old St. Nick himself, is made up of Mr. George T. Davidson, chairman, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Mr. Maurice Dinneen, Mr. Walter H. Dotten and Mr. Ted Connor.

Here are only a few of the nice things they have prepared for the children to date: a Christmas tree, a real truly Santa Claus (which "Si" Perkins will probably look after), candy, pop corn, ice cream, a flag, a present, and such trifles as fancy caps, etc. Every child who attends, and one or two who are sick and cannot attend, will receive the above articles, and arrangements are made to grade the presents according to the various ages and sexes.

The entertainment, arranged for by Mr. Fred H. Scholl, who knows what a real show is and what pleases the kids best, will center around Prof. Herbert Taylor. Prof. Taylor is a clown, a magician and a juggler, giving a magical performance enhanced by the touch of the sawdust ring. He is an honest-to-goodness clown, who entertains adults as well as the children, although of course there will not be so many adults present but what all the children will be accommodated.

And one clown was not enough for Mr. Scholl, who wants the children to have a real, truly, good time, so he will have another clown, this one to be called the musical clown. This will be Jack Griffin, who will tell stories, sing songs and do musical stunts. Of course there will be a pianist, so everybody can sing. If this celebration is not the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Winchester it will not be the fault of Winchester Lodge of Elks.

It is to take place in the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 26, from 2 to 6 o'clock.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The election of officers was held at the regular meeting on Thursday evening, Dec. 7, after the church services. Mrs. A. Martin, the present Grand Regent, who has filled that chair for the past three years, was unanimously chosen to lead the court for another year. Mrs. Minnie O'Connor the present Vice Grand Regent, who has served for three years, refused to accept another term so Mrs. Frances Noonan Conlon was chosen to serve for this year as Vice Grand Regent. Mrs. Jane King will be the new monitor and she succeeds Mrs. Josephine O'Brien, who is unable to serve any longer in that office. Mrs. Edward McKenzie succeeds Mrs. Annie Vayo as a trustee for three years. It is with universal regret that the Court accepts the termination of the official services of these three splendid officers, Mrs. Vayo, Mrs. O'Connor and Mrs. O'Brien. Mrs. Thomas Kelley succeeds herself as a trustee for three years.

The next social meeting on Thursday evening, Dec. 21, will be a turkey whist in charge of Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, followed by a Christmas sale in charge of Mrs. George R. Poland, P. G. R. These ladies will be assisted by a corps of splendid workers and the proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the usual Christmas charitable work. Miss Marie Cuneo, D. D., will install the officers at the meeting on Jan. 4.

IDA M. TARBELL

Will speak at the Unitarian Church, Jan. 7, 1923 at 7:30 p. m. Please reserve this date and hear this noted lecturer. All are welcome.

"THE GLORIOUS GIRL"

"The Glorious Girl" suggests many different types of girls but as that title is used in the musical comedy which is to be presented Dec. 21 and 22 at the Town Hall, it refers to no particular girl. The leading lady is not cast as "The Glorious Girl" as one might expect. Just what and who the girl spoken of in this way comes out in the libretto of a very clever plot.

Artistic, colorful, tuneful and entertaining "The Glorious Girl" lives up to its name and from the moment the curtain rises on the quaint curio shop scene until it falls on the magnificent silver cloth hall room scene there will be life, movement and laughter.

Aside from the main plot, there is a parallel love story which makes for variety and several clever specialties are introduced. There are more than the usual number of song and dance hits in "The Glorious Girl" as may be seen from the following list:

"My Girl" the tune to which "The Glorious Girl" execute a very difficult and professional dance is put over the footlights by a Winchester favorite, Harry Cox, with Miss Dorothy Peterson, as leading lady. Mr. Cox sings "In a Tally Ho" the plug song of the production. Miss Peterson makes a charming Alice and her excellent voice will be heard to good advantage in several song numbers, "Just a Week", "Radio" and "Shopping".

The ingenue role has been given to Miss Dorothy Kelly, appearing as Margaret playing opposite Mr. George Hodge, as Van. Their song number "Snow White" gives an opening for a toe dance by Betty Sweetser in the role of "Snow White".

Miss Phyllis Tutin, has the leading role in the parallel story and her singing of Persian Rose will be one of the high lights of the performance. Kenneth Caldwell makes an excellent "Father" and looks stunning in an Oriental garb. Likewise Harry Bigelow as the "Soothsayer".

Miss Dorothy Reynolds as Mrs. Winterfield will have excellent scope for her talents as comedienne and with Alden Symmes as Count, will furnish much of the comedy of the play.

Caroline Shawhan as Molly and Reginald Kibbee as Steve, her partner and bawdy crook, complicate the plot considerably and appear in two excellent song and dance numbers, "Follow the Game", "When We Went to School".

Vincent Clark takes the double role of Horatio at first a Greenwich Village artist but later a full-fledged butler!

A flash back from Steve and Molly's school song gives opportunity for clever comedy in a school room skit, with Dorothy Adams as teacher and Benjamin Priest, Sherman Saltmarsh, Esther Clark, Dorothy Riddle and Milton Cummings as pupils.

ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY GIVES PLAY

The Alice F. Symmes Society of the Unitarian Church presented a very interesting and humorous play, in Metcalf Hall, on last Friday evening. Despite the unpleasant weather which persisted an audience of almost 300 attended. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Dorothy Reynolds, chairman, and Kenneth Pratt.

Miss Carolyn Shawhan and Miss Reynolds were the stars of the play. The latter in the part of Nora did exceptionally well. Besides taking one of the leading parts Miss Reynolds coached and directed the play and to her its success is owed.

At the conclusion of the play dancing was enjoyed until 11:30. Music was furnished by Cullen's Orchestra of this town.

The cast:

Mrs. Wayne	Carolyn Shawhan
Mr. Wayne	Dean Symmes
Tom, their son	Edward Sanders

Many Winchester men are members of the Woburn Lodge, and they, together with the local Lodge, desire that Winchester shall make a good showing at the affair—which it undoubtedly will.

The concert program of the evening will be given from 8 to 9 o'clock and the dancing will follow until 11. The tickets are priced at $1.50 for lady and gentleman and 50 cents for lady. They may be obtained of any Elks.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Children's Day, which is always a delight to everyone, comes Monday, Dec. 18. Each member is entitled to one ticket for a child over five years of age, but it is absolutely necessary to have this complimentary ticket to show at the door. For further particulars see last week's Star. Mr. Bennett Springer, a conjuror of some notes, will entertain with sleight-of-hand, cardistry, and illusions.

Mrs. Lillian T. Mason presided at the regular Monday meeting of the Fortnightly on Dec. 11, owing to the regrettable illness of the president, Mrs. H. W. Hildreth.

Those who were so fortunate as to attend the Fortnightly on Monday, Dec. 11th, enjoyed a rare treat in the lecture by Mr. Carvith Wells, engineer and explorer upon the jungle of Malay. Mr. Wells spent seven years in the jungle, surveying a railway line for the British government, and during most of that time he was entirely alone except for the native who served and guided him.

The lecturer gave a most humorous account of the wonders of the Malay peninsula—the fish that climb trees, the hornbill that feeds its wife on strichine, the flying foxes and the deer only seven inches tall. He told of lizards and spiders, panthers and pitons, captive fish that fought in a battle, and tapoca that is made from a poisonous potato. Then he showed some very fine pictures of the country and its people, and exhibited some murderous looking weapons and exquisitely colored garments such as any south sea pirate might be proud to own. He even played a few delicate, gay little Malay tunes which did not sound piratical at all. And his hearers agreed that he had succeeded, as he wished, in making the jungle very vivid and real to them all.

Mr. J. Corwin Wright baritone, sang two familiar selections, with an encore.

The Fortnightly, in cooperation with the Red Cross in its clothing drive for the Near East Relief was notably successful. Twenty-seven bags of clothing were filled with seven hundred and sixty garments by actual count, consisting of suits, coats and dresses, together with 111 pairs of shoes and 119 pairs of stockings. One bag alone contained 122 pieces of infants' wearing apparel. The drive was made by the combined efforts of the Civics, Conservation, Social and Hospitality Committees. Great credit is due the Transportation chairman, Mrs. Bowen Tufts, who had charge of the collection of these articles and who overcame insurmountable difficulties because of the sleet storm in order to do so.

DR. ALFRED V. BLISS SPEAKS AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Dr. Alfred V. Bliss, New England Secretary of the American Missionary Association, spoke at the monthly luncheon of the Western Missionary Society on last Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Bliss is an authority on negro education and his topic was "Missionary Work among the Negroes of the South." He spoke of the negro of a generation ago, of his unfair treatment by the whites and of his undeveloped state. With the negro of that time Dr. Bliss compared the negro of today. The Southern States of the nation are, in his opinion, beginning to see the humanness of the black race and are realizing that if they are given a true opportunity will become good citizens. He spoke of the work which is being done among the negroes both in an educational and religious way, and closed with an appeal that all should try to see his point of view and co-operate with those who are attempting to better the conditions of the black man in the south.

Dr. Bliss proved to be a speaker of exceptional interest and was given a prolonged applause at the conclusion of his speech. Mrs. James S. Allen was responsible for having Dr. Bliss at the luncheon and she deserves many thanks for obtaining a speaker of such brilliance.

MRS. ARTHUR P. IRVING

Mrs. Amy P. Irving, wife of Mr. Arthur P. Irving of 4 Warwick place, died at her home on Friday. She was 43 years of age and a native of Chelsea, the daughter of Mr. Percy Hayden, widely known as a musician at the time. She was a member of the Winchester Country Club and of the Vesper Country Club of Lowell. Besides her husband she is survived by one sister, Miss Dorothy Hayden of Chelsea. Her husband, Mr. Arthur P. Irving, is prominent in the furniture business, being associated with his father in the firm of Irving & Casson, A. H. Davenport Co. The funeral services were held at the residence on Monday afternoon, Rev. Perry Buch of Chelsea officiating. The burial was in Woodland cemetery.

SELECT MEMBER MONDAY NIGHT

The Park Board and the Selectmen meet Monday evening at a joint session to select a member of the former board to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Mr. Albert B. Carhart, who is moving from Winchester to New York. Mr. Carhart has made a very efficient member of the Park Board and has shown much interest in his department. His term expired in 1923, but the new member will only be appointed until the annual March meeting.

Rev. William S. Packer of Yale street is understood to be the candidate who is to be advocated for the vacancy.

SIMS—BARTZSCH

Mr. Ralph J. Sims of Dorchester and Miss Elsie Amelia Bartzsch of 33 Nelson street, this town, were married last Friday at Manchester, Mass., by Rev. Frederic W. Maning of that town.

ANNUAL RED CROSS MEETING

The annual meeting of the Red Cross was held Dec. 12th, in the clinic room of the Board of Health. The reports of the various communities were read and accepted. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Miss Natalie Jewett, chairman; Mrs. Louise V. Bernard, vice-chairman; Mr. William Priest, treasurer; Mrs. M. C. Newman, Secretary.

The Production committee stated that 60 layettes have been started, 44 of which have been completed. Twenty-seven sweaters, and 68 pairs of socks have been made. Twenty-four large bags of clothing were packed and shipped by the Fortnightly committee of the Near East Relief co-operating with Red Cross. The motor corps made 14 calls during the past year, including calls for Miss Rising, clinic calls, boxes and bundles and Thanksgiving calls. For the Near East Relief 1214 homes were solicited beside the calls made by the Fortnightly. The report of the Junior Red Cross will be given more fully at a later date. Great credit is due the Junior Red Cross for the manner and spirit in which they contributed three Thanksgiving dinners.

Miss Rising's report included a short review of the report printed in October and further information of interest. Seventy disabled men have been cared for, and twenty per cent of this number are men who have first tried to rehabilitate themselves into community life before appealing for Red Cross aid. Sometimes these claims are often delayed by investigation while by virtue of their own efforts they should come before others; claims equally just but presented at a different time and in a different manner.

The Dental clinic which cared for the children of pre-school age has been taken over by the town. The success of the work warrants its continuation.

The Roll Call report will appear in the next issue of the Star.

E. P. H. CLASS GIVES FOOD SALE

The E. P. H. Class of the First Baptist church gave a food sale on last Saturday afternoon. The usual articles were on sale and the entire stock was sold out, about $60.00 being cleared. The proceeds are to be used for the fund which is being raised for the West End Community House in Boston. The Committee in charge consisted of Miss. Parris Richardson, chairman, Miss Nellie Fletcher, Mrs. Nellie Price, Miss Clara MacDonald and Mrs. Edith Jewett.

The class will present their annual entertainment to the Italian mothers in the West End Community House on tomorrow afternoon. This entertainment is a yearly affair of the class and is found helpful and interesting. The committee is: Mrs. Charlotte Gilmore, chairman, Mrs. Helen MacDonald, and Mrs. Edwin Parsons. The program will consist of a piano duet by Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. MacDonald, a piano solo by Mrs. MacDonald and Christmas carols by members of the class. There will be a large, decorated Christmas tree and gifts will be presented to about thirty Italian mothers.

The Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

The records of the meeting of December 4th were read and approved.

Town Hall Engagements (Parent-Teacher Association): Mr. Maurice Tompkins representing the Parent-Teacher Association appeared to find out whether or not the Board would allow the school children to use the Town Hall free of charge on afternoons when the hall is not previously engaged, for the purpose of conducting basket ball games. The Board voted to grant the free use of the Town Hall for this purpose. The Custodian of the Town Hall was ordered notified of this vote passed by the Board.

Invitations: A letter was received from the Winchester Post, 37, American Legion, extending to each member of the Board a cordial invitation to their banquet, in honor of the Winchester High School Foot Ball Team, champions of the Mystic Valley League for 1922. Coasting: Mr. Parker Holbrook appeared before the Board at the request of Mr. Hinds, Supt. of Streets, to see whether the Board wished the sidewalk streets sanded the same as in former years to prevent coasting on to the main streets. The Board ordered this be done at the bottom of all the sidewalk streets where they enter into a main thoroughfare.

Street Lights 1922: A letter was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company acknowledging the Board's order to have the street lights turned on Christmas morning at 4 a. m., and also to have the street lights turned on in the early morning at 5 a. m., and extinguished one-half hour before sunrise from December 3rd to March 22, 1923 inclusive.

Street Lights 1922 (Cross Street): No action was taken on the petition of Frank E. Frost, 33 Cross street, and others asking that Cross street from Washington street to the Woburn line be relighted pending a report from the Street Light Committee and also the Town Engineer.

Cross St: A letter was received from Mr. Sigrid W. Olson asking the Board to have a gutter at the entrance to his driveway at 15 Cross street, altered in such a way that the passing into the driveway may be made easier and more safe. This matter was referred to the Supt. of Streets for report.

Acceptance of Streets & Building Lines, Cottage Ave: The Board passed the following votes:
On petition of G. Henry McMillan and others,

VOTED: That in the opinion of the Selectmen common convenience and necessity require that a town way be laid out beginning at Bacon street, and extending northeasterly about 415 ft. to Norwood street substantially in the location of a private way, known as Cottage avenue, that such action be taken under the provisions of law authorizing the assessment of betterments, and that notice of our intention to lay out such way, and of a hearing to be held at the Selectmen's Room in the Town Hall Building on the 26th day of December, 1922 be served as provided by law upon the owners of the land which will be taken for such purpose.

WINCHESTER HIGH-SCHOOL

Next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the gymnasium the high school girls will hold an inter-class meet. There will be competitive work in gymnastics, work with apparatus including the horse, parallel bars, traveling rings, and spring board and relays.

The judges will be Miss Campbell, Superintendent of Physical Education in the Somerville Public Schools, Miss Annah Cameron, Instructor at the Sargent School of Physical Education, Mr. Henry G. Carroll, Coach in the Brookline High School, and Mr. Thomas Higbee, Instructor in Physical Education in the Winchester High School. Tickets for the meet are twenty cents and may be obtained from high school girls.

This meet is preliminary to the big event in the spring.

Dr. Lena Vaughn Ingram, Lecturer in Hygiene at the Sargent School, will address the high school girls next Tuesday morning in the assembly period.

During the week three pupils received awards in typewriting in the Commercial Department of the High School.

Lydia Smith received a bronze medal for writing 46 net words a minute on the Underwood Typewriter.

James Lynch was awarded a certificate for writing 42 net words a minute on the Remington typewriter.

Aby Winer was awarded a certificate for writing 41 net words a minute on the Remington Typewriter.

Mr. Farnham, Miss Nelson, girls' athletic instructor, and the captain, and the manager of the girls' basketball team went to Arlington Wednesday afternoon to assist in arranging the girls' basketball schedule.

The American Legion will give a banquet December 16, at 6:30, in Lyceum Hall in honor of the champion football team.

In assembly Tuesday and Wednesday morning, Mr. Farnham laid special stress on the matter of tardiness. The number of those late to school is far in excess of what might reasonably be expected. Many who are late are only a minute or two behind time. It is evident that almost all the tardiness is due to carelessness and is without legitimate excuse. Mr. Farnham urged the pupils to make promptness a matter of school spirit and suggested for each one the slogan, "Start to school five minutes earlier."

Attendance at basketball games was another matter emphasized. Our teams need the support of a loyal, enthusiastic school.

A Traffic Officer's Efficiency

He stood at the corner—a stalwart specimen of Boston's Police Force, grandly motioning some ladies across the street. One woman, evidently more timid than the rest, hesitated some time before attempting the passage. As a result, she had picked her way only as far as the officer's side when he again signaled the cars to come ahead. Forward in a half circle came his white-gloved hand, just in time to meet the timid lady. It caught her hat just under the brim and lifted it completely off. Without a word, the officer caught the hat gracefully in mid air and slapped it on her head, at the same time continuing to motion forward the line of cars. Dazed and slightly damaged, the lady hurried on to the side walk.

CENTRAL CLUB THE BEST

Calumet Lost All Points But One in Tournament

The first visitation between clubs of the season took place on Friday evening when Calumet called on the Central Club of Somerville and handed it every point in the tournament but one. Calumet won one point in bowling. It had a close call however for another, losing its first string by one pin. As it won its one point by one pin, this loss was evened up.

Calumet first team lost all four points, its second team won one, its billiardists lost and its pool players lost. Also the card players were not up to Central's teams. Calumet will have a different tale to tell when Central comes here, it is expected.

The scores:

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

An exhibition basketball game between the Seniors and Juniors was played in the high school gym on last Monday afternoon. The Juniors winning by a score of 23-20. The purpose of the game was to impress upon the team the peculiarities and strictness of the new rules. Referee Maginnes of the Suburban league officiated.

French and Tansey looked best for the Juniors. These boys seem much better than ever before and considering the time of year they played an exceptional game. Fitzgerald at center also started well but his speed will have to be increased before the opening of the season. Kelley and O'Donnell played their positions well but have not had enough experience to show up as well as the others.

Winer and Mason were the main stars of the Senior team. Able has forgotten none of his old tricks and should make even a better player than he has been heretofore. Chapman and Kendrick played a strong and steady game and Coach Higbee will rely on them to do so throughout the season. These men have nothing sensational about their game but make a sturdy part of guards, able to match any in the league.

Coach Higbee plans to practice three days a week and probably at appointed times during the holidays to prepare for a game with the alumni at some time in Christmas week.

The line up:
SENIORS: Winer, French, O'Connor, Mason, Kendrick.
JUNIORS: Kelley, Fitzgerald, Tansey.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

The arrangements for the banquet to be tendered the High school football team in honor of the splendid achievement in winning the championship of the Mystic Valley League this past season, has been completed. It is reported that a select group of town officials has been especially invited to attend and everything is now in readiness for the boys to have one of the best times they will ever have. A splendid dinner has been provided, the entertainment is of the best, and due to the generosity of the men of the town, a fitting moment will be given to each letter man of the team. The time and place? 6:30, December 23rd in Lyceum Hall.

Reginald Kibbe makes a splendid crook and you'll like Caroline Shawhan as his "Moll" in "The Glorious Girl."

WINCHESTER BOYS STAR ON INTER-SCHOLASTIC TEAM

The entire Winchester High School backfield starred in the football game last Sunday afternoon between the Boston Inter-Scholastic team and Hartford High School at Hartford. The game was played on an icy field over which a brisk wind was blowing. Such was the condition of the ground that it was practically impossible to make any long gains by end runs or forward passes and the low temperature made it very difficult to handle the ball with cold hands. Art French, the speedy local back, made the only touchdown of the game while Captain Kelley also of Winchester added the point after touchdown by a well placed dropkick.

The touchdown was scored when the entire Winchester backfield was in the game, and it was only because the boys played so well together that they were able to accomplish this. The Inter-scholastic team, picked by the Boston Post to be made up of the stars of high school football in greater Boston, was far superior to the Hartford team, but since they had not practiced together they found that teamwork was lacking. However had the field been in a good playing condition there is little doubt that the score would have been much higher.

French started the game at right halfback and Dunn Kelley at quarterback. Twice in the first half French cut away for twenty-five yards and had he not slipped it may be safely said that he would have scored both times. It was not until Alie Winer went in at fullback and Glen Kendrick at left halfback that the Boston team assumed an air of co-operation. With the entire local backfield in action there seemed a feeling of teamwork throughout. In the last period Winer broke through for thirty. Kendrick added ten and French slipped over the last twenty for the first touchdown. Kelley added the point.

French and Winer were the stars of a game, which was being played by the best schoolboy players of Boston. With a wonderful line before them they consistently ripped through for yards which were more than expected when one considers that the field was coated with ice. Kelley played one of the most brilliant games of his career. Thinking of no personal honor he never carried the ball himself but placed it in the hands of the man whom he considered the most competent for the play he wished to execute. His handling of the team, strange to him, was superb. Doe Mounsey of the Post gave every man in chance to play in the game, but Kelley was the only one who was not taken out at some time. Glen Kendrick, another of Coach Rufus Bond's outfit, played his usual steady game and ran interference for the other backs which was equalled by none other on the field. His forward passing was even above his usual first class style. The only successful forward of the game was one netting the Bostonians twenty yards, from Kendrick to French.

These boys deserve all the praise which can be given them. They have brought honor to themselves, their coach, their school and their town. Although many schools were represented at Hartford, Winchester High was the only one that had four men there. These four men played longer than any other combination on the field and were relieved only for the purpose of giving other men a chance and then but for a few moments. Those who played in the game will be awarded gold footballs by the Boston Post.

TOWN BASKETBALL TEAM

For the first time in several years Winchester will have a basketball team representing the town this season. The plan of forming such a team was considered when it was learned that there will probably be no K. of C. team this year.

Mr. James B. Sullivan is financing the team. He has no definite plans as yet but in the near future will appoint a manager and have elected a captain. When this has been done a schedule will be made up and weekly games played.

A short practice session and meeting of the squad was held in the high school gym on last Tuesday evening. Many of the players who were with the K. of C. were present along with a few new members. After the practice Mr. Sullivan talked over prospects with the men and outlined tentative plans.

There will be a game on Tuesday evening, Dec. 19th, in the high school gym between the local team and the Chelsea City Five.

FRENCH FOR SECOND ELEVEN

Albert J. Woodlock, football expert on the Boston Globe, in announcing his selection of greater Boston all-school football elevens, picks Arthur French of Winchester High as fullback on the second choice eleven. He says "French of Winchester High, which won the Mystic Valley League title without a setback, is picked for the fullback position because he was to Winchester what Corkery was to Rindge Technical, a great all-round line breaker and defensive player. Corkery was picked for fullback on the first eleven."

LADIES ROLLED FOR CHICKENS

A feature of the bowling at the Calumet Club this year was the "chicken roll" held Tuesday evening for the ladies. About 100 participated, the "chickens" being won by Mrs. A. D. Dickson, Mrs. James P. Henton and Mrs. John Hart Taylor. The bowling was spirited and created much fun. Refreshments followed the tournament.

Don't forget—your mail box or slot must be installed by January 1st, 1923. Other nearby cities and towns are 100 per cent installed. Don't let Winchester lag behind. More important to you is the fact that the government says that carrier delivery may be withheld if suitable receptacles are not installed.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

It is quite human to take what we now have for granted, but also human to ask ourselves how we got it.

In the old days parents used to shut their children in a closet when naughty. But now the children keep their parents in the dark.

Getting in and out of debt is about the same as getting in and out of a garage.

Some people are not worried so much about their sin finding them out, as they are that a collector will find them in.

Think twice, but act at once.

Now the ladies are suing for damage to their clothes when voting. Immediate legislation may be looked for.

No question regarding Governor Cox in last night's party. He is in Washington with Frederic S. Snyder interviewing President Harding. It looks like a perfect alibi.

If you have to cut your own, be sure and cut it right—the right size and in the right place; otherwise Santa may place something on it not expected. The best tree in this vicinity is that purchased of your local dealer.

A storm of abuse has been heaped upon Attorney-General Allen because he criticized the findings of the Ponzi jury. Why not go further and have the public apologize to Mr. Ponzi for interfering in his game of fleece?

The recent so-called "gold will" editorial of the Boston Herald, placing credit at the door of the Boston & Maine Railroad for its acts of friendliness and good will, both by officials and employees, towards the patrons of the line and the communities it serves, has been widely noted, although not greatly commented upon. The Herald's observation, however, has not been lost by those connected with the railroad who have the public welfare and service in mind. The Star, too, adds its endorsement to this testimony of the friendliness of the railroad serving Winchester—a friendliness which practically every resident here has had cause to note within a comparatively few days.

Schulyer F. Herron, Ica, Peru, is doing a notable service for both North and South America as director of the "Colegio Nacional." Those who knew Mr. Herron's apt leadership in New England will appreciate what it must mean in Peru to have a man of his devotion in charge of a national college. The attendance increases about 20 per cent each year and the equipment improves even more. Mr. and Mrs. Herron are constantly introducing new phases of education, but no faster than the students and community can assimilate them. One of the features of civic and educational progress is the introduction of a "Conference" on the national holidays, of which there are many. At such a conference Mr. Herron has an opportunity to speak with the setting of leadership. Some professor makes a timely and inspiring address. Students read essays or addresses in competition. One of Mr. Herron's important phases of service is the introduction of basketball, tennis and kindred games, for the art of it and for the competitive element in it. Already the students play these games so skillfully that the teams of "San Luis Gonzaga de Ica" could give a good account of themselves if they could be matched with a college of its class.

In this, the annual Christmas issue of the Star, Winchester merchants take the opportunity of placing their stock of holiday goods before the residents of Winchester. This issue of the Star contains advertisements of storekeepers and business firms who are carrying goods for your convenience and comfort. A perusal of our columns will convince you that here in your home town you can find not only every kind of a gift desired, but what is more important to everyone—a service back of it that means satisfaction with every purchase. It has been said that Christmas sales by the local merchants constitute largely the forgotten purchases or last minute thoughts. This of course is not so. Such a statement is grossly exaggerated. It is said, however, that never before have metropolitan stores been so crowded at the holiday season, and while our local stores always maintain a sales force sufficient to eliminate this discomfort, they should certainly receive as large a patronage from Winchester purchasers as stores situated elsewhere. You owe it to yourself and your town to read the advertisements in this issue of the Star, for you will find as attractive lists as you will see in any of the metropolitan dailies. A dollar spent in your own town is a dollar spent for your own convenience and comfort.

While not quite reaching the zero mark, the weather of Sunday and Monday was well down to mid-winter temperature. Sunday morning saw the glass at about 10 above zero and it stood below freezing during the entire day. Monday morning was a little colder, being reported at 0 to 10 above. Probably 8 above would be a good average. Rising temperature and a thaw with rain ushered in Tuesday, the icy streets making it difficult to walk or drive a car. Many autos did stunts during the early morning hours, but no accidents were reported. The drop in temperature on Tuesday night was one of the quick changes of the season thus far, Wednesday opening under winter conditions.

WINCHESTER NATIONAL BANK

WINCHESTER, MASS.

Dear Christmas Club Members:

It is with genuine pleasure that we announce that checks for the money which you saved during this past year were mailed to all members of our 1922 Christmas Club on the 13th instant (two days earlier than usual). The amount returned to depositors was exactly $44,164.80.

We congratulate you upon the way you steadily added to this fund. As a result you do not have to worry where the money is coming from to meet your Christmas expenses. Better yet, you have proved to yourself that money in the bank is a mighty handy thing to have in time of need.

If you should be taken ill; if you should lose your position; if you should have an opportunity to go into business, to go traveling with a friend, or if you should suddenly desire to fit up a new home, a Savings Account in our bank will relieve you of worries and make you just as happy as does this Christmas Club check you now hold in your hand.

Maybe you can spare part of this check to start a Savings Account, or to add to one you already have. Do it, if you possibly can. It is altogether for your own benefit and protection. In any event we are looking forward to the pleasure of having you with us again in our 1923 Christmas Club.

That your Christmas may be a happy one and the coming New Year full of contentment and prosperity is our sincere wish for you.

Cordially yours,

ON THE ROAD TO LAS HURDES

When Madrid newspapers said that King Alfonso had gone to Spain's remotest region the American reader might well guess that he contemplated a trip to Fernando Po, or at least to Rio de Oro.

Remote enough, but not nearly so far away is the region referred to, Las Hurdes, in a very literal sense the wild west of Spain, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's, Washington D. C., headquarters.

Is Mountain Island

"Clever-like, the Sierra de Gotos and the Sierra de Gredos split off the treeless plain of Salamanca from the cattle-breeding Catalka plateau," says the bulletin. Atop the former crest is Las Hurdes, overlooking Portugal to the west, Salamanca's battlefields and university city to the north, and the Spanish Texas-land of Caceres, famed for sheep and red sausages, to the South. Just as the sea sets off the Sillia, and the Rhone delta carves out Carmargue, so the hills insulate Las Hurdes.

To get the full contrast of this mountainous island in a sea of medieval memories one should approach from Salamanca, stopping in that city long enough for the flavor of one of the most romantic, historic, and quaint of all Spanish cities.

Trains Do Not Run Daily
The traveler needs to be forewarned about his choice of a Salamanca bound train, for schedules are arranged for the convenience of passengers between Lisbon and points of northern Spain. Taking such a train will land one after midnight among the tortuous streets of Salamanca, many too narrow and crooked for any kind of a vehicle. Also when he finds a "local" train that is marked for a reasonable arrival hour at Salamanca he should make sure of the day as well as the hour, for such trains run only two or three times a week.

The outstanding shrine of Salamanca is its university—the university with such alumni as Cervantes and Ignatius Loyola, where the Copernican system was taught before it was accepted elsewhere, which heard Columbus lecture about his New World voyages though it had reported adversely to the Queen about his project.

Spanish Milton Taught There

To many visitors all these associations will be overshadowed by the fact that Luis de Leon taught here. This Spanish Milton achieved distinction in three distinct fields, poetry, scholarship and theology. Above all shines the serenity, sincerity and genuine humility of his character. After languishing in a dungeon five years, traditions has it that he returned to his classroom, crowded with faculty, students and distinguished friends, and plunged into his long-interrupted lecture course with the introduction, "As I was saying yesterday."

Salamanca the city is capital of Salamanca the province, about the size of Connecticut, which rises from the flat moorlands of the north to the rugged boundary ranges of Gredos and Gata. Since Hannibal led the Carthaginians against it until Wellington drove out the French, under Mar-mont, it was a battlefield of world power as well as a seat of world culture. So desolated was it in the eleventh century that the Alfonso who

FIRE-SWEPT CONSTANTINOPLE

Smyrna burned and the world was startled.

Constantinople is partly burned—but the world has forgotten about it. Traces of the fires that swept Baltimore and Chicago have been obliterated; but not so with disastrous blazes that charred whole sections of the Turkish city which just now is very much a center of world attention, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, based on a communication from Solita Solano.

The devastating fire that has been working toward the destruction of Constantinople caused the city to be built anew every fifty years, until a law was passed prohibiting the construction of wooden houses on the site of burned ones; in fact, it was provided that no houses at all should be built until the city government planned new streets.

A fourth of Stamboul in Ashes

Nothing has been done about the planning, however, and the result is that one-fourth of Stamboul—more than 22,000 houses, burned during the past twelve years—still lies in ashes. Scutari, too, has vast ruined sections. Su has Pera, in a much smaller scale.

When a fire starts in Stamboul it nearly always assumes frightful proportions. In the fire of 1908, 1,500 buildings were destroyed; in that of 1911, 2,463 houses; the following day an entire Jewish quarter burned; in 1912 an immense area between Sancta Sophia and the Marmara was razed. The fire of June, 1918, burned 8,000 buildings, clearing a space from the Golden Horn through the center of the city. These fires are enormously destructive because of the narrow streets, wooden houses and volunteer firemen who go to answer the call on foot, carrying a pump on their shoulders.

Fire Fighting by the Tipping System

The firemen of Constantinople are worth a study in themselves. Unpaid for their services, they remain like this.

If we don't go to this fire, the owner will lose all his belongings. If we go and take some of them home with us and leave some to him, he will better off than if we hadn't come at all. We give our services free of charge; the owner must give us bakshish if he wants us to risk our lives for him.

We get to the fire as quickly as we can run, and if the owner thus turns out to give us money at once, so we can get to work, the fire will gain headway; that is not our fault, but his.

It was a cause for grief and accusations of injustice when the British installed their own fire system in Pera. By the time the Turks came pointing down the street to bargain, the British have the fire out and are driving away.

Byzantine Walls Still Stand

The walls that included Byzantium and saved civilization for a thousand years are still standing, and constitute, with the exception of Sancta Sophia, the most interesting historical monument in Turkey.

LAUSANNE, HOSTESS CITY OF SWITZERLAND

"Mention 'Swiss Cities' and several others than Lausanne come first into mind; but the products of none are more commonly at hand among Americans than those of the town where the Near East Peace Conference will meet," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington, D. C., headquarters.

Look over the shelves of a grocery store and prominently displayed on the shelf of condensed milk you are almost sure to find a variety made at Lausanne.

Scam the confectioner's counter in any drug store and there in black paper and silvery foil will be a milk chocolate made at Vevey, not far away, and probably shipped via Lausanne.

An inevitable mental murmur of a public library is Gibbon's "Rome" and the last three volumes of that work were penned at Lausanne.

When Mansard Built His Own Roof

Stroll along the main street of an American town that dates back to colonial days, or among the "For Sale" signs of your city's newest suburb, and you are likely to note a mansard roof—invention of the French Francois Mansard whose fame is enhanced by a beautiful chateau in the vicinity of Lausanne.

Lausanne is the all-year-round hostess city of Switzerland. In 1910, by count, nearly one-fourth of the 46,000 residents were citizens of other countries than Switzerland. And in 1922, by estimate, this proportion has been restored despite the war's disturbance.

From Lake Geneva the other part of the city especially is striking, trailing the crests of five ribbed hills, which are the lower slopes of Mount Jorat, with the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the finest medieval church edifice of Switzerland, easily the most conspicuous feature.

From the Signal, whence many a writer has painted word pictures of the lakeside city, the eye again sunne. Then came Conrad Gesner whose fame rests on a solid pedestal atches the massive bulk of the Gothic cathedral sweeps red-roofed houses, rebels at the factories of the lower town to the south and west, but is captivated by the expanse of the lake's blue waters across which the jagged teeth of the Savoy Mountains bite into the sky.

Taylor's Son Was City's John Harvard

The luster of famous names clings chiefly to the University buildings. Though the institution did not achieve a formal university status until 1891, it has been famous since its founding, in 1537, the year after Bern took over the control of Lausanne. Previously, it had been said, Lausanne "lay dormant at the base of its many churches." The tide of the Reformation swept in with the Bernese affiliation. A school was needed to train young preachers quickly to spread Protestant doctrine.

Francois Viret, a tailor's son, became the John Harvard of Lausanne, of more than three-score works in science, ranging from philology to botany. Overtopping this prodigious research was his enumeration of some 500 plants not hitherto recorded. Most humanly appealing of these early scholars was Theodore Beza, who graduated from the adventures of a cavalier, a sort of medieval "man about town," and forsook the writing of sprightly and risqué verses for the chair of Greek and morals at Lausanne. Then he turned his pen to Biblical dramas before he went to Geneva to be Calvin's chief aide.

Bartlett of Winchester, who played on the hockey team which represented the Sargent School of Physical Education, helped in a large measure to bring the team through the season without a defeat. The Sargent girls met and defeated all the teams from girls' colleges around Boston during the season which just closed.

ANOTHER NARROW ESCAPE FROM CROSSING WRECK

With a shower of sparks and the crash of breaking wood and smashing metal, a derailed freight car swept across the entry crossing Saturday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. Many in the centre bent a hasty retreat when the noise attracted their attention to the rocking cars, the memory of the similar accident last year when derailed cars swept the crossing, still being fresh in mind. Pat Dempsey, gate tender at the crossing, shouted to the train crew to pull the air as the engine passed him, and trainman Chris Bradeur in the buggy pulled the lever, bringing the train to a stop just in time.

There was little damage except to one car, which had a badly twisted truck, and as the train had all passed over the crossing, vehicular and foot traffic was not interrupted. Trains were tied up until well after six o'clock, all inward traffic being routed to Wedgemere over the outward track.

The train was the Nashua local. Fortunately it was traveling slow, it having just pulled out of the Swanton street yard. When the fifth car from the end passed over the switch at the north of the crossing it is thought a part of a brake rod became detached and was thrown under the forward truck of the next car, for it left the rails just as it struck the crossing.

Held by the coupling, the car still across the ley crossing without much damage, but as it struck the sleepers on the south side it began to tear up the track, and when stopped at the station the truck was nearly at right angles to the track and just ready to pile things up. Had the train been traveling fast, a bad wreck would have resulted.

The accident was similar in every way to that of last year, when three cars were piled up at the south end of the crossing. The car left the rails at the same spot as before, but the slow speed of the train saved the serious consequences of the former accident.

NOT TO LIVE IN GERMANY

Prof. Charles Zueblin Will Return to Winchester

Vienna, Freigrafsplatz 10.
Nov. 27.

To the Editor of the Star:
Who thanked you with the information that we were going to live in Germany? Our taxes are paid; my Country Club dues are paid; my car is resting peacefully at the Central Garage; I did not even vote against Senator Lodge in the recent revolution of which we read in this down and out country; nor am I a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Is somebody trying to put one over on you or on me?

When our children have learned two European languages so that they may help America play its part in Star in the impending world drama, you may count on our being back in Fells Chalet, and our boy going, as our children always have gone, to the constantly improving Winchester schools.

Incidentally, we are spending the Autumn in Austria; Anne is in Paris at the Sorbonne; John is in a Swiss school; I sail from Italy for America the 30th of January. Whence the German bunk? If anybody wants to know why everybody is getting out of Germany who can, my address is 2 Wolcott terrace, next door to the Editor of the Star, and the last Sunday in February is still open.

I forgot to say that Mrs. Zenblin is going to the Hague as delegate of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom and I shall also attend the Labor Peace Conference. Peace be with you!

Zueblin.

Battery Care in Winter

When you store your car this Winter, you will draw your radiator, jack the car off the tires, and put it in proper shape for the "long Winter's nap."

But don't forget your battery. Unless kept fully charged, it may freeze; and frozen batteries are seldom worth repairing.

The "Safety First" thing to do is to have us store it under proper conditions. It only costs a little, but it means that you will get your battery again in the Spring in the best possible condition. A little forethought NOW may save a repair bill or the purchase of a new battery in the Spring.

RELIGIOUS SURVEY OF WINCHESTER

The recently formed Inter-Church Council is putting on a very important piece of work in a religious survey of Winchester. The work will be done by two young ladies, trained by the Massachusetts Bible Society, under the auspices of which society the census will be made. The purpose of the survey is to list every house and family in Winchester giving religious preference and other important data which will make it possible for the church to serve their constituencies more adequately. Bibles will be sold by the canvassers or given if the circumstances are such that a family cannot buy a Bible, so that every home in Winchester may have a Bible. No solicitation for funds will be made and the co-operating churches will assume the entire expense of the survey. The citizens of Winchester can expedite this work greatly by promptly co-operating with the canvassers who have the backing of the seven Protestant churches of Winchester. There is no sectarian purpose whatever in this survey. The canvassers will furnish the Douai Version of the Scriptures whenever desired. The survey is to begin at once. Leave the latchstring out for those who are doing this practical and helpful community service.

INJURED BY SKIDDING AUTO

When a Winchester Laundry truck unexpectedly encountered a truck of the Kelley & Hawes Co., which came out of Harvard street into Washington street, it skidded into the sidewalk, hit a tree and injured Mrs. E. O'Donnell of 22 Main street, Woburn last Friday afternoon.

The laundry truck was driven by Arthur Fitzpatrick of 7 Pine street, Stoneham. He applied his brakes when the other truck appeared and skidded on the icy street. Mrs. O'Donnell was knocked down and was taken to Dr. Sheehy's office in another Winchester Laundry truck. She was injured about the leg, arm and right side.

The corner where the accident occurred is a bad one and several accidents have previously occurred there.

Mrs. E. A. Carlyle, of 12 Mt. Pleasant street, has a very pretty decorated and attractive Christmas tree in front of her home. The tree will be lighted each evening throughout the holidays and will give forth a cherry glow amidst its wintry surroundings. The idea of having a Christmas tree where all might see it is not new, but it is an ever praiseworthy one, and might well be followed by those interested in beautifying Winchester.

HUNTING FOR BEAR WITH MACMILLAN

Capt. Donald B. MacMillan who is to speak in the Winchester Town Hall and to show his very unusual moving picture, is writing a new book describing the work and discoveries of his last expedition, the one to Baffin Land. In the book he tells the story of many bear hunts of his own party and one of an earlier expedition in which a bear climbed one of the men and made off with him. The man shouted to his comrades in the boat: "A bear is carrying me off! A bear is carrying me off!" The men in the ship heard him and grabbing for their rifles, rushed to his aid. They so wounded the bear that he dropped his prey, who was not dangerously hurt.

A committee of Winchester Vassar graduates has engaged MacMillan for January 11th. The proceeds will go to the Vassar Endowment Fund.

JUNIOR RED CROSS AT HIGH SCHOOL

On Dec. 7, 8, and 9 the Fortnightly asked for volunteers to assist their committee in sorting and packing clothes which had been contributed for the Near East Relief. The following members of the Junior Red Cross volunteered to assist: Constance Bird, Thelma Howlett, Marjorie Bradford, Mary Brown, Marion Green, Esther Carrier, Agnes Court, Pauline Brown, Irisella Laraway, Dorothy Aseltine, Gwendolyn Madlocks, and Elinor Stevens. The articles actually packed comprised 111 pr. shoes, 119 pr. stockings, and 760 articles of men's, women's and children's clothing; enough to fill 25 large sacks.

This is a good illustration of Red Cross spirit. Let's do us well next time.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Fortnightly meeting of Dec. 18 took the form of a children's entertainment. The center of the Town hall was crowded with little folks, while the elders took seats around the sides and at the back.

Mrs. Kenneth Erskine told some stories, and the rapid and breathless attention of the children was a joy to see. Then came a magician, a wonderful man who pulled yards and yards of paper out of a little girl's hat, found watches and cigars in the boys' pockets, transferred a marked half dollar from a glass of water in the center of a hall of yarn, and did so many strange things that the children were quite bewildered. After he had finished, Santa Claus himself appeared, jingling sleigh bells, and was welcomed with a real ovation by the smaller members of the audience. He was busy for some time completing his list of good children who are to receive presents, and we feel sure that now nobody will be omitted.

Ice cream cones were served and it was a happy lot of youngsters who trooped out of the hall chattering of the good time that they had had.

STREETS RECOMMENDED FOR ACCEPTANCE

At the meeting of the Board of Selectmen Monday evening, it was recommended that Cottage avenue, Chestnut street, Pickering street, Sheridan circle, Watson place and Border street be laid out as town ways. Hearings on these streets will be held at the Selectmen's room on Tuesday evening, Jan. 2, at 8 o'clock. Building lines are to be established on Cottage avenue and Chestnut street.

ENJOYABLE MEET

Calumet Entertained Old Belfry
With Open House

There was an attendance of over 200 at the annual visitation of the Old Belfry Club of Lexington at the Calumet Club on Tuesday evening. The affair, always a most enjoyable occasion, proved by far the best visitation yet. The visitors brought close to 75 ladies and gentlemen to Winchester, and cards, pool, billiards, bowling and dancing were enjoyed until midnight, with a substantial collation served during the evening.

Calumet came out a little the better in points represented by the various games, although the bowling matches, which ranked first in importance, resulted in an even division. Calumet men defeating Old Belfry and the visiting ladies defeating Calumet. The home team took the majority in cards, and billiards, and only lost one point in cowboy pool.

The bowling provided some fine scores. Two strings only were rolled, there being a team of ladies and a team of gentlemen from each club. The local ladies lost all three points, the first string going by five and the second by ten pins. The Calumet men, however, swamped Old Belfry. In the ladies' match Mrs. Simonds and Mrs. Carleton each rolled totals of 193. Mrs. Carleton having single honors with 101. Mrs. Simonds rolled a single of 98 and Mrs. Fauser 97. Of the visitors Mrs. Ballard rolled a single of 98, Mrs. Tower 100, Mrs. Kelley 96, Mrs. Booth 94 and Mrs. Winlock 91.

In the men's match Berry led the list with a total of 232 on a string of 119. He was followed by Goldsmith with 222 on 121, Taylor 217 on 120 and Stephenson with 193 on 110 and Mulikin followed with 105.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

The schedule of games for the suburban interscholastic girls' basketball league was announced this week.

The league is made up of Arlington, Lexington, Watertown and Winchester High Schools. The Melrose, Natick and Wellesley High School girls' teams sought admission, but the league voted not to enlarge the circuit this winter.

The league has voted to have the home team provide two officials, a referee and an umpire, to be selected from Sargent School girls. The opening game will be played on Jan. 16 and the season will close March 6. Each team will meet the other three twice in home-and-home contests, thus giving each team six league games. The schedule follows:

Jan. 16, Lexington High at Winchester; Jan. 18, Watertown High at Arlington; Jan. 24, Watertown High at Lexington; Jan. 25, Winchester High at Arlington; Jan. 30, Winchester High at Watertown; Jan. 30, Arlington High at Lexington; Feb. 6, Winchester High at Lexington; Feb. 8, Arlington High at Watertown; Feb. 13, Lexington High at Watertown; Feb. 15, Arlington High at Winchester; March 6, Watertown High at Winchester; March 6, Lexington High at Arlington.

Miss Elsie Jansen is the Winchester captain, and Miss Frances Cumins is manager. Miss Elsie Nelsen, the faculty director of girls' athletics, is coach. The Winchester girls intend to also join a triangular league, including the Melrose and Swampscott High School teams.

CALUMET TOURNAMENT

Good Scores With Record Figures
Mark Matches

Besides the phenomenal score rolled by J. Frank Tuttle in the Calumet tournament last week, "Sam" Taylor found the combination and raised the three string record made the night previous by Earl Goldsmith six pins. Taylor rolled a total of 387, the best mark to date. Both his figures and those of Goldsmith were remarkable. Taylor's best string was 143, and to this he added 128 and 116. Tuttle rolled a total of 334, his best string being 116. Among the fine individual scores were the following: Keepers 317 with 112 Butterworth 304 with 116, Sargeant 303 with 124, Pitman 300 with 106, Adriance 114, Whitney 113, Owens 109, Badger 106, Saunders 105, Hovey 102.

LADIES' BRIDGE

INJURED BY TRAIN

A largely attended afternoon bridge was held for the Calumet ladies last Friday, there being 24 tables of cards. The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Charles Batchelder, Mrs. George H. Lechnan and Mrs. Ernest Keepers. The honors were won by Mrs. John C. Kerrison, Miss Dorothy W. Kerrison, Mrs. J. B. Pundleton, Mrs. Irving E. Gamage, Mrs. J. A. Dolben and Mrs. N. A. Gallinger.

Following the cards, refreshments and tea were served by the committee in charge.

A bad accident occurred shortly after seven o'clock Monday morning when a Lowell man, John Kasonas, was run over by the 7:05 train from Woburn and had both of his legs cut off. Kasonas was in the habit of dropping off the train at Woburn Highlands at a point near the leather shop where he was employed. When he left the train Monday he slipped on the ice and his legs went beneath the wheels. One leg was cut off just above the ankle and the other above the knee. He was taken to the Choate Hospital, where his condition is serious.

Now is the time to order that doll's wig for Xmas, at the Idonian Beauty Shop.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If on a journey thou canst not find thy peer or one better than thyself, then make the journey alone; there is no such thing as company with a fool.

Fair words which bear no fruit in action; are much like pretty flowers that have no fragrance.

Let the wise man tame his mind, for blessed is the tamed mind.

Responsibility either makes a man or breaks him.

Clothes demonstrate that people will pay the price to be uncomfortable.

The Star wishes its readers and friends a Merry Christmas.

The increasing number of dogs reported as lost during the past few months has reached a point during the past two weeks to justify the impression that an organized theft of dogs is being carried out in this vicinity. We fail to recall a time when so many reports of lost dogs has been heard. Owners should note that the law requires that dogs should wear not only a collar, but a collar marked with the owner's name. Dogs are always being lost, and the police receive many calls from persons finding such animals. If the dog has no name on his collar it is very difficult to find the owner. We have many valuable dogs here, and it is an easy matter nowadays to get an animal into an automobile and take him off without notice. If a dog is really lost, he will be returned if his collar is marked.

If some effort were made to enforce the law requiring trucks to carry a tail light of some sort, and to have the glaring headlights on the Yards reduced, most of the law-abiding drivers would look with more favor upon the new law requiring them to blow in five dollars replacing their perfectly good tail lights now in use. The trouble with our laws is that they are not enforced. The car driver who desires to comply with regulation drives with a tail light as good as any of the new ones ordered installed. It makes him sore to spend money for another light when he can go on the road any night he pleases and see trucks glare with no lights whatever. Likewise the headlights. The majority of the drivers would like to see a little enforcement of some of the laws we already have, not forgetting the microns.

Notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, we have no reason to feel that the much discussed school building funds are not acceptable for sale. No effort has been made to sell them, that's all. Just why no effort has been made we do not know, but we suppose it is because our Town Treasurer does not see any reason to start paying interest until it is necessary. There is quite a variety of wild stories floating about town regarding the new schools. This is a good season for fireside fancies and a slow season for new school house construction. We certainly did not vote to build these schools without a necessary majority, and if the committee gets in difficulties there is no question but what it will place them before the Town at the proper time.

We are mind readers. We admit it. We are not the spiritual kind—rather very materialistic—the kind you need not hesitate to speak right out to. We have been in the printing business long enough to know it, too. We always know when your copy should be changed and we always know just when to follow it exactly. We always know when 5 means five dollars and when it means five cents. We always know just who you are when you telephone in your ad and say "charge it." It's always there isn't it? We always know who the unsigned post card comes from for a change of address. More than that—we always know just how long the STAR should go to that address. We can tell you your first name and middle initial no matter whether we ever saw you before or not. We know you are always right and we know we are always wrong—that is what we are in business for, and we know we must let you get some fun out of life. In fact, we are the original, genuine and only, mind readers in town. We admit it again—and we are glad you all know it. But—above all—we are human, and you know the old proverb connected with that state. It may be unnecessary to state all this—which you all know—but perhaps some of you believe everything you read as well as all you hear, and we wish to set you right. We might be tempted to add to all this that we live in what seems to be a very human town. This is not a criticism at all, for besides erring it is very human, for many of us to retain a little of that something born in everyone—humor. We know you have it. Having thus unflinchingly admitted our position, we humbly apologize to one of our ministers for omitting to state that his annual sermon was to be preached at the Presbyterian, Universalist, Adventist, First, Second and Third Church, and to the advertiser we ruined by placing the period after the first "two" in the line 4c to $225. We knew it all the time. We just let our humor override our spiritualism. We trust it has been made very clear, for New Year resolutions are almost due, and it is our wish to have both feet securely on the same old platform of trying—trying—to help you all, even those without humor, who as it will be, will be outside of Winchester. So we all wish you a Merry Christmas.

Flowery Signboards.

In China, so the tourists tell us, one sees exceedingly flowery signs upon the shops. If one can read them. In fact, this may be why the republic was once called the Flowery Kingdom. Here, for instance, are some of those seen in Peking: "Mutton Shop of Morning Twilight," "The Ten Virtues All Complete," "The Shop of Heaven-Sent Luck," "The Nine Felicities Prolonged" and "The Tea-Shop of Celestial Principles."

When the Counting Was Done.
"Johnny," said his mother, "you've been fighting with that Jackson boy again. Did you count 10 before you struck him, as I told you to do?" "No, mother," he replied, "but I was told that somebody else counted 10 after he landed on me."—Boston Transcript.

TWO CHRISTMAS SKETCHES

A Christmas Throng

What a merry and noisy crowd it is as it passes along! Each upturned face shines with happiness—good natured and unselfish happiness. Smiling sympathetically they look in through a shop window to see an eager delighted father as he watches his three little sons try on their shiny new shoes. They listen benevolently to the passing, serious and wide-eyed children speculating on what Santa will bring them. Somehow, this jolly scene reminds one of Dickens' Christmas Carol. A holiday feeling reigns over all. The cold, clear air—the sound of crisp snow as it crunches under foot—the pungent, tangy smell of pine as the Christmas trees are brushed by—all serve to animate the jostling throng. Even the most solemn are moved to laugh heartily at anything that tends toward the facetious. They chuckle mischievously at the red face of their pompous friend as he walks along loaded down with a Christmas burden of wreaths. They pause beside the admiring group of small children gathered about the windows of the candy store and like them, try to peer through the steamy glass at the entrancing things within. From the music store floats out the soothing melody of "Silent Night" and somehow, a few find themselves humming it under their breath. And so the gay Christmas crowd passes along its cheery way.

Christmas Spirit

The small post office was filled with the annual Christmas crowd—even overflowing, for people were constantly hurrying in and out. Again the door opened, and in stepped a richly dressed woman. Glancing at her, one would say she was perfectly dressed. But oh!—what was the matter with her face? Why was it one would rather gaze at the small boy, whose little blue hands hugged an enormous bundle?

Mrs. Grayson, for this was the unhappy person's name, stepped into line, her brows in an even more unpenetrable scowl. Why was it, she wondered, that she always had to put herself to so much trouble and nerve-racking excitement at Christmas time? "Good afternoon, marm!" Looking up, Mrs. Grayson saw her washerwoman, Mrs. Mahonon, occupied in keeping a large assortment of curious looking bundles in her arm, while with her other hand she tried to suppress her three small children. "Well, Mrs. Grayson, Jamie, you didn't forget them stickers, did you? Lap 'em quickly and you'll get them all on before our turn comes. As I was going to say, Mrs. Grayson, I truly wouldn't want to leave Christmas stickers off cousin Min's present."

Several accidents occurred: One sticker was put over the address, and one seal received such a generous nip that all stirkum was removed. But capable mother soon remedied these difficulties with such patience as Mrs. Grayson thought no one possessed. This woman seemed really to be enjoying Christmas! Where did she get the money for even Christmas seals? "What'll you have?" the postmaster's tired voice broke in on Mrs. Grayson's reverie. After buying her stamps she turned to leave. As she reached the door she stopped. "Merry Christmas to you all!" She called to the Mahonons, and she left the post office with a smile.

THE LIVING WAGE THEORY

Current discussion concerning the right of every worker despite his calling, to a so-called "living wage" emphasizes anew the fundamental weakness in the underlying principles of such a theory.

At the very outset one encounters an utter lack of unanimity of opinion as to the correct definition of the phrase. To one group it appears to refer to an amount which will permit only of mere social existence; to another the term contemplates a comfortable existence, while still a third maintains that a "living wage" must include in addition an allowance which may be set aside as savings against the possible needs of sickness or of old age.

Mr. Gompers was recently quoted as stating a "living wage" was the amount which a worker must receive in order to live. If this definition were to be accepted literally, practically all the workers of the country must at present receive such a wage, since few appear to be dying of cold or hunger as a result of insufficient income. It is probable that Mr. Gompers might wish to explain further his meaning of the expression "in order to live."

It does not seem to occur to the advocates of this theory that if it is economically possible arbitrarily to fix any wage standard with respect to the worker's needs without reference to the ability of industry to pay it, there can be no justification for restricting the allowance to a sum which will cover only bare necessities. If it is unnecessary to consider the source from which the "living wage" must come, upon what moral ground can we deny to the lowest worker in the industrial scale a standard of living comparable with that of the most prosperous? If it be claimed that such a proposal is absurd, it must likewise be admitted that any arbitrarily established wage standard must be an absurdity which does not take into consideration the ability of industry to support it.

The average income of the people of this nation will always be the average of that which the nation as a whole produces. In the very nature of things it cannot be otherwise. The present volume of production in this country will not permit of a standard of living on the average which even approximates the lowest of the figures commonly suggested as affording a "living wage." Under such circumstances it is a reflection upon the intelligence of the American people when so many well meaning individuals still cling to the illusion that in some mysterious manner we can by legislation or custom establish a standard of living which the combined productive effort of the population will not provide.

Charles R. Gow.

BELVOIR: AN HISTORIC PICNIC GROUND

Belvoir, Virginia, where George Washington dined, where Martha Washington was entertained at week-end parties, and where Lord Fairfax rested after his fox hunting, now is popularly known among Washingtonians as a "destination" of interest for the motorist and a luncheon place for the motor boat enthusiast, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Though today there is just a small pile of bricks made in England and a foundation which is almost imaginary to tell where the historic mansion stood, the very spot itself speaks of the romance of which early Virginia history is redolent. Not a painting nor authentic plan remains to tell what the old house looked like, but its location on a high green bank where the Potomac bends gently southward just below Mount Vernon and within sight of Gunston Hall, the home of George Mason, the father of the Virginia Declaration of Rights, was enough to inspire its preservation by transferring it to the United States Army. It is now posted as an animal reservation and picnic ground.

Had Ten-Mile River Front
The estate stretched in the old days for ten miles along the river, and the house site is a high point which juts out into one of the deepest places in the river channel.

From Washington, it is easily accessible by boat down the Potomac or by an excellent military road leading by Camp Humphreys, built during the World War as a station for engineers.

These stately gentlemen of Virginia had, from their front windows or front yard, a magnificent view of the curving banks of the river, and of the soft blue hills on the Maryland shore. Though the two or three hundred yards of land that stretched off on the right toward the intake from the river are now overgrown with trees and brush they must have been cleared out then so the planters might have a good view of the vessels from England that put in at their wharves.

Built in Days of "Spectator"
The house was built, evidently in the early eighteenth century, by William Fairfax, the cousin and colonial agent of the owner of the land, Lord Fairfax, who at that time having graduated at Oxford was basking in the sunshine of courtly favor and ladies' smiles in England, contributing, as fancy pleased him, to Addison's "Spectator," and moving in the inspiring and intellectual atmosphere of London society.

When his Lordship was jilted at the altar for a suitor with a higher title, he decided to seek surcease from his chagrin by visiting his cousin William who seemed to be enjoying life on his vast holdings in the Colonies. So pleased was he with what one early writer terms "beautiful prospects and sylvan scenes, transparent streams, and majestic woods," that he afterwards took up his residence on part of his estate in the Shenandoah Valley.

It was at Belvoir, that Washington came under the influence of the polish of an elegant English household. Most of his sterling virtues and simple morality he had learned under his mother's care, but in the Fairfax home and on his long hunting trips with Lord Fairfax and in his fireside talks with this veteran of experience who could tell him the opinions of the learned men at Oxford and of the gayety of English society he gleaned much that stood him in good stead in later years.

older brother had married Anne Fairfax, the older daughter of William Fairfax and it was for her that Mount Vernon was originally built. Later when the house was being remodeled for the coming of the bride of George, it was William Fairfax who went over every day or two to be sure that the carpenters were getting everything in "apple-pie order."

Situated as Belvoir was, so close to Mount Vernon and to Gunston Hall, it was the center of great social activity. Often whole parties would move from one large colonial mansion to another in a continual round of festivities. One amusing and delightful indication of the affection existing between the Fairfax family at Belvoir and George Washington is a note written by William Fairfax to Washington after the campaign against the French at Fort Duquesne begging him to come over on the next Sunday, "or else the Lady's will try to get horses to equip our Chair or attempt their strength on Foot to Salute You."

Gas Man

Can you picture the world should its gas, electric, telephone and street railway companies fail to function for even one day? Think of cooking lighting, communication and transportation either totally or almost entirely suspended? What a calamity—what an awakening?

It is human nature not to appreciate the things that come to us with little or no effort. Gas service, for example, comes into our homes unnoticed and is ever at our beck and call, to use as much or as little as we desire, and to pay for after we have used it.

Back of the service however, are vast sums of invested capital and the brains and brawn of a host of workers, in combination forming a tremendous mass of energy devoted to the task of lifting the burdens from the shoulders of the nation and thereby elevating our standard of living. No other people in the world enjoy the conveniences that we Americans do.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING, DEC. 18

The Board met at 7 p. m., all present. The records of the meeting of Dec. 11 and 15 were read and approved.

Licenses 1922 (Explosive and inflammables). Mr. F. W. Sellers, representing the Jenney Mfg. Co. and Mr. Thomas H. Barrett, representing Mrs. Farley, Nashua, N. H., and Mr. Cogswell and Mr. Cohen of Main street, Winchester appeared at the adjourned hearing in regard to the application of the Jenney Mfg. Co. for a license to store gasoline in an additional tank at 604 Main street. Mr. Barrett stated that he had taken the matter up with the insurance company and found that the addition of another tank in this vicinity would not raise the insurance rate any more than it is now, and therefore raised no objection, provided the tank was placed 40 feet from the building in which he is interested as agent for Mrs. Farley. Upon assurance from Mr. Sellers that this would be done a license was granted subject to the usual regulations.

Board of Survey: Mr. Charles A. Gleason, representing Ralph P. Sylvester and Mr. Dexter P. Blake, 45 Everett avenue, together with Mr. Rowe of the Planning Board and the Town Engineer appeared at the hearing on the petition of Ralph P. Sylvester for the approval of a certain plan accompanying his petition for the location of a proposed street to extend from Wickford road to Middlesex street, Winchester, as now laid out and as shown on said plan. After considerable discussion the Board decided to reserve its decision and they decided also to meet with those present on Saturday, Jan. 6 at the Town Hall building at 2 o'clock p. m. A view will then be made of the locality in question.

Committees (Special): Mr. Charles T. Main, chairman of the special committee appointed by the Town to investigate the Standard accounting system recommended by the Director of Accounts and the appointment of a Town accountant, appeared before the Board and asked for suggestions as to whether or not the present accounting system could be improved. According to the Acts of 1922 this question of the Standard accounting system and the appointment of a Town accountant has to go on the warrant for the annual Town meeting in March.

Joint Meetings: The Board of Selectmen held a joint meeting with the Park Commissioners in the Selectmen's room at 8:30 p. m. to appoint a member of the Park Commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Alfred B. Carhart. Present at this meeting were Messrs. George T. Davidson, Frederic C. Alexander of the Park Commission, and all members of the Board. The meeting organized with Mr. Willey as chairman and Mr. George S. F. Bartlett as clerk. The name of Mr. William S. Packer was put in nomination by Mr. Davidson. A ballot was taken immediately and Mr. Packer was unanimously appointed to fill the vacancy.

The meeting then dissolved.
George S. F. Bartlett, Clerk.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

(Editorial) Wadleigh School Life: School spirit depends on the boys and girls who make up the school. It is shown in many ways.

School spirit is shown by loyalty. It means speaking well of our school. It means the support of the school paper and the upholding of the school's activities. We have a chance to show our loyalty in the play which the school is about to produce. If you haven't a part in it you can sell tickets and do other things to help.

The spirit of the school is shown by helpfulness to others. We can show it by aiding our teachers in such little things as erasing blackboards. We can show it by helping others in small things.

Pride in our school comes from the right school spirit. We think our school is the best there is. If we have pride in our school we must show it. What does our school yard look like? Is your desk tidy? What condition are your books in?

We may show our school spirit by the willingness to obey the regulations of the school. That means fair play and no cheating in tests and such things.

In an editorial last year the pupils of the Wadleigh were compared with the mechanism of a watch. But a watch runs because it is mechanical. Let's have the Wadleigh run as smoothly as a watch, but let each person do his part because his loyalty, helpfulness, pride, and all the other things that make up the right school spirit urge him to do so.

WHICH IS THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT?

"Oh mother! I didn't even get anything from Uncle Charles nor Aunt Meg. I didn't get half what I wanted. Fred only gave me an old pencil box. Why didn't he give me something expensive and nice that no one else has? John didn't give me anything. Mother, you and Dad only put money in the bank for me. Aunt Beth gave me an electric train, but I didn't want it. All these toys and things I don't want. They aren't good enough for a boy who has rich parents. Anyhow I am glad I didn't send any Christmas presents, because I have all that money left to buy something for myself."

"Oh Mother! I am so glad I have two pencils and a ruler. Charles has sent me a nice block of paper. And oh! look what is on my bureau. A nice shiny dime. Boat of all, little sister has a new doll from money I saved up. I also had enough money to give you a pocketbook. Oh Mother! I am so glad and happy!"

Which is the Christmas spirit. Decide for yourself.

A CHRISTMAS POEM?

In the age of long, long ago,
A baby was born in a manger low.
Shepherds were watching on neighboring hills,
A star which had given them emotions and thrills.

Three wise men were hastening from afar,
Guided to it by a wonderful star.
It stopped over the village of Bethlehem,
Bright over a lowly cattle den.

The shepherds were watching and praying to God,
When out of the heavens burst the angels of the Lord.
They sang right over Bethlehem,
"Peace on earth good will to men."

So Christ came into the world and blessed them,
The people who sinned, and promised them rest.

AMERICAN LEGION BANQUETS
W. H. S. FOOTBALL TEAM

The local post of the American Legion presented the members of the High School football team with a banquet on Saturday evening. The affair was a complete success and was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present. It was given in appreciation of the high grade brand of football displayed by Coach Rufus Bond and the team. About 120 attended. The committee in charge of the affair deserves praise and thanks for the very excellent manner in which it was conducted. This committee consisted of the following members: George Barboro, chairman; Marshal England, Harry Bigelow, Robert Gallivan, Louis Gould and Harold Dover, who had charge of the publicity.

Among the invited guests present were the entire Board of Selectmen; Mr. Robert Guild, chairman of the School Committee; Principal C. E. Farnham, of the High School; Mr. Thomas Higbee, director of physical education in the Winchester Schools, and Coach Rufus Bond, coach of the High School football team.

Mr. George Barboro, as toastmaster, first introduced Mr. Willey, chairman of the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Willey spoke of the value of clean athletics in the public schools and of the fine work of the team during the football season.

Mr. Guild spoke next. He spoke, not from the point of view of his official position, but from the point of view of the player in athletics. He recalled to his audience the former days when he was a Harvard captain and the enormous strides which the game has taken since then. The reason for the advance he thinks is because of good coaching and a close study of the game. He gave great praise to Coach Bond and said that the majority of the credit for the splendid showing of the team was due to him.

Coach Bond, speaking in his turn, gave the boys all the glory for the successful season and avoided, in a modest way, speaking of himself, or of the work he had done. But, Mr. Higbee, turned the tables, and in his brief talk told of Coach Bond's energetic work of the past two years. He reminded those present that the material of a school may be good individually but without coaching a team can never be built.

Captain Dana Kelley gave a most interesting talk upon the teamwork which was evident throughout the season and emphasized strongly what had been said before concerning Coach Bond. He concluded with a sincere word of thanks to the Legion for tendering the banquet to the team.

At the close of the last speech Mr. Willey was again called upon, this time to present the gold footballs which were given to the letter men of the squad. The footballs are engraved "M. V. C." (Mystic Valley Champions) and on the reverse side of each is the name of the individual to whom it was presented.

An attractive entertainment then followed. Albert Clark, of Arlington, played well and amusingly upon the banjo and sang some catchy songs. He was assisted by James Thatcher of Boston, who recited humorous poems and dialogues in a rich Scotch dialect.

The banquet was one of the best of its kind ever given and the members of the Legion merit much praise for their good showing. Although there was much teamwork on the gridiron last fall the boys forgot all of it last Saturday evening.

Battery Care in Winter

When you store your car this Winter, you will draw your radiator, jack the car off the tires, and put it in proper shape for the "long Winter's nap."

But don't forget your battery. Unless kept fully charged, it may freeze; and frozen batteries are seldom worth repairing.

The "Safety First" thing to do is to have us store it under proper conditions. It only costs a little, but it means that you will get your battery again in the Spring in the best possible condition. A little forethought NOW may save a repair bill or the purchase of a new battery in the Spring.

WADLEIGH SCHOOL PUPILS CORRESPOND WITH BELGIANS

The American Red Cross provides opportunity for pupils in American schools to carry on correspondence with pupils in the schools of foreign countries. Many letters have been sent back and forth between the pupils in our local schools and of schools of other countries.

The following letter written to the pupils of a school in Belgium gives such a vivid picture of Wadleigh School activities, that it will be of interest to parents who have children in the school.

Wadleigh School
Winchester, Mass.
Nov. 1, 1922.

Dear Friends in Belgium:
Our class has chosen to write to your country because we are interested in you. Several members of our class saw your King and Queen when they visited cities in our vicinity a few years ago.

Our school is located on the eastern side of the town. It is small when compared with some modern schools as it has only eight classrooms. It consists of two grades, the seventh and eighth. The children of each grade are divided among the eight rooms, which are called their home rooms. The children, however, do not study in their home rooms. At the beginning of the year slips are given out to all the pupils. Upon these we write our first, second, and third choices of studies from a list which consists of Latin, French, manual training, mechanical drawing, printing and sewing. According to these choices the pupils are separated into the divisions in which they study and recite.

From the home rooms and from the divisions are elected officers who hold a meeting once a week under the supervision of teacher advisers. This group of pupils is called the Student Council. At their meetings, plans for the betterment of the schools are suggested and discussed. The chief duty of the officers is to see that there is no disorder when pupils are passing from room to room. Thus the Student Council helps to govern the school. This government is called Student Council.

Our building consists of a basement and first and second floors. In the basement is the printing office where our school paper, the "Wadleigh Life" is printed. We enclose copies of several issues of this paper. The editors are chosen from the pupils. In the basement, also, are the sloyd and sewing rooms, a small library, and a bicycle room.

On the first floor are four eighth grade rooms, and on the second, four seventh grade rooms, a teacher's room, and one principal's office. We are sending you a copy of our program for one week. This program is used by Latin I, Grade 8, our division.

There are several clubs in our school; among these are the Debating Club, the Glee Club, the Red Cross Society, and the Athletic Club. In the athletic club we play basketball and other games.

Our regular gymnastic work is taken out of doors unless the weather is stormy. We have pupil leaders who are taught in the High School Gymnasium by the gymnastic instructor. Every spring we have a Field Day. On this day all the schools give an exhibition of the gymnastics they have practiced during the year. After this is over, we have races, high jumping, and hurdling. All these events take place on a large playground in the center of the town. They are very interesting to us, and we wish you could be here to see them.

Last year we gave a play called "Hera and There." One child played the part of an invalid girl. A fairy came to her and told her that if she regressed some lines to a magic stone and expressed a wish to see glimpses of foreign countries, her wish would come true. These are the countries she saw: Japan, Switzerland, Holland, France, Spain, Scotland, and America. We raised about two hundred dollars and with that money purchased a fine piano.

On the outskirts of Winchester is a large tract of woodland called the Fells. It contains several reservoirs from which we get our water supply. There are many roads winding through the Fells. On the opposite side of the town are the Mystic Lakes. In summer canoes can be seen here. At night, when the moon and stars are out, the water looks like shining crystal. In the day, it is deep blue or green. Along the banks are many trees.

As the Christmas holidays are approaching, we wish you a very Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year. Hoping to hear from you soon, we are,

Your distant, but sincere friends,
Members of the Latin group, Grade 8.

Alexander Ordered Army to Shave.

Apart from its ancient religious significance, shaving had its uses in military purposes. The beard formed a too convenient handle in the hands of olden days and Alexander the Great accordingly issued an army order to shave. It is curious to notice the reversions of fashion in the matter. The huge monuments of the Assyrians show the conquering armies full-bearded and only the slaves and captives shaven, but at a later period it was the Norman conquerors who were clean-shaven, and the bearded barbarians who were the conquered.

Queer Fate for Buzzards.

A pair of turkey buzzards were flying over a town when they suddenly alighted on the cross arm of a pole carrying the high tension wires running from one power plant to another town. In some manner they stretched their wings so that as electric circuit was completed between one of the wires and part of the metal framework of the tower. They were instantly killed.

Brumious Mine Production.
Continuous miners dig on an average about two-thirds of a ton more each day than those employed in hand-mining.

Sunflower.

The seeds of sunflowers make good food for live stock and poultry, their oil is said to be equal to the best linseed oil, and the stalks can be used as a fuel and in the making of potash.

Get Busy.

The things that a man intends to do when he gets time never help him up the ladder of success.—Boston Transcript.

Nobody's His at All.

Andrew and Walter were anxious to have a dog. While they were visiting their grandmother they enticed a dirty little yellow cur onto the front porch. Walter rushed into the house, greatly excited, and called: "Oh, grandmother! There's a dog on the porch, and nobody's his. Can we keep him?"

Satisfaction and Wants.

Wants may be needs but generally are desires, satisfaction of which may or may not produce happiness. But satisfaction always costs, and frequently the expenditure could be more advantageously devoted to needs. It's a wise man who distinguishes between them.

The Folly of Wedding Beauty.

It must be dreadful to be the husband of a notoriously beautiful woman, three-quarters of whose waking days is devoted to keeping her face up to the mark. How humiliating to hear one's self referred to as "the husband of that beautiful Mrs. Dash, my dear." Such an ordinary looking man, too! A few short years of such bitter experience would be enough to make any man wish that instead of a wife he had acquired a bit of old Worcester china (not sauce), which is just as good to look at, wears better, and costs less.—London Mail.

COMPASS POINTS NORTH—WRONG! SAYS MACMILLAN

Donald MacMillan, the Arctic explorer who is to lecture in the Winchester Town Hall on January 11th, has a most striking ability in describing the scientific value of his work. He tells the story of the strange variations of the compass which no man has ever yet explained, although scientists have studied it on the problem ever since Columbus discovered it. He tells how icebergs are formed and of their great age: "Twenty thousand years ago the snow fell which today is a part of the iceberg dripping its life away in the warm waters of the south. He shows moving pictures—beautiful and extraordinary—of the ocean dashing its spray over great swaying herds. To take some of these pictures it seems almost as if the very nose of the little schooner "Bewdoin" had been rubbed against their icy sides. MacMillan gives descriptions of the mysterious northern lights, of the glaciers and their creeping journey to the south, once more begun, of the discovery of the habits of rare birds; he shows lovely scenes of mountains and of hill-sides covered with Arctic flowers, moving pictures of Eskimos netting the dories as they fly, and the quaint dances of enchanting little Eskimo children. The two hours open as listening to his fascinating stories and watching his pictures seem no more than a short half hour when it is over. A rare and stimulating evening is in store for Winchester.

THE CHRISTMAS MYSTERY

The "Christmas Mystery" and gift pagant presented at the Church of the Epiphany on Christmas eve taught anew the lesson of the Christ child, and was full not only of artistic beauty, but of deep spiritual significance. The blending of colors in the pageant, the gleaming candles, held unflinchingly by the six herald angels, the lovely Madonna and the two little attendant angels, the three wise men from the Orient, in their seriousness and dignity; the pictures gave shepherds with their lanterns, and the children of all nations carrying their gifts to the manger, a picture to delight the eye and penetrate the heart. And the music with Mr. Wilson's sympathetic accompaniment on the organ, was very effective from the touching singing of the little children to the rendering by the choir and church school of those quaint and appealing old carols which for generations have inspired worshippers at the shrine of the Christ child.

AMERICAN ASSN. FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE—
BOSTON MEETING

A lecture on South America illustrated with colored lantern slides and moving pictures will be given by Mr. Calvin W. Rice, secretary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, at 8 o'clock in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on Friday, Dec. 29.

Mr. Rice, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Rice of 20 Eaton street, was a delegate from the professional engineering societies of the United States and Canada to the International Engineering Congress at Rio de Janeiro held in September in connection with the Brazilian Centennial. He was also deputized by Mr. Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Inter American High Commission to extend the tour to the leading countries of South America in connection with the activities of the Commission and of the American Engineering Standards Committee in the standardization of product and in the elimination of waste.

Mr. Rice called in every country on the Engineering Societies and incidentally took many photographs and obtained much information about the engineering developments, all of which will be described in this address.

All friends are cordially invited by the American Association for the Advancement of Science to attend this lecture.

TRANSFERS OF REAL ESTATE IN THE BUSINESS SECTION

Through the office of Thomas H. Barrett, 546 Main street, he has reported the transfer of 568 Main street, known as the White Block and owned by the Mystic Associates, Messrs. Frank L. Ripley and Frederick E. Hovey trustees. The block contains a drug store and a hardware store on the first floor, seven offices occupied on the second floor and a large hall on the third floor which is largely used for meetings and social gatherings. The purchaser is Mr. James Tukas of Woburn who buys for investment.

Mr. Barrett also reports the transfer of property owned by John J. MacDonald consisting of a double house with 31,440 feet of land located at 41 and 43 Canal street, to Thomas and Mary McGowan who buys for investment.

The same office reports the transfer of two houses owned by Carrie D. Underhill of Melrose, at corner of Main and Vine streets, with about 9000 feet of land to the Mystic Realty Associates who buy for investment. This is the first transfer of the last named property since 1875.

IDA M. TARBELL

The citizens of Winchester are fortunate in having such a lecturer as Ida M. Tarbell come here. She will speak on what she learned in her studies of industrial democracy and brotherhood, which were made in Belgium, France and Czechoslovakia. There is no name which speaks more eloquently of painstaking research, careful analysis, open mindedness, fairness and constructiveness than does the name of Ida M. Tarbell. For many years she has been considered an authority on industrial problems. Come and hear her at the Unitarian Church, Sunday, Jan. 7, at 7:30 p. m. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Metcalf Union. All are welcome.

TOWN BASKETBALL

The Winchester Town Basketball Team played its first game on last Thursday evening, being defeated by Chelsea Five in the High School gym, 23 to 11. The game was poorly attended and poorly played. Neither team showed teamwork and most of the players seemed to think that they were playing for themselves alone.

The officials of the School Department have recently issued an order that no player on a school team can at the same time represent another team not connected with the school. This order will in all probability cause the town team to disband, since the majority of its players are also on the High School lineup. However, if the Town Team can find enough good players to make up a team it will finish the season.

MEN IN THE NEWS

Trouble-shooter for the Universe; Also His SponsorsBy RANDOLPH LEIGH
(Copy from Los Angeles "Times," of Nov. 25, 1922, Part II.)

Intellectual mergers are now in order of the day. H. G. Wells has tried to pack the history of the world into one volume; Van Loon has handled the history of mankind with similar brevity and charm; a host of others, among them Scudder Klyce, are striking out in the same bold way in other lines. But Klyce is unique for two things—the extent of his claims and the fact that he has received the support of two of the most respected thinkers in this country.

His book has a modest enough title, "Universe." Furthermore, it is merely, to quote the words printed on the wrapper of the volume, "a verifiable solution of the Riddle of the Universe."

This is not the first man to announce the solution of the riddle, but it is the first time that such a man has convinced John Dewey and David Starr Jordan. Thereby hangs the story of the interest which has been taken in "Universe" in this country and abroad.

Prof. Dewey is generally accented as the foremost philosopher in America today. Dr. Jordan has a wider and equally well-founded reputation as an educator and a scientist. Therefore, when they write introductions to a book which claims to answer all questions, in all spheres of human thought and conduct, even the most skeptical are justified in examining the argument of one who puts himself in the position of being a trouble-shooter for the universe.

Klyce undertakes to make the most difficult problems of philosophy, religion and science plain to a child of 6. He begins by saying that words are nothing—before he has finished there is a feeling that he has proved his point.

He announces that "the logic used by Aristotle and in nearly all books in circulation is wrong." He then passes on to the calm statement that the fundamentals of philosophy, religion and science form a unity, heretofore too generally ignored.

This is hardly the first time that Aristotle has been under fire. Indeed, the history of intellectual development during the last twenty centuries might almost be called a warfare around the propositions laid down by that remarkable tutor to Alexander the Great.

Klyce's position is that whenever men become embroiled over issues the best thing to do is to hunt out the points of agreement, however minor they may be, and build on them. It amounts to a repudiation of the historical and continuous effort to discover values. It returns to the pre-scientific and pre-philosophical attitude towards existence—centering effort and attention upon immediate experience.

In England the book has been interpreted as an about-face on the part of Dewey and is said to mark the end of the trail for that philosophical group in this country which gained such momentum towards the light under the inspiration of William James. Both in this country and abroad interest in the author and his argument is eclipsed by the interest taken in what Dewey and Jordan have said by way of endorsing him.

German writers pronounce it to be a confusion on the part of America that she has no philosophy and no desire for one. The few Frenchmen who have picked up their ears at the storm of controversy are amused rather than critical—still regarding the philosophers of this country as incapable of anything more than a tumultuous search for the short cut in all things—even in thought.

In reality, Klyce is working back towards the true Greek spirit in making war on the Greeks. They were the experimenters and short-cutters, and it is only by the stupid attitude of later ages that they have been regarded as anything else.

Socrates, Plato and Aristotle, widely differing though they were in many respects, were primarily concerned with the things and the thoughts in the world in which they lived. Each sought to unify the accumulated experiences of mankind and to find what was of chief value in them. Socrates was in turn stone-chipper, soldier and, to use his own words, "gadfly to the state, to sting it into worthy action." Plato's very name (meaning "the broad-shouldered") indicated his physical prowess, as did his accomplishments as a sprinter at the Olympic games. Aristotle was not only concerned with the facts of existence, but actually trained the most ruthless materials that ever commanded a powerful army.

These three might, were they alive today, improve Klyce's argument in several points and might smart a little under the scorn which he hurls at the ancients—provided they could look upon themselves as haloed immortals. As a matter of fact, however, they would, were they alive, be in his general group—eager to synthesize, contemptuous of the past, ready to be experimental, and even ridiculous at times.

Klyce, with Dewey and Jordan putting weight into the howl, has given a swift uppercut to the traditionalists—who, somewhat groggy, say that it is merely a short cut, which an uppercut always is.

THOMAS QUIGLEY, JR. FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

State Fuel Administrator Phelan appointed Mr. Thomas Quigley, Jr., fuel administrator for this town this first of the week. The position was previously held by Mr. Jere A. Downs, who resigned a week ago. Ex-Selectman Arthur A. Kidder was appointed in his place, but declined the appointment.

MR. SANDERSON STATES HIS POSITION

To the Editor of the Star:
I wish to make a few statements regarding the banquet given to the High School Football Team by the Winchester Legion.

Mr. George Barbara called on me representing the Legion to solicit funds so that they might give a banquet and a souvenir to the Team. I inquired who was to attend. He told me that members of the Legion, Football Team and those associated with it, also a few guests. I inquired if the School Committee or the Superintendent had been invited and he told me that they had not. Under these arrangements I was willing to contribute and give the use of Lyceum Hall without charge and asked him to report to me if the arrangements were satisfactory to the Legion.

The next evening Mr. Goddu, Post Adjutant, called me and asked if the invitation could be extended to the Superintendent John R. Faussey and Chairman Robert Guild. I told him as far as Mr. Guild went I had no objections to his coming and that he had my sympathy in the unpleasant position which he occupies this year, but regarding Mr. Faussey I did not feel willing to assist in anything where he was concerned.

The Legion accepted the offer and I was assured that I was supported by a majority of the Committee. Unfortunately one of the Boston papers secured information relative to this affair and gave it undesired publicity. On the morning of the banquet the Legion sent me a Special Delivery letter declining the use of the Hall and returning my contribution. This was perfectly satisfactory to me under the terms with which it was given.

The banquet was held in the High School and the list of guests remained as previously planned. My objections to supporting Superintendent of Schools John R. Faussey are numerous. Among them are the following:

In my opinion he did not properly support our former principle of the High School, while now he spends much time in the classrooms making suggestions to the teachers, which causes unrest among the pupils and teachers.

The teachers cannot have the spirit of loyalty that they should after the treatment some of them received from the Superintendent before they were reassigned to position this year.

There exists a spirit of unrest among the High School pupils largely caused by home discussions of the Superintendent and School matters. Lack of tact in handling the situation which developed trouble among the colored people. If this trouble-triangular of scholars could have been brought about when the new Chapin School is ready no trouble would have developed. The Superintendent advised this re-districting to the School Committee.

That he did not attend the High School Graduation is in itself a fact that he is out of touch with the people.
It is my opinion that we will not have a smooth running School System until we have a Superintendent who is able to command the confidence and respect of the parents, scholars and teachers.

Edmund C. Sanderson

TEACHERS' CLUB NOTES

After a lapse of some five or six years, the teachers of Winchester have reorganized their bowling club, and as before have been granted the privilege of the use of the Calumet alley on Thursday afternoons from 3:30 to 5:30.

The committee in charge are Miss Dodge of the Mystic School, Miss Woodbury of the Wyman, Miss Hatch of the Washington, Miss Nelson of the High and Miss Regan of the Chapin as chairman.

A good start has been made, and it is the hope of the committee that an increased membership will be noticed after the holidays.

The highest score for a single string for each member so far, is as follows:

Mrs. Brown	91
Mrs. Dodge	92
Mrs. Foster	84
Mrs. Gorman	78
Mrs. Hatch	75
Mrs. Jones	68
Mrs. Murphy	68
Mrs. Regan	68
Mrs. Savage	68
Mrs. Teague	68
Mrs. Woodbury	68
Mrs. Plinkham	103

The Teacher's Club is anticipating a great treat for themselves and for the townspeople on March 4, 1923. Our popular Mr. Grant, former supervisor of Music, is to bring his Penn. State Glee Club and Varsity Quartet. They will sing in the Town Hall. It is to be one of the finest concert ever heard in Winchester.

All Masons are invited.

WINCHESTER GIRL SPEAKER AT CONVENTION

Miss Roma Nickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nickerson of Highland avenue, was one of the speakers at the annual convention and banquet last week of the officers of the Industrial Editors' Association, an organization composed of editors of employee publications in New England. The convention was held at the Copley-Plaza. Miss Nickerson, who is editor of the Gilchrist & Co. paper, "The Ace," spoke on behalf of paid subscriptions and complete management of the paper by employees.

ENTERTAINED OVER 600 CHILDREN

First Christmas Party by Winchester
Elks Enjoyable Affair

Winchester Lodge of Elks entertained over 600 children in the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon on the occasion of its first Christmas party, the affair being one of the most enjoyable children's parties to be given here at the Christmas season in many years, and by far the finest in entertainment and number of children cared for. This success was in large part due to the work and endeavor of ex-Selectman George T. Davidson, who headed the committee in charge and who worked untiringly to make the affair the best thing of its kind Winchester boys and girls have ever enjoyed.

Owing to the fact that the party was planned for 500 children, the admission was by ticket and the children invited were carefully selected under the direction of Custodian of Schools Nathaniel M. Nichols and Miss Cunningham, public health nurse. It was anticipated that while 500 invitations were issued more than that number would attend, and ample provision was made to care for every child.

The town hall was decorated with Christmas greens, wreaths and streamers, with flags of the United States on the balconies and the stage. Placed in the front of the hall near the stage was a fine large Christmas tree, beautifully lighted in colors, and trimmed with tinsel and favors.

The children arrived early, a large crowd waiting for the doors to open as early as one o'clock, although the entertainment did not start until two. As they entered the hall they were taken in charge by a competent corps of men and women ushers and seated according to sex and age, and each presented with a fancy hat.

GEORGE T. DAVIDSON
Chairman Elks' Christmas Party Committee

The entertainment opened with Jack Griffin, hobo performer, whose program included playing upon weird musical instruments, such as saws and a standard oil can. He also sang, and kept the children in a state of ecstasy. He was followed by the real, genuine and only clown entertainer and juggler, Prof. Herbert Taylor; and Prof. Taylor gave a show which had something doing in it every minute. He jumped into instant popularity and his young audience almost preferred to have him stay with them to stopping for their presents. The entertainment was in charge of Mr. Fred Scholl.

At the close of this program, Santa Claus himself appeared upon the stage, and although extremely tired after his hard labors over Christmas Day, reported that he could not go to his home without distributing a few presents to Winchester children. There were so many gifts to be given out, that Santa was aided by some of the committee, but every child received his or her gift. Each child was given a present, a flag, some ice cream and a pop corn ball. The flags were given out last, and before they were presented Exalted Ruler John McNally made a short speech to the children.

Santa Claus was a big feature of the program, his presence being due to the individual efforts of Mr. Fred Scholl, and in keeping some of the more unruly spirits among the boys subdued, Constable Harry Dotten, a typical country "cop" wandered about the hall and gave valuable aid in seating the feminine portion of the audience.

The big crowd was carefully cared for, ushers being seated among the children every few rows and a number of ladies being on the floor and in the balconies to look after the littler ones. Included in the list of aids were Mrs. Ruth Hilton, Miss Marion and Miss Doris Nichols, Mrs. Walter H. Dotten, Mrs. Fred H. Scholl, Harry Dotten, Fred H. Scholl, George T. Davidson, Maurice F. Dinneen, James J. Fitzgerald, Alex. McDonald, William H. Stinson, James Hinds, John Sharon, Parker Holbrook, Ted Connor, George Harrold, Frederick Clements, Edward Callahan and Walter H. Dotten.

The committee in charge included Messrs. George T. Davidson, chairman; James J. Fitzgerald, Maurice Dinneen, Walter H. Dotten, Ted Connor, John F. Hogan, William McMullin and John Mead.

W. H. S. CLASS OF 1919 HOLDS REUNION

A thoroughly successful and enjoyable reunion of the Winchester High School Class of 1919 was held at the home of Mr. Hollis Riddle, Fairview terrace on last Tuesday evening. Twenty-three persons, or about 50 per cent of the number who graduated, were present.

The entertainment was of a unique nature, and proved most interesting. Theodore Clifton of Cambridge, was disguised as Santa Claus and played his part well in distributing the presents to various members of the class. Several of the young ladies received pipes. When the gifts had been presented the group turned to refreshments and reminiscences of their high school days. Many amusing incidents were recalled by the wife of the class. Some of those who attend college spoke of the life at their respective institutions and of the work that they were doing.

The reunion did not lag for a moment and before many realized the hour it was time to depart. The reunions of 1919 are always marked by a spirit of congeniality and friendship and are attended much more than any other reunions of Winchester High classes.

JOHN DALY DEAD

John Daly, a well known resident of this town for the past 47 years, died at his home, 20 Liver street, Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1922.

Mr. Daly was a native of Ireland, coming to Winchester upon his emigration from that country. He engaged in the stone mason trade, which he followed for many years, later taking up farming on his place at the Highlands with his son Daniel.

He married Miss Eliza Brennan of Ireland, who died here about eleven years ago. He leaves four children, Daniel J., Mrs. Joseph Scott and Mrs. Anthony Powers of this town and Mrs. John McCarron of Dorchester.

Solemn high mass of requiem will be held at St. Mary's church on Saturday morning at nine o'clock. The burial will be in Calvary cemetery, Montvale.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

At the Children's Christmas Entertainment in Metcalf Hall, Unitarian Church, Saturday afternoon, there were soprano solos by Miss Mary Whittington accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Etheridge, solo dances and monologues by three little girls from Boston, also accompanied by Mrs. Etheridge, carols sung by little boys from the Sunday School, a Christmas story read by Mrs. F. B. Rogers and an entertainment by twenty children from the Nickerson Home in Boston. Afterwards there was a Christmas Tree and Santa Claus in the Sunday School room. Miss Edith Caverly had charge of the entertainment.

THANKS FOR XMAS CONTRIBUTION

Dec. 26, 1922

Dear Mr. Wilson:

I want, at this time, to thank you for the space which you so generously gave which enabled me to make the appeal for Christmas gifts to brighten the less fortunate homes in Winchester, more of those than Winchester people realize I am sure. It is only through your valuable paper that the generous people in the town can know that 27 families were helped directly by individuals and that 47 other families were presented with an order to be filled, by Winchester merchants, with whatsoever was desired by those who presented such orders. I would like also to state that the Overseers of the Poor will be glad to receive and distribute, at any time during the year, clothing, toys or food, to the sick or needy, many of whom would never apply for aid.

Nathaniel M. Nichols.

THE POSTMASTER SAYS

Every piece of parcel post that arrived at this office by Christmas morning was delivered that same day. All parcel post packages arriving at this office by 8 a. m. are being delivered the same day received.

We wish to thank the public for their uniform patience and courtesy during this, the greatest rush of Christmas business the country has ever known.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Curious Umbrella.

It was a French inventor, with a tender heart for bicyclists, chauffeurs, fishermen and wandering artists, who contrived a form of umbrella for protection against sun or rain, which can be easily and solidly attached to the shoulders so as to leave the arms and hands absolutely free. When not in use it folds up in a conveniently portable form.

Fish Story.

As Bessie's parents live near the seashore, they sometimes use small fish as fertilizer for the flower beds. Bessie had observed this, and when some time later the stiff, spiky leaves of the gladiolus appeared, she ran to her mother and excitedly announced: "Oh, mamma, the fish are coming up; their tails are sticking right through."—Boston Transcript.

THE MINIMUM WAGE LAW

It has become a habit with the American people to imagine that they can accomplish by means of legislation that which the natural laws of economics otherwise prevent.

The operation of the Minimum Wage Law in this state is at present the subject of official inquiry as to the desirability of its modification, its repeal or the further extension of its provisions.

There are many individuals who affect to believe that the evil of low wages in any industry can and properly should be removed through legal compulsion which will force the industry in question to contribute more liberally to the requirements of its employees in accordance with a standard to be arbitrarily ascertained and fixed by the public, upon the theory that thereby the employer will be furnishing the entire means of support to his workers, whereas, it is contended, at present society in general must supply any deficiency which exists between the worker's living cost and the low wage paid by the industry.

But can so desirable an end be as readily accomplished as is thus suggested? A general wage increase in a given industry will not result in any greater productive output by the same individuals than before, and if not, whence is the added expense to be compensated? Obviously it must come out of the greater price which society must pay for that particular commodity. Society pays the existing low wage in the form of low commodity prices and it will inevitably have to pay in an exactly similar manner any other wage which may at any time be established. There can be no escape from this result.

If, however, society is content thus easily to delude itself into the false belief that a great good had been accomplished at no expense to itself, there can be no valid objection to this self deception, provided the procedure is otherwise sound in principle, which unfortunately it is not.

The low wage industries exist because there is a demand for certain classes of society for a low priced service or commodity, the benefits of which they would be compelled to forego entirely were it not for their cheapness. In order to supply this demand, these industries utilize a class of labor which in the main would otherwise find no market. Workers do not voluntarily select low paid employment from choice, but rather because their mental or physical capacity or the requirements of their particular circumstances debar them from consideration in the higher paid callings.

By and large it must necessarily follow that the establishing arbitrarily in an industry of any standard of wages beyond that which the demand for its products will support, is bound to result in the elimination of such articles from the daily purchases of large masses of the people, and their consequent reduced consumption will inevitably occasion the enforced idleness of the greater portion of those whom it is intended to benefit.

Remarkable Golf Stroke.

Driving against odds of 100 to 1, Capt. E. C. Carter teed off perfectly and put a golf ball over a castle wall and won a remarkable wager. Captain Carter won the Welsh open championship and immediately afterward a fashionable lady offered to wager 100 pounds to 1 that he couldn't put the ball to Harleek castle, a historic structure of the Thirteenth century standing on a huge rock overlooking the royal St. David's course. It is 200 yards from the nearest point on the links to the battlements which are 200 feet above the level of the course. Captain Carter's first attempt failed, but he scored the second time.—London Mail.

Human Hair From China.

Human hair, obtained from the heads of thousands of Chinese coolies, recently arrived in a southern port in a 50,000-pound shipment on the steamship Hattie Lucenlock. It is the first consignment of a total shipment of about 300,000 pounds of human hair now en route to this port from China. It is stated that the hair is to be used in the manufacture of press cloth and will take the place of camel's hair for this purpose.

Testing Wooden Crates.

The forest products laboratory of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, was recently called upon to test wooden crates that would be satisfactory for carrying army aircraft bombs. Seven types of crate were tried in the experiment and one type was evolved that would not only carry 300-pound bombs, but also 1,300-pound bombs.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNA- MENT

More Records Go During Holiday Rolling

Following new individual records of last week, team records were set at higher marks on Tuesday evening in the home tournament at the Calumet Club when the "Purrrington" team rolled three strings over 500 each for a total of 1579. The best single was 541. The rolling of this aggregation was exceptional in every way. Only one man failed to total 300 or better, and he came within four pins of it. Pinkham was high man of the evening, he rolling in opposition to the "Purrringtons." His total was 330 and his high string was 138. Following these figures was 322 on 118 by G. W. Purrrington, 327 on 133 by W. E. Purrrington, 319 on 115 by R. L. Purrrington, 318 on 112 by G. F. Purrrington, 308 on 114 by Lane, 301 on 132 by Seabye, 110 by Stratton, 103 by Blanchard and 102 by N. W. Purrrington. Team 8 won all four points from 18, 6 took all four from 22 and 4 three from 18.

Exceptional scores continued in the Calumet tournament on Wednesday evening, the figures for the bowling constituting one of the highest groups in years. As might be expected, the team figures were high also, team 1 rolling a single of 554 and a total of 1535, while team 2 rolled 535 and 1569 for totals. Other teams rolled over 500 in several instances. While the individual records were not broken, they were almost reached in several instances, an addition of two or three pins being all that was needed. Stephenson led the list, rolling 349 with 123. The high rollers follow:

Average Height of Human Race.
The average present height of the human race is about 65 inches, but the average is produced by measuring both the races which are exceedingly tall and those which are exceedingly short. The so-called gigantic races, of which the Scotch of Galloway still stand at the head, are offset by the little peoples of central Africa.

Might Be Either.

LADIES' BOWLING

Tuesday afternoon matches in the ladies' bowling tournament at the Calumet Club gave teams F and E three points each, teams B and C being the losers. While the phenomenal scores were made by the ladies, the rolling was very consistent and excellent averages were scored. Mrs. Carleton led the group, she totalling 182 for the two strings, with 109 for a high single. Other excellent strings were 91, made by Mrs. Chase and two 90's by Mrs. Simonds and Miss Parshley.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Less suspicion and more co-operation would bring sunshine into many a home where clouds hang heavily much of the time.

One cause of much misery in this world is in our failure to go through with unpleasant tasks.

Some problems, if left alone, will solve themselves, but not safe to trust in the case of human feelings.

Some people suffer much because they are misunderstood, but might suffer more if they were understood.

Happy New Year.

Now for the "Midwinter Frolic."

To many here in Winchester it was an "Elks' Christmas."

The soft coal and coke bothered Santa not a bit, but it is bothering some of the rest of us.

A suggestion to our plowmen: If you will make your path cross the street many of us will appreciate the courtesy; it sometimes becomes necessary for us to get on the other side.

We note the reply to the man who feared that we are not having the usual amount of snow this winter. It is stated that such is not the case. We should say not! Who was the fellow, anyway?

We know of eight people who will support our contention that electric plugs for automobile heaters should be installed along the curb on Mt. Vernon street for the convenience of Town Hall patrons!

With one exception, Winchester students at Mount Holyoke College escaped loss at the unfortunate burning of Rockefeller Hall Thursday—Miss Marion Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols, who roomed in the hall, lost many of her personal effects. Fortunately her trunk was among the few which were saved from the basement before the flames reached them. Miss Nichols' roommate, Miss Marion Hopkins, discovered the fire.

We learn with satisfaction that two of our town officials, co-operating with other town departments, are working out plans to flood Manchester Field for skating. The Star has always advocated this move. Only once has it been tried—many years ago when Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, through personal effort and expense got the field partially flooded and an extended thaw undid the work. The two gentlemen now interested in the matter are live wires, and results may be expected shortly. In Manchester Field we enjoy one of the best play places in the State, and it should be used to its full capacity. No parents will have any objection to their children using such a skating rink, and its central location is convenient to all.

The community Christmas tree was missed by many this year. When we have had it, it has proven a thing of joy and beauty to all, but like many other things of a public nature, the work entailed in its erection and care has fallen upon one of two shoulders. The expense, too, has been anything but evenly distributed, although it is not large. In many ways our community Christmas tree stands in the same position that our 4th of July celebration used to in former years. Why not handle it in the same way

We take care of our observance of the 4th! A small appropriation made at the annual town meeting each year will insure the tree regularly and at an expense which will never be noticed by anyone.

WORKED OUT AS HE PLANNED

Shrewd Mining Promoter Knew Just How Long Women Would Keep Secret He Imported.

The psychology of selling was probably never applied better than in the disposal of the Weismann Mining company during the copper boom of 1906 and 1907. Mr. Weismann, who owned all the stock, gave a lawn party in the western city where he lived at the time. To this affair he invited all the men in the town who had any money worth his while, as well as their wives.

Taking aside the ladies one at a time, he confided to them over a glass of lemonade the following:

"I would like to see you make a little pin money without any risk, if I could trust you not to betray my confidence by taking your husband into my plans. I don't mind you buying 100 shares of Weismann Mining stock, on which you will make 1,000 per cent, but if you should divulge this to your husband he might buy several thousand shares and interfere with my plans in the market."

Of course, every lady gave her sacred promise, and broke it before she went to bed.

Weismann Mining, which was listed on an eastern market, was sold to the last share before noon the next day.—Wall Street Journal.

Slipping in Saskatoon.

Recently in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, there was a home-brew contest for women only.

All of these women were married women.

There is a law in Saskatchewan which permits the making of home brew only, and the women are given licenses to allow them to indulge in this industry. There is keen competition among the ladies.

What of the women who are not married? Would it not be worth the time of any ambitious and thirsty young man to seek these out so they could be married ladies and home-brew makers?

Doubtless it would—but the only unmarried ladies the tourist could find were in short skirts because of youth and not fashion!—Exchange.

Are Known as Midshipmen.

The students of the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis are called midshipmen. Previous to 1902 they had been called naval cadets, but in that year the old term midshipman was revived.

WOULD WASH WITH THE BOYS

Salesman Appreciated Dignity of Partnership in the Firm, but It Had Its Drawbacks.

Something like forty years ago one of our South Meridian street houses had a star salesman, writes a correspondent of the Indianapolis Star. It also had two lavatories, in one of which the salesmen, bookkeepers and clerks washed off the grime of toil, while the other was reserved for the exclusive use of the two members of the firm. All the salesmen were on a commission basis, and in casting up the accounts at the end of the year the partners discovered that this particular traveler had made considerable more money than either of them. They decided that it would be a pious scheme to take him in as a partner. The senior member made him quite a solemn speech on the occasion and ended by impressively presenting him with a key to the private lavatory. Delighted with the promotion, the star salesman went out and sold more goods during the next year than he had ever sold before. At the end of the year his ardor was dampened not a little when he found that his profits were considerably less than his earnings had been in previous years. He took the balance sheet to his desk and studied it carefully and finally brought it back to the senior partner along with the lavatory key.

"I'm much obliged for this mark of confidence," he said, "but, if it's all the same to you, I'll wash with the boys next year."

BALFOUR NO HERO TO CAOOY

Young American of Chevy Chase Outspoken in His Opinion of Great British Diplomat.

Lord Balfour liked a good yarn, even at his own expense, and he told one to us at a dinner of which he was the center at the British embassy at Washington.

It was a splendid weighty function, worthy of pre-war days, when Europe was neither depressed nor hysterical. Some one had spoken of Balfour in complimentary fashion, of his great brain and his work at the conference, and he replied that this comfirmed him for an occurrence at Chevy Chase club, where he had gone to play golf the day previous.

Finding no one he knew about, he engaged a caddy and started off, walking and chatting with the latter. He asked the caddy's opinion about the use of a certain club. The boy gave advice, which Lord Balfour attempted to follow; but he missed the shot. Caddy took the club, illustrated his explanations, also missed the ball; but, further explained this was because he was too short for the club. Lord Balfour again tried to follow caddy's instructions and again missed; whereupon caddy eyed him and remarked in solemn sincerity: "Gee, if I was as tall as you or you had my brains, what golf we could play!"—Princess Chintacuzene, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Country's Farm Population.

Recent statistics sent out by the census authorities show that the farm population of the United States is only 31,614,268, a little less than 30 per cent of the total. This includes farm operators and farm laborers and their families, who live in the country, and shows an average of about five persons to each farm. About half the people in the nation are classified as rural—that is, they live in the country or in towns having fewer than 2,500 inhabitants, but only 61 per cent of the "rurals" are actually engaged in farming. Thus 39 per cent of the rural population and the entire city population must be fed by the men engaged in agriculture. It gives the farmer a big job. Only a few years ago each farmer had to provision his own family and one other family—now he must furnish food for nearly three other families besides his own. His occupation should not fail.—Farm Life.

Remarkable Gratitude.

Fred Grieger, Muncie clothing merchant, is tender-hearted. He says so himself. One evening recently he was driving in the country when he noticed a rabbit sitting in the road, apparently dazed by his automobile lights. Fearing he would run over it, he stopped the car, and taking it gently in his arms, placed it by the roadside, expecting it to hop away into the neighborhood fields, but instead, according to Grieger, it gave a running jump and landed in the car. Now the animal will not leave him, out of gratitude, Grieger believes, for having saved its life. Grieger intends to use the rabbit as a decoy for other rabbits when he goes hunting, he says.—Indianapolis News.

Great Britain's Earthquakes.

Constitution is reported to have been caused in England recently at points 25 miles distant from one another by earthquakes. Seismic shocks were experienced at Littlehampton in Worcestshire, a few miles from Droitwich (famous for its salt baths), and as far away as Berkswell, in Warwickshire. In the latter county reports of similar earth tremors came from such places as Kettle, Solihull, Henley-in-Ardour, Hampton-in-Ardour, Morleien and Sparkhill, near Birmingham. In Wimbledon the postmistress was thrown some distance across a room and her next-door neighbor was almost hurled out of an arm chair in which he was sitting.

FERGHANA: RUSSIA'S LISTENING POST IN THE HEART OF ASIA

Continual reports from Moscow that the Soviet Government is seeking to become a leader of Asiatic peoples, and her recent evidences of friendliness toward the Turks, arouse interest in Ferghana, the country which was the Russia Empire's deepest southeastern wedge driven into Asia. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society deals with this country of deserts and oases, towering mountains and picturesque valleys, where the territories of Russian, Chinese, and Briton almost meet.

Ferghana, formerly Kokan, has numerous bids to fame, says the bulletin, but among them two stand out. Its northern valleys constituted the heart of Russia's cotton producing country, and its borders south and east marked the terminal moraine, so to speak, of the great Slav glacier which had moved slowly down through Asia, bringing its deposit of Russian dominion and culture, until it hung over both India and China.

Is a Russian Kashmir

The southern portion of Ferghana is a sort of Russian Kashmir, a country of high plateaus and towering peaks, deep valleys, picturesque vales and sparkling lakes. It is, in fact, the reverse to Kashmir's reverse, for it lies just over the mountain divide from that better-known synonym for rugged beauty; so close that a Titan—or a Big Bertha—might hurl a missile from Russian to British territory. Only a narrow strip of Afghan land, reserved because of the long jealousy and diplomatic struggle between Britain and the old Russian Empire, lies between. In places it is as narrow as 20 miles.

This southern portion of Ferghana is the Pamir, "roof of the world." Once Russia finally got possession of it in 1893, she drew even tighter about it the cloak of secrecy that nature had all along maintained. It became generally known that excellent military roads were reaching out from northern Ferghana through gorges and over lofty passes into the pamir, over which artillery could be taken to the very threshold of British India. But few persons other than trusted imperialists were permitted to traverse these paths which Russian dreamers hoped would some day lead their empire still farther south.

Northern Ferghana Fertile

While the southern end of Ferghana is a country of rugged mountains and plateaus, the fertile valleys of its northern end constitute a Central Asian Eden. Snow-fed rills and rivers, always fullest in the warm growing season, were led out over fertile plains until they died in the sands; but in the dying they made northern Ferghana a garden spot of grains and fruits, and after the Russians came, of precious cotton. The cotton produced in these and neighboring Turkistan oases before the World War, was greater than that of India or Egypt and second only to that of the United States.

In Ferghana and its neighboring countries of Central Asia there was undoubtedly a very early development of civilization, even though they may not have been, as some students have asserted, the cradle of the human race. And probably there the art of irrigation was practiced as early as anywhere in the world.

Many Times Overrun

Like all other regions of Central Asia Ferghana felt the heel of Genghis Kahn and Tamerlane. It was overrun too from Chinese Turkistan which lies against it to the east. When Mohammedanism rose to power, it was conquered by the Arabs and its people ple have since been followers of the Prophet. Russian dominion came slowly to Ferghana, then the Khanate of Kokan. After the more western portions of the Trans-Caspian region and Turkistan had fallen, Russian arms finally conquered the warlike Tekke Turkomans who blocked the way to Ferghana's fertile valleys. It was not until 1893 that the slow-moving Slavic glacier had engulfed the southern territory of the old Khanate. With the Russians came organizing ability, development, railroads, prosperity, and a smattering at least of western civilization. To the rail head at Andijan, aimed at the heart of Asia, ran the modern express from Petrograd, with their sleeping cars and spottish diners. And a few miles south began the military roads that lost themselves in the mysterious Pamir. The Bolsheviks at first lost control of Ferghana as of many of its neighboring regions. But by force of arms and diplomacy they have won it back after a fashion. If Russian power has a renaissance in Asia by domination through leadership Ferghana can hardly escape assuming its old importance as a source of raw material for Moscow's cotton factories and as a watch tower and listening post over against the Indian and Chinese frontiers. Live Chicks Shipped After Through Ohio, Indiana and Iowa hundreds of thousands of live chicks, but a few days out of their shells, are shipped to Manitoba, Canada, every spring. The seasons are so late up there, says Consul General Brien, in a statement to the Department of Commerce, that it is difficult to procure fertile eggs in sufficient quantities early enough to supply the demand for young chickens and to produce birds for breeding purposes. The snow remains on the ground until April and the chickens cannot get out on their runs until late, and in order to obtain young chicks at an early date, large quantities are imported from this country as early as March. Hatched chicks keep the youngsters warm, and, generally speaking, the loss in consequence of the long haul and bad weather is insignificant.

THE ATHENS OF TODAY

Athens, scene of the world's most recent revolution, is the subject of the following communication to the National Geographic Society, released from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

When the city of Athens passed from Turkish control and was designated as the capital of the new free kingdom of Greece, it was a mere handful of wretched huts clustered about the Acropolis. Today it is a thoroughly modern city, with splendid streets, magnificent public buildings, handsome residences, attractive parks, and most of the modern improvements of which western cities boast. The building of this city in a land of such scanty resources is fairly comparable to the development of our own rich West, and even more meritorious when all the circumstances are considered. Indeed, had the Greek of today nothing to his credit save the building of the attractive capital of his nation, that alone would be sufficient to rank him among the constructive agencies of the modern world.

A Medley of Modernity and Antiquity
In this city of old memories and now of strikingly new plans, Greek life centers as in its classic days; and here ancient and modern Greece are inextricably mingled in a curious medley of modernity and antiquity, which colors the most ordinary of every-day affairs. On every hand arise shattered monuments of its splendid past, and even the tiniest fragments which serve to link the life of the present with the days that are gone are most carefully preserved.

The Greek government has been keenly alive to its responsibility for the safeguarding of its antiquities, and the Department of Archaeology, under the charge of the Ministry of Education and Religion, is painstakingly organized and prudently administered. The museums at Athens are handsomely housed, conveniently arranged, accurately catalogued, and open to inspection and study without fee, this latter being a point of great pride with Athenians.

In addition there are now, at various points in the kingdom where research is going on, smaller museums devoted to the preservation of the treasures of the locality.

Acropolis Dominates as of Old
Crowning the city stands the sheer and mighty rock of the Acropolis, dominated by the Parthenon, matchless even in its ruins, projecting the changeless purity of its lines against the background of the changing centuries, which have made of it in turn the shrine of the vestal, the church of the Christian, the mosque of the Moslem, and now and ever the ideal of all lovers of the beautiful.

Near at hand cluster the chief remnants of the glory that was Greece; on the one side the tiny gem of the Temple of the Wingless Victory, so chaste and delicate in its proportions and outline, and on the other the Erechtheum, with its unique Porch of the Caryatides.

Hard by the stairs of the imposing Propylaea rises the sturdy rock of the Hill of Mars, whence St. Paul declared the unknown God. At a little distance stands the rough-hewn Bema, where Demosthenes and Ctesiphon strove in matchless phrase, while just below rise the ivory-tinted columns of the Temple of Theseus, best preserved of all the classic remains.

Relics of Roman Rule
Within a few steps rise the green-clad walls of the Stoa of Hadrian, which tell of that distant day when the Roman Emperor ruled in Hellas. On the further side of the Rock are still other remnants of Roman rule and rulers in the graceful arch of Hadrian—with its jealous inscriptions demarcating the city of Theseus from that of the Romans—and the giant Corinthian columns of the huge Temple of Olympian Zeus, which tower into the clear blue of the Attic sky, while nearer at hand, in the very shadow of the Parthenon and close by the Sanctuary of Aesculapius, is the theatre of Dionysus, Greek of the Greek, and serving now in its proportions as the model playhouse of the world.

Another relic of Hadrian's day, still serving the purpose of its Imperial builder, dated these 1,900 years, is the ancient aqueduct, dating from the year 146, which still brings water to the city.

Athens has two sharply divided seasons, a rainy and a dry. The latter still holds sway in the city and will extend into early October. It is reasonably sure that there will be no rains for a month or more to dampen the ardor of revolutionaries. It is at this season, as well as earlier in the summer, that Athens leads an outdoor life, with al fresco restaurants and entertainments beneath starry skies.

Athens is an inland city, but five or six miles of rail extending to the excellent harbor at Piraeus make it practically a port. Even closer, barely five miles away and south of Piraeus, is Phaleron, the city's seaside resort. It stands for pleasure as Piraeus stands for the commerce in which Greeks have always taken an active part.

Wealthy Sons Gave Public Buildings
Both of these extensions on Athens are to the westward on the Gulf of Aegina. Thirty miles to the southeast on the Asia Minor side of the peninsula, is the port of Laurium, also connected with the Capital by rail, where rebellious crews of some of the Greek naval units disembarked.

Athens' clime from her suavity and unattractive village days under Turkish rule to her position as a well built modern capital was materially helped by the patriotism of some of her sons who prospered in foreign lands. Wealthy Greeks from abroad have donated to their mother country the noble group of buildings which comprise the University, the National Library and the Academy of Science. Through singular generosity the famous old Athenian Stadium was rebuilt on its old site, many fragments of the original structure being incorporated. There have been held in recent years the Olympic games which originated in Greece thousands of years ago.

With Piraeus, and a few other suburbs Athens has a population approaching 450,000, a number of inhabitants closely comparable to that of Washington, D. C.

"UNHOOKING THE HOOKWORM"

"If persistent echoes of wars disturb one's peace of mind it is a wholesome antidote to turn attention occasionally to another sort of world struggle, a beneficent war—the war against disease," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society based on a communication to the Society from William Joseph Showalter.

In all the stirring history of man's effort to make himself master of his environment, there is no more thrilling chapter than that which tells of the bitter battles he has waged for the conquest of contagion, and of the ground he has won in his struggle with his relentless and innumerable, though invisible foes, says the bulletin.

Three News Items

Three announcements of almost unprecedented import to mankind are expected to be made at no distant date.

The first of these, chronologically, at least, will be that yellow fever has at last been banished from the face of the earth, and that the germ which causes it has become extinct, along with the dinosaur, the dodo, the great auk, and the passenger pigeon.

The next in order will probably be that hookworm disease, which has been called "a handmaiden of poverty, an associate of crime and degeneracy, a destroyer of energy and vitality, a menace and an obstacle to all that makes for civilization," and which is endemic in a zone that embraces half of the earth's population, can be driven from any community which has the will to get rid of it.

Last will come the statement that large-scale demonstrations have proved that malaria can be eradicated from almost any community that has enough vital force left to push a thorough, though inexpensive, campaign for its extermination.

Virginia Early Campaign Center
Richmond County, Virginia, where the war on the hookworm as a world-wide fight had its inception, stands out as an example of what may be accomplished and as an evidence that it can be accomplished with much less difficulty than was formerly supposed.

When the work began there, about thirteen years ago, 82 per cent of the people had the disease. A few years later a resurvey showed that this had been reduced to 35 per cent. A more recent resurvey reduced it to 2 per cent, and in 1922 it can be announced that there is not a single person in the entire county in whose body the worms are numerous enough to produce any of the symptoms of the malady.

There are two kinds of hookworms that invade the human body, an Old World species known as Ancylostoma duodenale and the New World form known as Necator americanus.

The New World Species

The New World species of hookworm is a small parasitic creature about as thick as an ordinary pin and half as long. The adult female worm, inhabiting the small intestine, lays thousands of eggs daily. After these pass out of the body they hatch within one or two days. They are microscopic in size when hatched and never grow larger as long as they remain in the ground.

Then comes along a pair of bare feet or hands, or some other part of the body touches the infected ground, and the little villains make the most of their opportunity. They promptly begin to bore their way through the skin, causing a severe irritation known as "ground itch." Once under the skin, they travel through the tissues until they come to the lymphatic system, and thence into the blood.

Finally, after passing through the heart and lungs, they reach the throat and pass thence through the stomach, ultimately landing in the small intestine, to whose wall they fasten themselves, and for as much as seven years, if not disturbed by treatment, take their fill of the victim's blood and intestinal tissue.

They develop in their salivary glands a substance that has a marked power of inhibiting coagulation of the blood. Attaching themselves to the surface of the intestinal wall, rasping and sucking away the delicate inner cells on which they feed, they lay bare the deeper tissues, and the wound continues to bleed for a long time, even after the worm has deserted the spot to which it was attached.

But they go even further than that. By some method not well understood, they cause the blood to undergo a change, reducing the amount of hemoglobin—the element that makes us red-blooded, and which constitutes the ingredient that tends to render healthy blood an unfertile soil for the seeds of infection sown there through lack of sanitation. It has been found that in severe cases of hookworm infection as much as 90 per cent of the red coloring matter of the blood is destroyed, and that the number of red corpuscles—the blood carriers of the human system—may be cut down 50 per cent.

Yet, owing to the fact that its every stage is so well known, that the methods of combating it are so dramatically effective, and that those who are cured so quickly begin to experience the joys of living once more, it makes itself the most readily and successfully used of all diseases with which to point a community toward a goal of better health.

"Give the Weekly Its Just Dues"

It is a Public Utility
And a BIG Advertising Medium

When you hear someone speak of the "country weekly," you never think of a newspaper printed in the country. Your impression is rather of a neat little publication issued from a small shop in a town or small city which is probably the center of a fairly large and prosperous community. Isn't that true?

The why do we not call the newspaper a "community weekly"? That would be a broader title and one far more characteristic of its service. It does not limit its news to items from the country. Its service covers city, town or village and surrounding community. It is a public utility on a small scale.

Give the weekly its just dues, for it is always a power in the community. The large daily may carry more foreign news and more scandals of the day, but the truly wholesome news of the community will be found in the "community weekly."

Therefore, because of its accuracy and wholesomeness, and the thoroughness of its service to the community, the publication representing your district and town deserves every bit of the support you and your neighbors can give it.—J. P. Simpson, in the Lind (Wash.) Leader.

Lightning Kills Few.

The fear of lightning is almost universal, but the number of deaths caused by it is small. Dwellers in cities are even safer than those in the country, since statistics have shown that on the average four-fifths of the deaths from lightning occur in rural localities. The innumerable electric wires, the many grounded water pipes and the metal roofs of cities are undoubtedly the chief elements of their safety in this respect.

A Walkover.

Among the many amusing stories which Mr. Eugene Corri has at his command is one concerning a prize fight which occurred in America. One of the contestants had been instructed by his father to cable the result as soon as the fight was over. The son duly sent off the following message: "Won easily. Seventy-five rounds." —Tattler (London.)

Reading Fisher's Scales.

A single scale from a salmon will tell you its owner's age, and whether his plinkings have been slim or the opposite. When viewed through a microscope the scale will reveal tiny lines, which have developed at the rate of 10 a year. Lines crowded close prove that the salmon has been living high. Lines widely spread indicate a scant diet.

THE MARITZA: TURKEY'S "FIF-TY-FOUR-FORTY OR FIGHT"

The Maritza River, the boundary of the European territory which the victorious Turks demanded as soon as they drove the Greeks from Asia Minor, is, like the Rhine, between France and Germany, a symbol and a bone of contention among Bulgars, Greeks and Turks, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

Each of these three peoples has claimed the Maritza Valley as belonging to it on ethnic grounds, continues the bulletin, and such is the racial mix-up in Thrace and the portion of Macedonia which adjoins it, that each has at least some excuse for its claims. Thrace—and indeed all of Rumelia or Rumili, as the Turks called the portions of Europe which their sword conquered—has for five hundred years been in the anomalous condition of being Turkish territory, yet more Christian than Mohammedan, more alien than Turk. Moreover, the non-Turks—non-Mohammedans—were more intelligent and more industrious than the Moslems, a fact which has heightened the non-Turkish aspect of the country in spite of the burden of heavy taxation, persecution and massacre which the non-Turks have had placed on their shoulders.

European Turkey Was "Occupied Territory"

More or less unconsciously the Turks seem, throughout their tenure of half a millennium in Europe, to have considered themselves engaged in a military occupation. In the trade and industry of the towns and cities they did not and could not compete with the Greeks and Jews and Armenians; and in the agricultural pursuits of the country they were equally outclassed by the Bulgars and Vlachs and the occasional Greeks who are farmers. Many of the Turks confined their activities to the cities where they were rulers or soldiers. Those who led the lives of peasants never wholly shook off their nomadism. They were less efficient than their despised Christian neighbors, a fact which led to many a pillaging and marauding expedition; for the Moslems, however humble their station, were armed, while the Christians were not.

Eastern Thrace between the Straits and the Maritza River is of little value agriculturally. It is an unattractive, dreary monotonous plain with here and there swampy depressions. Large areas of the territory are untilled and in summer they give the country the appearance of a desert. Furious fighting, with little quarter, raged over this region during the Balkan War of 1912-13, as Bulgar and Turkish arms were alternately successful. Turkish villages were destroyed first, and soon after Bulgarian villages suffered a similar fate. When the Bulgarians finally controlled the region many Turks, resigned to fate, fled to Asia Minor; and under the Greek control of the past few years that movement has continued. As a result the Thrace of today is even more strikingly non-Turkish than in the past.

Adrianople First Turk Capital

On the Maritza and in Thrace, barely 25 miles from the present Bulgarian border, is Adrianople, second city of old European Turkey, and a strong sentimental reason for the Turk's desire once more to possess Thrace. Thracian land was the first in Europe to fall under Turkish sway; and while Constantinople still remained Byzantine, Adrianople was the Ottoman capital. From there they crushed the Serbians, and finally, in 1453, seized the great city on the Straits. There, though in ruins, is the first European palace of the Sultans and the grave of the first Sultan, Murad.

Formerly Adrianople was a thriving center of trade with the far flung regions of Rumili. But as the European portion of the Ottoman Empire dwindled, and Bucharest, Athens, Belgrade and Sofia, released from Turkish control, grew from dingy mud villages to bustling towns, Adrianople lost ground. The city still contains about 50,000 inhabitants, however, with the Greeks, Bulgars, Jews and other non-Moslem peoples greatly outnumbering the Moslems.

SAWFISH LOST TO AQUARIUM

Miami Beach Officials Had a Prize, but the Nine Specimens Died in Short Order.

The officials of the aquarium at Miami Beach a short time ago endeavored to secure in a big net a porpoise to see if it could be kept alive in an outdoor tank, and when hauling it in were surprised to find that a sawfish had become entangled. A successful effort was made to bring this specimen in alive, and it was placed in the 36-foot tank inside of the aquarium.

It was tempted with different varieties of its natural food, but it would not eat or move around in the tank, excepting perhaps once in 24 hours it would move a few feet but always along the bottom. Four days after it was placed in the tank it gave birth to nine young, each about one foot long, six inches of which was saw, and nature had provided that each little saw was inclosed in a glutinous veil, thus protecting the mother and the other offspring from the saws.

At the end of three weeks the mother died, either from starvation or a broken heart, but the little fellows, knowing nothing else, began to eat what was offered, little shreds of spiny lobster and cut up mullets, thriving and growing very nicely, not being interfered with by the other fish, and taking a good deal of exercise swimming the length of the tank, generally near the floor. After three months, during which time they had grown to a little more than two feet in length, they were attacked by some sort of parasite and one by one died.

ATTAIN AGE OF PATRIARCHS

Residents of Belgian Village Round Out Century of Life as a Matter of Course.

That which Ponce de Leon vainly sought seems to exist at Horthies, in Hainaut, four miles from Mons, in the midst of the coal and metallurgic region of Belgium. It is a village of 8,000 inhabitants, where almost everybody reaches the age of the patriarchs.

They have just been celebrating, one after another, two diamond weddings (sixty, sometimes seventy-five, years of married life); five golden weddings (fifty years of married life), and the one hundred and first anniversary of a man, Francois Collin. But even this centennial does not constitute a phenomenon in this privileged community, for there was born, in the last year of the Eighteenth century, a woman who saw the end of the Nineteenth century and died only at the end of the first lustre of the Twentieth century.

It is noteworthy that the Melheuses of Horthies are all former workmen and workingwomen, who knew neither the benefits of the eight-hour day nor those of the anti-liquor laws. Will Horthies, under the new regime of the least effort and of the uttermost abstemiousness, remain the paradise of long life? In some fifteen or twenty instances we shall know if they are right.—Exchange.

Land of Caves.

The Shenandoah valley is achieving a reputation for its caves. It has a large collection of great ones and innumerable smaller ones. Those of Luray, in Page county, have been known for some time, and have been visited by thousands of persons from all over the world, but in recent years other caves have been discovered and opened which are just as notable and interesting. They are Weyer's cave, in northern Augusta county; Endless cavern, in Shenandoah county, and the Shenandoah caverns, which were the last to open. Some persons claim that the latter are the most wonderful of the group. The reason for the presence of these caves is that there is a great deal of soft limestone in this vicinity, and the water has gradually washed it away and left these great holes.

Change in Physical Structure.

In support of his assertion that women are losing their little toes, a scientist points out that in the days of ancient Greece women had three joints to their little toe, while it is known that Egyptian women had none. Nowadays, modern women have only two joints, while there are many cases in which only one joint is found.

Poetic Conception.

No poem is born in the daylight; it can be written in the sunshine, but it is conceived in the silence of night.—Hazen.

Why Lawyers Are Called Solons.

Lawyers are so called because Solon was a famous Athenian law giver. He became archon and improved the condition of debtors, divided the population into four classes, reorganized the boule, the popular assembly, and the council of Aeropagus.

A Gardner touring car driven by Steve Colucci of Woburn was in a collision with a Jordan sedan driven by Miss Frances F. The piles of snow on the centre railroad crossing caused considerable comment and some damage during the holiday. This snow, thrown either side of the electric car cross-over, turned into icy mounds with the thawing weather of last week, making very dangerous obstructions for autos. One woman in a car was thrown so that her head struck the top of the car, painfully hurting her. Another car suffered a broken tie rod when it hit the mound.

PETROLEUM FIRE.

An American consular officer in France has furnished some interesting details concerning the manufacture and use of petroleum briquets as fuel. It appears that these briquets weigh only half as much as coal, and that they produce twice as much heat. They are sold in a good condition, it is said; are in no way dangerous, give off no smoke or odor, and burn with a very white flame, eight or ten inches high. They consist of petroleum, either crude or refined, mixed with certain chemicals, the precise nature of which is a trade secret, and solidified in moulds under a pressure of 300 pounds per square inch.

X-Ray Replaces Radium.

That radium is a failure and that many leading surgeons have discarded it in favor of X-rays is the opinion expressed by Sir Thomas Parkinson, a distinguished British surgeon, who was consulting physician to the American hospital for English soldiers, and who is also physician to the prime minister, Lloyd George.

He says that radium is not only not effective as a remedy. It was positively dangerous, as the burning effect aggravated instead of curing maladies.

Church Vessels Stolen.

Sacred vessels stolen from the Russian church in the Rue D'Orléans, Paris, were of considerable commercial as well as intrinsic value. The vessels were of silver and ornamented with precious stones. They were originally presented to the church by members of the Russian imperial family. It is believed that the thieves, who broke open the cabinet in which the vessels were kept, had hidden themselves in the cellar of the church during the service.

URGES USE OF WATER POWER

Prominent Engineer Shows How Fuel Consumption Could Be Cut by Its Employment.

A saving of 400,000,000 tons of coal a year could be accomplished if the latent water power in the United States were developed to capacity, Dr. Charles P. Steinhilber, chief engineer of the General Electric company, declared at a dinner of the advisory council of the Federated Engineers' Development corporation, of which he is a member.

The state of New York could cut its coal bill for industrial enterprises and public utilities to one-third of its present cost, he said.

"There is available in the state 4,000,000 horse power, or a saving of $4,000,000 tons of coal annually," he said. "At present the consumption of fuel in New York is 54,000,000 tons a year. The recent strikes in the coal fields and on the railroads have shown that neither one of these public services can be relied upon, and the solution to the problem is for the state to become independent of both."

"Ten million tons of coal are saved annually in New York through the use of water power developing 1,300,000 horse power. The country in large uses 10,000,000 horse power, an annual fuel saving of $9,000,000 tons, and there is a latent horse power of 50,000,000, or a saving of 400,000,000 tons. It still would be necessary to use 1,000,000 tons of coal each year for heating."

NOT SO "HA'D" AS REPORTED

It Must Be Admitted Old Caesar Got Out of a Difficult Situation Rather Neatly.

After raking the lawn during a warm summer morning, old Caesar decided that it was too hot to keep on, so he went in search of the woman of the house, who had hired him for the day. "Mis' Little," he said, "Ah done got a message dat mah sister out here in de country's had a bad fall, and dey wants me to come right away."

That afternoon the woman's husband met old Caesar down town. "Why, Caesar," he said, "I thought you'd had to go to see your sister in the country."

"Yassuh, yassuh," the old negro hurriedly assured him. "Ah done started, sah; yassuh. Den," he added in a sudden burst of inspiration, "Ah done got a sudden message said she didn't fall so bad."

Drivers' Code Criticized.

"Don't you all-up here have any code for an automobile driver to use?" asked the young man from Virginia after he had guessed for the third time at what the driver ahead intended to do when he held his hand out. "There should be laws to make them use one set of signs."

"There, see that fellow. He has his arm out straight. That should mean he is going to turn to the right. But you see he is only stopping. For that he should have his arm turned up straight from the elbow."

"If he wanted to turn in to the left he should have swung his hand in circles, to indicate that he intended to pull around on his own side of the road. If things like that were generally used there would be fewer accidents."—New York Sun.
